Ald. Gerald Hyde Finance Chairman; Safe Heads Works

Mayor Both Opens Council With Co-Operation Plea

In an inaugural meeting upset that saw a change of voting from the previously held caucus get-together of city councillors, Alderman Gerald Hyde was named chairman of finance at the organization meeting of council held this morning at city hall.

Ald. Hyde was voted finance committee chairman over Ald. F. J. Clarke, dean of the council and executive committee chairman, by at least ten of the many years in council. On the recorded vote Alderman Hyde received a 9-8 approval and Ald. Clarke moved to make the vote unanimous.

Chairman of the five committee is newly-elected Alderman Jack Grandison, who received the position unopposed after a recommendation, Alderman C. D. Tice, withdrew.

WORKS CHAIRMAN

Board of works chairman is Alderman Ross Safe, who defeated Alderman Bruce Smith for the position by a 9-6 recorded vote. Alderman Safe was elected to the chairman of traffic and Alderman Douglas Hamilton to the chair of city property, defeating Alderman Tice for the chairmanship.

Mayor Both also named chairman of industry, tourist and publicity, Alderman Mrs. E. Effie McCabe chairman of social services and welfare. Both were elected without opposition.

Alderman Bram Humphreys is the new parks chairman, planning and housing, defeating last year's chairman, Alderman Arthur Keeler.

Alderman William Argue defeated by what he termed was a departure of the usual procedure of council at its inaugural meeting adopting the recommendation for chairmanship which came from the caucus meeting.

He said it had always been a gentlemen's agreement that the council abide by the decision made in caucus and he for one considered himself bound by that policy.

He observed that he personally had been defeated in caucus by Mayor Both for the chairmanship of industry, but he said he would vote to support Mr. Both in council. He asked to be excused from voting on the chairmanships remaining to be approved by council.

FEW SPECTATORS

Only about 15 spectators were in the audience when Deputy-Comptroller D. D. Bateman officially opened the nomination meeting at 11 o'clock. He read the list of nominations, qualifications and noted the names of those elected to the various offices and declared the 1955 council open for business.

Aldermen-elect Frank Grandame and Mrs. Effie McCabe were absent from the 'Bob-lo mayor's chair.

In the inaugural address Mayor Both stressed the need for co-operation by all members of council, particularly the new aldermen-elect

Noisy, Colorful Celebrations Usher in Traditional Cherub

The horns blew at midnight and in some places echoed until the cold grey dawn of a sixteen-sided New Year's morning.

On the wings of one of Belleville's greatest hotel celebrations, the 1933 mythical cherub was ushered in by Belleville celebrants in all the traditional fanfare and glory.

Dances, specialties and dances, theatre parties, house parties and other centres of celebration "let the hair down" and whooped it up in a riotous outburst of hoilday exuberance as the bells tolled the hour of midnight. But they heard the bells. Who cared? It was 1933.

On the other side of the picture, the boys who play lone wolves or seek Uncle John Barleycorn as a partner, were exceptionally wellbehaved and police headquarters report a "quiet New Year's Eve."

COLORFUL BALL

One of the most colorful events of the night's entertainment was the annual ball at the Bridge Street armouries where hundreds of Belleville uniforms, officers of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, with their ladies, were hosts to a most colorful throng of guests, Lieut.-Col. Thomas Fairman and his committee headed th. receiving line in the prettily-decorated officers' mess.

The mess was a kaleidoscope of color as the blue and gold of military and other services uniforms offset the sombre black and white of formal attire, the whole setting off the gay formal apparel of the ladies. The ball was highlighted by dancing and a delightful midnight luncheon.

The Belleville Club was the gathering place for a large number of celebrants where a buffet supper was served with dancing lasting until the early hours.

The Masonic Temple attracted well over 200 guests and the Royal Arch Masons proved themselves past masters at a splendid arranged dinner dance.

The "sold out" signs were displayed at the popular Club Commodore and Tobe's County Restaurant. The Commodore went at the peak of their music and entertainment form in which they have won Tobe's parties sponsored by this well-known musical aggregation.

WELL ATTENDED PARTIES

The Kinsmen Club again provided perfect hosts at their eighth annual New Year's Ball at Tobe's. One of the largest crowds in years attended the party and dancing continued to the wee hours. 300 members and guests enjoyed the entertainment. The Ian Samuel Townsend, She had lived in Belleville prior to leaving Canada eight years ago.

She is survived by her husband, J. A. Blakely, of Belleville; Harold, Grant and Clarence, all of Belleville, and Mrs. Hamilton and Harry Townsend, of Belleville.

She was a member of Calvary United Church.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home; the funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

Family Can Give No Reason For Boy's Death

A 13-year-old Stirling boy who accidentally wounded a schoolchum a month ago while showing him how to load a shotgun hanged himself in the basement of his home on New Year's Eve.

Gary Eugene Ingram, who, Chief of Police Sam Eggleton of Stirling said, "read a lot of crime comics," hanged himself after tying his hands, looping a belt and a rope over a beam and stepping off a 10-inch box. He had used his own belt as a noose.

Gary and a young playmate, 13-year-old Ronald Hicks, lived lives a few doors from the Ingram home, both were watching television in the Ingram home when the Ingram boy said he was going to the kitchen to get something to eat. When the lad failed to return Ingram's mother had gone upstairs to bed.

BROTHER FINDS BODY

Unable as still watching television when an older brother Robt. Ingram, aged 17, returned home shortly after 5:30. Robert found his brother's body hanging from the beam in the basement. He had fastened the basement door about with a piece of radio radius from the doorknob to a wall hook.

About a month ago Gary had been playing with a shotgun, aged 15, of Stirling how to load a shotgun in the Ingram home. The gun went off and over 40 pellets ripped into Jimmy's side. The lad, however, was not seriously injured.

Both provincial police and Chief Eggleton said yesterday that apparently Gary had not been brooding over the shooting incident having accepted the fact that it was an accident. Neither the family nor the neighbors knew any reason for the boy's action in taking his own life. Gary was in the grade 7 at Stirling public school and was popular with his schoolmates.

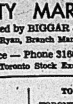
Chief Eggleton, however, said the lad read a lot of crime comics. I've watched him reading those books at 10 o'clock at night in Whitehouse's restaurant and when I moved the pages he wouldn't even look up," he said.

NO ENQUEST

Coroner Dr. E. A. Carleton said there would be no inquest.

The boy's sister, Sheila, aged 18, was killed in an auto accident about one year ago.

Gary was born in Stirling, son of Mrs. Eugene Ingram of Helen Bailey and had lived in the village all his life where he was a member of St. John's Anglican Church. He is survived by one sister, Mrs. John (Beverley) Mundy of Trenton, and two brothers, Byrne and Robt. Ingram, all of Stirling.



The funeral took place this Monday afternoon from the Ingram residence where service was held at 1.30.—Estombment was in Stirling Cemetery.

$50,000 Fire

ALVINSTON, Ont. (CP)—An unexplained fire swept through St. Matthew's Roman Catholic church New Year's Day shortly after the conclusion of the 10 o'clock masses. Loss was estimated at $50,000.

Firemen in this village 30 miles west of London fought for three hours to control the blaze.

Robert Bell New Organist At St. Thomas'

ROBERT BELL

Mr. Robert Bell, of Lindsay, began his duties as organist and choirmaster of St. Thomas' Anglican church, Belleville, on Sunday, January 2, succeeding Prof. W. Ernest Wheatley, recently retired.

Mr. Bell began his musical studies at an early age in his home town, St. Catharines. He holds diplomas from the Royal Conservatory of Music and the Canadian College of Organists. Both Mr. Bell are graduates of the University of Toronto with bachelor of music degrees. Mr. Bell holds associate diplomas from the Canadian College of Organists and the Royal Conservatory of Music. His teachers have included Mr. Ritz Dowling of St. Catharines; Miss Muriel Stafford, Dr. George Laughlin, Eric Peaker and Dr. Godfrey Ridout of Toronto, and Dr. S. Drummond Wolff, Montreal.

Previous to his present appointment Mr. Bell was organist and choirmaster of St. Paul's Anglican Church, Lindsay, where he was conductor of the Coventry Singers of Peterborough.

Mr. Bell has been taken up residence at 17 West Moira street. They have one child, an eight-monthe-old daughter, Susan.

Unemployment Up But Little From Year Ago

Employment in Belleville and district showed little change at the end of year's end in 1953, it was noted today by H. H. Reed, manager of the national employment service in the city.

The total of unemployed persons in Belleville and in the postal area served by the Belleville office was 1225 on January 1, 1954, as compared with 1226 on the same date last year.

Actually there are about 70 more persons out of work in the area than there were a year ago, the total being 578 for Belleville and the area, within a nine mile radius as compared with 507 a year ago. At the same time conditions in the country are slightly better with 230 reported receiving claims as compared with 239 who were receiving short time claims. This is because of certain departments in factories working two or three days per week temporarily.

There were 346 more men and 20 women are now out of work. The breakdown showed that the city and immediate district there were 418 men and 160 women out of work, while in the postal area of the country there were 346 men and 84 women receiving claims.

Torch Death May Be Murder Or Suicide

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Two persons were advanced today, one of homicide, the other suicide, in connection with the burning death of the 22-year-old Putnam farmer, whose nude and charred body was found in a New Year's Day blazing filled ditch on Highway 401, about a quarter mile east of his home.

Provincial police, it was learned, have not discounted the possibility in connection with the death of Jack Fishleigh of Putnam, 22, was murder by an uncle, Norman Bain, lying in a foot of water, the clothing on his body and the body badly charred. The victim disappeared from his home New Year's Eve.

Police today continued questioning farmers and other residents in the Putnam area, east of Dorchester. A post mortem conducted here "removes none of the apprehensions" created by formation of the coroner's jury.

Dr. A. W. Smith, of Dorchester, said there was no evidence of external violence on the body.

Rehearsals continued through the Christmas season for "Joan of Lorraine," Maxwell Anderson's novel and unusual treatment of the story of the famous French heroine and saint, which the Belleville Theatre Guild will present at the Collegiate and Vocational Institute on January 18th and 19th.

In the Anderson interpretation, "Joan of Lorraine" becomes more than a play about the French heroine, but, through the medium of a play-within-a-play, is also a sharp and incisive comment on present-day militarism, the state of mankind, and the aspirations of people during modern times. Well known as a thoughtful author, Anderson's plays all prove deeply into various aspects of human behavior, and "Joan of Lorraine" takes up such diverse subjects as the state of the theatre, the condition of democracy, and the nature of man's hopes and desires—ingeniously relating these subjects to those of Joan of Arc.

In the title role the play Joy Wonnacott will be seen in the Theatre Guild's presentation. Ted Gerrard will be the director of the "play-within-a-play," and as the Inquisitor the Court of Rouen, and Dunois will be played by Rod Rose. Others in the cast of 20 are Reg old Bankier, Phil Flagler, Joan Tanner, Doris Chipps and Syl Quinn.

Named Premier Older Boys 1955 Parliament

WHITBY, Ont. (CP) — Cameron Hill, 19, of Palmerston, was elected premier of the Older Boys' Parliament for 1955 at the closing session of its 34th annual meeting Friday.

Mr. Hill, former leader of the Opposition and a student at Waterloo College, succeeds Eric Snider, 20, of Scotland, a public school teacher at Kinmount.

Walter Martela, 18, McMaster university student was elected leader of the Opposition for 1955. He held the post of finance minister.

The delegates voted approval of a financial objective of $25,000 to be raised during a two-week campaign next February.

A new cabinet post, minister of world affairs, was created. Ted Lee-Waterloo College student from Kitchener, was elected to that post.

Missing Woman's Plane Sighted Off Mexico

LONG BEACH (AP) — The United States' coast guard reported today that the pilot of Amelia Bixby, prominent woman flier who has been missing since Sunday, had a radio message he sighted in the Gulf of California about 150 feet from the mainland shore of Baja California, Mexico.

The message report, received by the Long Beach command relayed to the coast guard, said some bones and cargo were sighted and there was no sign of any survivor.

Mrs. Bixby, 32-year-old mother of two children, and her husband operate an air service here at Long Beach. They flew to Mexico in two planes during the weekend to bring home a friend.

Mrs. Bixby, who with her husband attempted unsuccessfully in 1950 to be the round-the-world flight record, was flying a converted Douglas A-20 twin-engined bomber on the Mexican trip.

Bixby, who left here Sunday night, said his wife informed him by radio that she was running out of fuel but that they had found a place to land. "I did not see her go down," said Bixby. "Visibility was poor. I searched the area as long as possible in daylight, then flew home."

Censorship Not Planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — R. Karl Honaman, director of the commerce department's new Office of Business Economics, said Sunday the agency "believes firmly in the freedom of the press" and does not propose government censorship, real or implied.

J. R. Wiggins of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, hoped Mr. Honaman's statement "removes none of the apprehensions" created by formation of the agency last week.

"It is clear that we have a new and a very serious threat to freedom of information."

These people had returned to pondering the problems of peace and war as involving a higher and Christian responsibility before God and the moral law.

In practice the goal could be attained if statesmen would recognize that they were personally subject to the eternal moral laws and would treat the principles of war as a question of conscience before God.

"In the conditions of our times there is no other way to liberate the world from the fearful fetters the cubus except by a return to the law of God."

In the chapter entitled "coexistence in truth," the pontiff condemned what he called a mistake made on both sides of the Iron Curtain—the belief that the pressure of economic development could lead to a breaking down of the cold war barriers.

History, he said, had shown the impossibility of such a thing.

Two Killed In North Bay Jet Crash

NORTH BAY (CP) — A CF-100 all-weather jet fighter, only seconds from its landing at the RCAF base here, ran into a sudden and violent snowstorm and rocky husband late Friday, killing the two men aboard. The jet burst into flames with its pilot and air force instructor still in the wreckage.

The dead are Flt. Lt. Ronald Millan, 33, a student pilot. Both were fathers of two children and were decorated with the Distinguished Flying Cross during the Second World War.

It was the second crash in three hours of a CF-100 based here. Earlier a plane went down near Bristol, Que., seconds after its crew, F/O Pickles, parachuted to safety.

Justice Hope Dies Suddenly Of Heart Attack

TORONTO (CP) — Mr. Justice John Andrew Hope of the Supreme Court of Ontario died Friday of a heart attack. He was 64.

Mr. Justice Hope, a member of the Appeal Court, was chairman of the royal commission on education for Ontario, 1945 to 1950.

The 500,000-word Hope report was filed with the Legislature of Ontario in 1950 after five years of work. The majority report contained 300 recommendations for changes in the educational system and advocated among other things a three-level educational system.

It also recommended increased provincial grants to schools and reorganization of teacher training. Its recommendations have never been implemented.

Funeral services were scheduled today at St. Paul's Anglican church after which the body was to be removed to Bala, Ont., for burial.

Called to the bar in 1914, Mr. Justice Hope practised law in Bala. He was a partner in the law firm of Stewart, Hope and O'Donnell. He acted as crown counsel at Ottawa and other centres from 1923 to 1930.

He was appointed to the Supreme Court in December, 1945.

Mr. Justice Hope was born in Perth where he received his early education. He graduated from Osgoode Hall in 1914.

NAMED GOVERNOR

In 1945 he was named a governor of the University of Toronto and was chairman of the University College committee of the board responsible for the building of Daniel Wilson's men's residence. He was a holder of the Distinguished Service Order and the Military Cross for his service in the First World War. He was twice wounded twice.

Mr. Justice Hope was active in the militia, commanding the Lanark and Renfrew Scottish Regiment from 1925 to 1930. He commanded the 8th Canadian Infantry Brigade from 1931 to 1933 and in 1931 took the Canadian Bisley shooting team to England.

WAS AIDE

He was appointed an honorary aide-de-camp to the Earl of Bessborough, former governor-general of Canada, in 1934.

Mr. Justice Hope was a member of the executive council of the Canadian Bar Association in 1933 and 1934 and was a past president of the South Lanark Progressive Conservative Association.

He was awarded the King's Jubilee Medal in 1935 and the Coronation Medal in 1937.

He is survived by his widow and a daughter.

Cleveland Youth Charged With Attempted Murder

TORONTO (CP)—Suburban York police arrested a Cleveland youth with attempted murder after an attack Saturday on his seven-year-old sister.

Police learned of the attack after Mrs. Steel, the victim's mother, was found in a state of shock. Police said Mrs. Steel on the stairs of the apartment. He gave her first aid. Steel works as a plumber in Cleveland.

Paper Will Take No Legal Action Against Police

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Vancouver Province today said it plans further "legal action that may be open to it" in the case of its photographer Fred Olsen.

Olsen was detained at police headquarters for 12 hours Monday two weeks ago after he had taken the picture of a robbery suspect sitting in a police car. He was released and was charged in police court with the offence.

Publisher A. W. Moscarella had commended an apology, but the paper refused to accept the apology.

In a front-page editorial Friday, The Province said:

"The basic element of civic harmony" it does not propose to take any further legal action that may be open to it."

The editorial said the paper "will continue to stand against any unreasonable and unnecessary censorship of police news."

Province Police Court Writer Mulligan said he does not believe there will be any further action in the matter.

Wounded Hunter Will Return Home

TRENTON (Special) — Wilfred Winters, 56, Trenton hunter, shot by accident while hunting near Codrington last week, is expected to return home from hospital in Kingston some time this week. A bullet from a shotgun held by him in the chest and at first it was thought the wound was not serious. He was taken to the Kingston General Hospital for surgery but after treatment and observation it was decided an operation was not necessary.

New Year's Quiet

TRENTON (Special) — Police hope New Year's holidays are indicators of things to come. Crime was at a minimum. Only serious accidents occurred in three days as reported by police—one-blind in the week was reported exceptionally well.

A minor traffic accident disrupted the police force's holiday spirit. Her car slid sideways into the locker on the town grade. Damage to the car however was small.

1,000 Attend New Year's Levee At Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — The New Year's Day levee, a tradition transplanted to Canada in the 18th century from France's royal court at Versailles, was observed Saturday by Governor-General Vincent Massey.

Almost 1,000 persons visited him in the Senate chamber to shake hands, exchange greetings and sample late-morning refreshments of punch, coffee and sandwiches served in the nearby Commons railway committee room.

The levee, a custom handed down in Canada from the days of French governors in New France, was held for the first time only with a few exceptions—women officers in the armed services and Mayor Charlotte Whitton of Ottawa.

Persons from all walks of life were invited, and formal attire was applied.

TASK COATS PLENTIFUL

Most of the callers, however, were dignitaries. In the committee room, where refreshments were served, the black coats of cabinet ministers, diplomats and other officials mingled with colorful ceremonial dress of armed forces officers.

Diplomats from the Western and Communist worlds and Commonwealth and United Soviet ambassador Dmitri Chuvahin, in an olive-green uniform.

Mr. Massey, wearing formal morning dress, received the guests of the throne in the Senate chamber to greet his guests. Assisting him were aides from the armed services and 290 civilians.

The three-minute chimes rang out tunes and the band of the Governor-General's Foot Guards played light airs outside the chamber.

Mayor Whitton, wearing her gold chain of office, held her own levee later in the assembly hall at Lansdowne Park. More than 2,000 citizens called on her, some standing in line for an hour. Refreshments included tea, coffee and grapefruit punch.

Kingston Plumber Dies in Truck

KINGSTON (CP) — George Bishop, 60, of 1 King st. E., local plumber, died early Sunday shortly after he was found in a parked truck in which he had been sleeping beside Highway 33 about 10 miles west of here.

He left his home about two hours before he was found by a man who could not awaken him.

Dr. B. M. MacDonnell, coroner, said an autopsy would probably be performed.

Surviving are Baker's widow and seven children ranging in age from five to 17 years.

Poor Weather Blamed for Lag In Road Building

OTTAWA (CP) — Poor weather during 1954 has been blamed for a lag in highway building when just road builders even farther behind in attempts to cope with the impact of new automobiles.

The Canadian Good Roads Association, in a year-end statement Sunday, said it was "one of the wettest seasons on record."

Delays and postponements left most provinces with large backlogs of unfinished projects and unused road funds. A record $47,000,000 has been budgeted for roads in 1954 by all levels of government, and while about the same amount was planned for the New Year "road and street problems will not become less."

AUTOS INCREASE

"Automobile manufacturers continued to turn out automobiles faster than the ability of road builders to keep pace with them," the association said.

Last year there was one motor vehicle for every four Canadians, compared with one for every eight Canadians in 1945. The rate of increase is continuation of the steady post-war increase in commercial motorists.

However there was "a substantial decrease in the proportion of the country's highway network which is adequate to cope with the proportion of roads which are hardsurfaced.

DEATH INCREASE

On a dark note, the association said 1954 highway deaths probably exceeded the previous year's total of 2,906.

Work on the trans-Canada highway continued at a fairly good pace season, and fell even further behind schedule.

"With two-thirds of the time for building the road run out, only one-third of the work has been completed," the association said.

Highways Minister Minister Winters said 1,050 miles had been paved and another 400 graded and ready for paving in the first four years, after total expenditures of $183,133,000. He urged a speed-up of construction.

Queen Knights Elizabethan Age Authority

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth has knighted the greatest living expert on the first Elizabethan age.

The Queen, who has called for a new Elizabethan age, has conferred the knighthood on Prof. John Ernest Neale, 64, the distinguished historian of her namesake, in handing out 2,000 New Year's honors ranging from peerages to porridge.

Included were an additional accolade for Sir Winston Churchill who already holds a dozen titles, and a knighthood for Wilfred Eade, Fleet Clerk, one of the three British scientists who exposed the Russian spy ring in the Canadian spy case.

The honors list—sixth of the young Queen's reign—covered a wide range but was generally regarded as conservative, with fewer than usual names known in the entertainment field.

CONSPICUOUS ABSENCES

Conspicuously missing, too, from the honors list were playwrights in the theatre and in sports, Distinguished Service Orders are limited to include leaders in these fields brought some doubts among the old traditionalists.

One sports figure was recognized, however. He is Australian teacher who was beaten in the 1954 British Empire Games at Vancouver by England's own, Dr. Roger Bannister, who made history as the first man in British Empire. Landy holds the world record of 3:58 for the mile.

The 71-year-old Aga Khan became a knight grand cross of the Order of the Star of India. Sir George in recognition of his services to the Empire in the East African colonies, among Moslem communities. His similar award went to Roger Makins, 50, British ambassador in Washington.

ELEVATED TO LORDS

Elevated to the House of Lords as barons were three leaders of industry, politics and medicine—Sir William Fraser, 65, chairman of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co.; Sir Arnold Gridley, 76, Conservative member of the House of Commons and war president of the British Association of Chambers of Commerce, and Dr. D. Adrian, 65, one of Britain's outstanding physiologists.

Four were made knights grand commanders of the Order of the British Empire. They were Eva Hiscox, 60, secretary of Red Cross services in the RAF — Nancy Marion Salmon Roberts, Mary Whyte and Elizabeth Cockayne.

AGED JUNK COLLECTOR

Mrs. Minerva Donovan, 80, peers through half-opened door at firemen who came to fight a blaze in her junk-filled backyard in west-central Toronto. In one of the three houses owned by the aged recluse and her 47-year-old son Wilfred, firemen had to chop their way through corridors piled high with old building materials the couple had collected during the last 35 years. The fire destroyed some of the junk stored in the Donovan yard. (CP Photo).

Wirephoto, Introduced by AP 20 Years Ago, Now Success

By SAUL PETT

NEW YORK (AP)—Twenty years ago this New Year's Day, The Associated Press was wedded to a daringly different system of picture transmission—wirephoto.

The marriage endured and prospered. Today, 20 years later, it is commonplace for pictures to move by wire as fast as the news they illustrate—for both to make the same edition.

Wirephoto began Jan. 1, 1935 with 40 subscribers in 25 cities. Today its network reaches over more than 25,000 miles of wire, to more than 500 newspapers and television stations in the United States and Canada.

Its success is the sucess of men and machines.

A tiny photo-electric cell sends an 8 x 10 inch picture in eight minutes over thousands of miles. A small, portable transmitting unit sends from wherever there's a phone line.

WHO WON DERBY?

Its success is Preston Stroup shooting the finish of the Kentucky Derby, racing through the crowd to a darkroom 200 yards away, developing, making prints, getting his first picture on the wire within nine minutes of the finish, and then asking: "Who won?"

It is six-foot-five-inch photo editor Bill Brown developing negatives in a Montreal bank vault six feet two inches high, to be as near as possible to the portable transmitting pictures of the King and Queen's arrival in 1939.

In the years before wirephoto, news pictures were distributed by train, plane, car or, in some cases, by carrier pigeon. In the 1920s some picture agencies even tried a strange method of "talking" pictures over a phone.

At one end of the line, a man set up a transparent grid over a photograph before him. At the other end, a man had a blank sheet of paper, the same size as the photograph, and a grid over it.

REALLY A DRAWING

The first man described the squares under the grid as black, white or grey and the second man, sitting shaded in his squares accordingly. What they ended up with was a drawing, not a photograph, and while it was crude it bore some resemblance to the original.

Then, in the 1920s, the laboratories of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. developed a limited commercial system for moving pictures over phone wires.

Sending and receiving stations were set up in only eight cities. Almost an hour was required to prepare a picture for sending, the actual transmission was slow and the delivered picture was blurred and indistinct.

ad as the system was, it was all that was available and AP and other agencies used it until 1935 when A. T. and T. abandoned the project. Picture deliveries once again became a matter of train and plane schedules.

BIRTH OF WIREPHOTO

But Kent Cooper, then AP general manager, was still nursing an old dream — that a network of leased wires be set up to flash AP pictures. This time he didn't have long to wait.

In 1933 Bell Laboratories announced a new picture-sending apparatus faster than the old telephoto—and more reliable. It was substantially the wirephoto system of today.

An ordinary photo print is wrapped around a cylinder on the sending machine. On the receiving machine, 20 or 3,000 miles away, and connected by leased wire, an unexposed negative is placed on an identical cylinder.

STARTED BY BUTTON

At the sending point, an attendant presses a button which starts his machine as well as all the receivers on the network. As the cylinder on the sending machine rotates, it moves horizontally across a tiny beam of light.

The light reflects off the photographic print into a photo-electric eye. Here, the reflected light rays are transformed into electrical impulses—strong or weak as the light or dark portions of the picture vary.

The electrical impulses travel over the wires at the rate of 100,000 impulses a minute. Each records on the receiving film at exactly the same fraction of a second it is sent. The negative at the receiving end is exposed in exact proportion to the amount of light reflected off the sending cylinder. When developed, the finished print is exactly like the one at the sending station.

Ken Cooper was excited by the device. It would be expensive, probably more than $1,000,000 a year, he acknowledged. But he felt that AP had to follow this trail to a new pictorial journalism. He set out to try to win support for the project within the AP family, the member papers which make up the co-operative news agency.

The strongest opposition came from AP members with their own picture services. All sorts of charges were flung—that the AP management was trying to pour money into an expensive impractical scheme; that the AP had too little experience in the picture field; that it and C. was trying to foist obsolete equipment on the press service; that, even if wirephoto worked, the vast majority of members would not benefit.

The fight reached its climax at the AP annual meeting in April, 1934. After long and intense debate, wirephoto was approved by a heavy majority.

And at 1 a.m., Jan. 1, 1935, before white-tied New Year celebrants and shirt-sleeved staff members, before radio announcers and newsreel cameras, the sending cylinder in New York began to rotate. Eight minutes later, 25 cities received wirephoto's first picture—a photo of survivors of a plane wreck in the Adirondacks.

LACKED MANOEUVRABILITY

This was the beginning of an operation that grew every year. The fear that the network would prove too expensive for small and medium - sized papers proved groundless. Today, they make up a sizable proportion of those receiving wirephoto.

Wirephoto gave the AP picture service great speed once the picture reached the machine. Now it needed manoeuvrability. The sending equipment then in use was big and required considerable space.

Within a year, AP engineers came up with a small, portable transmitter, no bigger than an ordinary suitcase, which could be plugged into any phone line. The first of these was used in action in the Pittsburgh flood of 1936.

East and west, AP wirephoto is linked with the rest of the world through commercial radio facilities. This never-served more specularly than it did during the Coronation coverage of 1953.

Today AP Wirephoto averages about 65 different pictures a day, seven days a week, 52 weeks a year.

Nehru Is Cool To Hammarskjold On Peiping Trip

By EUGENE LEVIN

NEW DELHI (AP) — Authoritative sources said today that India's Prime Minister Nehru has refused a request from United Nations secretary-general Dag Hammarskjold of the United Nations that a senior Indian diplomat accompany him to Peiping.

These sources said Nehru based his refusal on the contention that India had abstained from the UN assembly vote under which Hammarskjold made his trip, and therefore could not associate itself fully with the mission.

The UN official and his party left by Indian government plane this afternoon on the next leg of the trip to Peiping seeking the release of 11 American airmen and other UN personnel held by the Reds.

It could not be learned whether Hammarskjold made the suggestion that an Indian join him prior to his arrival in New Delhi Sunday, or during his stay here. But the outcome of the suggestion only made more apparent the stand-off attitude the Indian government is taking to the secretary-general's trip.

NEHRU CRITICIZES

This apparent coolness by India's leader to the UN mission underlined Nehru's attitude. The prime minister told reporters there that the UN decision to send the secretary-general to Peiping was "unfortunate," and had been made in a one-sided manner.

Nehru also said he had not asked the Chinese Communists to reconsider their imprisonment as spies of the American airmen and "I don't know whether or not they will."

Hammarskjold on his arrival declined to let Indian reporters draw him into a statement that his trip means the UN intends to admit Red China. He replied that his official position entitles him to talk with representatives of various countries — "members of the United Nations and non-members of the United Nations recognized by members, and nations not recognized by members."

Among those on hand to greet the UN diplomat on his arrival were Shen Chien, charge d'affaires at the Red Chinese embassy here, and Russian, American and Scandinavian diplomats.

En route to New Delhi Hammarskjold conferred for an hour Sunday in Karachi with Pakistan's Prime Minister Mohammed Ali. After their meeting the UN official said only that he plans to visit Pakistan again, probably in April.

Keeping up its campaign charging the imprisoned Americans with being spies, a Peiping radio broadcast Sunday said a John Thomas Downey, one of two American civilians convicted and imprisoned along with the 11 airmen, has confessed that he was shot down while on a mission to pick up a U. S. agent from China.

The U. S. contends that Downey, an army civilian employee, had hopped a plane ride from Korea to Tokyo and was captured when the plane was shot down over North Korea.

TV Cameras Ready to Record House Opening

OTTAWA (CP)—Details are set for a unique opening of the new session of Parliament Friday. For the first time, television cameras will report the colorful ceremonies in the red-carpeted Senate chamber.

Two CBC cameras will focus on Governor-General Massey as he sits on the Chamber's throne, reading the speech from the throne which outlines the government's legislative program for 1955.

Two other cameras will be outside the Chamber to televise the procession as Mr. Massey enters and leaves, and as members of the Commons file in to hear the throne speech. A fifth will be outside to record the scene as Mr. Massey inspects a guard of honor of the Governor-General's Foot Guards.

The program will be carried on all CBC and privately-owned television stations, which have carried done in both English and French. Bilingual commentary will not be necessary for the reading of the throne speech itself because it is read in both languages.

DREW ABSENT

One notable person will be absent from the opening. Opposition Leader Drew, still apparently not back to full strength from his recent illness, will be resting with friends near the holiday resort of Ste. Adele, Que.

The 69-year-old Progressive Conservative leader, who left hospital Dec. 8 after a month's bout with meningitis, is not expected to resume his duties here until later, perhaps Feb. 1.

Prime Minister St. Laurent will leave Ottawa near-the end of the month to attend the Jan. 31 meeting in London of the Commonwealth prime ministers. He is expected to be away possibly two weeks.

Before he leaves, however, the Commons likely will have debate with ratification of the Paris agreements for rearmament of West Germany and her admittance to NATO.

Eight Injured In 5-Car Crash Near Paris

PARIS, Ont. (CP)—Eight persons were injured New Year's Day in a five-vehicle smashup on Highway 5 near this Brantford district town.

A car driven by Charles Lane of Dundas, Ont., collided with a tractor-trailer driven by Ab Lee Friesen of St. Charles, Man., just below the crown of the hill. Three other cars came over the hill and piled into the wreck.

Police charged Friesen with dangerous and careless driving. Officers said the transport, owned by Biggar Brothers of Winnipeg, was apparently passing another truck at the time.

Lane's father, James, and an eight-year-old granddaughter, Susan, were most seriously hurt. Both suffered severe head injuries. Their condition was reported fair.

A. P. MacKinnon New Manager Of Royal York

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto's Royal York Hotel, which has coped successfully with everything from royal visits to football fans, has a new manager.

Angus P. MacKinnon moved into the top position in the huge hotel on Jan. 1. He succeeds Jack Johnson who had managed the 1,350-member staff for 20 years.

The 45-year-old new executive who started as an office boy with the Canadian Pacific Railway in 1922 comes into the managership in the 25th anniversary year of the hotel.

Before he moved to hotel work in 1933 Mr. MacKinnon was secretary to the general superintendent and secretary to the vice-president of CPR.

Born in Paisley, Ont., Mr. MacKinnon came to Toronto where he matriculated from Jarvis collegiate and went directly to the CPR where he has been ever since.

During the Second World War in the army he bossed the feeding of Camp Borden troops and eventually was assistant quartermaster-general in charge of catering for the Canadian Army.

Dutch Art Expert To Speak at Toronto

TORONTO — Dr. A. B. de Vries, director of the Netherlands' famed Mauritshuis Museum at The Hague, will speak in Toronto January 24th. Dr. de Vries is one of the speakers arranged for five Monday "Open Nights" at The Art Gallery of Toronto, special Monday night talks have been arranged in advance of the $30,000,000 exhibition of Dutch masterpieces which are coming here for five weeks beginning February 19.

Dr. de Vries has come to America with the Dutch Show paintings which were assembled from some 50 galleries and private collections in Europe and America. More than 100,000 people saw these paintings at the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York before Christmas and the show is currently at the Toledo Museum of Art. After the Toronto showing, the pictures will be returned to their owners.

Weddings

LLOYD—BREACH

The Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, was the scene of a quiet wedding on Saturday, December 11, at 10.00 a.m. when Miss Mary Ann Breach united in marriage Betty Ann Breach of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Breach, to William Joseph Lloyd, also of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Lloyd.

The wedding music was rendered by Miss D. Grant.

The bride was attractively attired in gold colored bengaline with winter white accessories, and corsage of white roses and chrysanthemums. She was attended by Miss Dora Lloyd, who was gowned in turquoise crepe with corsage of pink roses.

Mr. Larry Meagher, of Belleville, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Spencer Lloyd, Belleville, and Mr. John Doig, also of Belleville, acted as ushers.

At the reception which was held at the Golden Arms Inn, Kingston Road, the bride's mother, wearing grey bengaline with corsage of pink baby 'mums received the guests, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was gowned in winter white, with black accessories and corsage of deep pink baby 'mums.

For travelling to Cleveland, Ohio, the bride wore a dusky rose suit with matching accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd are residing in Dundas, Ontario.

TITCOMBE—WHITFIELD

Evergreens and Christmas garlands, baskets of lilies, snapdragons, roses and forget-me-nots adorned the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Whitfield, Foxboro Road for a lovely Christmas day wedding at 6.00 p.m., when their daughter, Dr. Ethel Ruth Whitfield, of Winnipeg General Hospital, became the bride of Dr. Archibald Frederick Titcombe, also of Winnipeg General Hospital, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. G. Titcombe, of Winnipeg, Manitoba. The Rev. W. E. G. Dovey officiated.

The wedding music included a recoading of Mendelssohn's "O Minor, Organ Sonata" and the lovely Christmas carol, "Shepherds, Shake Off Your Drowsy Sleep," sung by Miss Marsha Savery.

Given in marriage by her mother, Mrs. Herbert Whitfield, the bride was becomingly attired in sage green French wool chambray with burnt orange and Spanish tan accessories.

She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Donald Andrews, of Belleville, gowned in black and taffeta accentuated by sequin trim, with black and white accessories.

Mr. Donald Andrews, of Belleville, attended the bridegroom.

For the wedding trip to Detroit, Chicago and Minneapolis, the bride wore a gun metal Picrette twill suit, with grey topcoat and black accessories. Upon their return, they will resume their duties at Winnipeg General Hospital, making their home in Winnipeg.

Guests were present from Toronto.

Kenya Wife Lives Under Cloud of Mau Mau Terror

Editor's note: What does it mean to raise a family in the very shadow of Mau Mau terrorism? Here's the story of Beth Fey, a Kenya farmer's wife for whom a revolver is as familiar as lipstick.

By DEREK CARVER

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Seen through the blue eyes of Beth Fey, Mau Mau terrorism is a cloud that passed over the sun and forgot to go away.

Beth Fey accepts now that her husband must be gone for long periods of time, leaving her singlehanded to run the 270-acre family farm deep in Mau Mau territory; that her four young sons must spend their nights in a homemade fortress; that trusted native farm workers may join murderous gangs pledged to her destruction.

Riding up to the blue-grey stone farmhouse, a visitor today is led more to expect a croquet game than a Mau Mau raid.

Once the house is reached, however, the signs of tension become evident. The veranda is bare of furniture, its doors padlocked. Wired in are the windows of the sitting room and the sparsely furnished bedrooms.

ARMED TOWER

Most pronounced symbol of change, however, is "the tower," a stone bastion which can be entered only from the house.

The tower has four floors and includes bedrooms, a kitchen and, on top, a gallery from which rifles can fully command the trees and underbrush ringing the farmhouse. It is stocked with grenades, ammunition guns and rifles. The tower kitchen is provisioned with emergency rations to feed the family for days and even weeks.

TWO YEARS AGO

The dark forests flamed with terror as Mau Mau leader Dedan Kimathi, who lives in the thick highland forests facing the back door of the Fey farmhouse, took a blood oath to drive the white man from Kenya.

Five families in the area were wiped out by bands that came in the night.

Vera Fey was commissioned in a Kenya regiment, and because of his knowledge he was placed in charge of interrogating captives and screening suspects.

KEPT UP FARM

All the time he was gone, Beth Fey stayed on the farm, cared for her children, directed nearly three dozen native Kikuyu workers in planting and harvesting the crops, supervised and, as a trained nurse, looked after the health of the workers and her family.

In the early days, Mau Mau was a mysterious peril Beth would not discuss before her sons: Christopher, 6; Martin 4; John, 3; and Andrew, 1.

Now, however, it is as routine for them to stay by their mother's side as for her to wear a gun on her hip while sweeping the floor.

N.S. Woman Prefers Fishing To Doing Household Chores

By GERALD FREEMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CHERRY HILL, N. S. (CP)—Whether she's out fishing with her husband or working around the house she helped build, Rose Conrad is a proud, independent woman who's "not beholden to any man in Cherry Hill.

"I can do anything a man can do," she says with a toss of her straight brown hair. Somewhat apologetically, every man in this little south shore fishing village will allow that she can.

In spring and summer she and her husband, Alonzo, fish for cod and mackerel. In late fall and winter they fish for lobster. But they only go out when the weather is right. "The Lord gives plenty of fine days, why take chances in rough weather?" Rose asks.

HARD WORK

"It's no easy work hauling traps up one of 20 fathoms of water," she says, but she loves it. "If I couldn't go down to the shore and go fishing I'd go crazy. I'd sooner do that than do the work in the housework."

Sometimes the Conrads land 1,800 pounds of fish in one set of their nets. Getting fish out of the gill nets and into the boat is hard work in itself. "But," says Rose, "they can't beat me for picking out mackerel."

They get up at 3 a.m. in the summer when day breaks early and often don't get back until sunset.

A BARE LIVING

"We make a living—that's all we can say. There's not enough fish for anyone to make a good living with."

Even when her daughter Joan was born Rose didn't stay long away from the fishing banks.

"Joan was born and brought up in a fishing boat. I took her down aboard every morning and didn't bring her home until time to put supper. She caught 97 or 98 worth of fish a couple of times the summer."

Joan, now 17, didn't catch the fishing fever, however. "I hate it," says Joan, who gets seasick. She left in December to work in Halifax.

BUILDS TRAPS

Rose helps build lobster traps, and set 40 of her own last summer. She knits nets too, and claims she picked up the knack in a few minutes after watching a man do it.

The Conrads built their comfortable little house and Rose says she did most of the nailing. "Papered it, painted it, put my own house, outside and in. It's good enough to live in and it keeps the rain out."

Rose, 37, is lean and muscular. Her hands have withstood hard work, and she's proud of them.

They're as soft as any woman's, she smiles.

GINA STARTED FAD OF EAR-PIERCING

When Gina Lollobrigida, the Italian film beauty, visited Canada some months ago, it was noticed that her ears were pierced to hold her earrings. Since then there has been a mild boom in Canada in the business of piercing ears.

Though there is nothing new about pierced ears (it was popular in the Victorian era) up until the present few native-born Canadians succumbed to the fad. Those who have had them pierced say they like to be able to wear expensive earrings without fear of losing them.

Christmas Concerts

WHITE LAKE P.S.

IVANHOE—White Lake United church was recently filled to capacity with a large number standing for the annual Christmas concert presented by the pupils of White Lake Public school.

A lighted Christmas tree, gaily decorated was placed at the front of the church. Rev. T. Hagerward welcomed the large audience and acted as chairman for the following program:

PROGRAM

Welcome chorus by all the pupils; "Christmas" by the Intermediate pupils; dialogue "The Truth Telling Machine"; recitation by Carl Cassiff; song "Santa Claus Express" (Senior and Intermediate); recitation by Brian Blakely; Nursery Rhyme Novelty, (by Juniors); song "He's Too Fat for the Chimney" (by Juniors); and dialogue "Sales Resistance"; song "Grandmother's Dance," recitation, Jean Holland; song, "Hi-Ro-Ja-Rum" by Juniors; carols by Senior and Intermediate pupils; recitation, Barbara Morgan; dialogue, "Waiting For the 2.40 Train"; "The Christmas Story"; pantomime, "O Little Town of Bethlehem"; recitation, Evelyn Ash.

Two Christmas numbers were also given by the White Lake Sunday school.

Mrs. T. E. Fleming, Miss C. Pargey and Miss Eleanor Wright, pupil and school teachers, were called to the platform by Mr. Hagerward, who extended thanks and appreciation for the interesting program to which Mrs. Fleming replied.

A visit from Santa with gifts and a treat for the children concluded the program.

Canadian-Style New Year's Held by Show Business Trio

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—The New Year opened with a domestic touch for three Canadians in British show business.

Lois McLean of Calgary and Edmonton and Vancouverites Sheila MacKenzie and John Milligan toasted chestnuts at their own fireside and kept open house for visiting friends and theatre compatriots.

"It was wonderful to plan a real Canadian - style festive season just for once," said the 28-year-old Miss McLean, a brunette who, like Milligan, came to Britain in 1951. She has celebrated the holidays in so many different regarding honour that a place of her own was almost too good to be true.

The yen for home atmosphere, good cooking and freedom drove the three Canadians to join forces with Welsh teacher Molly Oakley. They have a semi - detached house in northwest London.

NEWEST RECRUIT

"Not too bad with four sharing expenses," said blue - eyed Sheila MacKenzie, a freckle-faced blonde of 23 and the newest recruit of the three to British show business. She came to Britain last May and has since toured against coffees making and confidence. In December, she landed her first television part in "Willie the Sweeper," first play for Monsreal's Ted Allan on British television.

The year has been a good one for Miss McLean. She worked for the first part as production manager to Peter Cotes, producer husband of Vancouver actress Joan Miller, touring in the comedy, "Walk into My Parlour," and in "Mountain Fire," an American folk play.

Much of Miss McLean's work is in radio playing children's parts. An excellent mimic, she is one of the few actors in London who can act the child.

Milligan is in London's west end in Thornton Wilder's "The Matchmaker," a comedy starring Arthur Hill of Melfort, Sask., and Vancouver, Milligan and Timothy Findley of Toronto play waiters.

It's steady work and the play is expected to make a long run—but it's a long way from the parts Milligan wants. The 23-year-old actor won a scholarship with the

How Do You Like Your Shrimp Cooked?

WORKING AFTER MARRIAGE ISN'T ALWAYS WISE FOR A WIFE

People tell me that everybody takes it for granted, these days, that if a woman wants to go on working after she's married and has a family, there's no reason in the world why she shouldn't. It's not even a matter of "Let your conscience be your guide," they say, for there's no real principle involved. All she needs to consult is her own desire. If she likes going to work every day better than she does staying home and looking after the house and children, and either her husband can pay for someone else to do the housework or her earnings will provide the wherewithal, that's what she should do. As simple as that.

Now that's all very well, and it sounds fine at first glance. It's a nice idea that if one course of action makes you happier than another, that's the one you should automatically choose.

But in practice, sometimes, the theory doesn't work out quite according to this neat formula. Contrary, it has a very disconcerting way of doubling back on itself, and instead of finding herself happier, the working wife comes up against difficulties that are quite distinctly miserable. In other words, she's very often in a position that she's chosen the wrong road to happiness and defeated her own ends.

This can hold true, moreover, even when the choice to work is made, not on the basis of what the wife believes will make her happiest, but because she feels it's wise thing to do for a specific economic purpose.

Consider the following for instance:

"I have been married a little over four years, and have worked ever since I was 18.

"My problem is that, for the last year, I've been saving and putting more and more of the financial responsibility for our home on me.

"For example, he will go off and buy things for the house, promising to think that it will leave him short and I will have to use all my money to pay his debts. I'm very devoted husband, and we love each other very much, but I am getting fed up with having to do without things I want myself because he is such a spendthrift.

"I have been wondering if it would not work better if I stopped and threw all the responsibility on him. I have been told many times A might make him feel more needed and admire himself more. On the other hand, I've been paying half our home paid for, and we could pay for it much faster if I kept on working."

Here is a wife with a good head and no small amount of insight.

Of course it would be a fine thing if this couple could talk over what they owe on their home as fast as possible. But I think she will have to look at this matter in the light of which is most important—getting the home paid for quickly, or getting her husband interested in such a spending of their finances so that this cause of possible serious friction between them could be averted.

My advice would be for her to adopt the latter plan and continue to work. She'll have to be tactful, though, in what she tells her husband about what it is that's going to work any more. If he gets the idea that it is simply a ruse to try and get him straightened out, he is very likely to resent it.

So this wife shouldn't act too hasty, but should take time enough to work out a reasonable way to achieve her end, which her husband will like. She seems to have so much commonsense, that, with careful thought, I think she can swing it.

EXTRA PAY

VICTORIA (CP)—About 90 per cent of British Columbia's 8,500 civil servants now work 40 hours a week or less. The remaining 10 per cent are on the 44-hour week and are compensated by extra pay.

My niece Beverley graduated from medical school last year, is now interning at one of Canada's largest hospitals and is engaged to a medical student. She has been a capable and confident girl all her life, but ever since Beverly's dinner queried me anything but confidently about cooking. "How do you thicken a stew?" she phoned Aunt Mary? You always seem to have something different."

I was puzzled to know how to answer her for she was genuinely concerned over her cooking inexperience. I told her what I had planned for Christmas Wednesday dinner. I had stood in the centre of the grocery market and decided not to purchase anything I had before that year. (I'll tell you what I did buy in a minute).

I pointed out to Bev, that it is not so much a matter of having something different for esthetic reasons but that of economics. I'd find it sufficiently varied and the food properly cooked, it is highly likely that we will be consumed. Not all of the commercial institutions require for good health.

Moral: Vary the menu.

What I had brought home from the store that interested me most was a jar of fresh shrimp cocktail packed in Mexico and caught in the Gulf of California (cost $2.79).

"They were cooked with the whole family and with our guests. Christmas Eve, not to do anything but an extravagance. The entire meal was a joint effort, for I did not do a bit of typing on Christmas day. Consequently I had considerable time to had to learn the Sunday School lesson, real early, before the little teen-agers arrived. 9:45 a.m. go to church with my whole family at 11 a.m., get home about 12:30 p.m. afternoon until 5 p.m. Then everybody helped in the kitchen at once including our guests, and Operation Shrimp began.

SHRIMP CREOLE

"The shrimp were partially thawed when I put them in a large kettle, pouring boiling water over to cover and added four celery tops and 2 teaspoons salt. I put on the lid and when they came to boiling point I let them boil 3 minutes only, then drained them, rinsed them with cold water. Then Marianne and Pete and Peachy pitched in and started to peel and de-vein them. When they had done about half of them I called a halt, for the sauce and rice and salad and dessert was ready.

CREOLE SAUCE

Saute in 1-4 cup salad oil 1 1-2 cups green celery cut in thin slanted slices, 1 medium onion chopped, 1-3 cup chopped green pepper (may be left out or substituted with more celery) until they but not at all brown. Pour over them 1 qt. fine tomatoes, add 1 teaspoon curry powder, 1-2 teaspoon monosodium glutamate, 1 1-2 teaspoon salt and a dash of pepper and bring to boiling point. Add shrimp, cover and simmer for 4 tablespoons cold water and stir this paste into the sauce until thickened. Add more water if necessary but we added 1-2 cup more. When they had done about 3 cups peeled whole shrimp and the whole business was brought to the boil, then occasionally stirred, I heated it in the double boiler inside section of the grill which was cooking in the bottom.

I made a ring of the rice on a large warm platter, put the shrimp mixture in the centre and garnished generously with parsley.

If you want to serve this for a posh party serve shredded raw cocoanut (which we had only) in a lovely pure white mound, and Indian Chutney.

Says Canadian Dollar Tossed Weight Around

NEW YORK (CP)—The Canadian dollar continued to toss its weight around as the world's hardest currency in 1954, the New York Herald Tribune said Sunday in a special business and financial supplement devoted to Canada.

The leading article of the four-page section on Canada says "foreign capital, particularly United States dollars, showed no signs of wanting to stay at home" as investments in Canadian development continued to soar.

The salient fact was that the Canadian economy in 1954 weathered the post-Korean readjustment so well that when final figures for the gross national product are available they will closely match those of 1953, excepting only in agriculture.

No Taverns, Bars or Liquor Stores on Magdalene Islands

ASSIGNMENT 1264 last of 5 stories

By GERALD FREEMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

GRINDSTONE, Que. (cp) — Intemperance is becoming a thing of the past in the sea-bitten, wind-scoured Magdalene Islands where there are no taverns, no bars and no liquor stores.

"That's the extra-potent moonshine, is still distilled by some islanders, but its bite is becoming less vicious. Fewer people are making it now, thanks to a temperance movement known as La Cercles Lacordaire et Jeanne d'Arc.

Lacordaire preaches a doctrine of voluntary total abstinence and counts about 1,700 members among the 11,000 residents of these Gulf of St. Lawrence islands.

SUPPLY SHIPS WELCOME

Some cynics say it is easier to join Lacordaire than to bring in liquor. Beer has to be ordered from Montreal and is delivered on the North Gaspe, the supply ship that calls every second Friday in season. Hard liquor also has to be brought from the outside, most supplies coming from mainland Quebec, but some of the island-weekly plane service from Charlottetown.

The twice-weekly supply ship Magdalen also arrives on Friday and the day she comes in with the North Gaspe is an unofficial holiday. Almost everyone in Grindstone goes down to the wharf to meet the ships. All merchandise comes from the mainland and most people have something coming every trip.

But as Lacordaire grows stronger the lineup for beer at the wharf gets shorter.

CO-OPS BIG FACTOR

Intemperance is just one of the things islanders have whipped by working together.

The co-operative movement is in full swing all over the islands and most Magdalenots swear by it.

Co-operatives have brought in electricity and new industry, cut prices, raised incomes and started a trend toward higher education.

Even the co-ops have a co-op. That's the Central Co-operative managed by J. Octave Turbide. "There are locals of consumer and fishermen's co-ops in every community," he says. "To make dealings easier they formed a central in 1945."

He says about 3,000 persons belong to the five consumer co-operatives and about 500 to the fishermen's. Both do a $1,000,000-a-year business.

PROUD FISHERMEN

Before the co-ops, which began in 1933 but didn't really get established until 1936, "the fisherman was not really allowed to have any money of his own," says Mr. Turbide. "All either he or his boy'd be going to the merchant for supplies for his family. In the spring it was understood he'd give the merchant his fish.

"Fishermen are becoming a little proud now. They all want push-button motors and there's hardly one without mechanical lobster trap haulers.

"The co-operatives sell to the Canspro Company here and they're agents for Newfoundland, two good outlets for herring. They produce canned lobsters and market live ones."

Co-operatives own eight 50-foot boats that stay out a month or more and sell their catch at Cheticamp, N.S. The co-operatives are buying three draggers to help small boat-fishermen compete in the "lucrative" cod fisheries.

The co-operative for transportation, marines and air owns three vessels for transporting fish and bringing in supplies.

PRESIDENT

News of the death of Remon, raised by many Western leaders as the ablest president Panama has had in its 52 years as a republic, brought expressions of grief from shocked leaders among Panama's neighbors. Many noted that Remon, first Panamanian president to be assassinated, died on the 8th anniversary of Panama's first successful revolutionary coup, Jan. 2, 1931.

DIED IN HOSPITAL

Remon died in hospital two hours after he had been hit in the groin and liver by machine-gun bullets. Five blood transfusions failed to save him.

The other dead were identified as Jose Peralta of Panama's secret police, who was with the president, and Danflo Sousa, a former swimming star.

Remon, who had stayed on at the track after the races, was talking with his party in a special enclosure when the shots rang out. At first they were thought to be firecrackers. Then a second volley shattered glasses on a table and Remon went down.

FROM GRANDSTAND

One of Remon's bodyguards, Orlando Ramos, said the gunmen ran to be coming from beneath the darkened grandstand. He said Remon and his party, gathered under the bright fluorescent lights of the clubhouse, made perfect targets.

Wilson said that as soon as the firing began he began pumping machinegun bullets in the direction where the shots appeared to be coming. When the fire let up he rushed toward the grandstand.

Soon national guard cars filled with helmeted troops sped down the main street. Guards were posted at the hospital entrance as the blood-spattered stretchers were brought in.

Although stunned by the slaying, some Panamanian officials indicated there had been warning rumbles in recent weeks that a plot was afoot against Remon.

Famed for Break From War Prison, P. C. Jenners Dies

OTTAWA (CP)—Philip Charles Jenner, First World War British flier whose daring attempted escape from a German prison camp became famous in Canada, died in hospital here Sunday. He was 55.

Born in Guildford, Surrey, he was a 19-year-old pilot in the Royal Naval Air Service when he was shot down and captured in 1918.

Twenty days before war ended, he tried to break out of his PoW camp in Cologne by climbing along telephone wires from the barracks to a factory outside. His hands slipped and he was left hanging by his feet 100 feet from the ground.

A sentry shot him in the shoulder, but he still clung to the wire. Then a fire ladder was stretched up to him. It broke as a fireman pulled him free. The fireman was killed in the fall, but Jenner landed on barbed wire and survived.

The story was printed in the Toronto Star in 1941 and won a prize as the war's best escape story.

Mr. Jenner came to Canada in 1941. For the last five years he had been an artist and technician with the defence department.

Gordie Howe Shooting Back Into Form; Scores Pair In Split With Habs

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

THAT'S IT!

It's all over. There's approximately 290 shopping days to Christmas—and don't bother counting 'em—we didn't.

It's all over. The Christmas turkey is a memory—the New Year's goose is at the hash stage—the Christmas tree is stripped of its brilliance and tinsel, gifts and beauty—and is ready for the trip "down the river."

There's nothing much left, but memories of a grand and glorious holiday—bills to pay—and the inevitable exchanges to be made. It is back to the workaday life at the office, factory, or shop. Back to the cloistered school rooms of the city; the little red buildings of the country, for the youngsters. This world, reeling from one of the happiest, maddest year-end celebrations turns a perhaps wobbly head to the sterner things of life. 1955 lies ahead and what it holds for us—well, drop around a year from now and learn about it.

Old 1954 was a record-beater as far as sport is concerned and what the cherubic 1955 holds, time only will tell. As far as nerve-tingling, pulse-hammering events are concerned it is doubtful if this year will bring forth the brilliant achievements, individual and collective, that '54 produced.

Maybe someone will run the mile in three—the Dodgers win a world series—Toronto become a major baseball centre—the big leagues invade the west—Rocket Richard makes it 625—or a new community centre planned for Belleville. Don't bet on any such happenings as belonging to 1955.

PETES HERE TUESDAY

The senior "B" group swings into local action here tomorrow night when the Peterborough Petes provide the opposition for the third-place Memos. The last time the teams clashed here the fray resulted in near-Donny-brook with fists, sticks and skates flying. Kingston had a similar experience a few nights ago when the game almost got away from the officials. So look for some extra-severe whistle-blowing and thumb-hacking activities here tomorrow night. The Petes are wig-hungry and they always were thorns in the sides of Belleville clubs whether hockey, baseball or checkers. Should be a real steamer.

* * *

TRENT VALLEY HOCKEY

Bill Gault's up-and-coming Belleville juniors' entry in the TVL has been the talk of the loop thus far in the young season.

They have won two of their three starts, dropping a tonghie to the Trenton Flyers in the odd till. Wednesday night they tangle with the powerful Point Anne squad, thus far unbeaten and untied. It will be a severe test for the Gault crowd, but they are not daunted by the Orr-Feinter's impressive record—and hope to hand Lee Bradshaw's gang their first setback.

Incidentally this week may decide the fate of the Bata-ons entry in the TVL. A high-ranking executive official whose say player help is vitally needed—would like any Belleville players "on the loose" to contact the club. More about this later. If the Bata entry folds it may have a drastic effect on the southern section of the loop which would be left with but three teams.

* * *

Mr. Wren Blair, manager of the Whitby Wrens of the district senior "B" hockey league, took exception to remarks made in this column, and that of Michael J. Hodden, sports editor of the Kingston Whig-Standard, anent his alleged effort to transfer the club for this group to a Toronto senior "B" circuit.

For Mr. Blair's information, both Mr. Hodden and this corner got their information from a columnar item published in the Oshawa Times Gazette under the byline of George H. Carver.

Wren denies making the application for transfer to the O.H.A., but writes to the effect he approached executive member Lorne Cooke of Kingston, "knowing," he said, "the idea would be turned down."

He had been asked, he said, to feel out the O.H.A. regarding the possibility of transfer by the management of the Orillia Pontiac club, now operating in the above-mentioned Toronto senior "B" circuit.

Mr. Blair wrote his opinion of Eastern Ontario sports-writers in no uncertain terms. The comment made in this column and that of Mr. Hodden would have been directed at any club in the circuit under similar circumstances. Neither Mr. Hodden nor this agent have any "pick" on Stair, his family, or his club. We wrote sans, and we repeat, that we believe Whitby to be one of the better clubs in the league and we still are of the opinion they will reach the playoffs.

And just in case Mr. Blair's memory is slipping, it is recalled that both this newspaper and the Whig Standard gave him and his ultimate champion Oshawa Truckmen much favorable publicity last season when they played their home games here and in Kingston during the group finals.

If what Wren says is true, and we have no reason to disbelieve him, it was a case of misinformation, or miscontrued information at the source of origin.

Wings' Star Nudging Closer To 'Boom-Boom' and Rocket; League Standing Unchanged

By the Canadian Press

There's no doubt that Gordie Howe is back to his old rookey form.

The great Detroit rightwinger, off to a slow start for season, and on the sidelines briefly with injuries, is threatening the individual scoring leaders in the National Hockey League.

The 26-year-old Red Wing star has a long way to go to catch Montreal's Bernie Geoffrion and Maurice (Rocket) Richard but he isn't wasting any time.

Howe scored five goals—his 14th and 15th of the 1954-55 campaign—during the New Year's weekend as the Red Wings split a home-and-home series with Canadiens. He accounted for the only goal Saturday as the Wings lost 4-1 in Montreal and added another Sunday night when the wings won 3-2 on home ice.

LEADS SCORING

Geoffrion, a rugged rightwinger in his fifth season with Canadiens, picked up one himself Saturday. He leads the scoring parade with 24 goals, three ahead of Richard.

In other games:

The third-place Maple Leafs and the last-place Chicago Black Hawks tied 2-2 in Toronto Saturday. The Hawks' came back Sunday to whip Leafs 3-2 in St. Louis. The fourth-place Boston Bruins blanked the fifth-spot New York Rangers 4-0 in Boston Saturday, and the clubs tied 3-3 at New York Sunday night.

The engagements didn't change the standings. The Montrealers still lead the pack with 52 points, four ahead of Detroit and nine up on the Leafs.

START OFF WELL

Canadiens started off 1955 with that 4-1 win before their hometown fans. They struck for two goals in each of the first and second periods and then surrendered the Wings' tally to Howe at 1:29 in the third. Richard, Bert Olmstead, Dickie Moore and rookie centre Don Marshall scored for Canadiens.

It was a different story Sunday night. The Wings came up with two third-period goals to snatch their 22nd victory of the season. Howe, Earl Reibel and defenceman Red Kelly scored for the winners, with Kelly scoring the game-winner with less than five minutes left to play. Jean Beliveau and Bert Olmstead tallied for Canadiens.

FROM BEHIND

The Hawks came from behind twice before 13,589 Toronto fans to gain the deadlock, their eighth of the season. They might have won it in the third period but they lost a decision on a disputed goal when referee Frank Udvari ruled the puck was kicked into the net past goaltender Harry Lumley. The score was 2-2 at the time.

Centre Ted Sloan and leftwinger Sid Smith registered the Toronto goals. Rightwinger Jerry Toppazzini had a hot night, scoring both Hawks' goals. Eddie Litzenberger is second at other drives.

Mickey Macdonald scored what proved to be the winner in the second period Sunday night as coach Frankie Eddolls put the hoker into the win column again. Jack McIntyre and Eddie Litzenberger accounted for the other Chicago goals.

Sloan tied the game 1-1 at 16:37 of the first period and centre Bob Nevin put the lead at 2-1 late in the third but that was it.

STOPPED 35

Chicago goalie Al Rollins stopped 35 Leaf shots over the route, 14 in the third period. Lumley handled 26 shots, 10 in the opening session.

The rejuvenated Bruins scored three times in the first period as they treated 10,432 hometown fans to their 11th win of the season. Centre Cal Gardner tallied twice, with Eddie Sandford and Leo Labine adding the others. The shutout was the third of the campaign for rookie goalie John Henderson.

Bruins had to fight off a third-period rally to stave off their deck-lock against the Rangers Sunday night, though. They also retained sole possession of fourth place. Bruins have 30 points, one up on Boston, but have played five fewer games than Rangers.

A Madison Square Garden crowd of 9,942 saw Don McKenney lead Boston with two goals. Real Chevrefils, the other Beantown Chrystal, Ron Murphy and Bill Gadsby scored for New York. The Rangers fired two goals in the last period but couldn't get the winning counter past Henderson.

REMEMBER WHEN

By the Canadian Press

Don Budge outsteadied his opponent at almost every point 12 years ago today to beat Ellsworth Vines, who had been ruler of the tennis courts for five years, 6-3, 6-4, 6-2 before a capacity crowd of 18,725 in Madison Square Garden, New York. Budge was making his professional debut.

Combines Whip Bombers In Garbage Bowl

MONTREAL (CP)—More than 3,000 cheering Montrealers saw the Northern Combines turn back the southern Bombers 11-4 in the Garbage Bowl, one of Canada's few New Year's Day football games.

The Combines, clad in long red underwear, were behind 6-5 at half time, but a converted touchdown by Stu Coll—his second of the day—put them ahead of their rivals.

Proceeds of the game, estimated at $1,000 by officials, go to the Montreal School for Crippled Children.

A foot of snow covered the Montreal West ground when the two teams arrived in a motor cavalcade escorted by police.

GREEN PYJAMAS

The Bombers, dressed in green pyjamas, went ahead on a completed 30-yard pass late in the opening half, but couldn't meet the competition towards the tail-end.

Coll made Garbage Bowl history when he raced 85 yards for a touchdown for the Combines early in the game, the longest Garbage Bowl run since the contest started in 1950.

All players are from Montreal West schools. But what started originally as a merely local event has since caught the imagination of Canada.

Coal dust was used to mark out the goal lines and pretty Dixie Shields, chosen Miss Garbage Bowl of 1955 at a pre-game rally Tuesday, kicked off the ball.

Bulldogs Whip Mercurys 3-1 To Narrow Gap

WINDSOR (CP)—Windsor Bulldogs defeated Owen Sound Mercurys 3-1 Sunday in an Ontario Hockey Association senior A game before 3,500 fans, largest crowd at a game here this season.

The win narrowed the gap to five points between the third-place Bulldogs and the second - place Mercurys.

Bulldogs scored enough in the first period to win. Frank Bialowas steered in a shot by defenceman Ted O'Connor at 6:45. O'Connor took care of the other Windsor goals himself with two terrific shots. He scored the first at 17:39 and the second in the third period at 6:45.

Tommy Burlington, league scoring champion last season scored Mercurys' lone goal at 17:09 of the second period, tipping in Jerry Reid's shot. Windsor goalie Norm Mercier 40 to 22 in the bruising action packed tilt.

Buckeyes Win Rose Bowl Epic; Navy, Duke, Georgia Victors

By the Associated Press

The argument over whether Ohio State's unbeaten Buckeyes rated the national football championship over undefeated UCLA is about off the table for the Jan. 1 bowl games, called to decide.

None of the major post-season gridiron classics produced a real surprise even though Navy, victorious 21-0 over Mississippi in the Sugar Bowl, relinquished the favorite's role after injuries and illness sidelined several first-string players.

Supporters of UCLA, which finished a close second to the Buckeyes in the final Associated Press poll, had hoped Southern California would rise up and down Ohio State in the Rose Bowl. Then they would have been in a position today to gloat over those who voted for Ohio State.

But the Big Ten conference champions went out to prove that they earned the No. 1 spot. They they defeated USC by only 20-7 compared to UCLA's 34-7 romp during the regular season, but rain falsering Saturday's game was not conducive to high scoring. Duke was the favorite in whip Nebraska, Big Seven conference runner-up, in the Orange Bowl and the Blue Devils came through with ease 34-7.

In the Cotton Bowl Georgia Tech was the choice to knock off 10th-ranked Arkansas. This it did, precisely 14-6. The other major New Year's Day game produced a 13-12 victory for the eastern All-Stars against the West in the Shrine game at San Francisco.

The bowl competition started Friday with favored Auburn downing Baylor 33-13 in the Gator Bowl.

More than a half-million fans, 501,847 to be exact—turned out for 13 games played between Friday and Sunday.

The most sensational play in the Rose Bowl was an 86-yard punt return for a touchdown by Southern California's Aramis Dandoy.

Georgia Tech adjusted its offense in the second half to overhaul Arkansas after the Razorbacks had left the field at the intermission on the long end of a 6-0 score. The victory kept intact coach Bobby Dodd's perfect bowl record. His teams have won six of the post season affairs in 10 years.

Big Seven

By the Canadian Press

Although the National Hockey League scoring race is lightning, Montreal Canadiens continue to dominate it.

Five Canadiens, headed by Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, who has 43 points on 24 goals and 18 assists, qualify for hockey's Big Seven. Geoffrion's 24 goals makes him the league's deadliest sniper.

Closing in on him is teammate Jean Beliveau whose goal-and-assist Sunday against Detroit Red Wings brought his total to 40. He has scored 18 goals and set up 22 others.

Marlies Give Majors First Defeat After Handing Barrie 9-1 Setback

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto St. Michael's Majors started off the New Year on the wrong foot, but they're still six points ahead in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior League and the chances are they'll stay there.

They dropped their first game of the year 3-1 to Barrie Flyers on Saturday. It was their sixth loss of the season.

Marlboros had better luck. In their first game of the year Saturday they swamped Barrie Flyers 9-1 in a game at Toronto. In another game Saturday Oshawa defeated Galt Black Hawks 9-4 at St. Catharines.

The Majors stood even at 1-1 when the Marlboros—St. Michael's game entered the third period. Marlboros quickly drilled in the winning goal and added a clincher before the game was through.

Ken Girard opened the scoring for Marlboros in the first period. Al McNeil and Bob Kennedy added the others. Ken Lansman scored St. Michael's only goal late in the third period.

With the score 9-0 for Marlboros and three minutes left in play, Al McNeil received a tripping penalty for Marlboros and coach Hap Emms of Barrie pulled out his goalie, Tom Rowe.

The move paid off when Jack Kane scored Barrie's goal to spoil Johnny Alban's shutout. Gary Mcirorn paced Marlboros with three goals. Gary Collins and Bob Kennedy each scored twice and Bob Pulford and Mike Nykoluk added singles.

The TeePees jumped to a 5-1 lead in the first period and made it 7-3 in the second. The win moved them into second place, ahead of the idle Guelph Biltmores.

Hank Cloke led the TeePees with three goals. Cec Hoekstra scored twice and Chuck Warchuk, Bob Butler, Alex Viskolls and Barry Cullen accounted for the others. Hec Lalonde scored twice for the Black Hawks and Dick Cherry and Dunc Brodie once each.

Maurice Richard of Montreal, who scored one goal and assisted on another as Canadiens defeated Detroit 4-1 Saturday.

Jerry Toppazzini of Chicago who scored both his team's goals as the Black Hawks and Toronto fought to a 2-2 tie Saturday.

John Henderson of Boston who earned his third shutout of the season as Bruins blanked New York 4-0 Saturday.

Red Kelly of Detroit who scored the winning goal and assisted on another as the Red Wings defeated Montreal 3-2 Sunday.

Don McKenney of Boston who scored two goals as Bruins and New York played to a 3-3 draw Sunday.

WILLIE TRIUMPHS

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—Jockey Willie Shoemaker coasted to the national riding crown with a total of 388 winners during 1954, far ahead of all other American jockeys. Eldort Shoe's 1954 accomplishment was far off the 1953 record of 485 wins but in the year just ended it took long vacations both in the spring and fall.

Barons Closing In On Indians; Share 2nd Spot

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Cleveland Barons, perennial standouts in the American Hockey League, are starting to close in on the front-running Springfield Indians.

The Barons scored five goals in the third period to turn back Springfield 8-2 Sunday night and move into a second-place tie with Pittsburgh. Cleveland now is within four points of the Indians, who lost their first home game in nine starts.

Fred Glover and Cal Stearns scored two goals apiece for the Barons, who finished third last season in the league race and then went on to win the Calder Cup playoffs.

The other two games Sunday night produced overtime ties. Pittsburgh deadlocked Providence 3-3 and Buffalo played a 3-3 stalemate with Hershey.

Goalies Harvey Bennett of Providence and Gil Mayer of Pittsburgh turned in fine netminding jobs with Gerry Foley's goal in the third period giving the visiting Hornets their tie.

Buffalo scored a pair of goals in the third period to give the cellar-dwelling Bisons their second standoff in two nights with Hershey. Goals by Ken Wharram and Pierre Pilote capped the Buffalo comeback as five major penalties were called.

Ducks, Geese Getting 'Wiser' Says Authority

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—Hey, Mr. Hunter! Have you been finding it harder to bag ducks and geese lately?

The reason, says a Virginia specialist in such things, is pretty simple. Ducks and geese are smarter than you think.

With every passing year, the fowl are flying higher so as to stay out of range of gunfire—and they're learning to avoid decoys less readily to all the lures hunters use to bring them into range.

That's the word from Roland O. Halstead, supervising warden for the Hampton Roads district for the Virginia commission of game and inland fisheries.

Hunters have complained loud was long to Halstead that they are finding plenty of ducks and geese on the coast and on inland waters but they're mighty are flying too high for their guns.

Upsets Feature Quebec League

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Three upsets occurred in Sunday's Quebec Hockey League action—and Montreal Royals figured in two of them.

In an attempt to straighten out schedule difficulties which came about when Ottawa Senators dropped from the league, the Montreal club played two games Sunday. In the afternoon tilt the Royals trounced the front-running Shawinigan Falls Cataracts 9-0, but the lowly Valleyfield Braves defeated Montreal 4-2 in the night game.

Chicoutimi Sagueneens completed the odds-makers' nightmare when they edged Quebec Aces 4-3. The games had little effect on the standings. Montreal's afternoon victory boosted them into a second-place tie with the Aces but Quebec has a game in hand over the Royals.

The Cataracts, with 43 points, have an eight-point pillow between clubs. Chicoutimi has 25 points, 10 less than Montreal and Quebec. Valleyfield trails the Sagueneens by three points.

Bobsled Driver Hurt in Crash

GARMISCH - PARTENKIRCHEN (AP)—Lloyd Johnson, who captured the world four-man bobsled championship for the United States two years ago, will be out of action at least a month as a result of a serious spill, doctors said today.

Johnson, who won the title just three years after he had taken up the sport, crashed Sunday near the finish of Germany's famed Olympic course here. The 40-year-old Rapid City, N.D., driver suffered a broken collar bone, a broken nose and facial cuts.

WINS STAKES

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Determine, the little grey who won the 1954 Kentucky Derby, came flying through the gloom and mist at Santa Anita Saturday to win the $28,450 Malibu Sequet Stakes at seven furlongs in 1:22.3. Andy Crevolin's four-year-old had one full-length margin over Double Reign at the wire and El Drag got the show.

HEPBURN JOINS GRUNT AND GROAN GAME

Latest newcomer to the grunt-and-groan circles, weightlifter Doug. Hepburn has signed a five-year professional wrestling contract with Toronto promoter Frank Tunney. The 28-year-old Vancouver strong man won the world heavyweight weight-lifting championship with a press of 372½ pounds, but will now devote his talents to heaving bodies. He will be coached by Whipper Billy Watson, British Empire wrestling champion, and may be ready to make his debut late in February. — Central Press Canadian.

Win Bowl Games

OTTAWA (CP) — Four football teams struggled through heavy snow in Ottawa's two New Year's Day "bowl" games and among them managed to score a total of six points.

The young men of Upper Ottawa East out-fumbled Lower Ottawa East in the Frost Bowl to win 5-0 on a freak exchange of kicks. Some 500 spectators saw Grant Edmonds, returning a kick caught in his end zone, punt weakly just over his goal line. Lineman Jay Flemming grabbed the ball and fell over the line for an unconverted touchdown.

Only a handful of fans at the Snow Bowl watched as All-Stars shut out Red Devils 1-0 on a second-quarter single by Grant MacDonald.

Enter Finals

NEW YORK (AP)—Aram Khan, 28-year-old Pakistan professional and Diehl Mateer, Jr., of Philadelphia Sunday entered the finals of the United States open squash racquets singles championship. They will meet for the title today.

Khan defeated his cousin, Roshan Khan, 15-7, 15-12, 15-12, 15-13 in the semi-finals after eliminating French-born Henri Salmon of Boston 15-6, 11-15, 15-3, 12-15, 15-8 in the quarter-final round.

Mateer gained his final berth when another of the Khan clan, Hashim, a brother of Azam, was forced to default because of an injured leg.

CHICAGO (AP)—Fight manager Greddia Sommers Sunday night announced that he has signed Joe Louis to train German middleweight Peter Mueller.

Mueller defeated Ernie Durando in Milwaukee last week and is slated to meet Gordon Wallace of Toronto Jan. 11 at Milwaukee and Carmen Basilio Jan. 21 at Syracuse. Louis, former heavyweight champion, recently worked with light heavyweight Paul Andrews before Andrews stopped Boardwalk Billy Smith.

MRS. CONACHER DIES

TORONTO (CP) — Elizabeth Black Conacher, 84, mother of the famed Conacher athletes, died in hospital Sunday after a brief illness.

Mrs. Conacher, mother of hockey players Charlie and Roy and the late Lionel (Big Train) Conacher named Canada's greatest athlete of the last century, was born in Ireland and came to Canada when a girl. Before her marriage to Ben Conacher she lived in Peterborough.

U. OF T. WINS

TROY, N.Y. (CP)—The University of Toronto Saturday night clinched the fourth annual Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute hockey tournament with a 3-2 win over Yale. St. Francis Xavier of Antigonish, N.S., grabbed second place with a 3-3 tie with RPI. Toronto went through the three-day tourney undefeated with previous 3-1 wins over RPI and St. Francis Xavier.

Guelph Textile Plant Puts In New Machinery

GUELPH (CP)—A textile plant here is using sledge-hammers to help in its fight against the current high cost of living.

Armed with hammers, workers have wrecked 130 machines, worth $350,000 when new, at the Harding yarns plant.

Executives said the machines were obsolete and in the last six years the company has spent $700,000 on new equipment which will turn out twice as much yarn.

"This is our answer to the current textile slump among Canadian producers," assistant general manager Jwalter S. Cowan said.

Installation of the new machinery will mean the firm's working force will be halved. Average number of employees has been 300. Now it will be 150 and production will be on a shift basis.

Layoffs are taking place on a seniority basis.

Toronto Crash Kills Woman

TORONTO (CP) — A 38-year-old woman was killed and her bust and two children were severely injured Saturday night when their car skidded into a trolley bus and careered into a steel pole in western Toronto.

Mrs. Eva Dorosh of Rexdale Ont., died en route to hospital. Her husband, Ivan, 42, suffered head and chest injuries and a broken left arm. Three-year-old Sylvia suffered two broken legs and Marshall, 4, a broken right leg. Police said the Dorosh car apparently skidded on wet streetcar tracks.

Thirty-four other persons were injured during the New Year's weekend in Toronto. The total a year ago was no fatalities and 18 injured.

Police reports from 8 a.m. Friday to 8 a.m. Sunday said 85 persons were arrested as common drunks compared with 195 the previous New Year's and 18 were arrested for impaired driving compared with nine a year ago.

HUMPHREY BOGART, AVA GARDNER

Writer Blesses Movie Actors As Vital, Newsworthy People

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Here we close another hectic Hollywood year, and today marks 10 of them I have spent chronicling the movie guys and dolls.

It's a good time of year to bless the actors for being such an unpredictable, vital, newsworthy, lovable and exasperating breed. And to try to salve some harried feelings.

Like Doris Day's. I once quoted her when she sighed that she wanted to make big musicals, such as MGM makes. This peeved her studio, Warners, and she hasn't talked to me since. Now she's making a big musical—at MGM. Hey, Doris! can't I be your "Secret Love"?

And Jerry Lewis. He was put out because I wrote a story about him and didn't mention his partner, Dean something-or-other. Gee, Jer, your partnership can't be shaken by little things like that, can it?

The King's mad at me, too. It seems I quoted Gable on his love life. His girl friend wrote him a note asking if they couldn't keep their personal lives out of the papers. Shucks, you know better than that, King. And hasn't the girl said just as much to reporters as you have?

Gas Fumes Kill Toronto Couple

TORONTO (CP)A man and a woman were found asphyxiated New Year's Day in a locked room at a boarding house.

Police ruled as accidental the deaths of Harold V. Nott, 57, and Emily Smith, 55. They said gas escaping from an open stove jet caused the double fatality.

Gas company workmen had to force open the door to the room in which the couple was found.

THEATRE FEATURE TIMES

AT THE BELLE—"The Last Time I Saw Paris," Elizabeth Taylor, Van Johnson, Walter Pidgeon, Donna Reed, 2.30, 7.00, 9.30.

AT THE CAPITOL — "PUSHOVER" Fred MacMurray, Phil Carey, Kim Novak, 1.30, 4.30, in Technicolor "Gypsy Colt" and "Every Night", Rita Hayworth, 2.45.

FATHER KILLED

CAMPTON, Ky. (AP)—J. Weed Dickey, 72, attending his son's funeral services Thursday, was killed by a truck as he started to enter an auto for the trip home. His son, Roy Lester Dickey, 22, was killed in a car wreck here Monday night.

Horse Sense Bridge

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

My comparisons are odorous, according to Akoolap Oxpert. He is blindly worshipful of his favorite expert without knowing why. Who else could be righter, he wants to know. Shall I tell him?

An opening suit bid of two shows nine tricks and is forcing to game. All teachers agree on this in their nutshell conclusions. But what about the first response to such an opening?

Culbertson says: Two no-trump with less than an honor trick and no long suit, or an honor trick with a hand not suitable to a raise or suit takeout; three no-trump with 1½ honor tricks and no suit bid.

He further says: A higher suit six carder with ½ honor trick, a five carder and an honor trick, a four carder and 1½ honor tricks; with 1½ honor tricks, any suit takeout or assist with support.

Goren says: Two no-trump with less than 5 quick tricks; make some other bid with seven points and a quick trick, or eight tricks with 4½ quick tricks (preferring to assist to any other bid.)

Accordin' to Gordon: Two no-trump without a sure trick; with a sure trick following the order of choice in T-A-N (takeout, assist, or three no-trump). A sure trick is ace or K-Q.

Let me keep you in suspense by not telling you now why mine is the best rule for these responses and you read the proof in prozna I will give you in my coming series for beginners.

Your south partner opens with a bid of two hearts when you are holding the north hand shown here:

♠K 8 4 3
♥9 5 4 3
♦5 4
♣7 4 6 5

In every modern system your first response is two no-trump even with support for the suit bid by partner. The main reason for first bidding two no-trump is to discourage partner from thinking game.

Where the difference comes is when the first response is not a bid of two no-trump. We will come to that in due time.

CASE SEWN UP

TOKYO (AP) — A tailor here puzzled competitors by undersellin' them consistently. Police sewed up the case today. They said he stitched the cut-rate suits from cloth snitched from other tailor shops.

Little Benny's Notebook

Mr. and Mrs. Hews are coming to our house for dinner the day after tomorrow and ma was talking about it to pop, saying, You know, William, it's very fashionable just now to take your guests out to dine at some nice place.

That's out, pop said. That would come to a small fortune added to a large tip, he said, and ma said, Well, it'll have something nice for them, but you're my first consideration, William, so what do you suggest?

The way I figure it, guests are a good excuse for a big upstanding outstanding rib roast of prime beef, pop said, and ma said, That's a good suggestion, William, but unfortunately you refuse to carve, and a woman carving a enormous roast is all out of proportion. A nice fancy fish dish, perhaps with wine and mushrooms, would be a change, she said.

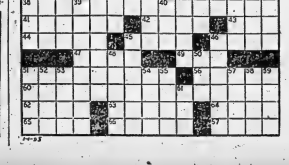
That's right, a change for the worse, pop said.

Fish being his most unfavorite thing, and ma said, Whatever we plan, we should start in an orderly way at the beginning.

You cant beet tomato jooce for color and uplift, pop said, and ma said, Well yes, but I was thinking of starting with avocado salad with a topping of pishashio nut. I just heard of it she said.

I didn't think I'd ever hear of it, pop said, All things considered, including time and labor, it would be practically as cheep to take the guests to the Dude Ranch, where the waiter rolls out a whole pile of beef and gives you a baked potato as big as a ten bolloon, he said, and ma said, William, I know I could depend on you for a novel idea.

Being the happy end for her.



TITO SEES BOLD DIVING

AGRA, India (Reuters)—President Tito of Yugoslavia arrived here Wednesday by special train, visited and photographed the huge Taj Mahal temple, and then drove 37 miles to visit the 16th-century capital of the Mogul emperor Akbar the Great. While there he saw five swimmers dive from the 80-foot high city ramparts into a deep moat.

WANT NONE OF THIS

LONDON (Reuters)—The Soviet labor union newspaper Trud complains that Russian children, given an atheistic education at school, are taught religion when they get home. In its issue of Dec. 22, the newspaper calls on parents not to force children to "imitate their religious superstitions, trouble their conscience, and complicate the work of the school."

Nude, Charred Body of Farmer Found in Ditch

PUTNAM, Ont. (CP)—The nude, charred body of a 70-year-old farmer was found New Year's Day in a water-filled ditch on Highway 401 near this London district village.

Jack Fishleigh was found dead in a foot of water with his clothes burned off his back and his body badly charred. The body was discovered by an uncle, Norman Bain, who joined a search party after Fishleigh disappeared from his home New Year's Eve.

Coroner Dr. A. W. Smith said the man died of third degree burns and that there was no evidence of external violence on the body.

Police were unable to account for the death. Fishleigh had last been alive by his family when he left his farmhouse for the barn at 10 p.m. Friday night. He was described as a quiet man with few associates outside his own family.

AGED FIELD MARSHAL DEAD

MERANO, Italy (AP) — Archduke Eugene of Hapsburg, 94, who led the armies of the Austro-Hungarian empire as a field marshal during the First World War, died in a sanitarium here today. He was a great-grandson of Emperor Leopold II, who ruled in the 18th century, and a distant cousin of Emperor Franz Joseph I.

Somali Seamen Get New Jobs

VANCOUVER (CP)—Cleared of desertion charges after they left their British ship here amid a festering racial dispute Dec. 22, seven Somali seamen left by train Sunday for Halifax and new jobs in the United Kingdom.

The Moslem crew members said they lived in fear of their lives aboard the freighter Harpalyce after a fight with white sailors off the Japanese coast in November.

Magistrate Thomas Dohm dismissed the desertion charges and said the seamen were justified in leaving the tramp ship.

Generally Prosperous Year For Business Predicted for '55

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

"Happy New Year" rings through the Canadian business world in heartier tones than a year ago, amid predictions of a generally prosperous 1955.

Not that the closing year wasn't a good one for most people, but it had weak spots and was darkened by fears that worse things might come.

Now the fears have been replaced by a feeling that 1954's downturn was in the nature of a readjustment from lush conditions of preceding years, and that it has run the greater part of its course.

HOPEFUL PROSPECT

This does not mean that those hardest hit are through with their readjustment, or that any one can relax.

It means, if expectations are borne out, that the coming year will see a gradual turn, apparently already under way, from 1954's downward tendencies.

In the opinion of many, the year may lay the foundation for a fresh advance based on a generally improved world trade situation and a dynamic and expanding Canada.

STRENGTH IN EUROPE

In a broad Free-World sense, perhaps the year's most significant development was the strength of the British and most European economies, which seemed to disregard the North American setback, something they could not have done a short time ago.

Perhaps equally significant are growing indications that the United States will not revert to any generally high tariff policy. Though such a reversion has seemed impossible all along in today's world, American protectionist tendencies have disturbed Canadians.

It is probably too much to hope that the United States will immediately take the sort of bold leadership in freeing world trade which Canada and other countries would like to see, but on current indications, it can be hoped that she will move slowly in what we consider the right direction, even if with some lapses.

HIGH CONSUMER SPENDING

The most striking feature of the Canadian economy was the manner in which the average Canadian disregarded recession talk and continued to buy. This continued consumer spending is credited in large measure with cushioning Canada against recession.

Particularly noteworthy in yearend statements are indications that even those parts of the economy which suffered most, and even those which will likely continue to suffer, feel that any change is likely to be upward.

For textiles, the hardest hit industry, G. E. Woodward, president of the Primary Textiles Institute, sees a current "modest upswing," and adds that apparently the industry will operate in an unfavorable economic climate for some time.

EXPORT OPPORTUNITIES

For exporters, who saw sales slowed down from the record of the year, I. E. Lenard, president of the Canadian Export Association, says all indications point to increased opportunities—we hope for fewer restrictions, liberalized import quotas and a healthy demand for a great variety of Canadian products.

Perhaps the most resounding "happy new year" is given by Canada's resources development, actual or planned.

Two gigantic developments came into production in 1954, Aluminum Company of Canada's aluminum development at Kitimat in British Columbia's wilderness — $250,000,000 in its present phase; and Iron Ore Company of Canada's iron ore development in the heart of New Quebec and Labrador—$250,000,000.

Sherritt Gordon Mines' new mine at Lynn Lake, Man., including a nickel refinery at Fort Saskatchewan, Alta., also is underway at a cost of nearly $50,000,000.

The long-awaited St. Lawrence seaway and power project became a reality with its impact on the economy yet to come.

A $100,000,000 natural-gas pipeline from the Peace River area of Alberta and British Columbia to the Pacific coast seems assured.

CHANGING FRONTIERS

Backers of a $300,000,000 natural-gas line from Alberta to eastern Canada, running through northern Ontario, remained confident that it would become a fact, despite delays.

G. Gerald Godsoe, vice-president of British American Oil Company, predicted that western oil would, through extension of the lines, find a new large market in the Montreal refining area before too long. The northern frontier continued to be pushed back, assisted by uranium developments in Saskatchewan and Ontario, and other minerals across virtually the whole country.

Enraged Father Kicks Over Stove, 5 Children Die

Scuffle With Father-in-Law Touches Off Tragic Blaze

Four Children Burned to Death In Quebec Town

ST. ELZEAR, Que. (CP)—Four children were burned to death in their two-storey frame home today while their mother was making a telephone call from a neighbor's house only 50 feet away.

The victims, children of Mr. and Mrs. Yvon Vachon, were Remi, 5, Lucille, 4, Rene, 3, and Pauline, 2. They died while trapped on the second floor. A neighbor, Paul-Auguste Gagnon, climbed through a window to rescue three-month-old Gaetan, lying in his crib in the downstairs room.

Rev. Joseph Labbe, parish priest in this Beauce county village, said a short circuit was believed to have started the fire. The house was destroyed.

FATHER AWAY

The parents and their 27-year-old mother noticed the flames leaping from the home as she completed a telephone call. She ran frantically to her home and stood helplessly by while the flames blocked rescue attempts.

Her husband delivers bread for a St. Elzear bakery and he was at Leeds, 30 miles away, at the time.

Bodies of the four children were recovered two hours after the fire started.

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP)—An enraged father was accused of kicking over an oil heater during a family quarrel Monday night, touching off a fire that killed five children—three of them his own—and critically burned his wife.

Police said Eugene Pierce, 29, deliberately overturned the stove in a scuffle with his father-in-law, L. C. Valentine, 44.

Pierce is under police guard in hospital, held for investigation of manslaughter. He suffered a burn on the arm and lacerations in escaping through a window of the flaming home.

VICTIMS TRAPPED

Two other adults and three children also were injured.

Valentine said Pierce, who was estranged from his wife, entered the house brandishing a knife. He said he subdued Pierce by smashing him on the head with the butt of a shotgun.

Pierce fled into another room, jumping over the oil heater, police said. Flames raced through the house, trapping the five victims who were playing upstairs.

Police were forced to handcuff Valentine to keep him from dashing back into the building in an attempt to rescue his children.

May Change Method of Paying Gold Subsidies

OTTAWA (CP)—The government plans to renew subsidies to Canada's gold mines, but may change the basis of payment to reduce the over-all cost.

A full cabinet meeting, called for 10:30 a.m. EST today, will likely consider legislation extending the present setup. This would be brought before the new session of Parliament opening Feb. 3, officials said.

The meeting, headed by Prime Minister St. Laurent, may also consider a variety of appointments, including appointments to the Senate, and last - minute changes in the government's legislative program.

Few announcements are likely immediately after the cabinet meeting. With the opening of Parliament only days away, announcements may be held until then. The government's legislative program will be outlined in the throne speech to be read at the opening by governor-general Massey.

Renewal of federal subsidies to gold mines has been under Ottawa scrutiny for several weeks. The present subsidy, Dec. 31, 1954, would have agreed that the aid should be renewed, but with a reduction in the rate. Costs at a time when the federal budget is facing the possibility this year of its first annual war deficit.

The subsidy cost in 1954, for example, is estimated to rise to about $18,000,000 from 14,900,000 in 1953. This would bring total federal outlays to the industry to more than $100,000,000 since the subsidy plan began in 1948.

But mine operators still face the same difficulties at when the plan began: While production costs have risen, their selling price has been fixed, officially at $35 an ounce (U.S. funds), which equals to the U.S. world's main buyer, to increase the price, have failed.

The cost - price squeeze has threatened to make ghost towns out of many gold-mining communities. Only mines that sell gold to the government and do not export to the non-dollar world from markets are eligible for federal aid.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Colder air sweeping across southern Ontario will dominate the weather across the province today and Wednesday. A developing storm in Nevada is expected to move northeast and produce snow over the lower Great Lakes late Wednesday.

Defence Spending Appears Headed For 3-Year Low

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence spending appears headed for its lowest point in three years.

The main reason given Monday by informants were that defence equipment was slower coming off production lines at the beginning of the year and that last summer's poor weather began slowing construction on such projects as the army's big new Camp Gagetown, N.B.

The defence department spent $533,787,000 from April 1 to Nov. 30 last year. In the four months left before the first year ends March 31, spending is expected to amount to some $1,746,900,000, about $180,000,000 less than the $1,-906,000,000 appropriated for defence in the last session of Parliament.

The decline would bring it below the $1,882,000,000 spent in the fiscal year 1952-53 and the $1,805,000,-000 in 1953-54. Defence estimates for the current year are to be expected to be the same as, or possibly lower than, for the current year.

It is certain, informants said, that there will be no big cuts in defence estimates. Only a reduction in the rate of the present level would bring that about and no such reduction is planned.

Professors Replace Judges As Arbitrators

TORONTO (CP) — University professors are to take over some labor disputes formerly left to conciliation board chairmanships from Ontario judges, Labor Minister Daley of Ontario said today.

He denied published reports there is a "strike" of judges against further arbitration work.

U.S. Bans Russians Visiting Moscow In Michigan and in Idaho, That Is

MOSCOW, Mich. (AP). — The Muscovites here have mixed reactions on the United States government's decision to close their namesake town in Russia.

Moscow, Mich., is one of 37 counties in Michigan included in areas closed to travel by Soviet citizens in the U.S. The state department announced the move Monday as a retaliatory measure against Moscow—Moscow, Russia, that is.

(Another American Moscow—in Idaho—also is out of bounds for the Russians. But they are free to travel in still another—Moscow, Ohio.)

Michigan's Moscow, which hasn't even a family of Russian ancestry, has 200-plus residents.

And each has an opinion.

Harold Horton, 41, a farmer, commented: "It's a free country.

"If they don't want us travelling through Russia, maybe we should keep them out of here," he said.

Wynn Richards, an insurance man, put it this way:

"We don't want any part of Russia—outside of the name of Moscow. And if restricting the Russians is the only way to okay with like Eisenhower it's okay with me."

To Fred Klee, owner of the store, it "doesn't make any difference."

REPORTS SAY ROAD MINISTER TO RESIGN POST

Claim Doucett Will Be Succeeded by Allan

TORONTO (CP)—Highways Minister Doucett of Ontario, recently returned from the United States where he was convalescing after a severe illness, was reported Monday to have given his resignation to Premier Frost.

At the same time it was reported in government circles that the next highways minister will likely be Gordon Conant, K.C., M.P., Allan, Progressive Conservative member of the Ontario legislature for Halkamand-Norfolk.

Neither Mr. Frost nor Mr. Doucett could be reached Monday night for comment and there was no official word from Queen's Park.

Mr. Doucett's resignation is said to have followed several meetings with Premier Frost and Harry Nixon, secretary of the Ontario Progressive Conservative party. Mr. Robbins declined comment.

ILL HEALTH

It was reported that in his letter to the premier, Mr. Doucett blamed his recent ill health with his acceptance of technical responsibility for irregularities uncovered in his department last year.

The discovery of highway contract irregularities led to demands at that time for his resignation. However, he told friends he was not responsible for the irregularities and would not resign because of them.

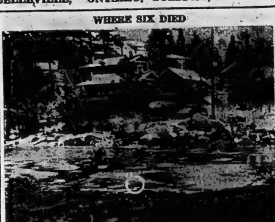
It was reported Mr. Doucett, PC member of the legislature for Lanark since 1937 and highways minister since 1943, would vacate his post this week. Mr. Allan, a legislature member for four years, is a personal friend of Mr. Doucett.

Mr. Allan's home is in Dunnville, 19 miles southwest of Welland. He is president of the Dunnville Dairy and was first elected to the legislature in 1951.

Last year he was chairman of a special legislature committee which investigated the operations of garden-type amusements on the Toronto Island. In 1944 he was president of the Ontario Good Roads Association and now is a life member.

Japan's H-Bomb Victims Will Get Two Million

TOKYO (Reuters)—The Japanese foreign ministry announced today that Japan has agreed to accept a total lump-sum offer of $2,000,000 compensation for injuries and losses suffered by Japanese fishermen as a result of an American hydrogen bomb test at Bikini last year.



Japan formally agreed to accept the amount though the first Japanese claim had reported to be $6,-000,000.

One fisherman has died and 23 remain victims of radioactive poisoning. They were the crew of the fishing boat Lucky Dragon which was caught in the Bikini "fallout" and returned home seriously ill.

Hundreds of thousands of pounds of fish were ruled unfit for human consumption and destroyed in the weeks following the blast.

LIKES INDEPENDENCE

Two of the six persons drowned in the Lake of the Woods are Mr. and Mrs. James Cameron. They leave two daughters, Hollie, six months, and Heather, six years.—Central Press Canadian.

Open Hunt for Tax Evaders Among Physicians, Lawyers

TORONTO (CP) — The Telegram says a concentrated hunt for income tax evaders or defaulters among Toronto professional men, particularly physicians and lawyers, is under way.

A large squad of special investigators of the department of internal revenue, many of them brought from outside the city, has been given the job. The investigators are working in co-operation with the Toronto office of taxation, amid great secrecy.

The amount of unpaid taxes they hope to ferret out may run into millions of dollars, the paper says.

"Because of the extremely confidential nature of all income tax investigations, there will be no confirmation of this report, but it is known that the investigators mentioned already moved into some professional offices."

MOVE INTO OFFICES

In the past, a check of the income tax returns of professional men has been held largely to what is called "office audits"—an operation done within the income tax office itself. Now, however, the investigators are moving into the doctor's or lawyer's offices, demanding his cash books, receipts, appointment books, patients' or clients' cards.

Added to that, the investigators are going through scores of returns, withdrawing medical or legal receipts filing them under the individual doctor or lawyer and then comparing the total with the doctor's or lawyer's return.

Coupled with this hunt for evaders, the paper says comes word of the suspension or dismissal of one of Toronto's top income tax inspectors who had been with the department for more than 25 years. He was not identified.

KITCHENER (CP) — Hockey fans leave two and a half tons of garbage behind them after every hockey game at the Kitchener Auditorium, Mr. Bob Crosby, manager, told Rotarians here Monday.

GLOBE AND MAIL WILL BE OFFERED FOR SALE JAN. 10

McCullagh Estate Holds Majority Interest

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail, Canada's largest morning newspaper, will be offered for sale Jan. 10, it was announced Monday night.

The Chartered Trust Co., co-executor of the estates of the late George McCullagh and William H. Wright, announced the intention of the estate's executors to offer the newspaper for sale.

H. E. Langford, general manager of the trust company, said that the two estates hold all of the stock of the Globe Printing Co., which publishes the paper, and the industrial areas of Hamilton, 20 miles to the southwest, and Toronto, 30 miles to the east.

BRING WORKERS IN

Prospectuses of the project are Million (Canada) Industrial Developments Ltd., said that Campbell is a member of the citizenship and immigration panel of the Chamber of Commerce.

He said the promoters have been working with the British military council to draw up plans for bringing British skilled labor into the country.

Under the plan, skilled workers would leave their companies in Britain and come to the Canadian branch factory at Milton. There, he says and jobs would be waiting for them.

"This scheme would induce a better calibre of worker to come to Canada," Mr. Campbell said. "As the industries grow, they will create jobs for Canadian workers too."

START THIS YEAR

He said the first 500 houses are expected to be started this year and the other 1,000 to be completed by 1957. British construction companies are to do the building. They are the George Wimpey Company, the William Sheffield Company and Simms, Son and Cooke.

Development company officials did not say which British firms would build here but indicated that in addition to the British companies, several European firms, mostly German, were interested.

Commits Suicide In Toronto Cemetery

TORONTO (CP)—A 26-year-old man was dead, shot by his tombstone here Monday, kneeling as if in prayer.

A rifle was gripped in the man's left hand.

Assistant coroner Dr. Julian Loudon pronounced John Evans dead by self-inflicted gunshot wounds.

Two Scottish Lassies Heave Coke Through Window of 10 Downing St.

LONDON (CP —Two girls with a record of window smashing in their native Scotland admitted in court today they heaved pieces of coke through a pane of glass at 10 Downing St., Prime Minister Churchill's official residence.

Churchill was there during the incident Monday night, but was not near the shattered window.

The pattern was repeated in the evening but following the two-hour session company officials left the room on the heels of union officers. They were half smiles as they announced resumption of talks for today.

One report was that negotiations so far have been centred on seniority. Other points to be settled were wage increases, hours of work, hospital-care payments by the company and a province-wide bargaining agreement.

Ford and Union Negotiators Plan Another Meeting

TORONTO (CP)—Ford of Canada and United Automobile Workers (CIO - CCL) representatives were to go behind closed doors again today for the fifth of a series of talks aimed at settlement of the strike of three Ford plants.

Company and union officials completed more than 20 hours' negotiations when they adjourned discussions Monday night.

Monday's sessions, in the afternoon and evening, followed a weekend holiday recess. There was no indication what topics had been discussed nor whether progress had been made.

However, negotiators said they would meet again today. At the start of talks last week they said it had been agreed there would be no recess period until some conclusion had been reached.

A five-man union negotiating team entered a downtown hotel suite shortly after 2 p.m. where company officials had already gathered.

TWO-HOUR SESSION

The union's representatives emerged three hours later and quickly departed for rooms in other parts of the building.

Dozen British Firms Will Build Plants At Milton

Will Erect 1,500 New Homes, Triple Population of Town

MILTON, Ont. (CP—A plan to triple the population of this town of 2,200 in 10 years with a huge industry - sponsored immigration scheme was outlined to the town council Monday night.

Robert Campbell of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce told councillors a dozen British manufacturers are preparing to build factories and 1,500 homes for workers on a 1,100-acre townsite just south of Milton.

The factories would be close to two railway lines and the Queen Elizabeth way and to the industrial areas of Hamilton, 20 miles to the southwest, and Toronto, 30 miles to the east.

Preparations for the project are Million (Canada) Industrial Developments Ltd., said Mr. Campbell is a member of the citizenship and immigration panel of the Chamber of Commerce.

He said the promoters have been working with the British military council to draw up plans for bringing British skilled labor into the country.

Alfred Wickett Elected Deputy Reeve of Thurlow

Alfred Wickett of Foxboro, member of the township council for the past two years, was elected deputy reeve of Thurlow in Monday's election, which saw only approximately 35 per cent of the eligible voters cast their ballots.

Mr. Wickett defeated William Wessells by a comfortable margin, polling 1217 votes against 333 for his opponent. Cecil Ketcheson, last year's deputy reeve, was elected acclamation for the reeveship.

Township councillors for 1955 are Frank Benton who headed the list of councillors with a vote of 1,550; Harry Pound with 812 and Robert Hopwood-Jones with 675. Ward 1 councillor Ernest Howard with 549 and Ed. Burch with 346. Last year's councillors Ernest Howard and Harry Pound and Alf. Wickett.

Consumer Price Index Drops Fifth of Point

OTTAWA (CP)—The consumer price index dropped one-fifth of a point during November to 116.6 from 116.8 as lower food prices countered the impact of higher rents on living costs.

This is the first change in the yardstick, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, since last August. It remained unchanged in September and October, the longest continuous period of stability in nine years.

In November a drop of 10 cents a dozen in egg prices, along with lower prices for coffee, citrus fruits and all beef cuts offset higher prices for tea, butter, canned fruits and vegetables and fresh vegetables to reduce the food sub-index and cut over-all living costs.

RENTS RISE

Rents and home-ownership costs rose to new heights. It was these two items—foods and shelter costs that predominated in November's price tussle. Other segments of living costs showed little or no change.

The November index was 115.6 a year ago. The all-time high was 118.2 reached in December, 1951.

The shelter column rose by three-tenths of a point to a new high of 128.2. A few scattered decreases in clothing reduced that column by one-tenth of a point to 108.1. The household operations index dropped by a similar fraction to 117.1 under the influence of some declines in home furnishings.

The miscellaneous group, other commodities and services, remained unchanged at the peak of 118.2 set in the previous month.

Pope Fatigued By Overwork

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Pius, whose delayed Christmas message to the world was released Monday, was reported today to be somewhat fatigued by overwork.

A source close to the 78-year-old Roman Catholic Church said, however, that the slow, gradual improvement in the pontiff's condition continues.

One of the present indefinites to the Pope's faster and fuller recovery is his insistence upon continuing the administrative program of work, this source said.

His 16th Christmas message to the world, a plea for peace, was about 7,000 words long and was read in the usual seven languages.

Preparations now is preparing another message for radio delivery or release for publication soon, the source said. Subject matter of the new message was not revealed.

Mayor and Council Guests Of Rotarians on 'Civic Day'

Headed by Mayor Both, members of the council were guests of the Belleville Rotary club at the club's traditional "Civic Day" meeting in the Hotel Quinte yesterday.

Symbasis was lent the occasion by a special address from A. T. Butler, representative of the department of municipal affairs, Toronto. Mr. Butler spoke on the function of his department in relation to Ontario's civic governments.

The presence of aldermen Mrs. Jane Forrester and Mrs. Effie McCabe almost turned the affair into a Ladies' Day. Seated at the head table both councillors were focal points for many congratulatory remarks from almost every speaker at the meeting. At the conclusion of lunch they were presented with orchids by Rotarian Frank Murray on behalf of the club.

Mayor Both made a brief speech, thanking the club for their invitation to the council, remarking that councillors he said they would try to work for the betterment of Belleville in the coming year and trusted councils would be given the same assistance it had received in the past year.

Mr. Butler represented municipal affairs minister, George H. Dunbar, unable to be present at the meeting due to other business.

He prefaced his remarks by congratulating Mayor Both on his "fine standing" in the recent civic election and Mrs. Forrester for the records she set in the election.

ORIGIN BACK IN THIRTIES

Backgrounding his department to the meeting Mr. Butler explained it had its origin in the nineteen-thirties when some 39 municipalities existed in payment of their contracted debts. They were legislated under the supervision of the Municipal Board. This was followed in 1935 by the establishment of the municipal affairs department.

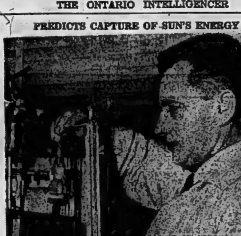
Explaining the present department organization of the department, Mr. Butler stated that the department is entrusted with the administration of the majority of municipal acts relating to municipal matters "with the result that virtually every phase of municipal administration is referred to the department from time to time by municipal officials."

Advice and guidance are furnished by the department and this assistance is often of a "technical and extended nature," particularly when pertaining to larger municipalities, he added.

The department's functions were extensive for while there are not the financial problems of the nineteen-thirties existing "new administrative and financial matters occur," Mr. Butler pointed out.

The department also is responsible for paying out grants to the municipalities. Most recent act passed by the province in this regard is the Municipal Unconditional Grants. Under this the province assists municipalities in welfare and the administration of justice, among other services, which in 1954 will amount to approximately $11,700,000.

NOT POLICING DEPT.



Mr. Butler concluded by stressing that the department was not created for "policing" activities of the municipalities. Such a function is entirely the responsibility of the municipality.

However the people have recourse to the courts to stop any activities by municipal councils in violation of statutes and regulations.

Mr. Butler concluded by stressing the necessity of co-operation between the municipalities and the communities government.

Rotary duty does not end with the casting of a vote. Everyone should be on municipal duty 365 days in the year.

Mr. Butler was thanked by Court Miller.

PREDICTS CAPTURE OF SUN'S ENERGY

Dr. Daniel I. Arnon, University of California scientist, is shown in his laboratory after he told a section of the American Association for the Advancement of Science in Berkeley that man is on the way to harnessing the sun's energy. The recent report concerned his discovery of the production of photosynthesis outside living cells. This is regarded as a major step toward bringing the sun down to earth.—Central Press Canadian.

Fortune Found On Mussolini After Slaying

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional committee published Monday a dark and dagger story relating that the slayers of Mussolini found on him a fortune in cash, gold and jewels which they turned over to the Italian Communist party.

The story was told in testimony given Monday to the special House of Representatives committee on Communist aggression by Lloyd Setzle, a former high official in the Polish security ministry who fled to the West. The transcript was issued Monday.

Swiatlo's account centres on Enzo Castiglione, whom he described as an Italian Communist who had three men detailed by the party in Italy to kill Mussolini when the erstwhile dictator was on the run after the Allies took Italy.

Swiatlo said Castiglione and one companion survived the capture and killing of Mussolini and that they found the whole of the treasure itinerary, consisting of cash, gold and jewels."

Two Women, Once Husband And Wife, Fight Lawsuit

MANNHEIM, Germany (Reuters)—Two women who were once husband and wife and had two sons fight a lawsuit here today.

One of the women, Mrs. Elisabeth Gickelditer wants the judges to ban publication of an autobiography being written by the other, her former husband, who started a sex change six years after their marriage.

Mrs. Gickelditer says the autobiography would trespass on her privacy and has obtained an injunction to prevent the West German press from writing about her until the case has made a decision. She wants the autobiography banned.

The former husband, now a womanly figure of 37, officially recognized as Mrs. Herda Elisabeth Wind, was once Adolf Wind, a brawny, able-bodied seaman in the First World War.

He marrie Frau Gickelelter after the war. He says he was a happy, normal husband until the winter of 1952. Then at the age of 31, he had a severe attack of sciatica. He was paralyzed for months, and began to see the world "through a woman's eyes." Doctors advised him to have a series of operations which completed his change into a woman. Her children learned to call their father "auntie."

Mrs. Gickelelter, who has reverted to her maiden name, divorced Frau Wind in 1947. She says she was always opposed to "his" operations—she still speaks of "him"—but did not get a divorce earlier because she thought he would die anyway, and she wanted to be eligible for the pension he gets from the chemical works where he was employed.

Works Dept. Will Pick Up Christmas Trees

Employees of the city public works department will be in the final act of the Christmas season now all but forgotten by the majority of city residents.

City Engineer Charles Mott said today that a department truck will pick up discarded Christmas trees starting late this week.

"Get your Christmas trees out not later than this week-end and a public works truck will pick them up this week-end or next week," said the engineer.

At the same time the engineer noted that residents can secure free sand by calling the city yard at 1178. The sand truck will then call and fill the resident's sand box.

Foxboro Cubs, Scouts Hold Parents' Night

"Parents' Night" was recently observed by the Foxboro Cubs and Scouts, under the leadership of Cubmaster Jim Churchill and Scoutmaster Harry Ashton.

Quite a number of parents availed themselves of the opportunity to see a little of what the boys are learning and to learn a little of the life of a Cub and Scout, under these two capable leaders, who give freely of their energy so freely and willingly.

Several of the Cubs received some of their badges for having passed their tests in some of their work. Others of the Cubs also received their second year star. David Skinner had the distinction of being the first Foxboro Cub to receive his second star, thus being the first Foxboro Cub to "have both of his eyes open."

Following the ceremony of presenting the badges to the Cubs, who had earned them, Raymond Stephens and David Skinner were promoted from Cubs to Scouts. Earl Shorey was inducted as assistant Scoutmaster by Scoutmaster Ashton.

Refreshments were served after all ceremonies were completed and a delightful social time was enjoyed.

Much credit is due both Mr. Churchill and Mr. Ashton also Earl Shorey, for the work they are doing for and with the boys.

R. D. Arnott Assumes Post Of Crown Attorney

Recently appointed as crown attorney for Hastings county, Richard D. Arnott, Q.C., made his first appearance today in his new capacity in city magistrate's court. Mr. Arnott succeeds Lt.-Col. R. C. Dennison, as crown attorney.

Two Point Anne youths were given a year's suspended sentence and were assessed $21 costs each in connection with a break-in at the local Brewers' Warehouse and the theft of beer. The two local youths was charged with breaking and entering the warehouse and the other with being in possession.

Clinton Badgley, 24, Pinnacle Street, pleaded guilty to being in possession of stolen goods taken from a parked car owned by a Flinton couple and was given a month in jail. The offence took place shortly before Christmas.

Della Adams, Moira Street West, was sentenced to two months in jail following conviction on a charge of being in possession of a coat stolen from the local J. Ezino Co. store.

The morning court was before Magistrate T. V. Wills.

Council Accepts Dinner Invitation

The next regular meeting of city council originally scheduled for Monday, January 17, will be held the following night in order that council members may attend a special dinner meeting of the Belleville Business and Professional Women.

This was decided Monday at the inaugural meeting of council when an invitation from the above club was read inviting council members to their dinner meeting.

Mayor Both asked that the invitation not be accepted as the date was the regular meeting of council, while the city clerk noted that a council meeting could not be postponed without meeting on the regular date and then adjourning to a later date.

On recommendation of Alderman Tice, who declared that the Business and Professional Women's club should be treated in the same way as the Rotary, Kiwanis, and Gyro clubs, council voted almost unanimously to meet at the regular time on January 17, then adjourn to attend the dinner and hold the council meeting the following night.

Hon. Earl Rowe Acting Leader Of Conservatives

OTTAWA (CP)—Hon. W. Earl Rowe, a former member of the late prime minister Bennett's 1930-35 cabinet, will be acting leader of the opposition during the first two or three weeks of the new session of Parliament opening Jan. 7.

A statement issued by Progressive Conservative party headquarters Monday said Mr. Rowe will be acting leader until Hon. George Drew is well enough to return to his parliamentary duties. Mr. Rowe is deputy opposition leader.

The statement said Mr. Drew is making a complete recovery from a stroke suffered last July but has been ordered by his physician, Dr. H. T. C. Stoney, to take a short additional rest. This will prevent him from attending the parliamentary session.

A party spokesman said Dr. Whitney could not indicate when the opposition leader will return to his Commons seat. However he is expected to return at least the first three weeks of the session.

New York Central's Main Line Re-Opened

UTICA, N.Y. (AP)—Three of four tracks on the New York Central Railroad's main line were back in service today following a freight derailment. Passenger service was gear normal.

Railroad officials said the fourth track would be opened some time today.

The main line was blocked Sunday night when 18 cars of a 123-car eastbound freight jumped the tracks at Oriskany, seven miles west of here. The railroad blamed a hotbox on a coal car for the mishap. No one was hurt.

Traffic was re-routed over the Central's west shore division but passenger trains, including two several running between Toronto and New York, were delayed as much as three hours.

Merchant Navy Subsidy Proposal To Be Made Again

OTTAWA (CP)—Means to buy up Canada's ailing deep-sea merchant navy will soon be given renewed study by cabinet ministers.

The deep-water fleet of dry cargo vessels under Canadian registry shrank during 1954 to about half its 1953 size, and indications said Monday the issue will be debated in the Commons early in the parliamentary session opening Friday.

The Canadian Shipowners' Association claims the cabinet almost a year ago that operators could not pit the high-wage Canadian vessels against low-wage ships such as those from the United Kingdom and Japan, for example.

The government refused to revive a subsidy it had tried in 1946 at a cost of $3,000,000, but got Britain to accept registry of some vessels in their mixed crews, ranked second only to those of United States merchant ships.

DISTRICT TRADE

With 21 ships either transferred to British registry or sold last year, the Canadian-flag fleet was cut to half its 1953 size, and more than 100 already had been accepted into U.K. registry in 1950.

Now, shipowners arguing it is necessary to protect Canadian trade and keep a trained nucleus of seamen for emergency requirements, are again pressing for some sort of subsidy to get substantial and modern Canadian-flag fleet.

It is estimated a subsidy of something under $5,000,000 a year would be necessary to operate the 40 or more modern dry cargo vessels proceeds from the old Canadian fleet of about 120 ships. Including those on U.K. 'registry, would buy.

$500,000 Fire Loss

HALIFAX (CP)—A three-alarm fire early today destroyed a two-storey brick building housing three companies. Damage was estimated at $500,000.

One fireman was slightly injured as ties of paint and varnish ignited. All electrical service was cut in the area and firemen said there was danger of an explosion. Oil material lying in the smouldering ruins.

First reports said the fire started when the furnace exploded."

Publicity Drive For Recruiting Teachers Staged

TORONTO (CP) — A publicity campaign aimed at recruiting teachers is being conducted across Canada.

The campaign is outlined in the current issue of Canadian Education, official publication of the Canadian Education Association.

Reports from across the country show departments of education and parent and teacher organizations are using every all medium of communication to attract more male and female teachers.

Here are some of the methods used:

The department of education in British Columbia has established future teachers' clubs in all high schools.

Alberta's department of education sponsors Career Nights when department representatives speak to interested students.

In Saskatchewan, booklets dealing to sell the teaching profession as a career to high school graduates are circulated.

Other methods include placement of articles by departments of education in weekly newspapers and radio programs and talks.

Says Truckers Holding Own In Rate War

OTTAWA (CP) — The trucking industry is holding its own substantially in a rate war in which the railways are setting the pace, a trucking chief spokesman said today.

President William C. Morris of Canadian Trucking Associations, organization of over-the-road transport firms, said in a year-end review the industry made general progress during 1954 though its freight traffic was down slightly.

Mohammed Ali May Visit Canada After Conference

KARACHI (AP)—Prime Minister Mohammed Ali is likely to visit Ottawa during the course of a commonwealth prime minister's conference in London, official sources hinted Monday.

Ali was scheduled to go to Canada last October but had to cancel his plans and fly home from his United States visit due to a political crisis in Pakistan.

Ali had been officially invited to make the visit by the Canadian prime minister when the latter was in Pakistan last year.

Mrs. G. Gothard Celebrates 85th Birthday

TRENTON (Special) — Mrs. Gertrude Gothard, of Trenton, received many lovely gifts and messages of congratulations on the occasion of her 85th birthday last week. During the day a host of friends called to extend best wishes and visit. Mrs. Gothard lives with her daughter, Mrs. W. T. Burden, 134 Henry Street.

NEW STEWARD

Harry Bailey, of Brantford and Brighton, has been appointed steward of the Trenton Golf and Country Club, a position formerly held by M. J. Auger.

BIG PICKEREL CAUGHT

Volunteer fireman Jim Thompson and Lamble Potts have plenty to talk about today. They caught a pickerel weighing between six and seven pounds through the ice earlier in the week.

Shanty fishermen have no complaints to date, the catches have been small but consistent.

AWARD COMMISSIONS

Three Airforce officers from Trenton have been awarded permanent commissions in the RCAF according to word from Ottawa. All veterans from World War II, accepted are the permanent forces are: F.O Alan Vanderwater, Trenton; F.O Greg Panasis and F/L Glen Rawson, Trenton, the latter receiving his promotion to Flight Lieutenant at the same time. F/O Panasis and family are stationed at Rockcliffe.

Storm Moving Away from U.S.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A small storm, with winds slightly below hurricane strength, continued to move across the open Caribbean sea today 225 miles or more south of San Juan, Puerto Rico.

An advisory early today said the hurricane has winds of 60 to 70 miles an hour near its small centre and gale winds extend out 60 miles.

Its continued slow movement to the southwest is carrying it away from the continental United States.

Say Paid Killers Slew Panama's President

PANAMA CITY (AP)—Authorities pressed a search today for a band of unidentified professional killers accused of assassinating Panama's president Jose Antonio Remon at the instigation of his political enemies.

The "guns for hire" charge was made by government minister Calixto Arrecha Graell in a funeral oration late Monday over the body of the slain president, hearse followed down by machine-gun fire at a race track Sunday night.

"Mercenary hands armed by his political enemies" fired the bullets, Arrecha declared.

There is no clue to the identity of the assassins. The National Assembly has decreed a 30-day state of siege—a modified form of martial law temporarily suspending some constitutional guarantees —to aid secret police in their hunt.

At least a score of persons, including ex-president Arnulfo Arias and two women, have been rounded up for questioning.

Three Whitby District Men Plead Guilty

WHITBY (CP) — Three district men today pleaded guilty to a charge of armed robbery of a combined grocery store and post office at Priceville, near Port Perry.

They were remanded to Jan. 11 for sentence.

The crown withdrew a charge of assaulting post mistress Mrs. Letta Poupe, wife of the store proprietor.

Arrested were John Arnold Bodell, 22, John Edward McDonald, 21, and Kenneth James McDonald, 18, truck driver, all of the Hampton area in this district.

They were arrested shortly after three masked men, carrying at least one loaded gun, robbed the store of about $22 Dec. 23. Police later recovered the money and reported finding the getaway car, masks and clothing they said were used by the bandits.

Police said that, at the time of the robbery, John McDonald was home on holiday from Renfrew where he works as a mail clerk.

Gleason Will Get 5 Million More By New Contract

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Post today says Jackie Gleason, rotund TV comedian, has signed a new CBS contract, supplementing his $11,000,000 deal with Buick, that will yield almost $5,000,000 to his foreseeable income.

Columbia Broadcasting System officials had no comment, and a spokesman at Gleason's office said the comedian is in California and will not return until next week.

The Post says the largest chunk of the $5,000,000—$1,560,000 —will be paid to Jackie Gleason Enterprises, Inc., to produce a Saturday night show in 1955-1956 starring Tommy and Jimmy Dorsey and the June Taylor Dancers. Gleason would get another $1,560,000 if the show is renewed for 1956-1957.

The Post says there also is a guarantee to Gleason of $100,000 a year for 15 years for pledging CBS his exclusive services between 1957 and 1972, and that he gets this whether he works or not.

Workmen Clear Passage Through Suez Canal

PORT SAID (AP)—A long line of ships moved through the Suez canal today after workmen had cleared away the wreckage of a ship-bridge collision that blocked the strategic waterway four days.

A thick fog lifted early this morning, and 69 ships backed up here sailed southward through the canal. Another 34 ships waited to move northward from the Bitter lakes, near the canal's southern entrance.

The canal was blocked last Friday when the Greek-owned tanker World Peace smashed into an army of a swing bridge carrying a railroad across the waterway 50 miles south of Port Said.

TO PETAWAWA

England, Wales Blanketed By Heavy Snow

LONDON (AP)—Southern England and Wales were blanketed today with the first heavy snow of the season in the wake of a new year's cold wave.

Devon got more than two feet of slicky snow and Dartmouth was isolated from neighboring towns. Cross-country trains were delayed and motorists found the going treacherous. Temperatures were near freezing.

In some parts of Britain stiff winds accompanied the wintry spell. Gusts of up to 65 miles an hour were recorded in the Manchester region.

LEAVES RUNWAY

At Shannon airport in Ireland the Canadian Overseas Airways Stratecruiser due to fly Princess Margaret to Bermuda next month, was blown off a runway while making a practice landing Monday night. No one was injured and there was no apparent damage.

Two thousand residents in the South Wales villages of Pentwyn and Pochriew were left without electricity when high wind snapped 150-sheathed wires.

Much of western Europe was dusted with light snow as temperatures dipped below freezing.

Father Rescues Three Children

TORONTO (CP)—Donald Deane today rescued his three small children by crawling on his hands and knees through smoke and flame at his burning home in suburban Lakeview.

Mr. Dean said he was awakened by the sound of an explosion which he believed was a light bulb bursting. He found the house full of smoke and ran to the children's bedroom.

He tried to get into the children's bedroom but was forced back by intense heat.

Dropping to his knees, he crawled into the bedroom and gathered up the children—Ian, 5, Elizabeth, 4, and Brian, three—and rushed outside. He then returned and assisted his wife, who was partly overcome by smoke.

Fire chief Jack Braithwaite said the fire destroyed the kitchen and utility room. Preliminary investigation showed an overheated stove caused the fire, he added.

Five Dismissed By Westinghouse

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Westinghouse Electric Corp. today "replaced" five men and one woman from the rolls of its East Pittsburgh plant because they are "undesirable employees."

The action came only a few hours after the five had been named as Communists at a hearing Monday of Senator Joseph McCarthy's investigating committee in Washington.

Robert L. Gray, industrial relations manager for Westinghouse, declared:

"These five are undesirable employees whose activities have brought discredit upon Westinghouse and its thousands of loyal employees."

Lipari Citizens, Fearing Quakes, Sleep in Open

MESSINA, Sicily (AP) — Hundreds of Lipari islanders slept in the open again Monday night, chased from their homes by new earthquakes.

Authorities in Sicily said there were no reports of damage or of casualties. Communication with the islands are sparse at all times.

The quakes started Dec. 27 in the islands 15 miles off Sicily's north coast. In the next three days 73 separate earth shocks were felt, damaging several homes but causing no casualties.

Monday many of the 1,200 islanders who had fled to the Sicilian mainland had returned and were settling again in their homes when new tremors shook the earth. The undulating quakes continued from noon until sundown.

The villagers again left their homes and took to the hills, mindful of a legend that earthquakes one day will cause the islands to sink into the sea.

LEAVE FOR U.K.

MONTREAL (CP) — Eighty Royal Canadian Navy men left here by plane for the United Kingdom Sunday for submarine training. The men, from across Canada, are part of a group of 200 Canadians who have been slated for training in Britain with the Royal Navy.

PIONEER DIES

SIMCOE (CP)—James R. Forbes 70, a pioneer in the telephone industry in Ontario, died in hospital here Monday. Born in Seaforth, he joined the Bell Telephone Company at Petrolia in 1901 and engaged in telephone construction work in Ontario and the United States. He became manager of the Norfolk county telephone exchange in 1914 which was later incorporated into the Bell Telephone Company. He retired in 1938.

United Nations Envoy Arrives At Canton

TOKYO (AP) — Secretary-general Dag Hammarskjold of the United Nations arrived in Canton today by special plane on his mission to Red China to attempt to arrange for the release of 11 American airmen and other UN personnel.

This was announced by Peiping radio in a brief report, which added: "The plane was escorted by six assistants. The party was met at the airfield by Tsao Yi-ming, head of the foreign affairs office of the Kwangtung provincial people's government."

The broadcast, heard in Tokyo, said Hammarskjold's plane arrived from New Delhi at 8:30 a.m. He was to transfer to another plane later in the day for the flight to Peiping, Red China's capital.

Little More Gas Might Have Saved Flyer

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Ten more gallons of fuel might have saved Dianna Bixby, prominent woman flier whose broken body was flown back here from Mexico Monday night by her grieving husband.

"If she'd have had any kind of break at all—if she'd had 10 more gallons of gas—she would have made it," said Lieut. R. S. Childers, co-pilot of a United States coast guard plane which located the wreckage of Mrs. Bixby's plane.

Hubert Bixby, 40, her husband, couldn't say anything to reporters when he arrived Monday night.

Mrs. Bixby, 32, perished in the sea which also claimed the life of her idol, Amelia Earhart, who was lost in the Pacific during a world flight nearly 18 years ago.

CRASHED NEAR SHORE

Mrs. Bixby's freight cargo plane, a converted A-20 bomber, crashlanded Sunday 150 yards off shore in the Gulf of California near Loreto, Mexico.

She knew she was running out of fuel and evidently had to attempt a landing on the water instead of an airport.

Mrs. Bixby and her husband operated an air freight service. For the past three days they had flown between here and Mexico.

DISTURBANCE CHARGED

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Thirteen men were arrested Monday in La Rioja, Argentina, on charges that they created a disturbance in the Roman Catholic cathedral. Dispatches from the northwestern Argentine city said the men tried to seize a statue of St. Nicolas de Bari to parade it in the streets. The police chief of La Rioja denied Catholic authorities permission last week to stage their usual New Year religious procession.

Stock Market Drop Checked

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market went down today, but -a fairly widespread recovery movement soon brought most issues from their initial lows.

General Motors common was a major target for selling following the announcement after the close of the market Monday that it would sell 3325,000,000 of new stock, it opened down $6.12 at 899 but soon moved up to $101.12.

DuPont, which holds a large amount of General Motors shares, dipped $3.50 early in the session but regained most of the loss.

Some stocks were strong in early afternoon: General Electric was up better than $2 and Western Union rose more than $3. Elsewhere, losses ranged from $1 upward with declines of as much as $4 earlier in the session.

Wellington

DANCE HELD

WELLINGTON — The annual Christmas dance of Lakeside Chapter, No. 81, Order of the Eastern Star, was held Tuesday evening, December 28, in Wellington Consolidated School auditorium, with Hugo Diggins' orchestra in attendance.

The auditorium was fittingly decorated for the holiday season with colorful lighted Christmas trees, poinsettias, evergreen sprays, a lighted wreath and balloons. To add to this beauty were the many gorgeous, colorful gowns worn by the ladies.

The guests were welcomed by Mr. and Mrs. James Dick, worthy matron and patron, and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer McFaul, associate matron and patron.

Mr. and Mrs. James Dick led the guests in the grand march, followed by a social circle.

Spot dance prizes were won by Mrs. Wilfred Nightingale and Mr. Rae-Ferguson; Mrs. Bob McCoy and Mr. Charles Fraleigh; Mrs. Charles Fraleigh and Mr. Woodrow Blakely.

The door prize went to Mr. Henry Leavens, and the lucky plate to Mr. Lewis Wight.

FURDOM ASKS DIVORCE

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)— British actor Edmund Purdom Monday filed suit for divorce from his wife, Anita, under a general charge of mental cruelty. The actor said he filed because "she has failed to take action herself to end the marriage." The Purdoms were married Jan. 1, 1951, in London, and separated last Nov. 1.

A SIMPLE WAY TO AID MUNICIPALITIES

That the majority of Canadian municipalities are in desperate need of financial assistance is generally recognized. Eventually the federal and provincial governments will have to agree upon some method of shifting a portion of the heavy burden of taxation which at present rests on real estate.

One simple method of providing some relief would be to copy a provision in U.S. income tax laws. Residents of the U.S. are granted tax exemption on income from municipal bonds.

This assures a ready market for municipal securities. At present the average yield of municipal bonds in the U.S. is only 2.28 per cent. A man with taxable income of $10,000 would have to obtain a yield of 2.92 per cent from stocks or other taxable investments for the net yield to equal that from municipal bonds. With a $25,000 income the yield on taxable investments would have to be 3.74 per cent to equal the yield on municipal securities; on $50,000 income the required yield on taxable investments would be 5.07 per cent; on $100,000 income 7.86 per cent; on $250,000 income 15.2 per cent. Since the stocks on the Dow-Jones industrial list yield an average of only 4.44 per cent, it is evident that any man with an income of $50,000 or more will give careful consideration to investing a substantial proportion of his savings in municipal bonds, despite their tax exemption.

The big tax exemption policy is responsible for the low rate of interest which U.S. municipalities pay appears highly probable. Here in Canada where no such exemption provision exists, most municipalities in a sound financial position find they must pay approximately 3¼ to 3¾ per cent on the money received from the sale of debentures. If any person thinks that the amount of money which municipalities would save by paying only 2.28 per cent would not be substantial he is in error. Such a reduction in interest rates would reduce interest charges by over one-third. On twenty-year debentures, interest charges total approximately one-third of the principal. If interest charges on municipal debentures in Canada were the same as in the U.S., municipalities would save one dollar in every twelve they now spend on new schools, community centres, streets, sidewalks, and a host of other capital expenditures. If there are any municipalities still using the old system of retiring debentures through a sinking fund, instead of paying off part of the principal each year, the saving would be even more substantial.

WORTH REPEATING

This is an old story, but there comes a time in the life of every newspaperman when he is convinced that it will bear repeating.

Robert Benchley, the noted humorist, at one time was required to turn out a daily column.

Like all his brothers and sisters in the craft who have faced the necessity of a similar daily dozen exercises for their thoughts, he discovered that there were times when ideas were as scarce as pumpkin seeds in a tomato.

Somewhere he had read that the solution for this problem consisted of placing a clean sheet of paper in the typewriter and starting to write. Once the physical side of the job was commenced, the ideas would follow, according to this theory.

One day, when his mind was as devoid of inspiration as the Sahara is of foam, he tested the theory.

The sheet was in place and he quickly placed in the typewriter and Benchley started to work. He wrote: "He wrote the word "The."

Then he paused. And thought. And thought.

Suddenly inspiration came.

Quickly he finished the sentence—"The hell with it."

Whereupon he turned in his copy, put the cover on his typewriter and went home.

Hundreds of columnists have lived happily ever afterwards. Whenever they find themselves in the same fix as Benchley, they can always relate how Benchley solved the problem.

The resulting story takes up a lot more space than Benchley's original bright idea.

JANUARY THAW COMES EARLY

Memo to the Weatherman:

Timing, Chum, timing. That's the secret of success.

Take this mild spell you have been dishing out, ever since Wee 1955 poked his head through the door and chirped a cheery "Hello" to the world. Just the regular January thaw, you say? Perhaps—but a mile early.

Now a January thaw which makes its appearance towards the end of the month, after old Jack Frost has nipped our ears and bit the end off our nose, after we have bucked blizzards and dug our way out of drifts—that kind of January thaw is a thing of beauty and warms the cockles of the heart like spring sunshine. For, indeed, there is the promise of spring in it, a pledge of the approach of days when the sap will run in the trees again and the grass will turn green almost as soon as it is released from the icy clutch of winter's once-white shroud. Gives us a January thaw at the end of January and you, Mr. Weatherman, shall win our praises.

Produce the self-same thaw at the beginning of the month, when November's mud is still fresh in our memory and perchance still on our trouser cuffs, and you will cause us to grumble. This is no promise of better things to come, but a dirty, sloppy remainder of past horrors, an insult to youngsters with new sleighs and skis and skates, a dirty blanket spread out over a world which should be dressed in dazzling white.

Your January thaw, Mr. Weatherman, is early, too early.

Timing, Chum, timing. That is the secret of success.

"I will serve you right when the other men in the neighborhood see what a lazy husband I've got."

The Rev. Dr. George left today for Chicago. Mrs. George will remain here for a longer visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Northrup, John Street.

Language Mishandled

(Louisville Courier-Journal)

The language, we fear, has fallen on evil times. We confess this conclusion while watching a television program of alleged humor featuring a few comedians, or comics as they are sometimes—and justifiably—called.

"Man," said one, "you are the greatest."

"Jack," replied the other, though Jack was not his name; "you are the tops."

This kind of talk is natural enough, we suppose, for an industry that reduces verbs of the respectable nouns as pan and dolly, and nouns of words like spectacular. It will do no good, we know, to point out that while a show may be spectacular, or even a spectacle (some of them are, too) it can not be a spectacular. Neither will we gain anything by asking of what the comedian is the greatest — the worst?

We can and do protest the effect such talk is having on the younger generation, however, with things being "real George" when they have no relation to anyone named George, or "real gone" when they have not in any way departed, as one avenue of communication with the younger set are already in danger of complete collapse, without the added irritant of these adjectivepoisons.

There is a limit, too, to what the parent can stand, a fact that was brought home to us recently upon hearing a bright nine-year-old refer to her baby sitter as "the jazziest." Man, that's the least.

TELEPHONE CONVERSATION

Telephone—a child of three—
Neither having news for me;
Conversation: "Daddy dear,"
Then the next words that I hear:
"Marjie, don't touch that."

"Come to supper?" That I catch;
"Marjie, do yourself you scratch!"
"Just a minute. Hold the phone.
Simple supper. We're alone."
"Marjie, please be quiet!"

"Daddy, I went down to shop"
"Marjie, Marjie, will you stop?
Up to bed you'll have to go
If you keep on yelling so.
No, you can't have cookies now,"

"Sorry, Daddy. That is all.
Later on I'll try to call.
Now I must run down to see
What the trouble now can be.
Marjie's had a fall."

U.S. View of Canada

(Watertown, N.Y., Times)

Americans are prone to lament what they refer to as Canada's growing nationalism.

A representative of the American seaway lobby, just recently in Detroit, deplored Canada's decision to build a duplicate canal at Iroquois and then proceeded to give the Canadians some gratuitous advice on what they should do instead.

An attache in the U.S. consul's office in Toronto quit his job and then had published in a Canadian magazine an article listing all the things Americans do not like about Canada and Canadians.

Both instances reflected American disapproval of Canadian "nationalism." Each seemed to betray a conviction on our part that Canada ought to grow up, that we should continue what we customarily have come to regard as our "big brother" role.

The fact is that, whether we like it or not, Canada has grown up and has taken its rightful place among the nations of the free nations. As the months and years roll by, we, the American people shall be forced to become aware of this fact.

The St. Lawrence seaway just an item of evidence among many. Canada waited a long time for us to be the "big brother" she fancied ourselves, and we never made good. Then Canada decided on a great decision to "go it alone" on the project, and we climed aboard. Then we accused Canada for its "nationalistic" attitude and disrespect to the St. Lawrence project.

If there is friction between the United States and Canada with respect to the St. Lawrence, this is no less so concerning the Columbia river.

There is a proposal to build a power dam at Libby, Mont., across the Kootenay river a tributary of the Columbia. The dam would be in the United States, of course, but the "backing" of water it would extend across the border into Canada. Thus there's a point in question for the International Joint Commission.

In fact, full development of the Columbia implies the creation of reservoirs or "ponds" in Canada while the power generating facilities, and therefore the power would be in the United States. This makes for an issue of future dispute.

Promoters of the Libby project recognizing the Canadian certain rights, have agreed to see that 20 per cent of the power is marketed in Canada. But the Canadian federal government is asking a third of the power, Canada's federal government has counseled against piecemeal development and the following what Canada considers to be its rights.

The difficulty here is that there is to be no "big brother" in that section of Canada for full utilization of the Columbia river system is to be its own. Thus the chances are that full development will not proceed until there is a crisis.

Nationalism? Perhaps, but we think of it more as a healthy sense of nationhood in Canada. And looking at it thus, we have little right to complain.

Christmas Makes Jobs

(Financial Post)

Christmas wouldn't be Christmas without statements from public figures deploring (1) the commercialization of Christmas; (2) Santa Claus and (3) the omnipresence of Christmas cards.

All these topics have been well covered in recent weeks by clergymen, columnists and letters to the editor.

This part of thing can be overdone, of course, but there is another side, also. The commercialization of Christmas, both translated, means the purchase and sale of Christmas gifts and decorations. In this country, at least, this process does much to offset the seasonal slump in employment which is the penalty of the Canadian climate. In other words, Christmas provides jobs to people who would otherwise not have them, and puts food in cupboards that would otherwise be rather bare at this time of year.

We can't deplore that.

Parliament Preferred

(By R. M. Harrison in the Windsor Star)

The story is told about Paul Martin during his first political campaign. He was addressing church service in a Southwestern Ontario village, when the minister was trying to get the congregation to hit the sawdust trail. The minister thought that all who wanted to go to heaven stand up.

Everyone jumped to his feet except Paul.

The minister then asked all who wanted to go to hell to stand up. No one did.

"I notice," the minister said, "our friend from Windsor did not stand on either proposition. I wonder if he would mind telling us where he does want to go?"

Rising and turning to the congregation, the future Minister of Health said simply:

"I want to go to Parliament!"

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A stale proverb is about as much use as a day before yesterday's crumpet. There ought to be a compulsory graveyard at work—for hauling proverbs, maxims, slogans and wise cracks.

There is one slogan, very popular during the past twenty or thirty decades, which has done probably done no end of harm to energetic young people trying to get a good grip on life. It is this: To be a success, you have got to enjoy your job.

There is a very insidious and dangerous lie in those words, if it is the word "your".

The maxim should read: "To be a success, you have got to enjoy work."

See? There is all the difference in the world in the meaning of the two statements. By permitting the word "your" to creep in, a comfortable piece of service club wisdom which allows the recipient to pick and choose. It gives him the pleasant impression that all he has to do is keep on shopping around until he finds a job he enjoys doing. Then, instead of a wide, spreading evil...it is embedded in our educational system, instead of teaching children, from infancy, to enjoy work, we set up vocational guidance boards to find and find congenial work for them. Having failed, in home and school, to instil any sense of discipline or respect for work—just work—in our young people, we call on the psychologists to set up aptitude tests.

I imagine the psychologists enjoy all that work.

Success rarely comes to choosey people. You can prove it yourself. Canvass in your mind all the really successful people within your range, and see if ninety-nine and forty-two hundredths of them are not people who enjoy work who not merely enjoy their own work but enjoy the kind of work that comes to their hand. Zest for work is the secret of success.

Where Ducks Are a Pest

(The Calgary Albertan)

A slightly different approach to the duck situation has been taken by Mr. E. L. Paynter, the game commissioner for Saskatchewan. There, as in Alberta, ducks are doing heavy damage in the g-ain field during the last few wet years.

Mr. Paynter has taken the "harvest" view of all game. With ducks, geese, birds and animals there is an ideal population rate, based on food and other conditions. When the population gets too high the excess should be harvested. Usually the natural increase should provide the annual harvest.

But with ducks the situation is out of control. They are too prolific under favorable conditions. Newspaper reports of a Paynter speech left the impression that the favor emergency measures or regulations in order to reduce the population.

A year ago there was an emergency when surplus too, but one poor year is not to be taken care of that. Similarly one dry spring would not be a cause of difference to the duck population.

But with steps being taken to improve duck and goose nesting conditions in the north country so that Prairie farmers will soon have to be content with seeing more migrant ducks, ducks raised in north and stopping over here on their way south, and with always fewer Prairie-raised ducks. In time there will be a tendency for many becoming less dependent on Prairie weather conditions and thus less subject to extreme fluctuations. It may be that duck-hunting on the prairies will have to be permanently expanded to keep the ducks from becoming an agricultural problem.

But with farmer-hunter relationships steadily deteriorating, the problem becomes more complicated yet.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

THAT TROUBLESOME BIG TOE NAIL

Ingrown toenail occurs in young persons who have habitually worn shoes too tight, too narrow, too short or too pointed at the toes. It is commonly the fault of shoes, as a rule, as they make the wearer toe out. This is not natural and the distorted foot toes straight ahead or a little inward.

Dr. Brady

For years I wore shoes with great satisfaction shoes that were highly flexible in the shank and built as though to make one toe in. No corns, calluses or toenail trouble. Then I followed Horace Greeley's advice, failed to find the shoes I wanted, began wearing ordinary shoes and presently had foot troubles I had never known before.

I do not know whether these shoes are still on the market.

Taken before the groove at the side of the nail is filled with granulation tissue ("proud flesh") an excellent corrective for ingrown nail is filing or rasping the edge or face of the nail down nearly to the quick, with a piece of laundress or coarse emery cloth, trimming the nail straight across without trying to round the corners. The thinning of the nail should be repeated in two or three weeks. The nail then grows flat instead of convex from edge to edge and so the edge does not irritate the soft tissue in the groove.

Sometimes the nail is too thick and too hard to file or rasp thin, without special instruments — and in that case it is advisable that it be done by the chiropodist or podiatrist.

For ordinary trimming of nails it is sufficient to soak the nails for twenty minutes in warm soapy water, if they are still too hard for scissors, don't let them continue growing into a deformity — visit the chiropodist or podiatrist who can trim them with bone-clippers.

Common causes of ingrown nail are trimming the nail too short, rounding the corners instead of trimming straight across, wearing shoes or stockings that are too short.

Some interesting operations for ingrown toenail are advocated by authorities, varying from excision of a wedge of tissue which includes edge of nail and adjacent flesh, to removal of the entire nail with its matrix and sometimes the distal phalanx (toe bone) as well.

Other authorities flatly declare that "these operations are all needless as the trouble is always curable by protecting the soft parts from the edge of the nail by filling in with cotton or lint in front."

If granulations form (proud flesh) apply alum powder or other astringent to shrivel them, or let the doctor cut them out (granulation tissue (proud flesh) contains no nerves and therefore may be cut without pain).

Good idea to apply mild theture of iodine to the area to be treated and also to wash your feet well with soap and water and boil or flame any instrument you may use in treating ingrown nail.

THE TEST OF FAITH

Several years ago at an exhibition of daring driving, a motor cycle rider showed his skill by riding blindfold up an inclined plank and leaping his machine across a row of cars. The greatest applause of the crowd, he then leaped over two cars, and finally over three. The next time I saw the daring grandstand, he asked them if they thought he could do it again, this time with some one of his shoulders. The crowd roared its faith in him; yes, they were sure he could do this trick too.

"All right," he announced, "I'll do it. Now who wants to ride on my shoulders?"

And then, for the first time, the grandstand was perfectly silent.

This is the real test of faith, after all—personal commitment. It is easy to say, "I believe." It is easy to encourage others to go along. It is easy to join the rallies and drives and campaigns, to take part in the whooping and the hollering. But will you stake your own life on it? That is the real test. When it comes to faith, all the rest is irrelevant.

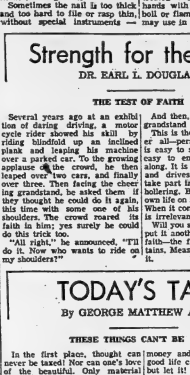
Will you stake your life on it? Or put it another way, will you put faith—the faith that moves mountains. Measure your own against it.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THESE THINGS CAN'T BE TAXED

In the first place, thought can never be taxed! Nor can one's love of the beautiful. Only material things can be taxed. The flow of the Moon, the Stars, the Mountains, and the ever-changing beauty of the sky, often in wonder and admiration, these things cannot be taxed. Nor can the love of God be taxed, to appreciate.



A great book's selling value may be taxed, but the thought that created that book may live on forever, never being taxed by man. There is more on the free list in this life than any of us steadily appreciate. Everything that touches our senses, and excites them, is spiritual, a foretaste of what we shall have.

The songs of the birds that awaken us in the morning are not taxed. We listen to their free concerts and thank them from our hearts. And God's world is free! Free! Even the wind and the patter of the rain upon our bedroom roof have songs to them which are among life's extras.

Every one of our days should be a cause for exultation and silent prayer, and for personal cheerfulness, for all the benefits and blessings that are bequeathed to us every day of our lives, without cost

Col. D.C. Cameron New Commander 25th Brigade

OTTAWA (CP)—Col. Donald C. Cameron, DSO, 43, of Alexandria, Ont., the army's director of infantry, will be appointed commander of the 25th Canadian Infantry Brigade, Ottawa, defence army headquarters announced today. The appointment carries with it the acting rank of brigadier.

Headquarters of the brigade, which served in the Korean war, now is at Camp Borden, Ont. Brigade strength in Korea recently was cut by two battalions, bringing it to three battalions home and leaving one in the Far East.

The brigade's major infantry units are the 1st Battalion, The Black Watch, stationed at Aldershot, N.S.; the 4th Battalion, Canadian Guards, stationed at Petawawa, Ont., and the 2nd Battalion, The Queen's Own Rifles, still in Korea.

Officials said long-range policy for the 25th Brigade has not been settled. It is possible that it may be renamed the 4th Brigade. The Canadian Army now has three brigades—the 1st in Germany, 2nd at Edmonton and 3rd at Valcartier, Que.—and a mobile striking force comprising three parachute battalions.

Brig. Frederick A. Clift, DSO., of Melfort, Sask, last commander of the 25th Brigade, recently was appointed chief of training of army personnel.

Lt.-Col. Norman Wilson - Smith, DSO, 38, of Winnipeg, will be promoted to the acting rank of colonel to succeed Col. Cameron as director of infantry at army headquarters.

Col. Wilson-Smith now is serving as general staff officer, grade one, at the Camp Petawawa, Ont., headquarters of the 1st Canadian Infantry Division. He will be succeeded in this job by Lt.-Col. Robert E. Hogarth, DSO, 38, of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. Until recently, Col. Hogarth held a similar appointment with the 1st Commonwealth Division in Korea.

Col. Cameron enlisted as a private in the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders in 1926 and was commissioned two years later. He served in Italy during the Second World War in the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, of which he became commanding officer in April, 1944. He was the Distinguished Service Order and Bar for gallantry and leadership in action.

Col. Wilson-Smith served overseas in the Second World War with the Royal Winnipeg Rifles and was wounded in action in Normandy in 1944 in 1951, he took the 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, to Korea as commanding officer.

Col. Hogarth joined the Royal Canadian Artillery as a lieutenant in August, 1939, and during the campaign in northwest Europe was commander of the 23rd Field Regiment. From 1949 to 1951 he was Canadian military attache in Yugoslavia.

Nine Children Survive Three Drowned Couples

KENORA (CP) — Funeral arrangements for four of the six victims of the New Year's Day drowning tragedy at the Lake of The Woods area have been completed.

Funeral services for Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm McLeod will be held Wednesday afternoon at Knox United church here. Interment will be in the Lake of The Woods cemetery.

Funeral services for Mr. and Mrs. Engnor Lindstrom will be held Wednesday morning in Beckeda Lutheran church. Interment will be in the Lake of The Coods cemetery.

Arrangements for the funeral of the other victims, Mr. and Mrs. James Cameron, have not been completed.

The accident occurred about 5 a.m. Saturday when two cars crashed through the thin ice between Treaty Island and the mainland, three miles from here.

Nine children survive the three couples.

Surviving the accident were Mr. and Mrs. John Kammerer, who staggered in a dazed condition to the home of Tim Piddock, 69-year-old caretaker at Devil's Gap Lodge.

MAN FOR CANOE

Mr. Piddock dashed 400 yards across treacherous ice to borrow a canoe in a futile attempt to save the life of his friend, Mr. McLeod, who was last seen by the Kammerers hanging onto the ice.

"I had to break the ice with the oar to get the canoe afloat," Mr. Piddock said. "And I was breaking ice all the way over to him. He was about 80 feet from that time."

When he was just 10 feet away, Mr. McLeod said: "Get my son, Tim," and slipped beneath the surface.

Mr. Piddock then collapsed momentarily in the bottom of the canoe.

From his hospital bed at Kenora, Mr. Kammerer Monday said that the party was returning from a late visit to Aylmer Point, six miles out in the Lake of The Woods.

FORCED DOOR OPEN

"I told my wife, Margaret and her mother, Mrs. McLeod, were sitting in the back seat with the two girls. Mr. McLeod was driving and Mr. Lindstrom was beside him. The second car was about 30 feet behind.

"The first thing I knew, Margaret's father said something and we started to go down right away. The water swirled in the door quick. She tried and couldn't get it open. Then I leaned across and the two of us opened it.

"By this time the whole car was submerged. I tried to pull out Margaret's mother but she didn't budge. The next thing I remember I came up and was about 10 feet from the ice." The ice broke because it was thin.

As soon as he surfaced, Mr. Kammerer and his wife appeared about eight feet away.

"We got up on the ice somehow. We don't know how we got to shore. The ice was breaking under us and sinking as we ran.

The Kammerers made their way to Devil's Gap Lodge where Mr. Piddock wrapped them in warm clothes before starting on his unsuccessful attempt to rescue Mr. McLeod.

Fishermen Want To Use Gill Nets

ST. THOMAS (CP)—Commercial fishermen along the northern shore of Lake Erie, their eye on the present top prices for fish offered by the United States, are seeking licences which would allow them to use gill nets in the Canadian area.

Agriculture Minister Thomas of Ontario advised them to confer with conservation officials to see if they would agree to the change. Fishermen now are banned from March 1 to Dec. 31.

Ernest Glover, Port Stanley fisherman, said two weeks of fishing in January would give gill netters opportunity to fish perches at top level in United States markets. No fish are spawning now and Lake Erie is relatively smooth and ideal for fishing, he added.

HAMILTON BAY GOT IN THE WAY

"Don't let it worry you," says Douglas Strachan to his wife, "but don't let it happen again." Mrs. Strachan's reply is an emphatic "It won't!" She took the family jalopy, a 1937 veteran bought for $50, to town for a drive, and she was doing fine as long as she kept going forward. But when she tried to back up, she kept right on moving until she was in six feet of water in Hamilton, Ont., bay. Mr. and Mrs. Strachan watched their three sons climbed out of the car, wet but unhurt. The car was sold for $10.—Central Press Canadian.

Dr. Stirling Awarded Medal By Institute

MONTREAL (CP) — John Bertram Stirling, president of E. G. M. Cape and Company of Montreal, Canada, was awarded the Sir John Kennedy Medal by the Engineering Institute of Canada for the year 1954.

The medal is presented annually in recognition of outstanding services towards the development of Canada, engineering science and the profession.

Mr. Stirling, president of the Institute in 1952, was born in Dundas, Ont., and received his arts and engineering degrees from Queen's University in 1909 and 1911.

He joined the E. G. M. Cape Company of Montreal in 1915 as a field engineer but in 1917 went to Europe with the Royal Canadian Engineers. He returned to the company after the war and became president of the firm in 1950.

He is a past-president of a number of professional societies and honorary colonel of the 3rd Field Engineer Regiment of Montreal. Queen's University conferred on him the honorary degree of LL.D. in 1951.

Eligible Workers At Chrysler Will Vote

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A strike vote of eligible workers at the Chrysler Corporation of Canada will be held Sunday, union officials said Monday.

The stewards of the Chrysler local of Local 195, United Automobile Workers Union (CIO-CCL) said the strike vote will be taken because of the lack of "real progress" in company-union negotiations.

Union officials said only 3,700 of the 8,000 Chrysler factory workers will have a vote. They said the other workers have been employed for only a few months, and are not yet members of the union.

Negotiations between company and union resumed a month ago after a conciliation board report. Union recommended against a 15 cent hourly wage increase the union demanded, was handed down. Present average wage is $1.61 an hour.

MacKenzie Will Go to Ottawa For Questioning

OTTAWA (CP)—Sqdn. Ldr. Andy MacKenzie returns to Ottawa today for further interrogation by intelligence officers seeking to learn as much as they can from his two years in a Chinese Communist prisoner-of-war camp.

The medal is presented annually in recognition of outstanding services towards the development of Canada, engineering science and the profession.

TWEED

Consolidated School Board Holds Meeting

TWEED — The annual meeting of the Tweed Consolidated School Board was held at the Municipal hall on Wednesday afternoon with a good attendance present.

Robert Palmateer was returned to the Board as one of the representatives from the village and Mr. Jones was appointed on the nomination as the representative from the Farnsworth section. Mr. Jones will succeed Mr. Stan Eaton who has served on the Board for the past two years, three of which he has been chairman. He was congratulated on his fine service on behalf of the school district.

Graham Hubbell, president of the Home and School Association, was chairman of the meeting and he explained that the new organization is willing to assist in school improvements wherever possible. New fire escapes will be installed at considerable expense early in January.

The school was rewired and new lights were added during the past year at a cost of $3,000.

Cliff Cotton, secretary-treasurer, read the minutes of the last meeting and gave the financial statement, showing the board in good financial shape.

There was a larger attendance than usual at the meeting. Many of the ratepayers are members of the Home and School Association.

Weddings

EMERTON—McNAUGHTON

STIRLING—A pretty wedding ceremony was held at St. Jude's church, Oakdale, with Canon F. J. Jackson officiating, when Zada Mae McNaughton daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James F. McNaughton, became the bride of John Creighton Emerton, who is a member of the staff of King George High School, Stirling, and a son of Mr. J. H. Emerton, of Burlington, Ontario.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and wore a white velvet ballerina gown, trimmed with pearls. A finger-tip veil was caught to a headdress of seed pearls and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses.

The bride's sisters, Miss Jean McNaughton and Mrs. Muriel Best, wore matching gowns of burgundy velvet with feather headdresses in dove gray and carried bouquets of white carnations.

Mr. Norman Emerton was groomsman and Messrs. George McNaughton and William McNaughton were ushers.

The reception was held at Riverside Lodge, where the bride's mother received in royal blue lace with rose corsage.

The newlyweds will live in Stirling, Ontario.

WARD—CONWAY

Chrysanthemums and ferns formed a lovely background in the RCAF Station, Trenton, Ont., on Saturday, December 4 at 3.00 p.m., for an early winter wedding when Zadra Rose united in marriage Sharwell Maureen Conway, of Redeserville, Ont., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dorwin Conway, Redeserville, to Douglas Gordon Ward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cyril W. Ward, of Stonefield, Ont.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attractive dress length gown of turquoise panaglaze trimmed with seed pearls and sequins. She wore bling accessories and a dark red rose corsage.

Miss Barbara Loucks, her only attendant, wore a copper-colored gown of panaglaze in street-length, with gold rose corsage.

Mr. Victor Allen of the RCAF station, Trenton, attended the bridegroom.

The reception was held at the home of the bride, where, the first Saturday in October, wearing a rose colored figured nylon, received the guests. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was attired in hunter green jersey.

For the wedding trip to Brockton, N.Y., the bride travelled in her wedding ensemble.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward will reside for the present at the home of the bride's parents.

Mrs. Mrs. J. Hall Honored on 50th Wedding Anniversary by Many

The hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. John Hall, of Redeserville, Ontario, was the scene of an enjoyable event on Tuesday last, when friends and relatives from the district and from a distance, gathered to celebrate the golden wedding anniversary of this popular and highly esteemed couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Hall were married by the Rev. L. Pope in the same room in which the recent celebration was held. Mrs. Hall was Gertrude Allena Rose and has lived in this district all her life.

An interesting program, interspersed with variety music by Mr. Ralph Wilder and Mr. Ernest Russell was enjoyed. Mr. and Mrs. Earl MacKay were heard in a piano duet and the little Misses Gail and Gwynne Ward sang charmingly.

The bride and groom sang a duet, "When You and I Were Young, Maggie," accompanied by Mrs. Mackay.

Mr. Ralph Wilder, of Plainfield, gave a complimentary reading and joined with his wife in an instrumental duet.

Mrs. Wilder, 84-year-old sister of Mrs. Hall, spoke briefly; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Miller, of Belleville, who were observing their 45th wedding anniversary, were also honored by the guests.

BEAUTIFUL GIFTS

Suitable and beautiful gifts as well as many written messages were received.

A handsome four-tiered anniversary cake centred the lovely, lace-covered dining table. Several flash pictures were taken, the first when the "bride" cut the cake.

A son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hall, of Belleville; assisted their parents in entertaining their guests; Mr. Ralph Stafford acted as chairman.

The following relatives acted as waitresses:

Mrs. T. Wannamaker, Demorestville; Mrs. George Close (great niece), Peterborough; Mrs. Maurice Dent (great-niece) Belleville; Miss Lois Wannamaker (great-niece, Demorestville; Miss Barbara Hall (granddaughter), Belleville; Miss Shirley Kerr, Plainfield; Mrs. Ernest Russell, Carrying Place; Mrs. Harry Adams, Belleville; Miss Mary Lou Graham, Belleville.

Guests were present from Peterborough, Belleville, Oshawa, Plainfield, Demorestville, Victoria, Albury and Redneersville.

The following evening friends of the community met and again honored Mr. and Mrs. Hall. An interesting program was enjoyed with the Rev. T. F. Townsend acting as master of ceremonies.

Mrs. H. Adams and Mr. C. Hillman, in suitable costume, sang "Put on Your Old Grey Bonnet," all the guests joining in the chorus.

On request Mr. and Mrs. Hall repeated the duet of the previous evening.

Mrs. T. F. Townsend gave two readings, "It's Vera Weel," and "The Bachelor Owl," also playing wedding music at various intervals.

Mr. Townsend sponsored several contests.

Refreshments were served; again the wedding cake was cut and shared.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hall spoke words of appreciation for all the expressions of friendship.

GIRL, 7, SAVES 4

RIPLEY, N. Y. (AP)—A courageous seven-year-old girl, Mary Swan, dropped her three younger sisters and a brother from a second-floor window, then jumped to safety herself as flames raced through their farm home Monday. Only one of the children, a six-month-old infant, was injured in the 15-foot plunge to muddy ground. The baby received a laceration of the mouth.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Salisbury Happily Wed for 50 Years

A half century of happily wedded life was celebrated last week by Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Salisbury, 305 Charles Street, who were guests at an anniversary party held at the home of their son, Cecil Salisbury.

The couple's three sons and one of their daughters were present for the anniversary. One daughter, Mrs. J. K. (Bessie) Peets, of Toronto, was unable to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Salisbury were presented with a suitable gift from the family and also received numerous congratulations. Telegrams were received from His Excellency the Right Honorable Vincent Massey, Governor General of Canada; Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent, Premier Leslie Frost and letters of congratulation from Frank S. Bidwell, M.P., and W. K. Sandercock, M.L.A.

ATTENDED MODEL SCHOOL

A native of the Stirling area Mr. Salisbury attended high school there and also Model School in Belleville following which he followed the teaching profession for three years. He then became a farm machinery agent at Tweed where he and Mrs. Salisbury lived for 18 years before coming to Belleville 32 years ago. Mrs. Salisbury is the former Miss Christina McLaren, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James McLaren of Melrose.

For over 30 years Mr. Salisbury has been associated with the Excelsior Life Insurance Co. and has written more than a million dollars worth of insurance, mostly in the South Hastings and Prince Edward County district.

Present at last week's anniversary party were, their three sons, Carl, Burton and Stewart, all of Belleville, and their daughter, Mrs. George (Dorothy) Morton, of Kingston, and three granddaughters, Nancy, Patricia and Linda Morton of Kingston. One granddaughter, Mary Christene Peets, and four grandsons, Thomas, David and Jimmy Peets of Toronto, and Brian Salisbury.

IF YOU'RE having Open House on New Year's Day, don't forget to plan in advance (with a favorite sitter) so your children will actually prefer their own quarters to your living room full of cronies. Provide a party for them, too. With reasonable quiet things to do that are a little different.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHAM

A 3-PART PATTERN FOR YOUR CHRISTMAS THANK-YOU NOTES

You'll have a good time writing your Christmas thank-you notes if you write them promptly! For fresh and bright is the memory that is the giver's Christmas kindness to you and your delight in the present and its thoughtful remembrancer.

So clip your pen in appreciation NOW. Let's get Great Deal New Year with a cheer that all your Christmas thank-you notes are written. Wonderful feeling!

Here's a simple pattern for your thank-you notes . . . a 3-part recipe.

First step: Thank For The thought. Give your note a charming send-off by bowing your appreciation for the thought that prompted the present. It's a dull note for Dear Aunt Bess . . . "Thank you for the lovely handkerchief you sent me." "I love the book you sent me for Christmas." Here's too much emphasis on the thing, nothing on the thoughtful. Or, the other hand, such a natural beginning as "How wonderful friend you were to make me so happy at Christmas-time," gives a high-lighted start for a better note. You're on your way now, chatting with your friend, but informally on paper as you would face-to-face.

Second step: Thank For The Present Itself. Here's your enthusiasm, certainly. With gusto, if appropriate. Naturally, the more specific your words, the more your friends will welcome them. Instead of "Dear Mother" name . . . don't vaguely write about "your present." Avoid the misleading impression that it's more than a possibility that you don't know for sure what the present was. Actually, by the very best way is to have the present in front of you as you write . . . then give with your enthusiasm. Don't be self-conscious with just writing how "beautiful" or "lovely" or "pretty" the present is. You can be better than that. That enthusiastically about your present. Tell your friend How about the charming color? . . . your friend will be delighted to have you notice how you always longed to own just that kind of "sweater bag" . . . your friend will be enchanted to be told this happy fact. Or, that you have a special usefulness in your life? . . . that's certainly a comforting thing to tell your friend. Or, duthies pondered deeply about this. Or show your discrimination by saying something about the smart and or interesting design, or the handsome material, or perhaps the dramatic marking or monogramming. Just a few suggestions, these, to help you to make your friend happy, proud that she had the good taste to choose just that gift.

Third step: Your Closing Bow. A few words of devoted greeting to your friend . . . salutations of good wishes for the New Year. For example: "Dearest love to you, dear, and again and again thanks for your Christmas goodness to me." "I am sure you wish to you for your happiness in the New Year. And let's start the New Year right by writing a date soon!"

DON'T SEND PRINTED THANK YOU CARDS

Dear Mrs. Beecham:

Is it ever permissible to send a printed thank-you card for a gift? — Reader.

No . . . not unless the sender-of-the-card is unable to write. To receive a printed thank-you card for a present you have given, is a bleak and grim experience. A personal note of thanks . . . even of one or two sentences . . . should be given in appreciation of the present.

3rd Hillier

TO GIVE ADULTERY VIEWS

LONDON (Reuters) — Most Rev. Geoffrey Fisher, Archbishop of Canterbury, will outline his views on adultery as an automatic ground for divorce in a book to be published next month, it has learned today. His statement that adultery should not automatically be considered the occasion for divorce has already caused controversy.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

AN ORGANIZED CAMPAIGN MAY WIN HER BACK

Dear Miss Fairfax:

About a year ago, I met a girl at a skating rink and fell for her in a big way. She was 16 and I was 17.

Unfortunately, although I liked her so much, I was silly enough to be careless about keeping dates or else being late for them. Meanwhile, she got tired of this, and broke off with me, and I can't say I blame her.

It's now four months since I've seen her, and I think I have grown more mature in that time, because I realize now how much I really did like her and how badly I treated her. I called her up to tell her this, but she refused to even talk to me.

What do you think I can do? I am really sincere in wanting to make up with her.—Bill T.

Dear Bill:

Evidently you are going to have to conduct an organized campaign to make this girl believe in your sincerity. Don't use phrases to talk to you on the phone, then I would suggest that you begin by sending her some flowers, and with them a little message telling her how very sorry you are that you behaved so badly, and that you hope, she will give you a chance to show that you have really changed.

Don't follow up the flowers by immediately trying to rush her to making a date. Let a day or two go by, then send her some candy, perhaps a box of candy, if you can't think of anything better. Put your name on the letter and you can probably think up several other small little attentions that you can pay her to show her that you really mean business.

But don't force yourself on her. Give her time to let your new attitude sink in. If you handle things right, and don't, as I say, try to rush her, you may, in time, find her letting you get the girl and try again.

DON'T MAKE A BIG ISSUE OF A TRIFLE

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am to be married in a few weeks, and the trouble I am having is always asking me what to name a present of me. Then I had when at first me me. He wanted me me give him the picture when we first met, but I didn't know then that he was so serious about me, and gave it to another fellow. He never knew this, and I am afraid to have him find it out now.

Do you think it would be dreadful of me to ask Edith from the boy I gave it to? — Jane H.

Dear Jane:

This is what I would call making a mountain out of a mole-hill. Or, in other words, a very trivial matter for you to be blowing up into such a problem.

There would be nothing "dreadful" in asking for the return of your picture, if you feel that your fiance is not going to be satisfied until he has it. But, on the other hand, it seems a very small thing for your fiance to make into a big issue.

Is he such a jealous type that you are afraid he would be angry to know that a boy who used to be a friend of yours has your picture? Can't you simply tell him that you gave this picture away before there was anything serious between the two of you? Maybe he's just curious because you are acting so mysterious about it, and if you told him frankly what had become of it, that would be all there was to it, as should. Try this first, before bringing in other chap into it. If necessary, you can request the return of the picture later.

A SUAVE NEW STYLE

By VERA WINSTON

This suave, sleek dress is an excellent choice for the young slender figure. Done in a most interesting fabric, a wool shd rayon mixture, it is dark green. The wide boat neckline is an excellent contrast for the narrowing V line of the stitched fold, which is accented by buttons. The cut is straight with some seaming through the middle.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

Modern women are lucky that they did not live in the beauty's "dark ages" when comeliness was considered not quite respectable. The so-called "fairer lady" was supposed to look like sin and often was a social outcast.

Some our forefathers believed that even soap was not to be used in the complexion, but dirty water, if you please. Which is why so many women of thirty looked twice their age.

You are fortunate if you have inherited a beautiful complexion but if you haven't, it will help you if you realize that many a beautiful complexion is the result of loving care. The application of a nourishing cream, along with brisk tapping just before you say your prayers at night, has brought many dingy skins to a lovelier condition.

Don't overlook the fact that the state of your health will be reflected in your complexion. Emotional storms take a heavy toll. Worry and sleep thoughts bring pallor. Loss of sleep will put shadows under the eyes.

Circulation is important. Unless you get out of doors each day and have a certain amount of exercise, your skin will lack that fresh, clear look. The blood streams carry nourishment to the facial tissues and underlying muscles. If they aren't on the job, tissues will soften. Then wrinkles will be on the way.

The diet plays a part in determining whether a complexion will be an asset or a liability. If it includes too much fat, the skin will be oily. If it is fat-free it will be dry. The balanced diet provides all the elements for skin health. Plenty good looks besides.

It is important to drink plenty of water. The daily bath also has cosmetic value.

Principles of coddling the complexion should have at once an exhilarating and soothing effect. Gives you time to think what it's all about, to display a pretty face next morning.

NEW SHAPE UMBRELLA

By ALICE ALDEN

The umbrella is fast moving into top place in the fashion accessory scheme of things. It's no wonder when we have designers who spend all their time beautifying this most useful of items. Polan Katz, for instance, does the "Survey," the umbrella with the fringe edge. Here it gives it a square silhouette, dismissing the idea that an umbrella must be round. On the square it comes in red with a black fringe, to mention one color scheme.

Operation Extermination Continued

By Mary Moore

As a source of entertainment and information, the letters from here is nothing like giving you letters from readers on the subject of unwanted insects in the cornneal!

Since I gave you those letters and the reply from the expert at the milling company I have received the following letters, and they are honeys. You girls certainly really round when you are needed.

"Dear Mrs. Moore: May I offer a suggestion to Beth Carl W. and E.C.H.? . . . no amount of cleaning will rid them of those pests as they originate in foods not in cupboards. . . . instead of burning the food I suggest return same to store from which it was purchased as these pests are greedy little creatures and the germ in the cereals. When the store has received returned he will probably find better storage. . . . one grocer kept all these foods on a lighted counter and I found the same pests in them . . . I changed my grocer . . . and feel experience teaches a person better than just being told by outsiders." — Mary.

"Dear Mary Moore: . . . I had the same experience with the saw-tooth grain beetle. . . . and threw out packages and packages of cereals and flour. . . . finally I tried "Derpo", a powder which I purchased from a humane, sprinkling it along the edges of every shelf and in the cracks . . . and I have had no trouble since the first application.—Mrs. R.C.H.

"Dear Mary Moore: After reading in your column about the saw-tooth grain beetle I felt a lot better. . . .(when) I woke up to the fact that I had "bugs" all day was a frantic tossing out of rice, oatmeal, cornstarch, etc. . . . I thought I had won but just before going to bed I looked and behold another one peered at me! . . . my pharmacist husband came home with a repellent and green cross book on pest control. . . . I read bugs were known and acted very confused. . . . the book described . . . "Confused Your Beetles" (very well named) and suggested using household spray or insect bomb. "Destroy infected packets of cereals, clean shelves, apply spray (but not directly on food)" . . . all day Monday I trotted . . . then your column . . . I felt such a relief to know there are others who are troubled. . . . felt it was very fair to pass on what I have learned . . . may I say your column rates hope. . . . would you send a cookie recipe that 6-year-olds would go for . . . peanut butter seems to be a firm favorite but surely there must be some others (without nuts) . . . with you the best of health.—Dorothy G.

"Dear Mary Moore: Tonight's column brings my most gratefull thanks. . . . I too have been fighting those little "critters" . . . I'll start all over again tomorrow with, Lawrie. . . . I wonder if you make chicken pie like I do . . . I buy a good-sized chicken breasts and 2 legs and cook them with plenty of water . . . when chicken tender I add salt, pepper and a little savory . . . break chicken in fair-sized pieces when removing from bone . . . to 1 quart of liquid add 2 cups sliced carrots, 2 cups finely cut celery stalkz, and a good sized onion, cut. . . . When vegetables begin to get tender add 1 can cream of chicken soup, 1 can cream of mushroom soup, 1 can peas drained (save liquid for adding to remaining chicken liquor for soup another day) and cup kernel corn. Add salt and pepper to taste and chicken. Thicken to thin-gravy consistency with cornstarch paste. Put in pie crust and bake in very hot oven 450 degrees and lower this—especially Paul.—Mrs. G. A. S.

Thanks to all of you for tips and recipes and thank you...Dorothy G. has a delicious recipe some time this week. Mrs. G.A.S. your letter which I have mercifully cut down is priceless and thanks for the excellent chicken pie idea.

ESKIMO MECHANIC

This Eskimo operates a tractor as part of a combined educational, vocational, health and welfare training plan for the eastern Arctic by the northern affairs department of the federal government. The project at Frobisher bay, on the southern part of Baffin island, 1,300 miles north of Ottawa, is intended to fit the Eskimos better for changes in their way of life. (CP from National Film Board).

Govt. to Build Training Centre For Eskimos on Baffin Island

By GRAHAM TROTTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—To fit the Eskimos better for changes in their way of life, a start is planned this year on a combined educational, vocational, health and welfare centre for the eastern Arctic.

The project is at Frobisher bay on the southern part of Baffin Island, 1,300 miles north of Ottawa. With it, the northern affairs department aims to nail the Eskimo—in many ways still mentally in the stone age—for changes being wrought in their mode of life by the rapid encroachment of the white man's civilization.

The first phase of the program calls for construction of a two-room school which can be enlarged, housing for a northern service officer, a technical instructor and a school teacher, a warehouse, garage-workshop, mess hall, bunk house and power house.

USE ESKIMO LABOR

Work on the buildings and other facilities is to be done by the Eskimos of the locality assisted as necessary by skilled tradesmen who will act as instructors as well. Possibly 40 of the more than 300 Eskimos in the Frobisher bay region will be employed.

Purpose of employing Eskimo labor is three-fold: To give them purchasing power through wages, to provide them with practical training in various trades and to give them a greater interest in the community being created especially for them.

The Eskimos of this barren northern island are traditionally hunters, with seal, walrus and fish abounding along the sea coast where they live. But the walrus, for which Frobisher bay has been well known, now are not as numerous as in former years.

MANY FAMILIES

During the war, establishment of a big Canadian-United States air base at Frobisher bay provided an attraction other than the Hudson's Bay Company post through which Eskimos market their hunting catch. It afforded a market for their handicrafts and an opportunity to work for wages. Some 20 Eskimos now are employed permanently at the base.

The school, which the northern affairs department hopes to open late this year, will have to start at elementary levels but is intended eventually to provide secondary education and vocational training.

Eskimos have a lively interest in mechanical things. Uneducated Eskimos have no difficulty learning to operate motor vehicles and power boats, and their skill at doing repairs and maintenance is proverbial.

But such trades as motor mechanics, carpentry, electrical work, plumbing and metal work require both literacy and specific vocational training.

TB THREAT

It is intended that the establishment eventually will include health facilities and it is understood that the national health and welfare department contemplates construction of an outpost hospital at Frobisher bay.

Tuberculosis is the chief health problem among Eskimos and sanatorium treatment is required for considerable numbers.

While helping the Eskimos to help themselves, government officers plan to avoid disruptions that similar developments in other places have sometimes brought to primitive people.

Fostering and protecting the Eskimo culture, art forms, customs and language are high on the list of priorities of those working on the project.

R. G. Siverts, chief of the Arctic division of the northern affairs department, puts it this way:

"If such opportunities are provided, Eskimos will know their fellow-Canadians value them and their special abilities and that there is a real place for them in this country's life, perhaps particularly in the Arctic."

Parliament has approved the project in principle but detailed estimates have not yet been made public. The first phase of the project may cost a few hundred thousand dollars.

Management of local affairs at the Frobisher bay community will be placed in the hands of Eskimos to the greatest possible extent.

The project manager will be 35-year-old Doug Wilkinson, who has been going north since 1946, first as a writer-director of the National Film Board. In the last two years, while studying the social science of Eskimos on Baffin Island on a research grant from the Arctic Institute of North America, he actually lived with the natives for an extended period.

Hamburg Staging Comeback In World Trade

By A. R. GARRETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HAMBURG, Germany (CP)—Twenty-five miles from the Iron Curtain, this war-battered seaport is staging a comeback in world trade in the face of heavy odds.

Three million bombs shattered Hamburg during the Second World War. Its harbor was reduced to a confused heap of rubble with 2,000 wrecked ships strewn around basins and approaches. When the battle smoke cleared, the Russian Iron Curtain was thrown up cutting off Hamburg from its eastern and southeastern hinterland which formerly accounted for one-half of its trans-ship traffic.

Despite these handicaps, nine years of reconstruction have restored much of the ancient free port's virility. This was demonstrated recently to a group of newspaper men touring the port in an official launch.

The harbor still is pock-marked by damaged quays and gaunt shells of warehouses, but new and rebuilt facilities are busy with ships from all over the world.

HEAVY TRAFFIC

Mighty cranes load German-built locomotives for India; grain spouts suck Canadian grain from steamer holds; bales of wool swing from docks to waiting barges; ocean tankers discharge oil from the Middle East to reconstructed oil tanks and refineries.

Officials said the clearing of debris, re-establishment of traffic connections and lifting of wrecked ships now is nearly completed. Only grain now moves through the Iron Curtain by barge to Berlin, and the drastic cut in barge operation has brought greater emphasis to rail traffic for other parts of Germany.

The port authority said $15,000,000 a year is being spent on reconstruction. Seagoing and coastal traffic which had shrunk to 1,400,000 in 1945 has risen steadily; last year's total was 16,500,000 tons. This was 75 per cent of the 1936 volume.

Canada's Largest Bank first to report assets over $3 billion

During the year just closed, Canada and the Royal Bank marched strides on a path of solid progress. In many significant areas of the bank's operations new high records were reached, thus reflecting the vitality and growth of Canada itself.

Marking an historic milestone in Canadian banking, assets surpassed the $3 billion mark while deposits of over $2,797,000,000 and loans of $1,188,022,047 were also new records making "highs". The bank now has more than 2,450,000 deposit accounts on its books.

To keep pace with the demand for banking service, new branches were built, while many others were renovated and modernized. Today, The Royal Bank of Canada operates some 815 branches — 71 of them beyond Canada's borders — each geared to offer facilities in step with the needs of all Canadians in this era of exciting national progress.

GOOD TRY!

It appears the box-office gremlin is getting in his nefarious work down Cornwall way, too.

The Cornwallians are not throwing the local arena in anticipated droves, so the management of the Colts at al. have come up with a new gimmick in an effort to entice the fans and gals away from television sets on the nights the Colts play hosts to senior "B" opposition.

They call it a score-guessing jackpot. There's no box tops necessary—nor references from your employer. All you need is the ability or facility to guess correctly the score of the games after the first period.

Here's how they do it.

At the end of the first period a reserved seat ticket stub is drawn, and the holder of that seat goes to the scorer's box. After carefully considering the score at that time, the condition of the ice, the shape of the teams and previous observations, he writes his guess of the final score on a piece of paper and gives it to the official scorer. That worthy secretes it until the game is over.

If the score on the paper agrees with the correct count, the guesser receives $25. If not—this $25 will be held over until the next game when $50 will be offered as the jackpot. The next game $75 will be the prize and so on—upward and onward.

The Cornwall attendance has fallen well below the anticipated mark, it is reported. Manager Ray Miron says 1600 per game is necessary if the club is to break even. Thus far the average attendance has been 946. The largest crowd to attend a league game thus far has been 1300.

PETES TONIGHT!

Those pestiferous Petes from the shades of the Kawarthas will be flitting around Memorial Arena tonight with figurative blood in their eyes and hungry-pangs of victory battering in their tummies. For tonight's the night they tangle with the Memes, the first game of a straightaway series of five over the next ten days for the Bouchermen.

These Petes can be as tough as any club in the league and the fact they have been holding down the cellar spot of the loop for some time does not mean they are not going out there to do their dangdest to pin the Memes' ears back—but plenty. The last time the teams tangled it was anybody's battle with everything riding high and two Kingston referees hard-put to keep the boys under control. Jim Ellis' crew always comes up with a fine effort on "Belleville Ice and tonight's fray should be no different to the rest.

Friday night the Memes tackle another tough nut in the Clinton Comets. The American entry has been riding high, of late and no later than Sunday tacked a 6-4 setback on the Cornwall Colts, at present leaders of the circuit and in the league standings. The Comets are tied for fifth spot with Brockville with 22 points, one behind the fourth-place Whitby Wrens, who in turn are four behind the third-slot Memes.

With the schedule well over half-way finished and only eight points separating the first and sixth-place teams, anything can happen in this sizzling group. No club in the league can afford anything like a losing streak and from here in the standing is quite liable to change overnight.

AND TIME OUT FOR TEA!

A British hockey writer, a Canadian expatriate, writes an article in his magazine warning the Canadian world hockey reprezentees, in this case the Conn-Smythe Back Kids from Penticton who train on apple juice and western aqua pura, that they must forget the rough stuff and play like gentlemen—or they will find themselves in the same boat as the new defunct Toronto Lyndhursts who were Russkied out of the world hockey title last semester.

He says that all Canadian expatriates want to see the Canucks win by a country mile, but these European reprezentees don't stand for the liberal raising of a moustache, or a look that in Canadianese means "You're as blind as a bat, yuh dirty so-and-so."

Apparently Igor the Rocket, Sergie Boomsky-Boomsky and Petroff Howevichi brutes easily. They are made of stern stuff, are these punkey-chunky sons of the steppes, boil you in oil every last scuzzin of vodka they will not stand for any pushing around from any prairie puck-prancers from the foothills of the Rockies.

So the Penticton V's can take it, they must act sharp, be sharp and look sharp or those Russky sticky racers will give them the closest shave they have ever experienced. "Canada will never take home the victory bacon if they play rough," warns the writer. "It can only be done by winning with style, ease and good spirit. It isn't enough to win on a disputed goal and a police escort to the dressing room."

He goes on: "We're sending Goliath to meet the Davids of Europe. ' It's up to Canada to give the story a new twist."

We have seen this type of hockey played, but for the luvamike will someone please inform us just where the European whistle-toters draw the line?

Do the players carry Klaxons to toot when nearing an opposing player? Do they have left and right turn signals? And do they have to produce a license when switched into the curb or the side of the road for examination?

There were many gripes and beefs about the kind of team we sent over there last year—and plenty of yelps for stronger representation. We do not know of any stronger amateur (whatsit?) representation than a team which won the Allan Cup—supposing they did win it playing Canadian rules.

If the Penticton fall to restore Canadian puck prestige about the only thing left will be a National Hockey League club, providing the players have their arms, legs and vocal cords, at home.

Jean Beliveau, Rocket Richard Threaten Pal Goal-Getter; Olmstead, Harvey in Top Ten

MONTREAL (CP) — Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, who has set the National Hockey League scoring pace since midweek went on the scoring rampage, finds himself today in danger of losing the coveted perch. His own teammate Rocket Richard and Montreal Canadiens are crowding him.

The new crop of official NHL statistics shows that Geoffrion did all right with two goals and two assists in four games last week. But big Jean Beliveau helped himself to three goals and four assists and Maurice (Rocket) Richard cut loose with a five-goal splurge and one assist.

Geoffrion holds top spot with 24 goals and 18 assists for 42 points. Beliveau ran his count to 18-23-41. Richard not only moved to within four points of Geoffrion but threatened to dislodge him as the league's leading goal-getter.

TRAILS BY THREES

The Rocket's three goals brought his total to 21, three behind the Boomer. With 17 assists, Richard's point total is 38. Former points back is Montreal's Ken Mosdell, who kept pace with Geoffrion on points by bagging four assists.

The leading Montreal foursome almost tripled the opposition. Bert Olmstead cashed in one goal and five assists to move within striking distance of Beliveau's 41 points. Olmstead is 36 points behind Geoffrion.

Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings, getting back into stride after an injury lay-off, banged home four goals in three games. With his 15 goals and 19 assists Howe held to fifth place by a single point over Olmstead.

Another Montrealer moved into the first 10 leaders when defenceman Doug Harvey boosted his total to 30 points on one goal and three assists. Harvey retained his hold on second place in defence with more than Olmstead and George (Red) Armstrong of Toronto.

Danny Lewicki, New York Rangers' sharp-shooting leftwinger, collected two goals, running his count to 20, and one assist. He finished fifteenth with 29 points. Sid Smith of Toronto Leafs, with a one-and-one count for the week, now has 28 points, five with Sullivan and Harvey.

Canadiens came out of the week's skirmishing with 53 points. The Red Wings lost ground slightly but now are four points behind Canadiens with a game in hand.

Toronto Leafs have 49 points, five behind Detroit. Boston Bruins not only have a comfortable margin over the New York Rangers, 30 to 29, but have played five fewer games than the Blueshirts. Chicago Black Hawks trail in the standing with 22 points.

Lalande Third In Junior Race

TORONTO (CP) — Hank Ciesla, captain of St. Catharines TeePees, still leads the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A scoring race, a position he's held since just after the season opened.

He's two points up on Danny Foldiani of Barrie Flyers, statistics released today show.

Ciesla has scored 30 goals and has 25 assists for 55 point. Foldiani has 53 points on 17 goals and 36 assists.

Ilec Lalande of Galt Black Hawks is seven points off with 22 goals and 26 assists.

Gerry McNamara of Toronto St. Michael's continues to lead the goalkeepers' records. He has allowed 68 goals in 22 games for a 3.72 average. Johnny Allard of Marlboros is the only other among the regular netminders with a 3.12 average.

In the Senior A league Ken Laufman of Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen leads the scoring with 41 points, picked up on 12 goals and 29 assists.

Jerry Reid 'n' Owen Sound Mercurys is in second place with 38 points. Reid has scored 16 goals and assisted on 36 others. Mercury Jack Taylor is in third spot with 35 points, 12 goals and 23 assists.

Bill Harrington of Windsor Bulldogs is in front in the goalkeepers' race. He has allowed 67 times in 22 games for a 2.91 average. The Leaders:

Right-winger Eddie Brunetteau scored two goals within 10 seconds at Detroit nine years ago tonight. His goals scored on Chuck Rayner helped Detroit Red Wings to a 3-3 tie with New York Rangers. The NHL record for fastest two goals is four seconds, set by Nels Stewart of Montreal Maroons against Boston in 1924.

SENTENCES COMMUTED

CAIRO (Reuters)—The Egyptian revolutionary command council Sunday night commuted to life imprisonment death sentences passed last week on five Moslem Brotherhood members by a people's tribunal. The five were charged with taking part in a plot to overthrow the government.

Glover, Olson Battle In Scoring Race

NEW YORK (AP) — Veterans Freddy Glover and Eddie Olson of the Cleveland Barons are having quite a battle for scoring leadership in the American Hockey League.

Glover, a 27-year-old rightwinger leads the loop with 33 points on 23 goals and 30 assists while teammate Olson, the 35-year-old leftwinger, has 31 points on 25 goals and 26 assists and i the top goalgetter in the circuit.

Eddie Toppazzini of the Providence Reds wrested both third place and the league assist lead from Glover with an average of 2.51 on 83 goals allowed in 22 games. Connie Simmons of the Springfield Indians dropped to second place with an average of 2.13.

Davis Cup 'Ours for Years' Says Talbert

By JEFF RYAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Billy Talbert, the crafty captain of the victorious United States Davis Cup team, settled down in his Wall street brokerage office today with a forecast that the coveted trophy should stay with the Americans for "several" years.

Talbert, accompanied by the cup and Julius Seligson, a representative of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association, arrived home Monday night. Hamilton Richardson, the U.S. inter-collegiate champion from Tulane, left from Los Angeles to New Orleans instead of coming to New York.

"The reason why the cup shouldn't stay in the United States for several years," Talbert said, "We still have Richardson available, and neither Vic Seixas nor Tony Trabert intends to turn professional.

"In fact, I'm sorry that Tony and Vic couldn't come back with the cup, they're the boys who did the job."

Seixas and Trabert are staying in Australia to play in a few tournaments there before returning home.

Asked what he thought of the future of Australian coach Harry Hopman, Talbert said he was known for his rigid training methods. Talbert said he couldn't comment.

"But," he said, "I don't know of anyone they could find to replace him."

Floodlit Soccer in Britain Gets 'Brighter' Every Year

By JEFF RYAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Floodlit soccer in Britain is a brighter financial proposition every year.

Despite what the critics said three years ago when Arsenal pioneered the afterdark game more teams are planning to install systems which range in cost from £350 to £10,000.

About 30 have lights, reports the Football Association. Their worth was generally proved in 1954 with lucrative night exhibition contests, topped by the drawing power of track teams from Russia, Hungary Italy and Switzerland.

The English Professional Football League may be some time getting from league contests under the lights—possible when all the 92 teams have installed floodlights. But the FA is encouraging installation slowly, partly to aid soccer training.

The detractors said the country's 1,000,000 soccer fans would not venture out on the cold, clammy winter nights to watch soccer; that night play would prove dangerous.

Neither has proved true.

PUBLIC CRITICAL

The only worthwhile feature has been that some clubs have had difficulty lining up opposition.

But the pulp that floodlighting has on public soccer demand was illustrated by the criticism the FA drew on itself by banning a floodlit replay between Walthamstow Avenue and Queen's Park Rangers.

The replay—the second between the two teams—had to be played in the afternoon before a sizeable crowd.

The FA explained that it had to keep in mind the league as a whole.

Clubs with floodlights would hold an advantage over their lightless opponents, it argued, and the government would want to see safety precautions in force the event of light failure, and possible panic."

RADIOS STILL SOLD

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain has at least 4,250,000 television sets in use, with estimated sales in 1954 over the 1,200,000 mark, says the Radio Industry Council. An estimated 1,500,000 radio sets were sold last year—twice the number sold in 1953.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

Even one of an optimistic nature cannot look forward with any great degree of enthusiasm to the sporting year of 1955 may bring us in the broad realm of sport. In the matter of scattered records, and glittering color, 1954 was packed to the brim with thrills, upsets and mighty accomplishments. What can possibly remain for 1955? How can it strike such amazing peaks as characterized 1954?

Can the Grey Cup final produce greater drama than that of last autumn when the courageous Edmonton Eskimos dug deep desperately into the last hidden springs of their vanishing resources to overthrow the powerful eastern champion Alouettes? Will there be a mile faster than a four minute mile? And if so, will it produce anything like the amazement that greeted Roger Bannister's first smash through the 4-minute barrier?

Will there be another such swimming feat as that of Marilyn Bell in conquering 40 miles of the chilly waters of Lake Ontario? Or another Ed Furgol, handicapped by a crippled left hand, winning the United States golf open? Or another Gordon Richards winning the rich Seagram Gold Cup that gave a long forward pass that, if caught, would have tied Winnipeg Bombers with the eastern champion Hamilton Tigers for the Grey Cup.

1953 had all of that, and more. It was written down as "The Year to Remember". But 1954 fairly smothered it for the yearling crown at the gridirons, the golf links, the baseball diamond, the cinder path, the racetrack, mountain ascents, where death wrongly beckoned and the ghastly lure of a second time, the glittering ice surfaces of hockey, and all the other avenues of sport. So what is left for 1955? What can it produce to make it another Year to Remember?

Name Eighty Three-Year-Olds In Running for Queen's Plate

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Jockey Club today listed 80 three-year-olds still in the running for the 1955 Queen's Plate, Canada's richest turf classic.

The largest nominators are Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Taylor of Toronto who have named 10 prospective horses. Mrs. Taylor nominated two colts and two fillies, while her industrialist husband named four colts and two fillies.

Date for the $20,000-added stake, oldest continuously-run horse race in North America, hasn't been set yet but it is expected to be June 11. The field probably will be reduced to about 25 by then.

Mrs. Daniel J. Kennedy of Winnipeg nominated five western-Canada bred horses for the 96th running of the nine-furlong race. Most distant nominator is Francois Dupre of Paris, who has named the grey filly Toque-Rouge.

This will be the first year that anybody in the world can race a Canadian-bred three year old in the Plate. The OJC recently was given permission by the Queen to allow persons other than Canadian residents to send their horses into the classic.

Dutchie Winger Causes Tangle In Senior OHA

KITCHENER (CP) — Charlie Brooker, left-winger with Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, has caused a tangle in the Ontario Hockey Association's Senior 'A' League.

Brooker, playing his third season in senior hockey with the Dutchmen, recently was traded to Stratford Indians but refused to report because he didn't want to play outside Kitchener.

Brooker, together with defenceman Art Hurst of Kitchener, was a principal in a deal for centre Jackie Wehlle of the Indians. Hurst and White reported and both have been playing with their new clubs.

Brooker is on the Dutchmen list of eligible players, but a release for him has been deposited with the OHA. Stratford has been unable to sign him.

In the past, the OHA has upheld players who refuse to accept deals made for them without their consent.

But league officials say a special meeting of the OHA sub-committee may be called to straighten out the Brooker case.

LEAF TRIO SPOILS ROOKIE'S SCORING HOPE

Solid body-to-body contact is the order as Chicago's Eddie Litzenberger is outnumbered three-to-one as Maple Leafs' Horton (rear) and Harry Lumley. Close checking that William's rookie forward, Bob Collyard, featured the NHL contest at Toronto, which ended in a 3-2 tie. Jerry Toppazzini was a two-goal man for the Hawks, while Sinas and Smith accounted for the Leaf tallies.—Central Press Canadian.

Parker, Walls Fight Postponed Third Time

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian heavyweight title fight between James J. Parker and Earl Walls has been postponed for a third time Allen announced illness would prevent Parker from boxing.

The last time a date was set, Nov. 9, it was put off when Walls, born Theocolo, suffered a back injury in training.

Allen said an attempt is being made to get "a name heavyweight" such as American Dan Bucceroni or Charley Cotton to meet Walls next Tuesday.

He said Bill Daly, Parker's manager, telephoned from New York that the 210-pounder from Hamilton was suffering from a virus infection. He became ill late last week while he was in a training camp near Chatham, N.J.

89 Crack Colts Nominated For Rich Stakes

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Nashua and Summer Tan, top juveniles last year, head an impressive list of 89 crack colts nominated today for Hialeah's $100,000 Flamingo Stakes Feb. 26.

The mile and one furlong event drew 11 more nominations than the 78 named for the Flamingo Stakes 17 horses with 32 stakes victories to their credit.

Murcain Stable's Blue Ruler, winner of the Starlet and the Hibiscus Stakes, was nominated from California, giving the far west a chance for its first Flamingo victory.

Ten nominees from England and Ireland are included on the list released by racing secretary Vance Rasmussen.

Irish-bred Turn-To, owned by Mrs. Roy Hoyle, won the 1954 Flamingo and was a favorite to take the Kentucky Derby until a fetlock injury ended his 1954 comeback trial.

Richly stud's Nashua, voted the champion U.S. juvenile of 1954, and his top rival for that honor, Mrs. Russell A. Firestone's Summer Tan, each won four stakes races last year. They met three times and Nashua won three of the meetings.

Other stakes winners named include Delta, Flying Fury, Brother Tex, Manchasian, New England's Ace, Boston Doge, Cup Man, Party Gossip, Roman Patrol and the Irish Daylight Express.

Seixas, Rose In Semi-Finals

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP)—Vic Seixas of Philadelphia and Australia's Mervyn Rose entered the semi-finals of the South Australian tennis championships today.

Seixas had a surprisingly hard fight in beating Warren Woodcock of Victor Harbor, 6-4, 6-4, 8-6.

Rose played his best tennis of the season in beating Sweden's Sven Davidson 6-3, 6-4, 6-4.

SECRETARY RESIGNS

BRANTFORD (CP)—Jack Blakeney, secretary of the Senior Brantford county Baseball League for the last four years, said Monday he will resign his post for the 1955 season because of municipal duties.

Blakney was elected an alderman in ward six at the Brantford civic elections last month.

Send Contracts To 37 Players

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Contracts were on the way today to 37 baseball players expected to make up Kansas City Athletics' 1955 squad.

Ray Kennedy, Athletics' director of personnel, indicated only two of the players—third baseman Jim Finigan and pitcher Arnold Portocarrero—are likely to receive substantial raises.

Portocarrero won nine games and lost 18 last season for the old Philadelphia Athletics. Finigan batted .302 for the last-place club.

Among the outstanding rookies mailed contracts were infielder Ted Lepcio, outfielder Joe Taylor and pitcher Waller Craddock.

Lopez and Taylor, playing for Ottawa in the International League last season, batted better than .300. Taylor finished out the year with the Athletics. Craddock had a 7-9 record with Savannah, also in the Sally League—his first full season in pro ball.

Stamps Defeat Royals 6-5

CALGARY (CP)—Calgary Stampeders moved into second place in the Western Hockey League race when they downed New Westminster Royals 6-5 Monday night before 4,261 fans.

Doc Couture scored two third-period goals. Other Calgary marksmen were Jim McFadden, Fred Hucul, Steve Wilkuk and George Pargeter.

Playing-coach Max McNab got three New Westminster goals. Gord Fashoway and Gayle Fielder scored the others.

FIND LIFE RING

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A floating life ring with the name of a vessel missing since Dec. 4 with 24 men aboard was sighted Sunday in the Florida Keys. The life ring had the words "Southern Districts" on it. The freighter Gulfamerica which found it, told the coast guard. The Southern District was an LST-type (landing ship, tank) ore vessel which disappeared on a trip from Port Sulphur, La., to Buckie Point, Me.

American Wins Squash Title

NEW YORK (CP)—Keeping control of the court most of the way, G. Diehl Mateer Jr. of Philadelphia easily won the United States open squash racquets championship Monday night with a 15-9, 15-5, 15-10 victory over Azzam Khan of Pakistan.

Mateer, holder of the American national amateur singles title, needed only 38 minutes to defeat the game Pakistani.

Mateer forced his opponent to tennis and squash coach from Peshawar, into early errors, but ran into a brief spell of errors himself in the third game after taking an 11-4 lead, and won only three of the next nine points. With the score 14-10, however, Mateer counted with a slick V-shot and wrapped up the championship with a change-of-pace ball.

Welter Title Declared Vacant

QUEBEC (CP) — The Canadian welterweight title held by Claude Fortin of Montreal has been ruled vacant by the Canadian Boxing Federation, national commissioner Gene Letourneau announced Monday night.

Mr. Letourneau said Fortin was notified Oct. 25 of the federation's decision to give him 60 days to defend his title but he did not so.

NHL President Looks Askance On Player Obscene Language

MONTREAL (CP) — President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League said Monday that obscene language by players is a poor advertisement for hockey and he is taking that general approach in dealing specifically with Detroit Red Wings.

Campbell said there have been "lots of spectator protests" but no specific complaints against any club other than Detroit. He said the protests "have been passed on" but made no comment on any particular move he might make.

Campbell himself heard outbursts of obscenity at the Red Wings-Montreal Canadiens game here Saturday night, won by Montreal 4-1. The Detroit team left his seat and went behind the Detroit bench to talk with coach Jimmy Skinner.

"In effect, he told me to mind my own business," said Campbell.

"This is league business, and what's league business is my business."

Campbell said he feels obscenity "has no place in our business, can't benefit anyone and can have no defender."

In Detroit, Jack Adams, general manager of the Red Wings, said: "We use no more obscenities than any other players in the league.

"If Mr. Campbell wants to check foul language, some night he ought to station someone behind the visiting bench in our stadium (Olympia)."

Adams continued:

"I think the governors of the league ought to censure Campbell instead of his taking a crack at us. I think Mr. Campbell was way out of line and it looks as though he's trying to turn the game into baseball."

Sports Roundup

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—If Sugar Ray Robinson really has all that sugar stacked away in the bank, why is he making his comeback? Robinson topped Joe Rindone in six rounds in Detroit, he was the welter champ, why shouldn't he better his' course record over Joe Rindone's eight at the Detroit Olympia? It will be interesting to read what Sugar Ray has to say after the fight in view of his retirement comments in 1952 about quitting because "the co-ordination isn't there any more."

Willie Mays, who flew up from Puerto Rico to attend a testimonial dinner for Manchester in California, is ready to return Thursday to the Santurce team in the winter league. Frank Forbes, the New York Giants scout who is Willie's constant companion, says it "ain't so". Will is all tired out from too much baseball. Forbes says Willie plays with the same devil-may-care flourish in Puerto Rico as he did in the Polo Grounds last summer. Forbes had good reports on the Yankees' Bobby Cox and Elston Howard of the San Juan club and Roberto Clemente, Pittsburgh draft.

Washington stories that the United States army may be discharging draftees a month or two ahead of time revive hope among the ball clubs that they may get back Ray Boone, Gene Woodling, Wes Westrum, Sugar Bend Mizell, the St. Louis Cardinal southpaw hurler, and Billy Martin, the Yankee second baseman-shortstop, are two select players among the important factors next season . . .

Johnny Saxton Offered $65,000

BOSTON (AP) — Welterweight champion Johnny Saxton of Philadelphia Monday was offered $65,000 to defend his title against Tony Demarco of Boston Feb. 2 at Boston Garden. There was no immediate word from Saxton.

Callahan A. C. Promoter Sam Silverman said his offer is the largest ever made for a Boston fight.

Gets Feeler As Riders' Coach

BURLINGTON, Vt. (CP) — The Burlington Free Press says Ed Donnelly of the University of Vermont has been approached concerning a coaching job with Ottawa Rough Riders of the Big Four Football Union.

The story says Donnelly has also been approached by Dartmouth college and that he and Red Rolfe, Dartmouth athletic director, had already discussed the coaching job open at Hanover.

Donnelly is quoted as saying:

"I have not committed myself to anyone or anything."

Donnelly took over the coaching reins at Vermont in 1952 following a winless season in 1951. His teams lost only one game in seven this season.

Giants Sign Alex Webster Says Paper

MONTREAL (CP)—The Herald says Alex Webster, former all-star halfback with Montreal Alouettes and leading ground-gainer in the Big Four Football League, has signed a contract to try out next season with New York Giants of the National Football League, long-distance telephone call to the newspaper says that in Webster at his home in Kearney, N.J., the halfback said he had always wanted to play for the Giants.

The Herald quotes Webster as saying he received more attractive offers from other NFL clubs, but that he accepted the New York bid because he would be closer to his home and wants to play for Giants.

Wrestler Died Of Heart Attack

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP)—A coroner's jury ruled Monday that William Charles Rush, 37-year-old professional wrestler known as the Canadian Angel, died of a heart attack.

Rush collapsed in a dressing room Saturday night shortly after taking part in a tag team match with three other wrestlers at the Beach Arena. He was dead on arrival at a hospital.

Dr. W. J. Schlicker, pathologist, said after an autopsy that Rush also had a heart attack a year or more ago.

CAHA Moguls To Meet In Port Arthur

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—Some 45 members of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association will gather here Jan. 8 at the CAHA's semi-annual meeting to discuss proposals by members, including adoption of a proposed $70,000 budget.

The two-day meetings, which will draw delegates from across Canada, mark the first time in nearly 20 years that the CAHA has held its semi-annual meeting in this city. On the agenda are proposals by the Alberta and Manitoba branches of the CAHA.

Alberta wants a change in the rule which allows shooting the puck into the attacking zone and then scrambling in after it. It says this common hockey practice detracts from the game by encouraging high-sticking, holding and roughing.

Other proposals deal with control of the CAHA's treasurer and on transfer of players and scholarship awards.

W. B. (Baldy) George, CAHA president, will be chairman of the meetings, which will open Saturday.

Sam Jethroe Maple Leafs Buy

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Outfielder Sam Jethroe was sold outright Monday by the Pittsburgh Pirates to Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League.

The 33-year-old outfielder was active in only four games with the Pirates last season. Jethroe, a native of Martins Ferry, Ohio, started with the former Boston Braves and was on loan to Toronto last year.

Writers, Casters Name Marilyn Athlete of Year

TORONTO (CP)—Peri Marilyn Bell got another package for her bulging bag of year-end awards Monday. The Ontario Sports Writers and Sportscasters Association chose her as the province's athlete of the year for 1954.

The 16-year-old swimmer who participated in the poll made the 17-year-old swimmer such an emphatic choice in preliminary contracts from the game by encouraging high-sticking, holding and roughing.

Other proposals deal with control of the CAHA's treasurer and on transfer of players and scholarship awards.

W. B. (Baldy) George, CAHA president, will be chairman of the meetings, which will open Saturday.

Presentation of a plaque commemorating the award will be made in Toronto Feb. 17, at the association's annual 22nd-a-plate sports celebrities dinner—her cripple children.

Moss Weston, lacrosse goaltending ace from Peterborough, golfers Moe Norman of Kitchener and Marlene Stewart of Southhill and Harry Jennett, Kingston yachting ace, were others mentioned in this year's nominations.

Grid Fatalities In United States Show Increase

NEW YORK (AP)—For the second straight year U.S. football fatalities showed an alarming rise during the 1954 season, but there is no evidence at hand to connect this increase with the return of one-platoon football.

The annual 32nd report of Dr. Floyd Eastwood of Los Angeles State College to the American Football Coaches Association showed 19 deaths directly attributable to football and six indirect fatalities during the 1954 season. This was the highest total since 1940 and almost seven per cent higher than the average in the 28 years records have been kept.

As in previous years, most of the fatalities resulted from high school football, which utilized the two-platoon system after the colleges abolished it two years ago.

CHICAGO (AP)—There were 12 high school football fatalities during the 1954 season, the equivalent of 3.9 for each 100,000 participants, the national federation of state high school athletic associations reported Monday.

H. V. Porter, executive secretary, said that during a nine-year period the average fatal injury rate for football was 1.4 a 100,000.

Richard Incident Still Under Investigation

MONTREAL (CP) — The Richard incident of last Tuesday night in Toronto is still under investigation, president Red Dutton of the National Hockey League said Monday.

Campbell indicated full reports have not yet been received because of the travelling schedule of the officials who worked the game in which Maurice (Rocket) Richard of Montreal Canadiens fought with a major penalty and two 10-minute misconduct penalties.

Referee Storey was the referee and George Hayes and Bill Morrison the linesmen.

Newspaper reports of the game said Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs said Richard, after being checked hard, began battling with Leafs' Bob Bailey. When they were separated by the linesmen Richard used his gloves to slap Hayes across the face. Bailey was given a major penalty and one misconduct.

New Date Set For Baseball Suit

CHICAGO (AP) — Another contempt of court trial of a $13,000,000 anti-trust suit against 13 major league baseball clubs will be held Wednesday, attorneys in U.S. district court.

The suit, first filed by the now bankrupt Liberty Broadcasting System of Dallas, in February of 1951, was continued until April 18. The trial, following a string of postponements had been scheduled to start Monday. However, attorneys for both sides agreed on the new date.

All major league teams except Brooklyn, Cincinnati and the Chicago White Sox are named in the suit.

It charges violation of the Sherman and Clayton anti-trust laws and a "continuing conspiracy to monopolize and restrain competition in broadcasting and recreating play-by-play accounts of professional baseball games."

New TV Show, Norby, Given Green Light by Reviewers

By WAYNE OLIVER

NEW YORK (AP)—This is a review in advance of a new television show entitled Norby, making its debut on NBC Wednesday night. The recommendation: See it; you might like it.

David Swift, creator of Mr. Peepers, would seem to have an other sleeper in Norby if the first episode is any guide in advance. Its columnist is an indication of what's to come.

Norby, like Mr. Peepers, is only a gentle exaggeration on real life—enough to be humorous but not so overdone as to become slapstick and ridiculous, which is the formula in most situation comedies.

MILDLY SATIRICAL

The program brings to the TV screen a star of the Broadway stage, David Wayne of the hit play Teahouse of the August Moon, as the star of a mildly satirical portrayal of life in a small town.

Wayne is cast as the newly-promoted vice-president of a bank in Pearl River, N. Y., where the film actually is shot. Thelma Ritter, role of his wife is Nonde Joan Lorring of stage and screen. Others in the cast include Ralph Dumke of the stage as Mr. Rudge, bank vice-president and Norby's nemesis; Carol Veazie as Mrs. Maud Endless, bank president, and Susan Halloran and Evan Ellis as the Norby's children.

The appeal of the program lies in the close identification with real life and in its situations, perhaps changed around a bit, that have happened to so many people.

LOOKING TOO GLAMOROUS

David Wayne, a talented actor but an average-looking young man, gets a lot of humor by underplaying his part. If there's anyone out of character it's the glamorous Miss Lorring as a small-town housewife wed to a small-town banker.

Swift's newest creation is getting a more auspicious start than did Mr. Peepers. The latter show began as a low-budget summer replacement and was promptly dropped by its sponsor when the fall season started, only to be brought back when viewers flooded NBC with letters of protest. Now it's one of the major regular season shows.

Norby is starting out with a total budget of $4,000,000 for 39 weeks, with $40,000 a week for production alone. It's being filmed and telecast in color and will become the only weekly color show on the networks now that the film feature on NBC-TV is reverting to black and white.

Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, controversial atomic scientist, will be the featured guest of Edward R. Murrow on Person to Person on CBS television tonight (10:30 EST).

The Mutual radio networks will go all out for sports in a drastic broadening of its sports schedule. It will broadcast major college and pro baseball games, hockey, track and other sports events.

BIGGEST IN TWO YEARS

TORONTO (CP)—The theft of jewelry valued at over $10,000 from the People's Watch Company here during the weekend was described by police Monday as the biggest robbery of its kind in two years. Police said the thieves cut their way through the roof and dropped into the store to steal about 250 watches, gold-diamond rings and several lights.

Too much knowledge is a dangerous thing - for bridge beginners. Wise men say that best we learn good bridge fast? Start first with only a few rules that you can understand and apply accurately.

To my elementary classes, I announce: Opening bids divide into four groups; one bids, two bids, three bids, four bids. Learn only one bids and two bids until you are confident of them.

Ignore the three-bid and four-bid openings until you become a proficient player. Only then are you capable of taking on the extra freight that you must carry with openings of three and four.

In the first place, most players in your class do not know the meanings of your three bids or four bids. Even if they have a fair idea of these meanings they do not know the answers thereto, that is, they did know the answers thereto, they or you are not sure that you have the results now. Or, which is as likely, both of you have forgotten the correct answers from lack of usage.

If only one player in your pair is expert he still not good. Because even experts disagree on what it means and the expert of your pair is simply guessing on the results therefrom.

You have the south hand shown here:

♠ K 10 9 7 6
♥ 8 3
♦ 8 4 2

Do you have an opening one bid? No. Do you have an opening of two? No. Then, pass. Don't go monkeying with a three bid or a four bid opening unless you are too good to be sold anywhere.

Of course there are uses for three bids and four bids. They are highly specialized uses, however. And to make them work for a pair must be past the pushover stage.

You will hear more from me about these openings of three and four. This is simply by way of introducing the subject at this time. Even I dare not brush off the subject lightly.

Trent Valley Hockey League

The Point Anne Cementmen ran their undefeated streak to four games last night by handing the Trenton Admirals an 8-4 loss on a soft ice surface at Trenton. The win gave the Point-ers a four-point lead over the second place Belleville Juniors, whose game with Picton was not played.

Billy Strahan and Pat Gilmour were the top snipers for the winners, each firing three goals, while Gord Graham and Leo Goyer notched one marker each. Austin Scott was tops in a losing effort with two goals, while P. Scott and Leavey also scored.

The Admirals held the visitors to a narrow 3-2 edge in the opening period and the same in the second, while the Pointers netted a pair in the final session to salt away the victory.

Hill, the Trenton goaltender, was hit by a puck during the pre-game warmup and was replaced by Joe Gould, a near-50-year-old gentleman, who came up with some great saves during the first two periods. Hill returned for the final twenty minutes. Bates, in the net for Earl Anderson's crew, came up with a fine game when the Admirals pressed in the first period while Leo Goyer missed several good scoring chances for the Cementmen.

The second period featured wide-open play, Gould kicking out several close-in attempts. Gerry Goyer went well for the winners.

Play became rougher in the third period with a fight breaking out between Jack Goyer and Gerry Goyer of the Pointers and A. Scott and Campney of Trenton. Each received a major penalty.

The teams:

Point Anne—Bates, P. Maracle, Semark, C. Goyer, G. Goyer, Williams, Hurst, Stewart, Gilmour, Wardhaugh, Strahan, Hunter, Doran, Graham, Leiman.

Trenton — Gould, Hill, York, Campney, A. Scott, Cousins, Hatfield, P. Scott, Jones, P. Scott, Graham, Istead, Leavey, Reeves, Edmonds.

MARMORA—Stirling were visitors to Marmora on Monday evening in the Northern Section of the Trent Valley League and although putting up a good fight suffered defeat by the margin of 10-3.

They drew first blood as Wright beat Killian on Bert Mafedo's assist.

The homesters soon equalized through Leonard on Darrah's assist. The visitors returned to the attack again and Hermiston registered on a pass from McMurray; Carswell having netted on Jones' assist. Gray put the homesters ahead on Sweet's assist. Gazley followed in quick succession on assists from Moloney and Doyle. Stirling retaliated as he received from Hermiston but Gazley again netted for the homesters on assists from Carswell and Jones.

Gray got the sole goal in the second period scoring shortly before the period closed on Moloney's pass.

Marmora increased its lead in the third with Doyle scoring on assists from Moloney and Gazley. Maynes twisted by Leonard and Trumble, Carswell assisted and Trumble from Maynes' assist.

TEAMS

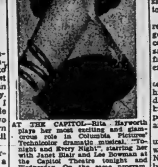
Catholics Urged Not to Vote For Certain Union

MOLINE, Ill. (AP) — Roman Catholic pastors Sunday urged parishioners working in the International Harvester Company plant at Rock Island not to vote for the farm equipment branch of the United Electrical Workers' union to represent them in collective bargaining.

"The issue is very clear," one pastor said. "If this were a political issue, it would be very different but it isn't. This is a moral issue. We believe the UE-FE union is Communist-dominated.

"We are simply reminding Catholics they cannot vote for or support in any other way, in good conscience, any organization that is Communist-dominated."



In announcements at all masses the pastors urged the workers to vote instead for the CIO United Auto Workers in the election to be conducted Thursday by the national labor relations board.

James Mason Raising Daughter To Follow in His Footsteps

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Here's one actor who is raising his daughter to be an actress—James Mason. Nearly all film stars with children shrink with horror if you suggest that their offspring might become child actors. Most of them say they want their children to finish their schooling before they embark on an acting career.

Not so James Mason. He not only favors the acting career of his daughter Portland, 8; he even directed her debut. He made a brief Christmas film that appeared on "Toast of the Town" and was shown in theatres here.

But Mason is always doing the unexpected. He blasted Hollywood without ever having been here. Now he is the town's strongest booster. He once backhanded William Saroyan for talking too loud in a movie. And recently he announced he would work only for his own company in the future and was virtually retiring as an actor.

ALWAYS ACTING

"Why shouldn't my daughter act?" Mason asked in the patio of his large Beverly Hills home. "She's acting all the time, making up little plays of her own and playing the Pied Piper. She enjoys it immensely. It seems to me she would be a frustrated individual if she were denied the opportunity to act.

"I am aware of the insufferable kind of child actor. I think much of their trouble comes because their parents rely on the child for their livelihood. It gets to be a matter of economic necessity and the child is often pushed into a life he does not enjoy.

"That's not true in our case. We will not have to depend on Portland's earnings to support us."

Mason said he is adhering to his vow to give up acting for the studios. His reason: "because I've always been a frustrated writer, director and producer. That's where the fun lies in this business." He said his company is mulling over a couple of feature picture ideas, one he would act as well as direct in them.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 5, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Friendly influences for continuing tasks or undertakings already begun; also for starting new projects if you understand what they are about. But withal, be careful about details.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Notations to Aries consonant with your indications now. The day can be pleasant, stimulating, and fruitful depending greatly on how you schedule and execute your tasks, etc. Don't worry.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Widely varied activities and interests are in the limelight today, and many of them can be advanced at least in some degree if handled in your most efficient manner. Caution advised in legal matters.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—The quality of effort rather than the quantity of returns looks to be important today. Keep spiritual values in mind, too, and your every endeavor will be better. All sound matters favored.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—Don't be too fixed in thought or action lest you miss good advantages. Elasticity of procedure is essential in this competitive world; at the same time, stick to good methods, equipment.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—You have a persuasive personality. This, plus your innate sincerity and intelligence, rightly used, can put you in "the black" now. But go carefully, don't overlook good leads.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Tendencies and opportunities similar to Gemini now. While advantages and benefits are favored, it is important that you give a good account of your ability and management. Be thorough.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Shrewd observation of how others make out in your environment — competitors and those in similar concerns—will help you to gain a better footing on which to advance and receive more benefits.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Your day's program may call for extra patience. Stress sensible management if you would carry out your plans and fulfill requirements. You have the ability. Use it.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Faster, more expert achievement can be yours now but you must put doubt and irritation behind you. Have faith in God's help and in your own fine ability. With these aids, go forward.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Outline your course of action for the day's requirements and, without wasting time and energy on unessentials, pitch in for the healthy score you can attain. Hard work, patience necessary.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — An overcrowded program is neither sensible nor rewarding. A wise allocation of tasks, without straining, will be progressive, bring bigger returns.

YOUR BORN TODAY: Dignity, perseverance, individuality and dependability are your outstanding assets. You are usually careful and cautious in business transactions and daily work, but do not be skeptical to the point of losing out on good opportunities. And do not worry or brood. Such tendencies obscure vision, cause you to slacken pace, can hamper your best efforts. Keep improving your education and know-how in your field, for achievement is possible—even late in life.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop came home from the office, saying to me, How do I look, my dear?

You look perfectly normal. I hope you feel all rite ma said, and pop said. I feel better than all rite, I feel all made over and glorified.

My goodness what happened? ma said, and pop said, Do you mean to say you dont notice anything new about me?

No, let me look again, ma said. No, I must admit I cant say that I do, she said, and pop said, That's discourraging, that takes the wind out of my sails and the starch out of my ego. Here I come home expecting exclamations of admiration and congradulation, and what am I greeted with. A cupple of blank stares, he said.

But for land sakes, William, I saw you when you left this morning and I see you now, and you're just as alike as a pea in a pod, ma said, and pop said, I give up, I hope I never hear you complain again that I never notice what you've got on, he said.

I'll look once more, but really, William, I mean actually, I'm baffled, ma said, and pop said, I'm the one that's baffled after all my time and expense.

Oh dear, you might as well tell me, and get the agony over, ma said, and pop said, There's nothing elits to do I guess. I paid 25 cents to have my shoes shined by a professional boot-black. I thought it was worth the money because I can never get such a bewitful gleem on them myself, but now I dont know, I'm all confused, he said.

Oh such a man, come and eat dinner, ma said.

Which he did, and so did I.

ENOUGH SONS FOR TWO BASEBALL TEAMS

King Saud of oil-rich Saudi Arabia recently held a family party on the grounds of the royal palace following the last mecca pilgrimage. Above, with his youngest son by his side, and surrounded by bodyguards, he watches the parade of Bedouin troops. Top, the king's sons gave an exhibition of sword dancing during the family get-together. The king, as may be inferred from this photo, is following the Moslem custom of raising a large family, preferably sons.—Central Press Canadian.

GUARD COASTS

LONDON (CP)—Britain's coastal lifeboats were called into service 638 times in 1954, a peacetime record for the 126-year-old National Lifeboat Institution.

Democratic Leader Predicts No Basic Disagreements

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Walter George of Georgia, a leading Democrat, says his party will have no "basic disagreements" with President Eisenhower over foreign, national defence and world trade policies in the United States Congress session opening Wednesday.

George, in line to become chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, spoke out after Republican legislative leaders predicted that the president's State of the Union message will be "well received" by the country.

Saying he doesn't believe the traditional message, which corresponds to the parliamentary speech from the throne, contains anything new or startling, Senator William F. Knowland of California, Republican floor leader, added that he thinks the message "will be well received by the Congress and the people."

NEW CONCEPT

Knowlnder was said to be stressing in the message a new defence concept in which proposed military manpower reductions would be offset by the employment of new weapons and closer links with the Allies.

The manpower cuts, already announced, have brought Democratic demands for a review of over-all military policy.

Some legislators said the message will be redrafted before the president's scheduled delivery at a joint session of Congress Thursday.

The new Congress convenes at noon Wednesday, with the Democrats taking over control, and then marks time until the president's message a day later.

Without direct reference to the message, George said in an interview that some something unforeseen develops, he believes relations between the White House and the Democrats in Congress will be good.

Had Unlucky Time

OSHAWA (CP) — Railway fireman Roddy French, 31, had an unlucky time Monday night.

First he fell from the top of an engine at the Canadian National Railways station here. He was given another job when the ambulance taking him to hospital collided with an automobile.

However, the damaged ambulance reached its destination and French was admitted for treatment of a bruised hip.

PANAMA PRESIDENT VICTIM OF ASSASSIN

Jose Antonio Remon, president of Panama, was assassinated by machine-gun fire as he stood under a bright light at a race track in Panama City. Arrested are a woman, believed to have exposed him to the gunfire, and former President Arnulfo Arias.

Prowler Strikes Sleeping Girl

TORONTO (CP) — A prowler clutched through a bedroom window here early today and struck a 14-year-old girl three blows with a hammer as she lay sleeping.

The prowler used a ladder to reach the second-storey window and fled by the same route.

Detectives said it appeared the girl—identified only as Ward—was a victim of mistaken identity. They said there was no attempt at theft and that possibly the attacker had mistaken the girl for her mother.

They said the girl suffered scalp lacerations but her injuries were "not too serious." She was taken to hospital.

Police were waiting to question the mother, who was at work when the attack took place.

FOOTBALL STILL USEFUL

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Dick Hyland, former Stanford football star and now a Los Angeles Times sports columnist, downed a would-be robber Monday with a flying tackle. Hyland said the man, brandishing a .45 automatic, accosted him as he parked his car, and demanded his money. Hyland tackled him and the gunman fled.

Odd Fellows, Rebekahs Make Presentation

TWEED — On Tuesday evening Odd Fellows and Rebekahs enjoyed a social evening in the Odd Fellows hall at Tweed.

District Deputy Grand Master Joseph Poulter, of Campbellford (Madoc District, No. 45) presented the showing of a sound film, "A Century of Progress," depicting the great humanitarian work of the order, especially through its Cancer, Polio and Tuberculosis Fund and Hospital Bed Committee.

COLORFUL PAGEANTRY

The film revealed some of the colorful pageantry at grand lodge, a church parade at Kingston, in which the Picton Odd Fellows band is seen; the Odd Fellows' home at Barrie, with scenes showing the Christmas is spent there, the order's rehabilitation centre at the Gravenhurst sanatorium, where hospital beds, wheel chairs and other appliances are supplied to the stricken in various ways.

Some of the fund-raising projects were also depicted in the film which marks the first hundred years of Odd Fellowship in the Province of Ontario.

After the showing of the film refreshments were served by the ladies.

PRESENTATION MADE

The gathering was called to order by Norman Thompson, Noble Grand of the lodge, and Mr. Albert Baker, one of the oldest members, was called on to convey congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. John Sager, who the day previous had celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

He then presented them with a beautiful heirloom chenille bedspread. Although taken completely by surprise, Mr. Sager on behalf of Mrs. Sager and himself, expressed to all the members of both Odd Fellows and Rebekahs their sincere appreciation for their thoughtfulness on this their wedding anniversary.

D.D.G.M. Poulter at this time extended to Mr. and Mrs. Sager greetings from the Grand Master, Bro. Newton Foster (a Tweed boy).

A social half hour was enjoyed before departing for home.

WELSH CLIMBER KILLED

CAERNARVON, Wales (Reuters) — 22-year-old Oxford University law student, Tim Bown, crashed 100 feet to his death Monday on the ice-bound rocky slopes of 3,560-foot-high Snowdon, tallest mountain in England and Wales. He was making a difficult climb with two other students when a piece of rock came away in his grip.

Sheppard Loses First Appeal For New Trial

CLEVELAND (AP)—Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard, under a life prison sentence in the killing of his wife, Marilyn, has lost the first round of his fight for a new trial.

Late Monday Judge Edward Blythin ruled there was "not merit" in any of 41 complaints of error in the 10-week trial which ended Dec. 21 with a jury convicting the 31-year-old osteopath of second-degree murder.

Another round in the fight for a new trial is scheduled for Saturday. Then Sheppard's lawyers get a hearing on their motion based on "newly discovered evidence."

There is a chance that this hearing will be put off to a later date, but until it is held by Judge Blythin an appeal to higher courts must wait.

While the legal battle goes on for a new trial in which Sheppard again would risk death in the electric chair, the convicted man remains in county jail.

Although the sentence imposed on him is for life, he additionally would be eligible for parole after 10 years.

U.S. Wants to Buy Natural Gas From Canada

WASHINGTON (AP) — Northern Natural Gas Co., Omaha, Neb., today sought before the United States tariff commission approval to import gas from Canada to increase its deliveries to present customers and to supply 66 additional American cities.

The company proposes to buy 1,000,000 cubic feet a day from Trans-Canada Pipe Lines, Ltd., Toronto, for its 16 line near Minneapolis. This pipeline would cost about half of the company's proposed $63,000,000 expansion program for 1955.

Northern is seeking quick action on its proposal so that its construction program can be completed before next fall. Its contract with Trans-Canada would become effective on ..., 57.

Northern now serves companies supplying gas to 307 cities in Nebraska, Kansas, Minnesota, South Dakota and Iowa. Its expanded service would extend into North Dakota and Wisconsin.

NEW CUSTOMERS

The company wants to increase its daily capacity this year by 133,000,000 cubic feet, with all except 32,000,000 feet of the increase coming from Canadian fields.

Of the new gas, 72,000,000 cubic feet would go to present customers. New communities would receive 61,000,000.

The proposed pipeline from Canada would extend from the international boundary in Manitoba down the North Dakota side of the Red river, crossing into Minnesota to serve new communities and connecting with Northern's present line at Moorhead.

Thus far no Canadian gas has been imported into the U.S.

GIRL CARRIED BETS

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Police Monday questioned an 11-year-old girl whom they said had delivered betting slips to a vacant house daily for the last two weeks. The youngster told police she was given $2.25 a week for her packages into a fire bucket at the vacant house. She refused to name the persons who hired her.

TURN ABOUT

CHIGWELL, England (CP)—Municipal authorities of this Essex town want to borrow £75,000, so they can lend money to persons wishing to buy homes.

Bonn Diplomat Will Not Return To London Post

BONN (Reuters)—Oskar Schlitter, West German diplomat hastily withdrawn from the London embassy after his wife spoke out of turn and created a full-blown international incident, will not be returning to the London post, foreign office sources here said today.

But the sources said the foreign office will wait until the current storm has blown over before deciding on Schlitter's offer of resignation.

Mrs. Daisy Schlitter's remark in a speech at an embassy Christmas party that Britain was an "enemy country" brought an official apology to Britain Monday.

MIXED UP

A West German government statement said Mrs. Schlitter, speaking extemporaneously when her charge d'affaires husband was called away on business, had suffered from nervousness and got her words mixed up. What she had meant, the statement said, was that Germans had to be careful in foreign countries where the horrors of the Second World War are not forgotten. Her expression, it conceded, was "unacceptable."

Meanwhile, Mrs. Schlitter, "Miss Germany" of 1951 and a former movie actress, is in hospital suffering a reported breakdown.

BOY LOOKS, DIES

BOSTON (AP) — A 13-year-old altar boy was killed Monday when his head became caught in a freight elevator in the basement of the rectory of Mission Roman Catholic church. Companions said Robert Canney looked into the elevator well as the lift descended.

Canada Appeals To U.S. To Save Trade Agreement

Howe, Pearson and Harris Carry Plea to Washington

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada is to appeal to the United States Thursday to thrust aside her policy of import restrictions in a move to avert a crisis threatening to weaken and possibly destroy a seven-year trade pact encompassing 80 per cent of the Free World's international trade.

The appeal will be made by Trade Minister Howe, External Affairs Minister Pearson and Finance Minister Harris in a special Washington conference with U.S. State Secretary Dulles, Agricultural Secretary Benson and Treasury Secretary Humphrey.

Authorities say that on the Washington talks may hinge the fate of the 37-country General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade. Negotiations to tighten the pact and reduce import curbs that hamper world trade now are going on at Geneva.

GATT COLLAPSE FEARED

Mr. Howe has had a quick look at the Geneva talks last month and after discussions with United Kingdom officials he has decided a meeting with American cabinet officials is necessary. He told a press conference on his return that the Geneva negotiations were going badly and that he could not rule out a possible collapse of GATT. Canada and Britain have several problems arising out of the Geneva meeting. The cabinet plans to return Thursday night to attend the opening of Parliament Friday.

It is understood the U.S. has shown resistance at Geneva to moves that would reduce her powers to impose import curbs when she has a balance of payments difficulty.

Currently, the U.S restricts imports of grain and dairy products. Canada and some European countries have complained that this interferes with their export trade and prosperity and have charged the curbs are breaches of U.S. agreements under GATT.

McLeod Garage, Frankford, Burns, Loss $10,000

FRANKFORD.—(Special.) — A young Frankford father and mother and their family of three were evacuated from their home in near zero weather early today when the Rohl McLeod Garage on South Trent street, was destroyed by fire causing loss put estimated at approximately $10,000.

The burning garage was only 15 feet from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon McNes who evacuated their dwelling after it caught fire on several occasions.

The Frankford volunteer fire department under Chief Lloyd Dafoe saved the McNes home but with only minor damage but were unable to do anything to save the McLeod garage.

The fire was discovered by Mrs. McLeod shortly before four o'clock, when she was awakened by flames from the burning structure about 40 feet from their home. The frame, one storey building was almost ready to collapse when the blaze was discovered.

Two cars inside the garage were burned in the blaze. One of the autos was owned by Mr. McLeod's son, Wayne, and the other by a cramer, Mrs. Walter Mesarvey.

Cause of the blaze was not determined but it was thought it may have started through failure of the automatic stoker on the furnace. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

Ford Talks Adjourned For Two Days

TORONTO (CP)—Little progress was reported Tuesday as talks aimed at settling the long Ford of Canada strike were adjourned for two days.

Emil Mazey, international secretary-treasurer of United Automobile Workers (CIO-CLC) said the two parties were "still a long way from reaching settlement."

The strike now is in its 87th day.

Both parties agreed to the adjournment to permit Mr. Mazey to attend a regular executive board meeting of the international union in Detroit.

Negotiations will resume Friday afternoon and may continue during the weekend.

Rubber Company Building Burns

SAINT JOHN, N. B. (CP)—Fire raced through a foundatory rubber company building on the west side of John waterfront early today, causing damage estimated at $100,000.

A policeman turned in the alarm as he noticed flames in the Dunlop Rubber Company building and the minister later the fire has spread to all floors of the structure.

Fireman Leonard Crawford suffered minor injuries while fighting the outbreak and was taken to hospital.

CHARGE LIQUOR DILUTED

BOSTON (AP) — Twenty-six Boston cafes and eight clubs face federal prosecution for allegedly selling liquor which had been watered and tainted with inferior brands. It was reported reliably Tuesday night that the alcohol tax unit will prosecute.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO. (CP) —Synopsis: Cloud has spread across most of Ontario ahead of a threatening disturbance just south of Lake Michigan and the weather today and Thursday will be controlled by this storm as the very warm air south of the Great Lakes clashes with the colder air over Ontario.

MONTREAL BUREAU OF DETECTIVES IS REORGANIZED

Police Force Shakeup Continued by Drapeau

MONTREAL (CP)—A sweeping reorganization of Montreal's detective bureau went into effect today as the city's new broom administration continued its shakeup of the police force.

Most important figure in the reshuffling was Asst. Insp. Henry Bond, who relinquished his post as head of the homicide and holdup squads to Asst. Insp. William Fitzpatrick. Other high-ranking officials in the department took on additional duties or were transferred to new posts within the detective bureau.

The shakeup came only a few days after Asst. Insp. Romeo Longpre, a 28-year veteran on the force, was suspended for tolerating alleged irregularities during the municipal elections Oct. 25 that swept reform Mayor Jean Drapeau and a number of Civic Action League candidates into power.

REFUSED TO QUIT

Longpre was asked to resign after a meeting of police officials. He refused and was suspended.

Longpre was the assistant to former detective chief Inspector Wilfrid Beaudoin, who resigned shortly after the new mayor took office.

Some 75 persons were arrested election day for impersonating voters at the polls. Mayor Drapeau and Pierre Desmarais, chairman of the city executive committee, later charged that many were released by police without proper authority.

One person has been convicted following the vote—a conviction for such an offense in Montreal history—and 20 cases are pending.

Insp. Georges Allain, newly-appointed head of the detective bureau, said the reorganization of the department was made in the interests of "greater efficiency." Every man in the office will come under the direct control and supervision of an assistant inspector.

Official Action Not Taken In New Townsite

MILTON, Ont. (CP) — Mayor H. C. Heslop said Tuesday night no official action has been taken by council for development of a satellite town under an industrial expansion plan for this area.

He was commenting on a report that a dozen British manufacturers are preparing to build factories and 1,500 homes for workers in a new townsite just south of here.

Mayor Heslop said expropriation of the area would be the only means of getting the land for development.

"Council has never been asked to expropriate land. It has not discussed such a move," he said.

Robert Campbell of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce told council Tuesday night the promoters of the townsite, Dominion Canadian Development Ltd., who have been working with Canadian and British council to draw up plans for bringing British skilled labor to the townsite.

NOT SATISFIED

OTTAWA (CP) — Mayor Charlotte Whitton announced Tuesday Ottawa is slated to get $41,831 less than 1954 dollars from the federal government in 1955 in lieu of taxes on federal properties. She said the proposed $1,396,101 payment doesn't satisfy her and she will discuss the wording with Prime Minister St. Laurent and Finance Minister Harris.

Freezing Rain Expected Tonight

TORONTO (CP)—Freezing rain is expected in Southern Ontario and Niagara regions this afternoon and evening, the Dominion public weather office here announced at noon today.

The snow will change the announcement in a special weather warning.

Earlier it forecast occasional snow mixed with rain tonight changing to rain or drizzle. It said cloud spread across most of Ontario this morning ahead of a threatening disturbance just south of Lake Michigan.

Thaw Slowly Reducing to Heavy Slush Deepest Snow Cover in Seven Years

LONDON (AP)—A big thaw set in over southern England and Wales today, slowly reducing to heavy slush the deepest snow cover in seven years.

The fall of dense, sticky snow let up during the night and by dawn rail and road travel gradually returned to normal.

Tuesday's storm belt extended over 55 counties south of a line from Liverpool to the Suffolk coast. Some 50,000 square miles were blanketed by snow. It was the deepest snow storm since 1947. Easterly gale-force winds whipped up drifts of eight, 16 and 12 feet in places. Worst hit was the west of England, where villages were cut off when rail and road links could not with the wet snow.

In London, where about six inches fell, subways and buses were still jammed today as many car owners decided against driving through the dirty slush and over treacherous packed snow.

The harbor at Great Yarmouth in eastern England was closed to shipping and Saturday's gale toppled a concrete buttress into the entrance channel.

MR. HARRIMAN TAKES OFFICE

Averell Harriman, left, was administered the oath as governor of the state of New York by Chief Justice Albert Conway at the executive mansion in special pre-inaugural ceremonies in Albany. Mr. Harriman became New York State's 48th governor and the first Democratic party governor in 11 years. (Central Press Canadian).

Cabinet Puts Final Touches To Its Legislative Program

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's legislative program for the opening of Parliament Friday is about ready for presentation.

Some final touches were applied by the cabinet Tuesday in its last full-dress meeting before parliament convenes.

However, Prime Minister St. Laurent had no announcements on ministerial action after the four-hour sitting. Those were left unspoiled in the speech from the throne delivered at the opening.

About the only decision concerning Tuesday's meeting were that the ministers discussed the renewal of treasury subsidies to gold mines and the current difficulties involved in renegotiating the International General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

Informants said the cabinet discussed the gold subsidy question but came to no final conclusion. It has been reported the ministers are planning to renew the subsidy through 1955 but under a revised formula that would reduce its over-all cost. Annual cost now is about $18,000,000.

Slow progress at the GATT discussions have been giving concern to the government since Trade Minister Howe's return last week from Geneva, where the trade negotiations have been taking place.

Dag Hammarskjold Arrives In Peiping, Then Meets Chou

TOKYO (CP) — Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold of the United Nations arrived in Peiping today and shortly afterward met Chou En-lai, Red China's premier and foreign minister, the Chinese Communists radio said.

A broadcast heard here made no immediate mention of the reason for the secretary-general's mission—to secure the release of 11 American airmen and other UN prisoners of Red China.

Chou did not go to the Peiping airport to greet the secretary-general.

Among diplomats greeting him were the Russian, Czecho-Slovak, Polish, Indian and Swedish ambassadors and a representative of the British charge d'affaires in Peiping.

Hammarskjold had been scheduled to fly straight from Canton to Peiping after his delicate negotiations with Chou Tuesday. But the Chinese plane stopped at Hankow and flew the last 600 miles to Peiping this morning.

The government offered no explanation of why the UN party was delayed in Hankow.

The apparent absence of premier and foreign minister Chou En-lai at the airport appears significant. Peiping radio earlier had described in great detail how Chou went to the airport to welcome visiting Indian Prime Minister Nehru and Burmese Prime Minister U Nu.

Ask $100 Million To Untangle Montreal Traffic

MONTREAL (CP)—An "immediate appropriation" by the Quebec government of $100,000,000 to untangle Montreal's traffic was asked today by Lucien Piquet, president of the Royal Automobile Club of Canada.

In his report to the 51st annual meeting of the club's Quebec division, Mr. Piquet declared:

"A reasonable annual sum would justify an immediate appropriation of $100,000,000 for early relief of public works to aid motor vehicle transportation on the Island of Montreal, I am going to ask the members today to adopt a resolution authorizing the club to ask the government to implement this request for fairness and justice to our metropolitan area."

His remarks were included in the text of an address issued before delivery.

In all, Quebec motorists pay nearly $100,000,000 into the provincial treasury, or almost 25% of total provincial budget, Mr. Chaput said.

"Since today's economy is predominantly motor-borne, it should be the aim of all municipal authorities to provide adequate facilities for the operation of all classes of motor vehicles by building one of the finest and most modern systems of highways on the continent," he added.

THREATEN PATTERSON JR.

PHENIX CITY, Ala. (AP)—John Patterson, Alabama attorney-general-elect, said Tuesday night he has received a telephone call threatening his life. The young lawyer, whom father, A. L. Patterson, was murdered in Phenix City after winning the nomination for the post on an anti-vice platform, assumes office Jan. 17.

U.S. GOVT. PUTS RESTRAINING HAND ON STOCK MARKET

Buyers Must Put Up 60P.C. of Purchase Price

By FRANK O'BRIEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States government put out a moderately restraining hand today to curb a recent stock market boom, calling for purchasers of stocks to put up at least 60-per-cent cash instead of the previous 50 per cent.

The action, announced by the federal reserve board late Tuesday, was promptly protested by the New York stock exchange president, Keith Funston, as restraining "the proper function of the market and the free interplay of the basic law of supply and demand."

The increased "down payment" is effective on stocks bought today and hereafter.

STEADY ADVANCE

The stock market has been bullish and advancing for more than 15 months, and since the congressional elections in November it has been surging ahead with almost unprecedented speed.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks stood Tuesday at $158.40, a new high by the peak of $157.79 Sept. 3, 1929, shortly before the big 1929 crash. There was also no federal cash minimums in 1929.

The federal board's action has more a preventive than a firefighting effect. It does not raise by one-fifth—from 50 to 60 per cent—the margin or cash requirement in new transactions.

NO AUTHORITY

The government has no authority to regulate stock prices. It has only authorities the reserve board only to "prevent the excessive use of credit in the stock market." The theory behind the action is that a rise in the cash requirement will cut down on speculative buying.

New York brokers generally agree that speculation on margin was a major factor in the present boom. The ratio of money borrowed from brokers to lend for margin trading is only about one per cent of the value of all securities listed on the New York stock exchange. In 1929 it was nearly 10 per cent.

It is possible the action might given stimulate market activity. Some officials concede that the boost in margin requirements may lead to actual use of margin buying.

The five men were arrested on warrants by the attorney-general's department three weeks ago after an attempt by the United States justice department to have Link and Green extradited to Detroit failed in Superior Court here.

BERLIN (AP)—West Berlin police Tuesday night announced the arrest of a 50-year-old German mechanic who tapped telephones to gather information for a Communist intelligence organization. He said he had worked at a switchboard in the British sector.

Toronto Citizen Grabs Man Who Assaulted Girls

Manages to Hold Assailant Until Police Reach Scene

TORONTO (CP) — Police laid three charges of assault against Josiah Pringle, 30, of Toronto, following attacks today on two female employees of a downtown cocktail bar.

Betty Morrison, a cashier, and Shirley Morgan, a hat check girl, were attacked as they left the tavern to go home, police said.

Miss Morrison was knocked unconscious when a man shoved her across a row of garbage cans. A passerby intervened to save the girls from further assault.

Police said the attack had no connection with recent attacks by a man known as the strangler.

Robert Brady of New Toronto arrived on the scene, was knocked down and kicked but caught and held the man until police arrived.

Two Factions in Soviet Hierarchy Are Struggling for Supremacy

Editor's Note: Is the top about to blow off the "committee rule" that succeeded Stalin as the supreme power in the Soviet Union? Two former Moscow Associated Press correspondents appraise the possibilities in this article.

By TOM WHITNEY and
WILLIAM R. RYAN

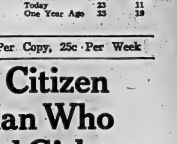
NEW YORK (AP)—Moscow's recent pronouncements suggest that two distinct factions in the Soviet hierarchy are struggling for supremacy. The argument may yet have to be settled by armed purge in high places.

Unmistakable differences in the Soviet press to serious heresies and factionalism within the Communist party itself.

All signs seem to point to this sort of struggle.

On one side—the Communists of the Stalin school, devoted to the principle of dynamic-communism which has produced such dangerous situations as the Berlin blockade and the Korean war.

On the other side—Communists of more conservative and cautious leanings who believe that time is on their side and they can play the waiting game while building internally. This sort of approach led to the Korean and Indochinese truces and to surface slackening of world tensions after Stalin's death.



The Soviet press, reflecting the views of the Communist leadership, has been going through a strange series of reversals ever since Stalin died. From a peaceful tone it has gone over to one of belligerence on the international scene. Foreign Minister Molotov's statements bristle with threats and bluster.

Yet, with confusing suddenness, the Soviet press then took on a tone of hurt dismay that President Malenkov's proposal for a high-power negotiation of East-West tensions received so cool a reception in the West.

All this is accompanied by increasing prominence for the Central Committee, which is composed of the Communist party, Nikita Khrushchev, and the Soviet premier, Malenkov.

By Leninist definition, Soviet foreign policy simply is an extension of domestic policy all keyed to the ultimate goal of a world dominated by Soviet communism. Thus the twists in foreign policy can reflect indecision and even disputes inside the Kremlin walls.

Prince Edward Junior Farmers Capture Prize

TORONTO (CP)—Harold Shirley of Preston Tuesday night won the Junior Farmers' Association public speaking competition.

In music competition held in connection with the association's annual meeting, Prince Edward county junior farmers won the mixed quartet award. Ontario county won the male quartet competition and No 6 in Cumberland county won the ladies' trios.

Japan's Premier Outlines Policy Towards Reds

TOKYO (AP) — Prime Minister Ichiro Hatoyama Tuesday spelled out his program for improving Japan's diplomatic relations with neighbors Red China and Russia.

Hatoyama gave this order for "removing obstacles standing in the way of better relations" with the two Communist countries: Free travel between countries; lifting of restrictions on trade; exchange of economic missions.

Hatoyama in an interview said normalization of relations with Russia and Red China "will not lead to war even in Japan but will lead to world peace."

Japan is still at war with both, since Russia refused to sign the San Francisco peace treaty and Red China was not invited to the treaty meeting.

Accuse Five Men Of Big Swindle

MONTREAL (CP) — Five men accused of swindling investors in a $341,000 sale of worthless stocks in Montreal Tuesday were ordered imprisoned until Jan. 27 Tuesday.

The postponement of the cases of Walter Link, Jack Green and Lou Wyman, all of Montreal, and George A. Caldwell and Wilfrid Bergeron of Toronto came after their lawyers asked that the informations be quashed. The men are accused of fraud, conspiracy and illegal use of the mails.

The five men were arrested on warrants by the attorney-general's department three weeks ago after an attempt by the United States justice department to have Link and Green extradited to Detroit failed in Superior Court here.

Deaths of Children Ruled as Accident

ST. ELZEAR, Que. (CP) — The deaths of four children, trapped in a blazing two-storey house because they ran upstairs to avoid fire, Tuesday night were ruled accidental by a coroner's jury here.

The four died in the fire that ravaged the home of Mrs. Ida Micheline, 34, and Rene, 41, children of Mr. and Mrs. Yves Vachon.

Three-month-old Gaetan was rescued from the blaze by a fireman who found him fell to the upper floor by a neighbor after the other four children had fled to the upper storey.

Dutchies Will Use Brooker

KITCHENER (CP) — Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen officials said today they expect to use left-winger Charlie Brooker against Owen Sound Mercurys in an Ontario Hockey Association Senior A game here tonight.

They said Stratford Indians have dropped all claim to Brooker who has been assigned to the Indians but refused to report to the club. The Indians previously obtained left-winger Maurice Leveque from the Montreal Canadiens but did not pay for him. It is reported that dropping the claim to Brooker will square the Leveque account for the Indians.

One of Three Nudes Removed, Phillips Happy

TORONTO (CP) — One of three pictures of nudes, objected to by Mayor Nathan Phillips, today was removed from a display at Hart House, University of Toronto.

The picture, one pen sketch and two pencil drawings, are part of an exhibition arranged by the joint faculty-student committee.

The one removed showed a man and a woman embracing and was part of a display of 35 pictures by Toronto artists Graham Coughtry and Michael Snow.

"I'm satisfied," the mayor said. "The ones taken down was quite offensive. The other two are only controversial."

Joseph McCulley, Hart House warden, said the picture was only taken down "in consideration for the committee. The mayor had asked that all three be removed.

Canning Growers Of Seven Counties To Meet in City

Eastern Ontario canning crop growers from the seven counties reading from Ontario on the west to Lennox and Addington on the east will convene in the Belleville Collegiate auditorium on Thursday, January 19th for a can crop conference during which growers' problems will be discussed.

The meeting is sponsored by can crop growers and the Ontario Vegetable Growers' Marketing Board.

Chairman for the conference will be Dwight O. Reynolds, of Picton, with talks on the various can crops scheduled from experts who will tell what's new in crop research.

Speaking on peas will be C. B. Sayre, Child, Vegetable Crops Division, New York State Agriculture Experimental Station, Geneva, N.Y. Tomatoes will be dealt with by L. H. Lyall, M.Sc., senior horticulturist Canada Department of Agriculture, and William Forbes, manager of Stokes Seed Farms, St. Catharines.

Other executive members installed yesterday were: Vice-president, Al Drysdale; secretary, Charles Lawrence; directors, Hugh Murray, Vic White, Harold Craig, Don Stanton, Harry Trepanier, Jack Ford, Lloyd Rombough.

In a brief, witty speech Mr. McKenna thanked the members for the honor bestowed on him. He named his committee chairmen for 1958 as follows: Membership Stu Robb; publishing rental, Mark Cunningham; directory, Community welfare, Ken Box; boys' and girls' Bev Quincey; Boy Scouts, Bill Riley; Rev. Don Ross; sports, Ab Lloyd; programs, Rod Carscallen; public affairs, Dal Dalrymple; vocational guidance, J. E. Licence Buyers Lining Up For New Plates

For the majority of Front Street merchants the big problem has been to get customers into their stores during the Christmas shopping season but that is not the case here at the corner of Front and Dundas Sts. Symons, local auto licence issuer.

In fact when Mr. Symons, business has been booming and customers are lining up at the door to speed their purchases.

The local licence issuer said that since Monday morning when the 1958 car licences went on sale customers have been waiting in line to get their new markers. Tuesday afternoon they were lined up the full length of the store.

"Come back next week," was the cry from Mr. Symons, whose rush of the early birds will be over by that time."

Expansion Plan To Cost Million

TORONTO—(CP)—The Anglican Church will spend up to $1,000,000 during the next two years in an expansion program in Toronto, church officials said today.

The money will be used for purchase of new sites and for loans to newly-formed congregations, said Archdeacon F. P. Dann, director of church extension.

Police Blotter

Both city and provincial police reported a quiet night with no more than minor occurrences during the past 24 hours.

Provincial police had a clean slate while no accidents while city police reported one motor mishap on North Front Street, which resulted in about $400 damage.

David W. Huffman, R.R. 8, Belleville, was southbound when he stopped on the loose gravel portion of the roadway and a following auto, driven by Lyall Leavens, Corbyville, was unable to stop on the slippery roadway and crashed into the stopped vehicle.

The only other incident reported by city police was a "unlaid" auto. A Consecon resident parked his car on a West Hill street and when he returned he could not find the car. Police found the car—on the next street.

'Staff' McKenna New President Kiwanis Club

Stafford (Staff) McKenna yesterday was elected president of the Belleville Kiwanis Club at an induction meeting in the club centre. He succeeds Larry Kells.

Yesterday's meeting, first of the new year for the club, saw formal induction of the Kiwanis executive and directorate for 1958. Past International vice-president Bill Cockburn, Toronto, conducted the ceremony and in inducting Mr. McKenna reminded him of the duties and obligations of the presidency. The original Kiwanis president was first used in 1933, was presented to the new president. In turn Mr. McKenna installed Larry Kells as past president of the club.

Other executive members installed yesterday were: Vice-president, Al Drysdale; secretary, Charles Lawrence; directors, Hugh Murray, Vic White, Harold Craig, Don Stanton, Harry Trepanier, Jack Ford, Lloyd Rombough.

In a brief, witty speech Mr. McKenna thanked the members for the honor bestowed on him. Thinly Clothed West Indians Reach London

By RON EVANS

LONDON (CP)—Dressed in all kinds of thin, flimsy clad West Indians rolled into London Tuesday night to find the first snowfall of the mid-winter ankle-deep snow.

The 146 dark-skinned immigrants arrived after a gruelling 22-hour train journey across Europe. They had sailed from the Barbados to Genoa, Italy, and then travelled non-stop through France, Belgium and Dover. Their train arrived seven hours late.

The scene in Victoria Station is one which is repeated almost every week as more and more West Indians pour into Britain in search of work.

Some 10,000 West Indians entered Britain last year. Officials estimate between 15,000 and 20,000 may arrive in 1958.

Canada's Stock Exchanges to Set Their Own Rules

OTTAWA (CP)—The governors of Canada's stock exchanges will have to decide for themselves whether the cash down-payment requirements for Canadian stock purchases should be increased, federal financial officials said today.

They were commenting on Tuesday's action by the United States government to restrain the surging U. S. stock market by calling for purchasers of stocks to put up at least 90 per cent cash instead of the previous 50 per cent.

The Canadian exchanges at Montreal and Toronto set minimum margins—cash down payments—at 50 per cent for the highest-priced stocks with increased margins on the lower-priced issues. The exchanges are set by the exchange governors.

The funeral of Eugene Ingram was held on Monday afternoon at the home of his mother, Mrs. Ingram street, Stirling with the Rev. H. C. Secker, rector of St. John's Church of England, officiating. Members of his class at public school attended the service.

The bearers were: Messrs. Chris Ackers, Bob Fetzer, Ray Hermiston, Ronald Hadley, John Smith and Maurice Montgomery. The interment was in Stirling vault.

SHIRLEY LEONARD (Marmora)

The funeral of Shirley Elizabeth Anne Leonard was held on Monday afternoon, January 6 in Springbrook United church with her pastor, the Rev. H. E. Beare, officiating. Several students of King George High school, Stirling, were in attendance at the service.

The bearers were, Messrs. Jack Reid, Wally Jackson, Bill Ballesion, Alex Fleming, Bill McKeown and Lloyd Barton.

The interment was made in Marmora vault.

GEORGE A. WOODS (Melford, Sask.)

Former resident of Sidney township, George A. Woods of Melfort, Sask., died December 22nd in the Melfort union hospital. He was 87.

Mr. Woods was born in Madoc township and attended school in Sidney township and at Albert College, Belleville. He emigrated in 1906 where for many years he operated a hardware business. He retired two years ago.

He took an active interest in the development of Melfort and was closely connected with the town's early growth. He served on school boards and town council.

An ardent sportsman he loved to fish and hunt and was a lover of all sporting activities. He was an active curler and served on curling and hockey club executives. He also served on the board of the Melfort United Church.

He is survived by his wife and two sons, Roy of Sidney township and Frank of Melfort, Sask. and three daughters Mrs. C. J. (Katherine) Finnie of Melfort, Mrs. Archie (Jean) Hamilton of Red Deer, Alta., and Miss Maxine Woods of Toronto.

Also surviving are three brothers, William Woods of Foxboro, Frank Woods, R. R. 2 Frankford and Harry Woods of Revelstoke, B.C. and two sisters, Mrs. Margaret Diamond of Salmon Arm, B.C. and Mrs. Annie Mills of Belleville.

MRS. HESTER MAE BLAKELY

The funeral of Mrs. Hester Mae Blakely was held Tuesday, January 4 from the chapel of the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home. Rev. J. McMurray conducted the service. During the service Miss Nellie Bell and Mrs. Verna Johnson sang a duet.

Bearers were Blake McMillen, Clifford Wilson, Milton Robson, Roscoe Robson, Clayton Wright and Asy Wright.

Interment took place in Belleville cemetery.

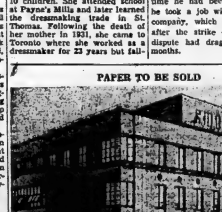
MISS MARY McMILLAN

The death occurred on December 29th in Bancroft Red Cross Hospital of Miss Mary McMillan, daughter of John McMillan and his wife the former Mary Jane McMullen. Her parents resided in Hurlbutton township but later moved to Payne's Mills, west of St. Thomas and here Mary was born, the youngest in a family of 10 children. She attended school at Payne's Mills and later learned the dressmaking trade in St. Thomas. Following the death of her mother in 1931, she came to Toronto where she worked as a dressmaker for 23 years but failing health compelled her to move last October she came to Bancroft. For a time she was better but an attack of asthma brought her to the hospital where she passed away the next morning.

She was a faithful member of Olivet Presbyterian Church in Toronto and over the years very active in the Sunday School and W.M.S. She also was greatly interested in the Grenfell Mission, the Jewish Mission and the Toronto Bible College of which she was a graduate, but her health finally no longer permitted participation.

Left to mourn her passing are two nieces, Miss Florence Young of Hollywood, Cal., and Miss Grace Young of Detroit and one nephew, Mr. John Young of St. Thomas, as well as cousins, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Hutchinson of Petlar, Miss Bessie McMullen of Halloway and Miss Dorothy Moore of Ottawa who were the only mourners able to attend the funeral. Mrs. Janey Seeley, Mr. Hugh McMillan and Mr. Albert McMillan of Ivanhoe are also cousins of the deceased. A wide circle of friends in St. Thomas and Toronto also will regret to learn of her death.

She was the last of her family. The funeral service was held at the Hastlin Funeral Home in Bancroft last Wednesday evening by the Rev. Wm. Smith.



Burial took place in the family plot in Forest Cemetery at St. Thomas, Ontario.

Bomb Wrecks Worker's Home

MALDEN, Mass. (AP) — The home of a worker employed at the Parkhound Aerial Products Co. of Boston was wrecked early today by a gang of men armed with home-made bombs.

Police said Joseph M. Sa, his wife Alice, also 58, and their house keeper, Ethel Holtzer, said they fled in terror to the home of a neighbor after every window in the house was broken and bottles of ammonia buried through the broken windows.

Peterson said it was the second time he had been harmed since he took a job with the provision company, which hired new help after the strike over a contract dispute had dragged on several months.

Taking in Wash, Toronto Woman Attacked by Man

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. Edna Feeney is suffering bruises and scratches and had her clothes torn Tuesday night when she was attacked by a man while she was taking in her washing.

Police said the man fled when Mrs. Feeney's 15-year-old son, Paul, went to the back yard to see why it was taking his mother so long to gather in laundry. The woman was treated in hospital and released.

Adenauer in Good Health Despite His 79 Years

BONN (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer celebrated his 79th birthday today in vigorous health and in good spirits as he received the congratulations of his country-men and his Western world allies.

The chancellor stood for three hours to receive a long line of well-wishers at his chancellery, the Palais Schaumburg. A widower, he was flanked by his two sons and three daughters as the diplomatic corps, the Bundestag and other German public life filed in to pay respects.

There was no talk of Adenauer retiring. His vitality inspires the belief in his friends that he will be going strong for years.

He still gathers in lovely does that exhausts the younger men on his staff. He attributes his vigor to moderate living. He does not smoke, eats moderately and enjoys an occasional glass of wine.

Former Mountie Heads Arctic Scientific Study

By JACK BEST
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—An Arctic expedition headed by a former Canadian Mountie will leave in about a week for northern Canada to test equipment to be used in future studies at the North Pole in March.

An experimental, unconventional-looking plane that can take off or land in only 1,500 feet has been chosen by the government, privately financed undertaking headed by John F. Stanwell-Fletcher, who served with the RCMP 30 years ago in the north.

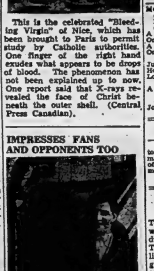
Stanwell-Fletcher said the 10-man expedition will leave Yelerboro, N.J., about Jan. 12 for preliminary studies in Greenland Bay. It will travel via Winnipeg, probably staying overnight there, and then come on to Churchill, Man.

Tentative plans call for the expedition to land on New York for about four weeks following the preliminary tests, evaluating their findings and laying final plans for the journey to the pole.

Main project of the expedition is to test and perfect a "drop glider" which Stanwell-Fletcher confirms from the air whether a body of ice is thick enough to land on.

Stanwell-Fletcher considers development of such a device extremely important militarily on the shortest Arctic route, which he believes will be a main line of warfare should hostilities break out.

The experiment may be one the Russians had in crude form in 1937. Russian scientific papers on the invention were found in the Washington Library of Congress and translated.



The expedition, in which about 20 people and 6 dogs will be part, will also do research on ice grills, varieties of ice, weather phenomena and sea life. Personnel will include Stanwell-Fletcher's wife Pauley, who will act as official recorder.

"BLEEDING VIRGIN" STUDIED IN PARIS

This is the celebrated "Bleeding Virgin" of Nice, which has been brought to Paris to permit study by Catholic authorities. One finger of the right hand exudes what appears to be drops of blood. The phenomenon has been explained up to now. One report said that X-rays revealed the face of Christ beneath the outer shell. (Central Press Canadian).

Known as the "Clown of Cologne," Peter Mueller (above), German soccer star, is making quite an impression on U. S. soccer enthusiasts as he continues his busy tour here. Mueller has won three of four bouts, his latest being a K.O. over the veteran Ernie Durando of Bayonne, N.J. (Central Press Canadian).

Harriman Wants State Control Of Niagara R. Power

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Governor Averell Harriman today urged the heavily Republican New York state legislature to join his Democratic administration in a "unified, determined effort" for state development of Niagara river power.

Harriman told the legislators in a prepared message opening their 1958 session that he considers it "essential and imperative" that the state power authority be authorized to do the job.

"Five private utility companies are seeking by federal legislation to seize the benefit of the power," he declared. "I cannot emphasize too strongly the importance of a unified, determined effort to persuade Congress to reject (their) plan. . . .

"What is essential and important is not, as I see it, to have this state enable the state power authority to develop the power at the Niagara for the benefit of the consumers of our state and not for the benefit of the five utility companies."

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—The stock market sank steadily today with trading on the decline.

A few low-priced mines were active and pushed volume at 1 p. m. to 3,077,000 shares.

Papers, utilities and refining oils led industrials down. Aluminium, trading ex-right, was off $2.75 at 1 p.m. and Canadian Tire, Canadian Celanese, Canada Malting and Sick's were off $1 or more.

Western oils were led down by Calgary and Edmonton, Canadian Williston and Gridoil. Labrador and Cassiar were weak in base metals. Among active low-priced mines Aubrey gained narrowly on 382,000-share turnover and New Thurbois touched a 1954-55 high of 7 cents.

McIntyre dropped $1.50 to lead golds down.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter price ranges were unchanged here today.

The egg market was barely steady with offerings in excess of a quiet demand.

Quotations provided by the Dominion department of agriculture:

Eggs, graded, in fibre cases: A large 34-35; A medium 30-31: A small 27-29; B 25 — 27. Wholesale to retail: A large 39-40; A medium 35-36; A small 33-33; grade B 34; C 26.

Butter solids: Ont., first grade, 61-63¾.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP) — Trade was slow at steady prices today at the Ontario stockyards. All classes met a very narrow demand.

Receipts: cattle 365; calves 75; hogs 270; sheep and lambs 60; holdover 900 cattle.

A few choice light steers $1.50; good steers 19-21; medium 16-19; common 13-16. Sales on heifers were mostly common and medium grades, however a few good heifers sold at 17-18; mediums 14-16; commons 13-14; boner steers and heifers 8-12; good fed yearlings 22-23; mediums 18-21; medium cows 10-11; commons 8-10; canners and cutters 6-8; common and medium butcher bulls 16-18.

Calves were unchanged at 24-26 for good and choice vealers; mediums 18-23; commons 13-15.

Hogs were firm at 27-27.25 for grade A with 33 on Tuesday and 27.50 and 243 at 28; sows 20.

Good ewes and wethers sold at 20-22.50; bucks were discounted $1 a hundredweight; medium lambs 17-18; commons 12-14. Good light sheep 8-10; heavies 5-7; commons 3-5.

NY Stocks Make Partial Recovery

NEW YORK (AP)—Share prices declined sharply and then made a partial recovery in the stock-market today following the increase in margin requirements from 50 per cent to 60 per cent.

The overnight news that the federal reserve board would require investors to put up 60-per-cent cash for stock purchases brought widespread losses in early dealings, with some shares down around $4. Before the end of the first hour, however, nearly all sections of the list were rallying from their lows and some issues moved to the plus side.

The tape fell behind in reporting transactions several times during the morning.

Bethlehem Steel was down $2.37, Amerada Petroleum $3 and General Motors and Chrysler 75 cents. But Western Union was ahead more than $3 and Caterpillar Tractor, which announced plans to split the common, advanced $1. Some aircrafts showed strength.

Reds Reiterate Their Views On Air Incidents

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia was disclosed today to have renewed its long-standing dispute with the United States over Manchurian Reds in the three Far Eastern incidents involving planes of the two countries.

Informed officials said Soviet notes delivered to the U.S. embassy in Moscow New Year's Day reaffirmed the Russian viewpoint on these incidents:

1. The shooting down by Soviet aircraft July 29, 1953, of an American RB-50 plane over the Sea of Japan, with the loss of 15 crew members.

2. The shooting down two days earlier of a Russian IL-12 with nine aboard by a U.S. Air Force fighter on a combat mission in Korea. At the time, Washington expressed regret over loss of the Russian aircraft, but said the Soviet plane had no business being where it was.

3. The shooting down of a U.S. Air Force plane, with the loss of its eight-man crew, by Soviet fighters off northern Japan Oct. 7, 1952.

QUESTIONS ASKED

U.S. officials gave no explanation for timing of the new Russian notes except to say they were in response to questions raised by Washington, and filled in more detail on some points.

Facts Distorted By Western Press Says Yugoslavia

BELGRADE (AP) — Communist Yugoslavia's press today intensified its attack upon the press of the Western world for allegedly magnifying and distorting the facts in the cases of former vice-president Milovan Djilas and Vladimir Dedijer.

In the absence of President Tito, now on a state visit to India and Burma, the government has brought formal criminal charges against Djilas and Dedijer, Tito's biographer, based on the claim that they attempted to undermine the state with propaganda.

But the country's two largest newspapers diverted their direct attention today from the Djilas-Dedijer cases and concentrated their attack upon a "group" of Belgrade foreign correspondents for alleged unprecedented deception of their bosses.

It came as perhaps the strongest attack upon the Western press since Yugoslavia broke off relations—now renewed—with Russia and the Cominform countries in 1948, and angrily charged some correspondents' reports were designed to "harm the country."

Denies Report 24 Machine Guns Stolen in Quebec

VALCARTIER, Que. (CP)—The army today reported the theft of two Sten guns, a machine and 10 empty Sten gun magazines from quartermaster stores at Valcartier Camp, 15 miles north of Quebec City.

Lt.-Col. Bernard Guimond, commander of the 1st Battalion of the Royal 22nd Regiment, said burglaries apparently broke into the regiment's stores early Tuesday. He could not say whether army personnel was involved.

Brig. Frank Fleury, eastern Quebec area commander, said he was informed of the theft today, ordered an investigation. Lt.-Col. Guimond said the theft was discovered Tuesday morning when the stores were opened.

He said earlier reports that 24 machine guns and 1,000 rounds of ammunition had been stolen were based on erroneous information.

Community Centre Plan Given Green Light at Council Meeting

TRENTON (Special)—The good ship Trenton sails in smoother waters. Last night legislation was enacted by Mayor Ross Burtt and five councillors, Councillor G. Weaver being absent, amid an air of complacency and agreement. At the July 1955 council's first meeting following the official "swearing in" ceremony with clerk-treasurer O. W. Larry, taking the oaths of office in the magistrate's chambers.

Passing of by-law 1036 N gave the Community Centre Project General Committee the green light to go ahead with the drive to raise $70,000 by public subscription. The town b ya vote of the people is to provide $100,000 as soon as the general committee reports objective reached and campaign successful.

Donors to the community centre receive an official town of Trenton receipt which entitles them to exemption from income tax.

SITE IS PURCHASED

The general committee has already made important progress. A site east of the Queen Elizabeth school has been acquired and paid for in cash. Chairman Gaylagg committed themselves for a large portion of the money needed. Inasmuch as the outlook appears good an official spokesman for the project emphasized the necessity for hard work and encouraged small as well as large donations.

Council talked about cracking down on all violators of the hawkers and peddlers law. Town solicitor Bongard was given orders red to look into the matter and have a report available by next meeting.

A request to Parkway caterers of Belleville to have their bid for each truck serving food and drinks to factories and business places in Trenton touched off controversy that may hit out-of-town dry cleaners, photographers, bread delivery service and fuel oil salesmen. At present enforcement of the by-law seems up in a state of confusion.

RESPONSIBILITY WITH POLICE

Clerk-treasurer Larry maintained a firm stand on the enforcement of town by-laws. He thinks the responsibility lies with the police department. "I don't think I should be the one to lay the information," he observed.

Councillor James MacDonald offered a suggestion that met with the approval of his colleagues. He proposed metal plates be issued to hawkers and peddlers similar to plates carried on cars belonging to RCAF personnel and civilians employed at the air base. He indicated it would be easier for police to prosecute those outsiders, who are not paying a licence or displaying authorized plates.

Mayor Ross Burtt, anxious to see all revenue reaches the town office, asked if licences and plates would be issued from the municipal office. Councillor Claude Graham, commenting on the mayor's question, noted that the town office already issued dog and marriage licences.

AGREE TO RAISE

Assessor E. F. Hall's request for a $25 a month raise in salary met with favor of the councillors. Councillor N. J. McNair commented: "We don't want to lose him. We're paying the fire chief $3,500 and I think Hall is more important," Mr. McNair said. Council last year hired assessor Hall at a yearly salary of $3,600.

Council set up the following committees: General Government and Public Works, Mayor Ross Burtt (chairman), G. Weaver, R. H. Smithrim; Conservation of Health and Welfare, C. Revilon, N. J. McNair (chairman), J. Gould, G. Weaver, C. V. Graham, R. H. Smithrim; Finance, G. Weaver (chairman), N. J. McNair, J. Gould; Sanitary and Waste Removal, J. Gould (chairman), C. V. Graham, R. H. Smithrim; Public Works, R. H. Smithrim (chairman), J. Gould, C. V. Graham; Protection of Persons and Property, C. V. Graham (chairman), James MacDonald, N. J. McNair; Recreation and Community Service, James MacDonald, J. Gould and C. V. Graham.

Ernie Harlick Moved by Bank To Toronto

TRENTON (Special) — Trenton's loss is Toronto's gain.

It was learned last night that Ernie Harlick, one of the most community-spirited citizens of Trenton for the last seven years, had been moved to the head office of the Bank of Montreal in Toronto. Mr. Harlick is assistant manager of the local branch here.

A devoted service club worker Mr. Harlick rose to the highest place in the local club here last year when he was elected president. He will be remembered for his contribution to the success of the Trenton Centennial celebration as treasurer! He is presently secretary of the Trenton W.O.N and one of the greatest boosters of the organization.

New Canadian Tells Story Of Broken Promises

BANCROFT — Bancroft Lions welfare officials heard bitter allegations of broken promises and discrimination from a new Canadian, reported destitute when they visited him on Friday and Saturday.

Immediately upon reading a press report that Jean Andre Anserenot, his wife Raymonde and daughter Francoise, had eaten nothing but potatoes during the Christmas holidays, OPP Cpl. Archie Graylag and Jack Brown, accompanied by interpreter Paul Kavanaugh, called at the two-roomed, unwinterized shack near Bow Lake, about seven miles from here, occupied by the French speaking family.

Anserenot, through the interpreter, told his visitors that he came to Canada from Switzerland in September, 1953. He said that before joining his country's normal amount of food and that an offer for a Christmas parcel was refused. They had not supplied he would eventually be settled on a farm for which he would have 30 years to pay.

He said he had been told by other officials that, upon arrival in Canada, he would be placed with a French-speaking family. He was, however, put to work with a farmer near Ilderton, Ont., who spoke only English. He did not get along with this family, owing to the language difficulty, and moved to another farmer in Terra Cotta, Ont., where he said he was ill-treated and left. He then came to work for a lumberman near Bancroft and was again idle when the job was completed. Anserenot then obtained employment with a firm of diamond drillers operating -at a nearby uranium mine.

In September of 1954, he was again unemployed. He had not worked since.

Mrs. H. Arrowsmith, who owns the shack occupied by the family, said about seven miles from here, occupied by the French speaking family.

Anserenot, through the interpreter, told his visitors that he came to Canada from Switzerland in September, 1953. He said that before joining his country's normal amount of food and that an offer for a Christmas parcel was refused. They had not supplied for family allowance because they were not aware that they could do so.

At Monday's meeting of the Bancroft Lions the welfare committee announced that food supplies for the Anserenots had been arranged, the Fundash W.I. had volunteered to assist, Cpl. Graylina had been in touch with the immigration authorities with a view to getting the man settled among French-speaking people and in the meantime local employment was being sought.

Anserenot told OPP Constable John Hawkins on Saturday that he still wished to stay in Canada.

Charged With Robbery

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto man, who recently claimed he was beaten by police while undergoing questioning, Tuesday night was arrested and charged in connection with a $6,000 York township robbery.

George Arthur Warfield, 36, was arrested at his home. Theft of a quantity of electrical saws from Eltitosk Limited occurred last week.

Warfield said earlier two detectives beat him.

AIR TRAVEL REALLY SAFE

The crash of a passenger plane is usually attended by such heavy loss of life and black headlines that the almost unbelievable safety of modern air travel tends to be overlooked.

Man has wished for wings since the days of Icarus and it is really in this century that his wish has become reality. It is only since the end of World War II that flying has been accepted whole-heartedly by the general public as a safe, sure method of rapid transit.

Wings were men's wishes a century ago. Fifty years ago they were a bright hope to a few visionaries. Today they are as much a part of transportation as the ox cart, the ocean liner and the bicycle.

Moslems from the Far East who used to spend their lives and their fortunes to reach Mecca on foot, by camel or by sea, now take the pilgrimage by air. Jets carry natives princes from darkest Africa to the Coronation of a Queen in England. World statesmen plan diplomacy on globe-girdling trips that provide them with first hand information as quickly as if they lived on the scene. Canadian cattle restock herds in South America by commercial airlift in a matter of hours. Victims of disaster in the heart of the world receive food, clothing and medical assistance by air before the echoes of earthquakes are still and while flood waters are yet rising.

The reality of air travel is a tribute to all those connected with the air age, from the manufacturers of airplanes and their accessories through airline executives, ground crews, flight personnel and those winsome young ladies who serve hot coffee and cookies on an immaculate white pillow on any flight lasting more than two hours.

The Civil Aeronautics Board of the United States has just released figures on airline safety that are truly amazing. The records show there was a fatality rate in 1954 of 0.08 per hundred million passenger miles flown by scheduled domestic and American foreign flag carriers. These boasted airlines in 1954 flew 56 billion paid world carry 35,000,000 passengers some 21 billion passenger miles.

Non-scheduled and irregular passenger carriers hauled an additional 650,000 passengers for 1.3 billion passenger miles without a single fatal accident.

All told there were more than 57,000,000 airline passengers hauled by regularly scheduled airlines during 1954 in all countries of the world, not counting Red China and Russia. Nearly a million persons crossed the North Atlantic in both directions in 1954, exceeding, for the first time, the number of persons who made the crossing by ship.

As long as man flies, and the air age is with us to stay, there will be plane crashes. Except in extreme circumstances the loss of life will be heavy because of the nature of flying.

However, as long as grandmothers and grandfathers find it more comfortable to cross continents by air than to drive 200 miles, and as long as doting parents deliver their children into the safekeeping of stewardesses for trans-ocean flights, the tragedy of crashes will continue to be only a blot of glaring horror on the vast and brilliant vista that man has found above the clouds.

OUT OF THE MOUTH OF WIVES

West Germany has recalled her top diplomat in Britain because of an utterance by his wife.

This might be thought rather rough on the diplomat. If husbands are to be made responsible for everything their wives say—and vice versa—life is going to become increasingly difficult.

A diplomat, however, is a cut above the common herd and it may be argued that if a member of that profession wants to marry a beautiful woman he should first assure himself that she is not chatterbox (or worse but, alas, not in another), is the word to describe Daisy Schlitter. At a party for employees of the German mission in London she said that "My husband and I . . . realize again and again that we are strangers here."

The British foreign office, showing admirable restraint, describes the incident as "a purely internal German affair." The Bonn government, however, has expressed regret for Daisy Schlitter's description of Britain as "an enemy foreign country" and has decided that her husband should be "sent on leave" pending a decision on the affair.

If this were just a case of a beautiful but stupid woman airing her private thoughts in public, the case could be dismissed as a tempest in a teapot. Actually though, it points up one of the major difficulties under which the Bonn government labors.

Otto Schlitter served in German diplomatic missions in Washington and London before the Second Great War, under Hitler's regime.

He is but one of many former Nazi officials who are now filling responsible positions under the democratic regime headed by Chancellor Adenauer.

Adenauer has been forced to entrust West Germany's diplomats to these men because of the scarcity of other trained men.

In any land where a totalitarian government has remained in office for over a decade, a similar scarcity of trained men of an opposite political creed would be apt to exist.

This is not to suggest that all of the foreign office employees who formerly served Hitler and who now serve Adenauer are really Nazis at heart.

It does seem probable, however, that few among these men will be high-principled democrats. They may be capable, they may be trained, but they are also turncoats, opportunists, men who bring to their tasks only technical skills and not strongly-held convictions, men whose choice of wives is such that there is nothing surprising in the wives regarding Britain as "an enemy foreign country."

BEST

To be content with something less
Than is your best,
Is not the way to earn success
By any test.

With "good enough" stay satisfied,
And you'll be known

As one whose work a lack of pride
Has often shown.

To be the best of all his group
Should be a man's aim.
To less than that no one should stoop,
For that is shame.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

January 5, 1935

Mr. Charles A. Ostrom, well-known proprietor of Ostrom's drug store for the past twenty years, is retiring from business and has sold his interests to Mr. George Pauley, who has been associated with the store as assistant for 20 years.

Miss Ella M. Reynolds of this city, was one of twenty prize winners in the Venetian Photo Competition which was conducted by the Rotarian magazine and has a circle to the world. Here photograph, which was taken with a small camera, was entitled "Pleasant Pastures," and was a winner among 1,222 photographs which were submitted by 343 contestants. The judges were three Rotarian photographers from Washington, Chicago and New York City. One hundred and twenty-seven of the twenty awards came to Canada, one went to Spain and one to Chile.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. MacDonald observed their 50th anniversary of their wedding at their home on the Front of Thurlow township, on New Year's Day and received many congratulations and expressions of good wishes. Their children and grandchildren visited them and presented their parents with numerous gifts.

The Belleville juniors underwent in the current O.H.A. season in a match at the arena here when they defeated the Belleford team by a score of 10 to 1, before an audience of five hundred satisfied fans. The following composed the Belleville team: Sonthill, Hinton, Greer, Lott, Barrage, Semark, Gallagher, Mercer, Cook, Burley, Lamore and R. Burley. The referee was Bill Green.

30 YEARS AGO

January 5, 1925

The "insurgural meeting of the city council for this year was held this morning and in an opening address His Worship Mayor W. C. Mikel, outlined a constructive program for the year. The following committees were present: R. J. E. Graham, W. H. Winterson, S. T. Thompson, Phil Harrison, C. A. Ruttan, G. E. Foster, G. W. Dawes, J. J. Anderson, A. E. Campbell, W. Parish and A. Robinson. The following committees for 1925 were appointed: executive, Aid. Graham; public works, W. H. Winterson, Aid. Harrison; LaRoche; fire, Aid. Harrison; market and property, Aid. Ruttan; cemetery, Aid. Robinson; labor, Aid. Dawes; power, Aid. Mann. The following on the parks board appointed are T. P. J. Symington and Robert E. Collins; high school trustees appointed are Lieut.-Col. W. H. Ponton and Jamieson Brown; member of the public library board appointed is Aid. A. D. Hammond; members of the board of health appointed are Charles N. Sullivan, Walter Lingham and C. Whalen.

40 YEARS AGO

January 5, 1915

Much interest was manifested in the municipal elections here yesterday and following are the results: W. H. Panter, a member of the council last year, was elected mayor with a majority of 219 over Aid. A. E. Robinson. The vote was Panter 1,009 and Robinson 790. All the members of last year's council; who sought re-election, were returned and two new members were elected, namely J. O. R. McCurdy and Harry C. Earle, they take the places of W. H. Panter, now the mayor, and Aid. Ed. D. O'Flynn, who is now with the armed forces overseas. The following aldermen with Mayor Panter will compose the council this year: the aldermen were elected in the order given: Smith, Platt, McCurdy, Dawson, Wm. Charles, Wallbridge, Earle, Woodley and McKee. In the vote for school trustees, Aid. Woodley was elected in Murney Ward and John Muir was elected in Bleecker Ward. The bylaw authorizing the publishing of the assessments was carried by over 800 majority. At the city hall after the returns were in, the retiring mayor J. F. Wills, presided at a meeting in the city hall at which the successful candidates made speeches expressing their thanks to the electors.

50 YEARS AGO

January 5, 1905

Here is an item from our file copy at this time in 1895, sixty years prior to this present day of 1955, which fill be of interest to older citizens. The account of the banquet which follows was prior to the time Sir Gilbert Parker was knighted and also before he became a member of the British parliament.

Mr. Gilbert Parker, a former resident of Belleville, and now of London, England, during which he is engaged in literary work, arrived here a few days ago on a visit his parents, Captain Joseph Parker and Mrs. Parker, Montrose Cottage, George Street. As an expression of welcome, a number of his friends and admirers tendered him a banquet last evening at the Queen's Hotel. J. J. B. Flint presided and the following sat around the festive board: Mayor A. R. Walmsley, Rev. E. N. Baker, Aid. W. N. Ponton, Harry Jamieson, E. F. Hilman, Joseph D. Clarke, George Denmark, Alfred Cullen, Prof. Paul Denyes, Robert Bogle, S. A. Gardner, A. E. Fish, W. W. Pope, W. S. Morden, Fred Arnold, Dr. Farley, C. M. Stork, P. J. Anderson, A. E. Most Umpires Die in Bed

(Montreal Star)

If one were to believe the critics from the bleachers, the survival value of a baseball umpire would be virtually nil. The cry, "Kill the umpire!" is synonymous with baseball. Yet the record books disclose no case of an umpire killed. Most of them die in bed after performing what must be one of the most arduous and thankless jobs in the world.

One of the greatest that ever died in bed in Maryland. William Aloysius McGowan (more popularly known as Bill or Big Bill) worked 2,600 consecutive games to become known as "Iron Man" among umpires. Perhaps his survival value in baseball's hazardous profession was increased by the fact that he could give as good as he took. But instead of ordering offending players to the showers, he ejected baseballs and his ball-strike indicator at them and returned offensive language in kind. For this he was suspended for ten days, but he returned after suspension to resume his place as one of the greatest of umpires with the utmost respect of both players and fans. Even when he called them wrong, they knew that he was doing his best.

Is Efficiency Worth Price?

(Hamilton Spectator)

"A message transmitted by telephone takes about 800 times more channel capacity than a similar communication by telegram—such are the demands of speech—that the telephone actually convevs the indefinable personal touch." Then the pity! How much redundancy must be accepted if something more than a mere impersonal transference of thought is to be communicated?

An essay by an electronics expert on the technical subject of bandwidth compression is typical of the place in which you would expect an outstanding philosophical question to be broached. And yet the more we read that paragraph the more we find it to escape a feeling that there, compressed into a neat package as hay into a bale, is one of the great issues of our age.

Is efficiency, for its own sake, a worth-while goal?

On this question, at least, the general answer would be "Yes." All the things that make for a high standard of living—high wages, a rich diet, a warm house, a fine automobile in the kitchen, the TV in the living room, the deep freeze in the garage, the car of Christmas—all these are the fruit of the most efficient production and distribution system on earth.

But is a high standard of living a valid yardstick of the good life?

Putting it in the simplest terms, is the North American getting more out of life than, say, the Swiss, who, for instance, France, who rides to work on bicycles, prefers a wine cool in the cellar, and in winter enjoys only the niggardly heat of a small galvanized stove? Are the penalties of the notorious inefficiency of the Latin temperament, political and industrial structure over which North Americans no longer have control, worth smugly, tut-tut?

Is the typical American, irritable from the tensions of his supercharged life and tired from his speed and pressure, really living—in the full sense—as well as the Frenchman who refuses to sacrifice the leisurely approach and his individuality as "redundancies" on the altar of efficiency?

Individuality . . . It is here that efficiency cuts the deepest. For efficiency means conformity; and it is here that it begins to involve more than industry and commerce when we think of a living. It touches education (How good can be an "efficient" assembly-line basis geared to the lowest common denominator?); and, more subtly, what the Joneses really be kept up to with. Is the television from Chev. to Bulick to Cadillac really the measure of a man's (wife's) life? There is no other equation than merchantability (How good can be an "efficient" assembly-line basis geared to the lowest common denominator?); and, more subtly, what the Joneses really be kept up to with. Is the television from Chev. to Bulick to Cadillac really the measure of a man's (wife's) life? There is no other equation than merchantability (How good can be an "efficient" business equals—too often—shoddiness?); the approach to law, discipline and responsibility ("Everybody else gets away with it, so why shouldn't I?"); family life; reading habits (if any); conversion; even architecture; the appreciation of music—one could go on almost indefinitely. Is efficiency worth the price?

Are we proving ourselves "redundant" by at least asking?

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

A PUSH TO THE MIND

A healthy, happy body needs prodding and stirring up, just like the garden needs hoeing and weeding, and the lawn to start and make it bathtub it is in the mind. Keep giving a push to the mind, keep it busy with new and worthwhile books and in interests that keep the mind alert and happily occupied.

The mind can easily get lazy, just as the body can when it gets neglectful and careless. There are a lot of people walking around in the streets and throughout life who merely seem to be existing, without any duties or purpose. Their minds need the push, pulling and prodding to the part that they ought to play, for there is no room for drones anywhere in the world.

I note that the reading of mystery stories is quite general among useful men and women. Many a President of the United States has found recreation of mind in their reading. They stir the "inactive cells of the brain." One of the most useful and inspiring world citizen: was John Buchan, Lord Tweedsmuir, statesman. He wrote scores of mystery books that have been enjoyed by countless thousands of readers, myself among them.

I note that the best mystery stories is the English writer Claude Haughton. I never fail to enjoy anything one of his tales. He gives a push to the mind from page to page! I can imagine no future time when the Sherlock Holmes stories will not be loved by the mystery and mental profit.

I noted and the statement about Theodore Roosevelt that he knew less about more things than any man in public life. The statement was a pleasantry, but it would have been a brilliant statement had he said that Roosevelt knew something, instead of less, about many things. That was a live and remarkable mind. He pushed it into all directions, which gave him a grasp of knowledge that amazed many who came in contact with him.

The late Justice Holmes once remarked that one of the translations of ancient languages just to exercise his mind!

Tomorrow: Authors will talk to you.

Letter to the Editor

No Farmer Is Obliged To Pay Federation Tax

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

Having read your editorial of January 3 on "Trouble on the Farm Front", we feel that this article is misinformed, misleading, creates an entirely mistaken impression, particularly as when it states "Finance is no reason why a single farmer should be taxed to support the farm organization of which he does not approve."

This is being written for clarification of the above statement.

To begin, no farmer is taxed for the Federation of Agriculture unless he approves of it.

Without referring to the statutes in detail on page, etc., in the act, may we state that all farmers are rate payers because a farmer has to own land and buildings.

The Ontario Government, which has the highest regard for the Federation of Agriculture and its activities, made necessary legislation to enable the Federation to collect a fraction of a mill on lands engaged in agriculture. But the levy is by no means compulsory for farmers who does not agree to the levy is relieved of it by signing a letter to the municipal clerk.

Further on farmers for their organization is very likely the lowest levy on any federation or organization in Canada.

The article ends by stating that "the Federation is no more entitled to that right to tax even some farmers than is a labor union to tax its non-paying workers." However, while unions do not tax workers, they do collect a small palatable fee from each member. We recall a recent case in which a Federation levy of $1 was his payment to the Ontario Federation of Agriculture. In that particular year our amount from our farm to the Ontario Federation of Agriculture was around $1.30 or hardly the price of a meal in town.

It is an organized economy that we live in and the farmer has no more right to claim an order that he, like the labor worker, could withdraw from it, as would be utterly impossible. Individually. Briefly the 100,000 workers engaged on Ontario farms which produce the food for her 4,000,000 people is entitled to share, ask that the farmer's income be such that his standard of living and his children's, like only a middle class, light only on middle chapter of creation. I saw the "hope."

TERPIN HYDRATE FOR COUGH

Dr. Brady

My husband had a very hard cough and the family doctor prescribed terpin hydrate with codeine. In a column you said terpin hydrate is good for a cough but "beware of preparations of terpin hydrate containing codeine." Please tell me how harmful it is and what to do about it—Mrs. W. M.)

It is not harmful under your physician's care. Codeine is an alkaloid of opium; morphine is another. The drug is a weaker narcotic than morphine, with less power to relieve pain or suppress cough.

The codeine habit is not so hard to break as the morphine habit—not much worse than the barbiturate habit.

I warned against taking any preparation of terpin hydrate containing codeine but two exceptions.

First, because it is unwise, if not dangerous, to take any narcotic or sedative which tends to suppress or check coughing, when a person is developing a cold in the stage of CRI. The lesson deals with the prevention of the acute respiratory infections but also contains practicable one-horse-and-buggy advice for winter cough, chronic bronchitis, emphysema, bronchiectasis and other wheezes.)

Any doctor who has served time in practice, as I have, knows there are circumstances in which the patient should receive medicine to ease, maybe to suppress cough for a limited time. This is for the patient's best interest. But the use of such a drug is a question that calls for medical judgment and watchfulness. That's why I warn persons subject to winter cough (chronic bronchitis), bronchiectasis (dilated or ballooned bronchial tube) or emphysema (overdistension of the air cells in the lungs) against the various terpin hydrate preparations that contain codeine.

As I explain in the CHI booklet a good cough-up stuff first thing every morning is not only desirable but should be helped and encouraged by assumption of the upside down posture by the patient, if chronic bronchial trouble. The secretion of expectoration which accumulates in the bronchial passages over night should be expelled by coughing or drained by gravity, not pent up by suppressing cough.

Terpin hydrate is a derivative of turpentine. Purified oil of turpentine (not crude turpentine spirits intended for industrial use) may be taken in doses of one-half teaspoon or a teaspoon in a capsule twice a day. Or the derivative, terpin hydrate, two capsules twice daily, after food, for six weeks twice in the year.

I mention this here because my own experience with the acute and severe of many readers with winter cough convince me that it may do good and in my case it will do no harm. God knows I have enough to repent without smoking my promise to Hippocrates.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

WISE WORDS FROM A WISE HERO

We all remember the day when Charles Lindbergh made his historic flight. There was a time after that when he fell into partial disfavor in the country of his birth because he spoke out on national issues and to speak contrary to the prevailing line of thought.

Now Charles Lindbergh, vindicated in the estimation of his fellow citizens is back again in their high favor. In his book, "Of Flight and Life," he has something very interesting to say about religion.

To me in youth, science was more important than either man or God. I worshipped science.

"It took many years for me to discover that science, with all its brilliance, light only a middle science I worshipped, and the aircraft I loved, destroying the civilization I expected them to serve, and which I thought as permanent as earth itself. Now I worship nothing. My religion is more essential to a nation than the mortar in its cities' walls. For it is the mortar of civilization. I am unguided by these truths, it is not in my power at this time to set the walls themselves collapse.

I saw the "hope."

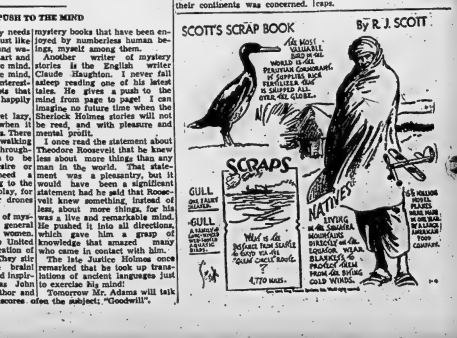
"The most urgent mission of my life is to understand these truths and to apply them to our way of modern life. We must draw strength from the almost forgotten virtues of simplicity, contemplation, comprehension, prayer. It requires a dedication beyond science, beyond self, but the rewards are great and it is our only hope."



THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

It is only within recent years, comparatively, that the human race has crawled all over the face of the earth. Before the time of population, of England was only five million. London was then one of the biggest cities of the world, with half a million population.

As a matter of fact, when America was discovered, there was really no need for it. In the British Isles, Europe and Asia, were almost limitless regions of wilderness and forest, with only the most fertile lands, the river valleys and coasts inhabited and cultivated. The invention of the railroad meant as much to Europe as it did to add to America, as far as opening up their continents was concerned.

Because a great procession of civilizations rose and fell in Europe and Asia does not mean that the countless millions of people beings were involved in those rises and falls, as they are today. Various guesses have been made as to the probable population of the world before the Christian era began. But whatever few millions there were bunched in cities and struggling along the sea coasts, river valleys and few fertile spots of cultivation, the earth is being plagued by the human species, as parts of the earth in the past have been plagued by locusts. It is out of all proportion to anything in the early history of the planet. Up until about 300 years ago, we had a chance of living, but now we demand it all, including the ice caps.

Panama Offers $50,000 Reward For Killers

PANAMA CITY (CAP)—Panama is to offer a $50,000 reward for information leading to the killers of President Jose Antonio Remon.

As secret police pushed an all-out hunt for the slayers of the 46-year-old president, the National Assembly unanimously approved first reading Tuesday of an administration bill authorizing the payment.

The vote came as authorities indicated that identification of weapons used in the Sunday slayings implicated ex-president Arnulfo Arias, one of 66 persons arrested in a country-wide sweep for Remon's assassin.

CUBAN JOINS SEARCH

The popular "strong man" president was machine-gunned to death as he chatted with friends at the Juan Franco race track. Two other men were killed and three wounded in the exchange of gunfire between the president's bodyguard and his assassins.

Havana dispatches said Israel Castellanos, head of Cuba's department of national investigation, has flown to Panama to aid in the search for the yet unidentified killers. President Jose Ramon Guillardo, who was sworn in early Monday to succeed Remon, also asked Washington to let United States FBI agents help in the hunt. American officials, however, said U.S. law prohibits such a foreign assignment for FBI men.

New Zealanders Learning New Technique for Shearing Sheep

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP) — New Zealanders are learning a new technique in shearing sheep taught by the world champion shearer, Godfrey Bowen.

Men who have made a living sheep shearing for years are going back to school to master a method which boasts their speed to figures they never reach before.

Bowen has for years studied shearing scientifically, devising new ways of making the work easier and faster. Under his system the sheep does most of the work. The shearer uses an easy, rhythmic style.

A few years ago he established a world record of 456 sheep shorn in a nine-hour day. Later his brother Ivan, once the same size method, exceeded the record by one.

These were special efforts with ment in shearing efficiency.

Godfrey and Ivan early last year gave a demonstration of their technique before the Queen during her visit to New Zealand. She enjoyed it so much that she specially requested a repeat performance a few days later for the Duke of Edinburgh.

The Bowen technique is proving of great importance in New Zealand, a country which has nearly 30 sheep to every person. The wool board engaged Godfrey Bowen to travel round the country teaching his methods to other shearers. Now has extended the scheme and has trained instructors who teach the technique at special schools. The result is a marked improve-everything in favor of the shearer. But Godfrey has recently shown that tallies over 400 are possible even under normal shearing-shed conditions. Last month he sheared 405 big sheep in a hour-hour day under such conditions, also claimed to be a world record.

Loyal Fans of Liberace Cheered To Know He Is Feeling Better

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The loyal fans of Liberace will be cheered to learn he is doing well after his recent physical setback, thank you.

I visited the candelabra king at his ornate home in the San Fernando valley. He came to the door in bathrobe and slippers and offered me news that he was feeling fine. We sat down in the black-and-white living room dominated by twin grand pianos, and he talked about his enforced vacation.

"I never would have found out about it, except for an insurance physical I had," he explained.

ARTERIES CLOGGED

"I came back from my last tour quite heavy. The doctor told me that globules of fat were clogging my arteries, cutting off the flow of oxygen to my heart.

"That's why I had been feeling so tired. When I did my TV show, I'd get to the point at four o'clock in the afternoon when I didn't have the strength to continue. I had to ask the director to shoot around me for half an hour while I took a rest."

The cure was rest and relaxation. With a diet of steaks and salads he has shelved 17 pounds. He looks good—not as cherubic as he used to, and younger.

The pianist must continue his complete rest until February. What does he do with his time?

CANDELABRA LAMPS

"I spend a lot of time in bed," he said. He showed me the bedroom with its huge canopied bed and the remote-controlled TV set facing it.

"And I've been making lamps, too. I've taken some old candelabra and made lamps out of them for friends. I've redesigned the back end of my car, and I'm planning a projection booth which I'm installing here in the house. Now I'll be able to see the rushes of my TV show here instead of going clear into town."

Liberace has cancelled six concert dates he had planned for early this year in Seattle, Portland, Salt Lake City and elsewhere. Next month he'll ease back into his TV routine. In May he expects to start his movie for Warner Brothers. It is now called "Sincerely Yours, Liberace," but it's not a biography. The story was merely suggested by his career.

Winnipeg Doctors, Dentists Facing Tax Investigation

WINIPEG (CP) — The Free Press said Tuesday special investigators of the income tax department have been closely inspecting the books and records of Winnipeg doctors and dentists for the last six months or more.

The paper said well-informed sources said the inquiry has been "quietly and methodically" covering the records of physicians and dentists in a series of unannounced office visits.

The pair move in on the offices and inspect cash books, receipts, appointment books and patients' cards. One source said three doctors settled back tax accounts for $75,000, $30,000 and $45,000 respectively.

Windsor Will Study City Manager Plan

WINDSOR (CP)—Mayor Michael Patrick Tuesday night appointed two committees to investigate the advantages of city-management type of government.

The committees were appointed at the first regular meeting of the new city council, which was elected Dec. 13.

The committees will decide whether a city manager, a permanent civil employee who would direct the various civic departments, will be hired by the city.

Mayor Patrick made this one of the main planks in his election campaign. In his inaugural speech Monday night, he said the present system of government is "worn out," and said he would take steps to change it. Windsor now is governed by an ordinary city council.

COLDS CUT FROM DAYS TO HOURS for 35¢ BUCKLEY'S CAPSULES

Theatre Diary for January

By Robert Tanner

Preparations for our own Belleville Theatre Guild's next production are getting into high gear to ensure that everything will be ready for the 18th and 19th of this month, when Maxwell Anderson's "Joan of Lorraine" will be presented at the Collegiate auditorium. In this play, the famous American author takes a very different approach from that of Bernard Shaw, whose "Saint Joan" thrilled all who saw it last fall. Under the able direction of Sydney Bate, such well-known local stars as Joy Wonnacott and Ted Schwab, together with a very competent supporting cast, will present a fascinating "play within a play" as Anderson acts the life and death of Joan the Maid against a background of the modern theatre, in an exciting and unusual production. (Perhaps one should add that this is a much more straight forward effort than the Guild's last offering, the French fantasy "The Enchanted".)

In the course of a small meeting I attended recently in connection with the forthcoming drama festival to be held here next month, I was interested to discover that all three present regarded Stephen Leacock's book "Sunshine Sketches of a Little Town" as a very special favorite: if this is anything to go by, Mayor Moore's musical version, "Sunshine Town", which opens at the Royal Alex on January 10th for a two-week run, should be a tremendous success. Keen viewers will have already seen a shortened version put on by the CBC and will know that Robert Christie stars in the fruity part of John Henry Bagshaw, the local M.P., with Paul Kligman as Mr. Smith, hotel proprietor extraordinary, and opposition candidate in the town's election. Lovers of the book will find here all their favorite episodes, the mystery of the bank robbery, the burning of the Anglican church, the sinking of the Mariposa belle and, of course, the fore-ordained attachment of Zena Pepperleigh and Peter Pupkin. This presentation will be preceded during the present week by Blacktone the Magician.

The Crest Theatre is at present in the middle of a very successful run of "Sabrina" and the Beast," described as a holiday play by Nicholas Stuart Gray. Written within the last five years, this and several other plays by the same author have become almost an institution in England, in some ways rivalling the Peter Pan Christmas "Pantomimes." Frances Hyland is obviously very well cast as "Beauty" and Murray Davis makes his first appearance of the season as "The Beast." This production will be followed in mid-January by the Crest's first Shakespeare, a performance of the ever-popular "Twelfth Night."

Definite news is anxiously awaited regarding the fate of the Canadian Repertory Theatre in Ottawa. A week or so ago, it was reported that this wonderful organization was closing down through lack of adequate support. Only now it appears that ways are being found to keep it going. CRT has acted as a sort of half way house for many of our young actors and actresses, between amateur group performances and the full professional recognition of Toronto, Stratford and Montreal. For this alone, it would be

The December meeting of the Springbrook Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Thomas Lowson.

Mrs. Charles Gordanier, president, presided over the meeting. Mrs. W. J. Barlow, secretary, read the minutes and correspondence, and stated that flowers had been sent to a sick member, and to a young girl in the community, who was ill; also a box of groceries and Christmas treats had been packed and given to a needy family. A box had been sent to one of the boys in Germany, and another boy in the services stationed in Quebec at present, was remembered.

In order to raise more funds, it was decided to hold a pie social, and to entertain next to have the "Darky Minstrel Show" from Marmora, this to be held early in January.

Mrs. Burton Bateman, convener for "Canadian Industries", was in charge of the program.

Several Christmas carols were sung.

The motto "One doesn't have to be a carpenter to build a happy home," was prepared by Mrs. C. L. McKeown, and her absence was read by Mrs. Barlow.

Mrs. George Williams gave the topic "Industry furnishes your home."

Mrs. S. Meiklejohn gave a reading. "The Spirit of Christmas."

Yuletide songs were then given by some of the 12th line school children.

Linda Wellman sang "Christmas in Killarney", and Linda Meiklejohn and Margaret sang "Silver Bells."

Shirley and Sharon Burkitt, Diane McKeown and Linda Wellman sang "Bringing Mother Goose Up-to-date."

This was followed with a contest conducted by Mrs. Fred McKeown.

There was the gift exchange with each member receiving a prettily wrapped parcel.

The hostess and assistants served refreshments.

EARNS CINDERELLA AWARD

When Jeanette Chiles found a purse in a London street and turned it over to the police without looking at its contents, she took her first step toward becoming a modern Cinderella, for the bobbies discovered that her family was very poor and the money she had found was badly needed at home. Newspaper publicity about the honesty and pure gifts were pouring in when staged a ball for her, and here Jeanette steps from her coach which was driven to the ceremony by Shetland ponies. Four B.C. Nurses Shop for Taxi To Four Europe

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Four wandering British Columbia nurses, their tired feet up after helping open the Christmas rush in a London department store, are planning another trip. The quartet is shopping for an old taxi to launch a tour of Europe for three or four months.

The travellers are Pat McAndrew, 24, of Powell River, Barbara Thompson, 22, and Diana Crane, 24, of Vancouver, and Sheila Twentyman, 22, of Nelson. The girls became registered nurses, worked for seven months at hospitals close to their homes and saved enough to sail to Britain last September.

Two weeks' fruitless flat-hunting in London sent them to Scotland for a week's sightseeing by bicycle. The girls returned to London in November to cash in on Christmas work in a department store. They soon found a flat in Kensington.

"I don't know how British girls manage to live on their salaries," said Miss McAndrew in an interview. The store paid £5 10s a week and the nurses found it just covered their living expenses.

MAY SPLIT UP

The girls spent Christmas in their London flat with Mrs. Twentyman, also on Holiday, presiding over the cooking. They plan to leave for Europe late in January or early in February and reach Austria while the skiing is still in season.

The girls intend to return here in late summer and may then split up. Miss Crane became engaged to Jim McNish, a Vancouver Athlone scholar studying engineering in Rugby, while in Britain, and may stay awhile.

Miss McAndrew is hoping for a few weeks' work after the trip. She has applied for a relief nursing job in an RCAF hospital in France or Germany.

The girls thoroughly enjoyed the experience in a British store. "Our biggest headache was the money," said Miss McAndrew with a grin. "It took ages to work out the change."

Pat was in leather goods, Miss Thompson sold sewing baskets, Miss Twentyman traded in buttons and Miss Crane sold Christmas cards.

Their verdict: "British customers are much the same as those back home." Even at the worst of the Christmas rush, customers were mostly polite.

Their biggest thrill to date, so they say, was visiting Beaufort Castle, stronghold home of Lord and Lady Lovat overlooking Scotland's beautiful Beauly firth.

SPEECH LENGTH

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (CP)—Prof. Ian Gordon says the length of a speech should depend on the seats provided for the audience. He says he has worked it out scientifically and shortens his talks according to the degree of hardness of the seats.

SHEEP ARRIVE

KARACHI (CP) — Ninety-eight corriedale sheep, a gift of the government of Australia under the technical co-operation scheme, arrived here. They are the first batch of a sheep shipment for trial and experimental work on the Commonwealth livestock farm.

Hints Collected by Mrs. Jean Beckett (Mother of 5)

Resolved by any number of wise new mothers contemplating the New Year?: "I will arrange to spend a certain amount of time every day spoiling my baby . . . knowing it will do both of us more good than managing the linen closet. I'll also remember to reserve some special recreation time with dad, once a week or so." Refreshed parents are better parents.

Feeding point! There are good reasons why so many doctors suggest Gerber's Cereals as "starters". For Gerber's Cereals are fortified with the iron, calcium and B-Vitamins babies need a few weeks after birth. They're well-known for their good-feeling texture . . . the creamy-smooth-as-cream Strained or the preferred by babies used to a lumpier-only diet. Five mild, pleasing flavors for variety!: Rice, Barley, Oatmeal, Wheat, and Mixed Cereal.

Nightie note. Excessive ironing flattens the nap on little flannel nighties. Brushing after drying keeps them soft, fluffy, new looking. And what baby can't use the time saved from the ironing board?

Progress report. As baby advances to more and more varieties of solid food, you can chalk up a lot of contented ooos by serving Gerber's Strained Foods. Each one is famous for its inviting true color, and smooth-as-velvet consistency. All are specially processed for high retention of wholesome food values. And look at the great Gerber choice: 7 vegetables, 9 fruits, 5 dinners, 4 desserts, 8 all-meat products.

Free! More on meal appeal. Gerber's helpful booklet, "Foods for Baby and Mealtime Psychology". For your copy, just write Mrs. Dan Gerber, Box 68, Toronto 18, Canada.

Stirling

STIRLING — Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sleeth entertained on New Year's Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Norman McKay and Mr. Keith Bissett, Port Hope, and Miss S. Freeman of Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bush, Stirling R.R. 4, spent the New Year's week-end with her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Rosebush, Havelock. Bill Conley, who has been holidaying with his uncle and aunt, accompanied them home.

A large crowd of young people attended Hastings County Junior Farmers' Association New Year's dance at Stirling community hall on New Year's eve. The Melody Makers' Orchestra provided the music and a refreshment booth catered to the inner man.

F/O Jack Hermiston, Mrs. Hermiston and Susan, of Clinton, Ont., spent the holiday with Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Hermiston and returned to Clinton on Monday.

Messrs. Ross and Ray Hermiston, who have been holidaying with their parents, returned to Kingston to continue their studies at Queen's University.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Bush entertained on New Year's Sunday and Mrs. Jack Sagar and family, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Conley and family and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bush.

ARENA OFFICIALLY OPENED

Stirling Branch of the Canadian Legion officially opened the Stirling skating arena on Saturday evening, under the leadership of the president, Mr. Ray Tanner. Over 300 adults and children were in attendance for this gala opening. New Year's night when special novelties and favors were passed out to the crowd. Recorded music was supplied by the arena P.A. system. A kiddies' corner was roped off and here the smaller children were safe from harm.

The Legion committee have spent considerable time at the arena and there will be junior hockey, and public skating when ice is available. A special refreshment booth catered to the requests of the skaters and spectators and the large crowd thoroughly enjoyed a delightful evening of fun.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Bell and David spent the holiday in Campbellford.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Whitehead recently entertained Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rutherford, Campbellford, also Mr. Charles Whitehead, of Belleville.

Thomasburg

THOMASBURG — The early morning service in the United Church was not well attended. The roads were a sheet of ice, making driving hazardous. The Sunday School immediately following the service had a below-normal attendance.

Service in Christ Church on Sunday was held in the evening. Attendance was fair considering the state of the roads.

The annual meeting of Thomasburg public school ratepayers was held on Wednesday evening at the school. Attendance was fair. The secretary's report showed the finances of the school to be in a satisfactory condition.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Bell and David spent the holiday in Campbellford.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Whitehead recently entertained Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rutherford, Campbellford, also Mr. Charles Whitehead, of Belleville.

The annual meeting of Thomasburg public school ratepayers was held on Wednesday evening at the school. Attendance was fair. The secretary's report showed the finances of the school to be in a satisfactory condition.

Repairs, improvements, including painting had been made over the year. Retiring trustee, Mr. H. Morton, was re-elected. The insurance on buildings was raised considerably and other business transacted.

Mrs. Clara Blackburn, of Englehart, visited during the recent holidays with her sister and brothers and other friends in the community.

The party held recently for Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Gem in the hall was fairly well attended. The newlyweds were presented with an address and a purse of money with the best wishes of the community.

Ronald Adams, who has been holidaying at home, returned to Toronto on Sunday.

The funeral service for the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Kelso, of Hillcrest St., Belleville, was under the direction of the Salvation Army which had charge of the service in the home and in Thomasburg cemetery, where interment took place.

GRATEFUL THIEF

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

PARENTS WILL DISOWN UNWED MOTHER IF SHE KEEPS HER BABY.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I made the mistake of giving in to a boy because I was afraid if I didn't, he would go away and leave me. But when I found out that I was going to have a baby and told him about it, he threw away anyway, and I don't know where he has gone.

My parents say they will not have anything to do with me if I keep the baby after it is born, so I would like to know what I can do about this. Is there any place where it could be taken care of for a year or so, until I am old enough to take it back? I am 18 years old. —Penny.

Dear Penny:

If you don't want to give the baby up for adoption after its birth, and your parents will not allow you to care for it in their home, then I think you have just two alternatives.

Either make some arrangement, through the local welfare agency in your city, to place the baby in some institution for a few years, or leave your parents' home, after the baby is born, get a job, and set up a place of your own where you can have the child with you. You could have it cared for, during the hours when you would be at work, in some day nursery.

If I understand correctly what you say about your parents' attitude, however, and they refuse to have anything more to do with you if you intend to keep the baby, you will still have that problem.

In that case, you will have to decide which is more important to you—bringing up your child, or remaining on friendly terms with your parents. It's quite possible, though, that if you do keep the baby and go ahead with plans to care for it on your own, without looking to them for help, they would come around eventually.

To Get a Boy's Attention, Let Him See You're Worth It!

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 14, and in love with a young man of 19 whom I've known for three months. He seems to like me a lot, too, although he doesn't pay too much attention to me. I don't know if he is just bashful or what.

Whatever it is, what can I do to get his attention? I try to show him I love him as best I know how. — R. L.

Dear R.L.:

I don't think you're being very smart to try and make it so obvious to this chap that you're so much interested in him. The average young man as old as 19 is not too bashful to let a girl know when he is attracted to her, and I doubt if it is bashfulness that is the matter with this one.

As I have often said, the very best thing a girl can do to get a young men interested in her is to have a great many friends and take part in a great many activities, so that she is busy, happy and a much sought-after companion. When a boy sees this kind of girl, he is far more likely to want to know her, and have her for a friend, than he is if he sees her making a big effort to capture him. You won't get the boy you want by pursuing him. Your best chance is to show him you're a girl worth pursuing.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMESON

LONG MAY THE PERMANENT WAVE!

When her fairy godmother kissed a baby-girl in her cradle one of the greatest blessings she could bestow was a head of lovely hair. But now we are all "curly girls." A date at the beauty shop turns the trick. It wasn't the vote so much that emancipated women; it was that wonderful machine that released them from crimping pins, leather curlers and smoking curling irons.

If you are about to toddle to the beauty shop for a permanent, let the operator decide which method is best for your hair. There are several at-them, as we go, but some may be best for you. The cold wave gives a wave close to the scalp, and that is an advantage. If you have a long bob the old-fashioned heating method may prove more satisfactory.

The results depend entirely upon the operator's skill and conscientious work. The strands must be divided evenly.

If the hair is soft and silky, the strands will be fine. When the hair is coarse and dry, take a wave quickly. Strands should be somewhat larger. Some hair does not take as strong a wave as another, in which case the operator will take a test curl.

Before starting on this project, make up your mind as to what style of hairdo you desire. The cut is important. The heavy growth should be thinned somewhat, ends tapered.

The first wave set should be followed precisely after each subsequent shampoo, so it is not smart to change operators if you have found one whose service please you. When dressing your hair yourself endeavor to create the same pattern. The wave lines will then get stronger, and may eventually fall into place by themselves.

The longer the lapses between permanents the better, since the new growth will take a better wave than shafts that have been subjected repeatedly to the process.

Before your appointment give yourself several hot oil treatments to relax the shafts, condition the growth and promote lustre.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

"EXTEND" YOUR GREETINGS FOR THE NEW YEAR

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

On New Year's night my husband and I are planning to give a dinner in honor of the couple who were our chief attendants (matron of honor and best man) at our wedding last June. They will be visiting the husband's parents here, and will be returning to their home the day following the dinner. Dinner for 8 is seated, semi-formal. I would like to use place cards, if proper, for this will be the first seated dinner I have given, and I'd like to avoid confusion in the seating. (1) But I've just been told that it is not correct to use place cards for such a small number of guests. True? (2) If you say I may correctly use place cards, must they be the customary small plain white ones, or might they be holiday (New Year's) ones? (Not Christmas ones, of course, then). — Hostess-to-be.

(1) Don't bow to any meaningless "must not" about using place cards for this festive occasion. It's wise and convenient to use them, even.

(2) For this New Year's Day dinner party I suggest you use small decorative calendars as place cards. Perhaps the colorful little flower calendars, each month illustrated with "the flower of the month." Or look for the small tear-offs with little magnetized disk that can be moved to mark the day of the month — these calendar place cards would have the disk set at that important first day of the first month. A conversation-piece!

Her Mistake at Funeral Service

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My first husband and I were divorced several years ago, and our two children, both married, live quite a distance from here. Two years ago I remarried. Last week my ex-husband died, and when I telephoned this news to our two children, they both asked me to send flowers in their name and if possible to attend the service. My second husband approved of my going if this was my decision, and so I went. The man in charge of the funeral home knows all of us, of course in view of the divorce, and nevertheless escorted me to a seat with my former relatives and ex-husband. Now I am being criticized right and left, by my family, by other relatives, by friends, first for having gone to the funeral and then for sitting with the relatives. Was I so wrong in what I did?

—E.L.M.

Your idea in going to the funeral was proper, since that was your inclination, and the wish of your children, but I most definitely think that you made a very serious mistake in letting the man in charge of the service seat you with your ex-husband's relatives. When he came to escort you to your seat, you should have asked him to please give you a seat in the rear or at least toward the rear of the church, or wherever the service was.

THE STRAIGHT AND NARROW

By VERA WINSTON

The slim, straight coats of today certainly are in marked contrast to the pyramid and tent silhouettes of yesterday. It is taking time for many of us to feel at home in the new pared-down lines but when we discover how attractive these coats are, we take to them quickly.

This daytime coat is just as elegant at night when worn over a short satin dress. The black velvety woollen has buttons all the way down. The large collar is caught by a buttoned-down band on either side. Narrow sleeves are loose under the arm.

Career Wife Gives Automatic Oven Dishes for Two

As Told to Mary Moore

Some of you will remember that Jane R. offered to send me some of the automatic oven menus she had worked out in her evening hours—ready to put in the oven in the morning before she left for the office, to await the automatic turning on of the heat. I wrote to her and asked her to send them along right away for there are dozens who will welcome them.

What follow is part of Jane R.'s letter:

"Dear Mary Moore: I can't tell you how thrilled I was to receive your letter and know you are interested in my oven menus, and herewith type some:

CHICKEN CASSEROLE

(Courtesy Jane R.)

Chicken pieces (as desired), 1-2 small green pepper cut in strips, 1 medium tomatoes quartered, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper; 1-3 cup flour, 2 tablespoons salad oil, 1-4 teaspoon marjoram, 1 bay leaf, 1 cup chicken bouillon or wine, 1 5-oz. can sliced mushrooms, Mix salt, pepper and flour together. Put in paper bag. Add chicken pieces and shake until well-coated with flour. Heat oil in frying pan and brown on all sides. Cool and refrigerate until morning. Next morning, put chicken in casserole, add salt, marjoram, bay leaf to chicken bouillon, and pour over chicken. Arrange tomatoes and green pepper strips and mushrooms over chicken. Cover and set oven for 1 hour cooking time at 350 deg. Fahr. Good with corn on the cob and salad.

COUNTRY SAURAGE WITH BARBECUE SAUCE

(By Jane R.)

Cut the desired length of sausage in about 8-inch lengths, but do not flatten or shape into patties. Brown good and dark in frying pan. Drain on paper towels and chill in refrigerator until morning. Next morning pour on sausage in casserole the following

BARBECUE SAUCE

Mix together 1-2 cup catsup, 1 cup water, 1 1-2 teaspoons salt, 1-2 teaspoon tabasco sauce or any hot sauce, 1-2 teaspoon chili powder, 1-3 teaspoon mustard, 1 tablespoon brown sugar. Bake for 2 1-2 to 3 hours at 325 degrees Fahr. Do the same with spareribs. (Cut into serving pieces and simmer. I have found for the two of us that one-half the recipe for sauce is enough for the sausage, as sometimes is a little bit greasy by the time the sausage is cooked, up I don't serve the sauce, but when using the sauce for ribs use the full recipe. (I do hope you know what I'm talking about!)

Cut about 3-4 to 1 lb. round steak into serving portions. Pound flour, salt and pepper into same. Brown in frying pan. Chill and refrigerate until morning. Place in casserole and pour sliced onions and some chopped celery over top. Pour small can of steak sauce with sliced mushrooms in; it and the same amount of water over the steak. Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for about 1 1-2 to 2 hours. Note: Steak Sauce is 12c per tin.)

HAM AND POTATO SCALLOP

Cut sliced smoked ham 1-2 inch thick; 4 large potatoes, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 1-2 tablespoons flour, 1-2 cup tomato juice; 1 1-4 cups milk, shake of paprika. Cut ham in pieces for serving. Place in greased baking dish. Pare and slice potatoes 1-4 inch thick over the ham. Melt butter, stir in flour, then tomato juice and milk, and cook stirring until thick. Season with salt and pepper and pour over potatoes and ham. Sprinkle with paprika. Cover and bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 1 1-2 hours. For 2 of us I used only 1 slice of ham and 2 potatoes."

READERS:

I would ask you to look for remainder of Jane R.'s letter tomorrow for she adds a few more that are interesting variations of the dishes above. I have made extra copies of the above for anyone who cares to write and send stamped envelope.

Canada Is Heading Toward Leading Place as Producer Of Uranium for Atomic Age

GRIM IN VICTORY

Judging by the expression of Prime Minister Mendes-France, a session at the French Assembly is a tiring job. This photo was taken just after his victory by a slim majority on the German rearmament issue. (Central Press Canadian).

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada is heading toward the leading position among the free world's producers of raw atomic fuels.

That's the word from Dr. John Convey, head of the department of mines and technical surveys' mines branch. He said in an interview, that Canada can't expect to overtake the leading producer—the Belgian Congo—for some time.

"However, you could say we are in a threatening position."

Figures on actual production of uranium concentrate and uranium metal are classified. No information is available on production behind the Iron Curtain.

CONGO STILL WELL AHEAD

Canada displaced the United States about two years ago as the Free World's second most prolific producer of uranium. Dr. Convey said Canadian output of concentrates has increased steadily since then, but Belgian Congo output still is far ahead.

Interest in the radio - active metal used as the energy source for atomic power and atomic power plants would use it as their initial fuel. One byproduct from the "burning" of uranium in an atomic pile is plutonium, source of power for the atomic bomb.

Three Canadian mines—two government-owned, one privately-operated — now produce uranium concentrates. Dr. Convey said he expects the number will increase to eight or nine by the end of this year.

MINES ARE IN WEST

The government - owned mines are at Port Radium on the Great Bear-lake region of the Northwest Territories and in the Beaverlodge district of northern Saskatchewan. The privately-owned mine, operated by Gunnar Mines Ltd., is in Saskatchewan's Beaverlodge area. Three other private companies have contracts to deliver ore to Eldorado, although they are not now producing.

All uranium mined in Canada is purchased by Eldorado. After milling, the ore is shipped to the company's plant at Port Hope, Ont., to be processed into concentrates. Concentrates are shipped to the U.S., where they are refined into pure uranium metal.

Nothing Too Small For House Speech Says Fiery M. P.

By GEORGE FRAJKOR
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP)—Toronto may be one of Canada's greatest English-speaking cities but it is also a centre of French culture.

Mrs. Madeleine Gex Hilaire, free-lance Quebec writer, said at a recent meeting of L'Alliance Canadienne's literature section there are 40,000 French-speaking persons in Toronto.

The University of Toronto plans to hold a 10-day seminar this year on French-Canadian culture.

Last November "L'Alliance", Toronto's first French - language newspaper, appeared on the stands. For the time being it's a monthly but hopes to become a weekly. Its publisher, Jacques Dassault, is a former Quebecer who now runs a translation bureau.

Mrs. Fay-St. Hilaire is co-ordinator of L'Alliance Canadienne, whose 200 members are expected to spread the love of its culture among French - speaking persons and in time "help society" locally so far has only two branches—in Toronto and Quebec City—and it plans to apply for national charter this year, and to take in other provinces, she adds.

The society was started Nov. 22, 1953, while Mrs. Fay-St. Hilaire was studying radio and television writing at the University of Toronto. She said she was surprised to find so many persons interested in Quebec and French literature and encouraged by friends she set out to found what became L'Alliance Canadienne.

There has been a Cine-Club Practica at University College, Toronto since 1951. It presents French-language movies without English sub-titles. Another society is called "L'Alliance Francaise" which concentrates on the culture of France but not of French Canada.

"We called our club Alliance Canadienne so that we could reach an understanding with L'Alliance Francaise to show that French-Canadian culture is as good as French culture," said Mrs. Fay-St. Hilaire.

Young Farmers Hate to See Land Idle

TORONTO (CP)—A young Ontario farmer Tuesday criticized city people who buy farms and then do nothing with them.

Carl Boynton, president of the Ontario Junior Farmers' Association, told 300 members at their annual one-day meeting that there were a lot of young farmers who would give anything to be able to buy land and can't afford to buy it.

"I don't mind the ones who hire good men to farm the land after they buy it, but the ones who just let the farm stand idle," he said.

Mr Boynton said high costs of land and equipment, and a decline in farm prices are the main reasons why young men leave the farm for the city.

Only a few of the 300 who registered said they owned their own land. Most are either on their father's farm or working out. Their ages range from 16 to 26.

Effort to Solve Dozen Labor Disputes Delayed

TORONTO (CP)—Labor Minister Daley of Ontario said Tuesday solution of about 12 labor disputes has been delayed because of a new attitude toward conciliation and the appointment of judges as conciliators.

No Ontario judges have been appointed to labor conciliation boards for more than two weeks, he said. Some judges had refused conciliation assignments, and others officials have indicated judges should not take outside jobs, Mr. Daley said, because judges are ready to receive a salary increase. Judges, appointed and paid by the federal government, get an extra $25 a day from the province as chairmen of conciliation boards.

Those who serve as arbitrators, handing down a final, binding decision in disputes, submit their bill to both parties. It often runs as high as $125 a day, plus expenses, and $67 for each day of travelling and preparing the report.

SOME HESITATION

There seems to be some hesitation on the part of federal officials, Mr. Daley said, to grant pay increases when some judges are able to make as much.

"We would be much happier if they were more self - confident," Mr. Daley added. They had done a good job and had the ability to have evidence and make decisions.

Earlier Mr. Daley said the department would set up privately-operated — now produce uranium concentrates. Dr. Convey said he expects the number will increase to eight or nine by the end of this year.

MINES ARE IN WEST

The government - owned mines are at Port Radium on the Great Bear-lake region of the Northwest Territories and in the Beaverlodge district of northern Saskatchewan. The privately-owned mine, operated by Gunnar Mines Ltd., is in Saskatchewan's Beaverlodge area. Three other private companies have contracts to deliver ore to Eldorado, although they are not now producing.

All uranium mined in Canada is purchased by Eldorado. After milling, the ore is shipped to the company's plant at Port Hope, Ont., to be processed into concentrates. Concentrates are shipped to the U.S., where they are refined into pure uranium metal.

Democrats Assure Control Of Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democrats officially took control of the United States Congress for the day with the pledge of the new Democratic leader, Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, that they will offer "neither blind support from Democrats" to President Eisenhower's Republican program.

Both Houses of the 84th Congress were to go through the formalities of transferring power from the Republicans to the Democrats, sworn in new members and generally await Eisenhower's state of the union message Thursday.

That message is expected to be built around claims of prosperity to boost up the sagging farm and hostilities abroad, and with assurances that the administration is moving to lighten American defences in an era of continuing cold war.

WILL STUDY TRADE

Representative Sam Rayburn of Texas, incoming Democratic Speaker of Representatives speaker, has said that he will go to work first on Eisenhower's expected proposal for a three-year extension of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act, together with additional tariff-cutting powers.

The Democrats also say they plan an active year of investigations on many different fronts.

A continuing search for Communists in government and a close scrutiny of the security and power programs of the Eisenhower administration are among main ones now in sight.

Welland-Crowland Amalgamation Urged

WELLAND (CP) — Mayor Arthur Young Monday night said he opposed effort will be made to amalgamate Welland and other areas of the township of Crowland.

Nearly two-thirds of the city's boundary touches Crowland's urban section which has a population of 14,000.

Several years ago the Ontario municipal board approved annexation of part of the township but the ruling was upset in the Ontario hills committee of the legislature.

Although Major Industry Gone Town Booming

MARYSVILLE, N.B. (CP)—Although Marysville lost its major industry when a cotton mill closed in January last year, the community is not by any means becoming a ghost town. Its population has increased and more homes have been built.

Most of the newcomers attracted to Marysville in the last 12 months earn their living in the textile industries. Mayor P. G. Long feels that a major reason for that decision was the town's lower taxes.

Marysville's tax assessment, have been low, more than compensating for the high rate of $15 on each $100 assessment. Land is valued for assessment purposes at $12,000 and the mill was $15,000.

Unemployment has been considerably less than was feared last January. Some 125 of the 225 persons who work at the Canadian arsenal at Lake Kenogami have been given training courses offered by the federal and provincial labor departments.

HARD ROAD AHEAD

The town has a hard economic road to hoe, Mayor Long warns. Taxes must be raised to fill the gap left by the loss of revenue from the closed mill of Canadian Cottons Ltd. The company's buildings encompassed about 75 per cent of all property in the town, and the mill was by far the largest. This year the warrant, exclusive of government subsidies, is $107,000.

The textile firm paid in full for the building. The mill closed in January. But for 1955 the only revenue from the mill will come from reduced taxes on the idle mill. Property owners will be called upon to make up the difference.

Biggest monetary headache for the nine-man town council is the debt on a $400,000 bond issue in 1948 for sewer and water extensions.

"If we can keep taxation within reasonable limits, and continue to improve the town, there is no reason why it can't go ahead," said Mayor Long. "The community spirit is good."

Labor Group to Study Over 100 Resolutions

HAMILTON (CP)—One hundred and thirty resolutions have been presented for consideration by the convention of the Ontario Provincial Federation of Labor (AFL-TLC) in Niagara Falls this month.

Secretary John Hancox said about 500 delegates are expected to attend the three-day convention. The resolutions include ones on anti - discrimination, immigration, labor relations and housing.

ALL TO VISIT

KARACHI (Reuters) Prime Minister Mohammed Ali of Pakistan has accepted an invitation to visit Canada, it was announced officially disclosed here Tuesday.

ABOVE NORMAL

Temperatures throughout most of Canada are expected to be above normal throughout January as shown on this map based on the Trenton Bureau's long-range forecast. Only the northwestern section of British Columbia is expected to have below-normal temperatures. Precipitation is expected to be heavy in Alberta and the southern sections of Ontario, Quebec and Saskatchewan and moderate over the rest of the country. (CP Photo).

Drew Denies His Associates Will Bid for Globe and Mail

TORONTO (CP)—The announcement that the Globe and Mail, Toronto's only morning newspaper, will be offered for sale Jan. 10 touched off speculation today concerning possible bidders.

It was announced Monday night that Canadian, British and United States interests will be invited to bid for Canada's largest morning newspaper, whose history dates from the founding of the Globe by Liberal politician George Brown in 1843.

Reports were current Tuesday that bids may come from various Canadian publishing groups; from British enterprises such as those of Canada-born Lord Beaverbrook or the company that publishes the Sun — circulation Daily Mirror; from a United States multi-millionaire; and from Progressive Conservative interests associated with George Drew, the party's national leader.

Mr. Drew, recuperating at Ste. Adele, Que., from a meningitis attack, said the report was the silliest cock-and-bull story I've heard in a very long time."

None of the others reported likely to bid came out with confirmation though several expressed interest.

Roy H. Thomson, president of the Thomson Company which publishes more than 30 newspapers in Canada, the United States and Britain, said: "I am seriously interested and am looking into the matter very carefully before making a decision."

Philip S. Fisher of Montreal, president of the Southam Company, said: "The Southam Company is interested in any good Canadian newspaper that comes on the market. We are interested in the Globe and Mail but there is no use saying we are going to bid until we know what the offering will be."

Jack Kent Cooke, Toronto radio-station operator and magazine publisher said: "I am interested. I think it important that this great Canadian newspaper remain in the hands of Canadians."

Clinton Williams Murchison, 59-year-old multi-millionaire in Texas whose Canadian Delhi Oil Ltd., will be half-owner of the proposed Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd., was also reported interested.

A spokesman for the Murchison interests said in Dallas, Tex., Tuesday night that the newspaper's financial condition was being studied but that no decision had been made on any bid.

"Should we decide to bid it would be from the managerial angle, as an investmnt," the source said.

E. P. Taylor, Toronto industrialist and financier, was said by the Toronto Star to be a possible bidder, but there was no comment from him.

W. H. C. Kimber, president and publisher of the paper since the death of George McCullagh in August, 1952, said there is no pressing urgency about the sale. He said no sale will be made if bids are not satisfactory.

One report was that a "satisfactory" bid would have to be more than $7,000,000.

The paper reported a circulation of 244,000 last September. It came into being in its present form in September, 1936, when Mr. McCullagh merged the old Globe, bought five weeks earlier for $1,850,000, with the Mail and Empire, which cost him $2,000,000.

William R. Wright, multi-millionaire mining man, backed Mr. McCullagh in the transaction. The paper's six-storey building was named for Mr. Wright, who died Sept. 20, 1951.

Leaders of 18 Major Railway Unions Open General Parley

MONTREAL (CP)—The leaders of Canada's 18 major railway unions met today to find a formula for future contract negotiations that will avoid the necessity for federal government intervention.

Fifteen union leaders, members of the union negotiating committee, held a preliminary meeting here Tuesday and out of it is believed to have come a draft proposal to be submitted to today's general conference.

The proposal is reported by unofficial sources to include a declaration for overhauling the Industrial Disputes Act to put the rail unions in a separate category from the normal range of existing federal legislation.

CLAIM HANDS TIED

The unions, representing some 150,000 railway and non-operating employees across the country, have been under handicaps in recent years in their efforts to bargain their ability to negotiate with the railways.

The federal government, with the disastrous effects of 1950's paralyzing 5-day rail strike still fresh in mind, has been in no mood to tolerate such occurrence.

When last summer's contract negotiations appeared near a stalemate and union leaders were looking toward strike action, Prime Minister St. Laurent threatened to call an emergency session of Parliament—such as the one that ended the 1950 walkout—unless the parties submitted to compulsory conciliation.

Mr. Justice Gordon Sloan of British Columbia awarded the 7,000 non-operating railway employees some $7,000,000 in fringe demands. The railways described the award as "inflationary" and said the union requests would have totalled $60,000,000 yearly.

Both Tuesday's and today's meetings were closed.

Predicts Short Winter

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Chris Chapman says the winter will be short in this district.

Chapman, who farms in Seymour township near the Trent River, has been right 14 years and does a bit of hunting in his spare time. Last year he shot a black bear on Easter day.

He says that when a bear comes out of hibernation in January instead of February, it is a sign of short winter.

KINGSTON MAN HURT

SUSSEX, N.B. (CP)—John Neale 16, of Kingston, Ont., and based at HMCS Stadacona in Halifax, suffered a broken arm Tuesday when a car skidded on icy pavement and went into a ditch near Sussex. He was transferred to the military hospital at Lancaster. The driver, Duncan Bell of Saint John, escaped with hand cuts.

Doucett Resignation Based On Ministerial Responsibility For Irregularities in Dept.

DEPUTY CONTROLLER

S. J. W. Liddy, of Montreal, has been appointed deputy comptroller of the Canadian Pacific Railways Company. The appointment became effective with the New Year. (CP Photo).

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail says the resignation of Highways Minister George Doucett of Ontario was "based solely on his acceptance of ministerial responsibility for the irregularities which had been uncovered in his department."

The newspaper says Mr. Doucett's resignation was in a two-page letter received late Tuesday by Premier Frost.

It adds that the text of the letter, together with Mr. Frost's reply, "will be released sometime today, following the swearing-in of his successor as highways minister, James N. Allen of Dunnville."

SAYS NO HEALTH MENTION

The story says:

"It was reliably learned last night that Mr. Doucett made no mention of his health in his letter of resignation. He asked to be relieved of his post as highways minister because he felt that he must accept full responsibility for what had happened in his department last year."

"In effect, what Mr. Doucett told Premier Frost was that because of a high concept of ministerial responsibility and because he felt that technically he was responsible for the general policy of those under him, he wanted to be relieved of his post as minister.

"It was felt at Queen's Park that Mr. Doucett, in the general tone of his resignation, was likening his action to that of British cabinet ministers who had resigned when their departments came under fire, although they personally were not involved in any irregularity."

REFUSED TO CONFIRM

"At his home in Carleton Place, Mr. Doucett refused to confirm that his letter of resignation had gone forward to Premier Frost but said that he has been elected to his seat as a member of the Ontario legislature from that area.

The newspaper quotes Mr. Doucett as saying "My intention is to continue to serve the people of Lanark as long as I am their choice. The people of my own county know me and assure me of their confidence in me."

Earlier it was reported by some Queen's Park sources that Mr. Doucett was resigning because of ill health. He recently returned from the United States where he was convalescing after a severe illness.

Mr. Allan, 60, has been Progressive Conservative member of the legislature for Haldimand-Norfolk since the general election in November, 1951.

Holdup Foiled By Three Shots, Bandit Slain

NEW YORK (AP)—A retired police sharpshooter, who fires from either hip, chanced upon a bank holdup Tuesday and foiled it with three shots.

The lone, would-be bandit was slain before he got a dime. A guard and a customer were slightly wounded.

The decisive, split-second gunplay in Manhattan's garment district, one of the world's most congested areas, brought several thousand curious persons converging on a New York Trust Company branch. It is three blocks behind Times square at 7th Ave. and 39th St.

The ex-cop was William Rettig, 61, who retired from the force 10 years ago this month with a reputation as a crack shot. A messenger for the Franklin Savings Bank, four blocks away, he happened into the New York Trust on an errand for his own bank.

The slain bandit was identified as Ellison Gaylord Gray, 37, of Kansas City, Mo.

RISKS LIFE

As a regular guard in the New York Trust, Edward A. Kazuba, 36, proudly risked his life to call the intention in the holdup. With the bandit's gun muzzle in his stomach, Kazuba loudly assured him: "I haven't got a gun."

Kazuba was slugged over the head and shot in the foot by the holdup man, just before Rettig stepped the gamut. The bandit died on the spot.

Soviet Govt. 'Bearish' On Market Boom

NEW YORK (CP) — The New York Times says the Soviet government is "bearish" on the current boom in business in the United States, and has warned that amid American prosperity there be "storm" by the "big sharks."

The New York paper quotes the Moscow publication Kommunist, semi-official organ of the Soviet Communist Party.

"The magazine makes clear that it doesn't like the way stocks are moving up and doesn't intend to believe that the boom means American prosperity, for the market's behaviour is merely 'froth and scum on the surface' of American economic life."

For the last year and a half, adds The Times, the newspaper says, the Soviet press "has been conspicuously silent about the stock market. Earlier signs in Moscow market students that there's been no 'good' news for Pravda to report. But now New Times has spoken up and given out the secret that the averages have returned to the 1929 peaks."

RED APPROACH

HONG KONG (Reuters)—Communist China wants to join with African and Asian nations in a fight against "colonialism" in the interests of world peace, Chou En-lai, premier of Communist China, said Tuesday. Chou, who also holds the post of foreign minister, indicated his approach to the Afro-Asian powers for next April.

Textile Magnate Buys Canadian Property in France

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

PARIS (CP)—The Canadian embassy property on the Avenue Foch in Paris has been purchased by textile magnate Marcel Boussac, sometimes called the richest man in France.

Ambassador Jean Desy and his staff of about 60 will move to a new building, still in the drawing-board stage, on the Avenue Montaigne. The transfer may take two years to complete.

Plans for the new embassy have been prepared by Antoine Moncte of Montreal, departmental architect for the external affairs department. Work is expected to start this month. Moncte declines to give details, saying it will just be an "ordinary" building.

DEMOLISH BUILDING

First step will be demolition of the gloomy, grey building, once the residence of the Duc de Broglies, which now stands on the Avenue Montaigne site. This tall, drafty, old-fashioned structure, near the Plaza Athenee Hotel where visiting Canadian officials usually stay, is being used meanwhile as temporary annex offices by a Canadian secretary-minister Roger Hctu of Montreal and an 11-member RCAF movement control section headed by Flt. Lt. Wilfrid Groulx of Ottawa.

Canada's diplomatic mission in France, started as a legation in 1928, has been located for the last eight years at 72 Avenue Foch, the broad boulevard known to Paris as the Champs of Diplomats." Nearby on a tiny dead-end street is the home of Premier Edgar Faure's secretary-general.

Boussac officials were unable to say about inviting their wives to meet them at the Avenue Montaigne headquarters. But a second on the road is the fashion house of Christian Dior, architect of the whippet - slim models often stop traffic as they pose negligently outside the Dior building for slick magazine shots.

What Boussac paid for the old embassy property and what he plans to do with it have not been disclosed.

Boussac, 63, has been called France's "king of cotton." He owns some 50-odd factories employing 25,000 workers and is one of Dior's backers.

300 Gems Recovered

PRESTWICK, Scotland (AP)—Insurance officials confirmed Tuesday that 300 gems, mostly of diamonds worth almost £1,000,000 were down in the wreckage and crash of a British Stratocruiser here.

So far, only about 300 gems, many damaged from the fierce heat of the burning plane, have been recovered from the trampled mud around the crash site. Searchers continued their diligence up the turf of Prestwick airport and the espionage law for minus of secret documents.

Bird Watchers Discover Some Strange Birds

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada's bird watchers this year discovered unwelcome invaders in British Columbia and Newfoundland and welcome ones in Nova Scotia.

The annual winter bird count set officials in Vancouver and Newfoundland murmuring with concern over increased numbers of Japanese starlings, a shiny black bird slightly smaller than the robin, introduced into southern Ontario in 1890.

At Halifax, a flock of 78 cowbirds was counted. These members of the blackbird family usually are the parasitic habit of laying eggs in nests of other birds which hatch them and act as foster parents.

Results of the Christmas bird count from Cape Race and Jan. 1 throughout North America are printed by the National Audubon Society in Audubon Field Notes.

Toronto area topped the list, spotting 65 species in the 30th annual count in the section. The count was 17 short of the record 82 in 1952 and compared to 74 counted last year.

Ottawa in Toronto was made by 106 persons in 26 parties. Observed 39 species.

Unusual finds for certain areas included a goshawk and robin at Ottawa, a mockingbird seven robins and Halifax 310.

Suit Laid Over

UTICA, N.Y. (AP)—The state court of claims Tuesday put over-Regis Indians' $33,800,000 suit against the state.

Three tribal chiefs maintain that the three-mile strip "by inherent right" to Barnhart island in the St. Lawrence river, principal site of the hydroelectric project being developed by New York and Ontario.

The three chiefs, Norman Mitchell, Hutert Garrow and Andrew Gero, cited treaties signed just after the American Revolutionary War.

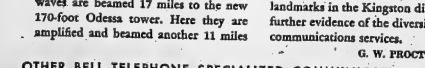
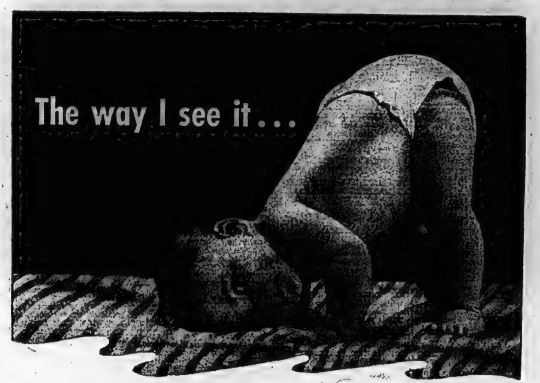
Your telephone company plays a leading role in bringing you TV



One of the star performers at CKWS-TV in Kingston is your telephone company. Bell plays a major part in bringing TV to your home. Bell works behind the scenes, too, all along the way, for the programs are microwaved to Kingston via Bell towers.

From the Enterprise tower, the microwaves are beamed 17 miles to the new 170-foot Odessa tower. Here they are amplified and beamed another 11 miles to the 70-foot tower now mounted on the roof of our Kingston exchange building. A 4,000-foot special video cable carries the signals down from the tower and then underground to the CKWS-TV studios.



Because of the height and construction of the new towers, they have become landmarks in the Kingston district—and further evidence of the diversity of Bell's communications services.

ONTARIO TOWN PLANS FOR INDUSTRIAL EXPANSION

Population of Milton, Ont., is now 3,500, but if all the plans for expansion materialize, that figure will be doubled or even quadrupled in the next few years. Arrangements are being made with "over a dozen" British manufacturers to build plants there and, as part of the scheme, houses, stores and roads are in the blueprint stage ready for immediate construction. Bordering the present townsite, 1,100 acres have been reserved for expansion into a balanced homes-and-industry development. The first 500-house units of an estimated 1,500 to be built in the next ten years have already been started. (Central Press Canadian).

Derrick Lifts Injured Worker From Excavation

TORONTO (CP)—A construction derrick, a stretcher cradled from the end of its steel bawser, gently lifted an injured construction worker from the bottom of a 58-foot excavation in mid-Toronto Tuesday night.

Ralph Japena, 27, of Hamilton suffered severe head and body injuries when he fell from a plank where he was working to the bottom of the hole.

Car headlamps and searchlights from two excavators lit the rescue scene as Japena was brought to the surface. Fellow workers clambered down ladders to Japena's aid but were unable to bring him out of the hole.

Two Men Sentenced For Entering Store

SIMCOE (CP)—Two men were sentenced Tuesday to a total of 12 years in penitentiary when they pleaded guilty to charges of breaking and entering with intent to steal from a department store here Dec. 12.

Alex Zolomy, 30, was sentenced to 10 years. Brian Major, 25, received a three-year term. Both were from Toronto.

Zolomy was also convicted of a clothing store break-in, possession of burglary tools and unlawful possession of explosives. He received an additional 10-year term to run concurrent with the first.

The Referees Are Judge And Jury; N.H.L. Backs 'Em To The Limit

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

OPEN LETTER TO THE MEMOS:

Listen fellas, fans have charged this column and friend Dewton with giving referees every too many pats on the back. Personally, we're glad they did. It opens the page to a comment on that workout years guys had last night.

Leaving the arena, a fan asked us what we thought of the game. He removed a hankie from his nostril before he spoke and it reeked of antiseptic. That guy was a wise one. He came prepared.

Our answer was simple. We paraphrased a well-known movie comedian who answered a similar question with: Confidentially, it stinks." That, however, is putting it rather strongly. Or is it?

There were nine guys in front of you. A goalkeeper, two defencemen and six forwards. That was enough. Just what you ask with your pee-gams cereal could not have been the supper of champions. None of you came up with a hockey exhibition with the exception, perhaps, of Bob Wilson, Bish Macey and Tony Furiel.

The Petes had you beaten with that first goal. From then in they laid back and smiled. It was in the bag—and against their old archrivals, Belleville.

But you can play better hockey than that. God help you if you can't when the playoff chips are down. O.K., you got it off your chest. You were on the wrong side of the two fracases, one of which could not do anything right. You know the rest.

O.K., let it go at that. But a word of warning. The Clinton Comets are here Friday. 'Nuff sed. Get out there and play the hockey you are capable of playing—and you will be back in the good graces of the fans.

SAVE THOSE CHRISTMAS CARDS!

Just hold your horses! Don't be in a hurry to throw away those old Christmas cards. Sick kiddies and others in hospital get a tremendous kick out of cutting out, pasting and making their own designs. Your old cards may provide some happy hours for these little sufferers and invalids. Take them to Paul Mercier's jewellery store on Front Street and deposit them in a box you will find there. Paul and his staff will see to it they arrive at the proper destination. And do it now.

* * *

Some time ago a sage, savant, prognosticator or whatever they call the scientific experts who predict the ways of the world, wrote that within a million years or so, or was it sooner? this part of the world will be basking under tropical suns; Canada's maples will be royal palms; barracuda and sharks would be kicking up their heels or fins in Muscote Bay; bathing beauties will replace the smelt in the spring run up the Moira, while down Florida way, the guys and dolls will be going in for speed-skating, sledding and hockey.

Ask any manager who operates a hockey club and relies on natural ice these winter days, and nine out of ten will agree with the scientific sage.

It goes without saying the winters "ain't what they used to be."

It is not too many years since the cricks, the bays and the rivers were tightly shackled in icy handcuffs before January 1st and many a Merry Christmas party went skating or ice-boating on sheeny stretches of ice outdoors.

In fact one oldtimer down around Consecon way told this department in a moment of reminiscence that he recalled when a young man of spending the week before Christmas shovelling out trains in that part of Prince Edward County. "The snow was so deep that when I whistled I twicked," for a smile, "that we section hands hung our overcoats on the telegraph wires before going to work." We hung up the oldtimer before he had the chance to tell us they located the sleeper and fireman with diamond drills in the depths far below the top of civilization.

It could be the vagaries of the weather man but if such then for once he is being consistent. The severity of winter is being delayed—or has been the last few seasons, and 1955 appears to be another belated period of activity for those who depend on natural ice for their hockey activities and pastime.

Unless the weather takes a decided change for frost and ice in the near future, it appears the season of the Trent Valley Hockey League will be shortened considerable as far as centries which depend on natural ice are concerned.

Here it is January 5 and ice in the natural ice communities that is properly fit to use as a hockey cushion is as rare as holidays in January. This season, for the first time in its history the league will begin its schedule on artificial ice and finish it, clinic. Semi-finals and finals in previous years, at least when it was available, were concluded on the synthetic stuff.

We are not a prognosticator, but feel safe in saying that in keeping with the gradual changing of weather in the winter season the time is not far distant when artificial ice in a local covered arena will be as necessary to the smaller community as its reeve and council, providing of course, it wants to cater to the hockey and skating wants of its populace.

Call 'Em Kansas Flyers

CHICAGO (AP) — Eight plane trips will be required in this year's American League baseball schedule with Kansas City as a new member.

League President Will Harridge today estimated the 1955 schedule, to be announced Jan. 17, will add between 9,000 and 10,000 miles of travel for the eight clubs over a previous average season.

Harridge said that the shift of Baltimore into the eastern division and the switch of the A's from Philadelphia to Kansas City brought considerable travel compensation on a divisional basis.

However, travel complications between Kansas City and Detroit and Cleveland have made necessary the eight plane trips which will mark the first time a regular schedule put the league in the air.

Cleveland, Baltimore and Detroit flew last year, but as a matter of convenience and not because the schedule required it.

Prexy Calls Closed Meeting, Aim to Enforce Rules In All Respects, Says Boss

By JACK BEST
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (CP) — National Hockey League club owners want the circuit's six referees to take a closer look at the rule book, particularly the part about rough play, and administer the law more strictly.

They have pledged their unqualified support to any referee who might get into hot water with fans, players or club officials by faithful application of playing regulations.

Agreement on the need for closer supervision of play was reached here Tuesday at a meeting attended by the league's rules committee, including representatives of all six clubs; referee-in-chief Carl Voss; and the six NHL referees.

TO ENFORCE RULES

The committee later reported to Cons Smythe of Toronto, chairman of the league's board of directors, who issued a statement saying the governors had authorized NHL prexy Clarence Campbell of Montreal to see that the rules were carried out "in all respects." Campbell is chairman of the rules committee.

The meeting also instructed Voss to prepare and circulate to all the clubs and referees certain specific directive outlining the matters dealt with at the meeting, orders contained in the directive to take effect in this weekend's games.

Campbell said in an interview that he called the meeting on instructions of the owners, who constitute the board of governors, because "some dissatisfaction" had been expressed over the lack of uniformity in officiating and the fact rules were not being enforced as they should be.

BEFORE RICHARD

He said the "Richard incident" of Dec. 29, in which the Montreal Canadiens' fiesty Rocket struck linesman George Hayes on the face with a glove during an outbreak in a game at Toronto, was not responsible for the meeting. Instructions to call it were issued prior to the incident, Campbell added.

He said there were three types of problem involved in establishing uniformity of refereeing. The first was to maintain the same standard throughout a game. Referees showed a tendency to be tough at the start of a game, then slacken off if possible. The second, fouls called in the first period were ignored when committed in the second or third."

NEED CONSISTENCY

Another problem, Campbell said, is to get "some consistency" from game to game. The third problem possible because the style of play varies according to the team . . . but we will try to get back into a uniform pattern."

Finally, there was the problem of disparity between the discipline inflicted by one referee compared with another. Campbell said "every assurance" was being given officials that their decisions will receive the backing of the league. Referees will be expected to call the play "without any concern whatever" for the result of the contest, while fear is leading at the time of an infraction or the number of penalties handed out to one team in comparison with the other.

There were no games in the NHL Tuesday night. Action resumes tonight after a two-day layoff with Boston playing at Toronto and Chicago at New York.

HUFFMAN SIGNS

WINNIPEG (CP)—All-star tackle Dick Huffman has signed with the Winnipeg Blue Bombers for the 1955 Western Interprovincial Football Union season, club officials announced Tuesday night. The former lineman with the Los Angeles Rams has been named to the weekend all-stars each of the last three years.

SIGNS FIGHTERS

VANCOUVER (CP) — Promoter Kari Kaiser said Tuesday he had champion Johnny Arthur and Bermuda Ulteholder Jimmy Walls to meet here Jan. 20.

Webster Move May Start Grid Warfare

MONTREAL (CP) — Rumblings of football warfare were heard in Montreal Tuesday.

They came in the wake of news that Alex Webster, Montreal Alouettes' all-star halfback last season has signed a contract to try out with New York Giants of the National Football League.

"The Giants' action in going after one of our best players only widens the breach between Canadian teams and the National Football League," said Leo Dandurand, president of the Montreal Big Four team.

"This is my personal opinion, mind you, but possibly it (the breach) can't be bridged. The market would seem to be wide open."

DUE TO ARRIVE

Webster was due to arrive here Monday from his home in Kearney, N.J., to go over final details of a $6,000 a year contract the Alouettes' management had arranged for him.

While vice-president Vic Obeck waited for Webster the telephone rang. It was Webster informing his boss to say he had accepted a Giants' offer.

Obeck said Webster was offered a "fabulously high salary" but no Canadian team, including the Alouettes, could match.

Obeck said coach Doug Walker says he has two or three prospects, just as good and perhaps better than Webster.

The 23-year-old product of North Carolina State College tied a Big Four record of 16 touchdowns in a season, was the biggest groundgainer in the league, and was runner-up to Canadian Press all-star team.

Canadiens Call Jim Bartlett

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens announced Tuesday they have called up leftwinger Jim Bartlett from Cleveland Saguenenns of the Quebec Hockey League on a three-game loan-lease basis with the National Hockey League club.

Bartlett, 24, will play here Thursday and Saturday against Chicago Black Hawks and Boston Bruins respectively and will go with the team to New York Sunday for a game against Rangers.

Boston Bruins Call Corcoran

TORONTO (CP)—Centre Norm Corcoran, former St. Catharines Teepee and Niagara Falls Cataract Ontario Hockey Association, now with Hershey ears of the American Hockey League in Pottsville, Penn., was recalled by the Boston Bruins tonight for their National Hockey League game with Toronto Maple Leafs, it was announced Tuesday. He will replace Don Sandford, Bruins' centre, who suffered torn knee ligaments last weekend. Sandford will be out for three weeks.

Leafs may be without their star centre Ted Kennedy for the game. Kennedy suffered a mouth injury in Sunday's game with Chicago Black Hawks and was excused from practice Tuesday. He received gash requiring five stitches inside his mouth and had several teeth loosened.

MUELLER SIGNS

NEW YORK (AP)—Don Mueller, whose .343 batting average last year was second only to that of teammate Willie Mays, Tuesday became the 16th member of the New York Giants to sign his contract for the 1955 baseball season.

Sugar Ray Starts Comeback Tonight Against Rindone

By JOE FALLS

DETROIT (AP) — Sugar Ray Robinson starts his long-awaited comeback tonight, and the magic of his name may draw more than 10,000 paying customers to Olympia Stadium.

The former middleweight champion of the world, looking lean and fighting mean in the ring, meets Joe Rindone of Boston in a nontelevised 10-rounder.

Although Robinson has been inactive for 30 months, promoter Nick Lotito is optimistic about the gate.

"The advance sale has been surprisingly brisk and we expect a crowd of more than 10,000," Lootes said.

This would be a genuine tribute to the drawing power of Robinson, once termed the finest fighter in the world pound for pound.

FIVE LAST YEAR

There were five boxing shows in Olympia last year. None drew as many as 2,000 paying fans. The combined total of these shows, in fact, was only 4,834.

Robinson's appearance in Detroit has generated a new interest—at least for tonight. In workouts, fans took mild and friendly jammed the gym to get a glimpse of Sugar Ray in action.

The question is how much has the long layoff dulled his once-brilliant skills?

"I feel good and still can move around in the ring, but you never know," he said. "Being away from the ring 30 months is a long time.

"I can use the money," he said, "but I'm not broke. I missed the atmosphere. I missed the fight crowds, the kibitzers in the dressing rooms, the guys in the gym. I guess I missed everything about it."

If all goes well, Robinson said he hopes to get a June title shot at middleweight champion Bobo Olson. Robinson defended his championship against Olson in a title match back on March 13, 1952.

Sugar Ray hasn't fought since June of that same year when, arm weary and exhausted, he collapsed in Yankee Stadium while trying to take the light heavy crown from Joey Maxim.

In December of that year, Robinson announced his "official" retirement and went into the song and dance business.

He brings into the fight a gaudy record of 131 wins, three losses and two ties. Rindone, a 26-year-old veteran, has a 23-13-2 mark, losing all three fights last year.

SEEKS BERTH

OTTAWA (CP)—Charles Andrew (Chan) Caldwell, line coach at Tennessee University, talked over the Ottawa Rough Riders' vacant coaching job with officials of the Big Four football team Tuesday night. He was the fifth to turn up here in search of the spot Clem Crowe vacated at the end of last season.

A Rough Rider official said earlier Tuesday that the choice of a new coach likely would be made until after a meeting of the Big Four Jan. 15.

Injury-Riddled Peterborough Hands Memos 3-1 Setback In Worst Game of Season

By GEORGE H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

There were two aromas in Memorial Arena last night. One was a more or less powerful odor that emanated from the Memos while the other was the attar of roses victory smell that bloomed off the Peterborough Petes. In case you were not there and are not affected by fumes via remote control, the Petes defeated the Memos 3-1 in an integral sense "3" hockey game.

The Petes' forces led exactly nine men, a goalie, two defencemen, and six forwards. That was enough. In fact it was too much. It was more than necessary to walk away with a well-deserved victory.

The injury-riddled Petes came up with an outstanding exhibition while the Memos (no alibi) got rid of the worst game of this season.

The score was tied one-all at the end of the first period. The Petes' Floyd fired home the winner in the second heat with the Kawartha Kutups' coach Eddie Redmond blasting in the insurance marker in the third chapter.

The shorthanded Petes ripped into an early lead when Gus Leonard drove the puck past Parisi from a gauging attack after three minutes of play. The Memos appeared disorganized and were able to score only one goal with a two-man advantage after Twist and Redmond got the gate 13 seconds apart. Mockler got the equalizer on a power play with Arnee Brogan and Peter Jones at the 8.13 mark.

Memos again failed to capitalize on manpower when Redmond and Greenlaw got the gate at 12.10. "Toodle" drawing a misconduct.

DONLEVY BRILLIANT

Donlevy was brilliant kicking out the Memos driving shots in a belated effort to get the lead. It was lethargic hockey on Belleville's part with the Petes playing a hard-hitting effective defence.

It was ragged hit and run hockey in this period with the Memos failing to get their passing play clicking. The Petes played a rugged defensive game and stopped the Memos' clean-cut drives.

Peter Jones drove into the clear with an open net but Eddie Redman grabbed him and drew a holding penalty. Donlevy again rose to heights in kicking out Memo rubber, blasting away close in shots aside from Muckler.

ALWAYS DANGEROUS

The Petes were dangerous and their passing was better than the Memos. They drove in after 18 minutes of play and Floyd beat Parisi cleanly from Hill's pass to give the visitors a 2-1 lead. Melvin Duncan got the gate at 17.46 for holding, but the period ended that way.

The Petes grabbed advantage of an early Memo penalty to take a 3-1 lead in the third period. Muckler drew a holding penalty at :54 and Redman slapshotted McMaster's pass past Parisi to increase the margin at 2.36, with McMaster and Hill getting assists.

The Memos drove in in a desperate drive, but the equally-desperate Petes in a fine defensive effort threw back all they had to offer.

The Memos had an advantage when Redman drew his fourth penalty of the game at 14.43 of the period, but an organized defence plus the brilliant work of Donlevy, put the game on ice. A last minute penalty to Goyer thwarted the Memos' chances to even the score.

THE TEAMS

No Quarrel With Skinner Says Campbell

NEW YORK (CP) — President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League says he has no quarrel with Detroit's Jimmy Skinner for his rebuff to the Red Wing coach handed him in Montreal Saturday night when Campbell cautioned against obscenities on the Detroit bench.

Skinner was reported to have told the league president to "mind your own business, you're only a spectator." Campbell had left his seat at the Montreal-Detroit game and approached the Detroit bench after hearing outbursts of obscenity from that direction.

"I can't quarrel with what Skinner said," Campbell admitted Tuesday in New York, where he attended an NHL rules committee meeting. "I must agree I was spectator, although my premise was based on league interest."

May Limit Players' Salaries

VANCOUVER (CP)—Don Mackenzie, president of the British Columbia Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union, indicated Tuesday there may be a move at the Canadian Rugby Union meeting here in March to limit players' salaries.

Mackenzie said the time has come to inform American football players they are not getting a clear picture of Canadian salaries.

"All the kids are talking big money," he said. "They've got the wrong impression. . . .

At Edmonton, Ken Montgomery, president of the Edmonton Eskimo football club, said Tuesday night any attempts to introduce limits on players' salaries in the WIFU "just wouldn't work."

"We have discussed the problem at our league meetings," said Montgomery, also a CRU vice president, "and the Big Four actually tried the system. But it can't be done. The trouble is you can't get anybody to live up to such legislation. It doesn't sound so good stated in such bald fashion but that's what happens."

Marlies Win Over Canadiens

MONTREAL (CP)—Centre Bill Harris clicked for two goals Tuesday night to lead Toronto Marlboros to a 5-3 victory over Montreal Canadiens in a Sir Wilfrid Laurier Trophy game here between the Ontario and Quebec junior hockey teams.

The Marlboros went ahead 3-0 in the first period and never looked back. Don Head, Gary Aldcorn and Ross Seddon each got single goals for the winners. Henri (Pocket Rocket) Richard scored twice and Leo Konyk got the otter for the Canadiens.

Ottawa Fans Wire For 'Baseball' Help

OTTAWA (CP)—A second telegram signed by 1,000 Ottawa and district residents urging that International League baseball remain in the capital was sent Tuesday night to Kansas City Athletics, owners of the league franchise in Ottawa.

Jack Steinberg, an Ottawa clothing merchant, said Tuesday the wire brought to about 3,000 the number of Ottawa citizens who have signed similar petitions.

The Kansas club took over the Ottawa club when it bought Philadelphia Athletics of the American Baseball League in the fall. Kansas City reported thinking of moving the Ottawa franchise elsewhere.

Olson May Fight Moore

NEW YORK (AP) — A Boko Olson-Archie Moore bout for the world light heavyweight title at a New York ball park in June is in the works for the summer season.

Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, said today he already had started negotiations for the match between two champions.

The last meeting between middleweight and light heavy kings was the Sugar Ray Robinson-Joey Maxim pairing in the steaming heat, June 25, 1952, that resulted in the collapse of referee Ruby Goldstein and Robinson.

At Toledo, Ohio, Moore said he would sign to meet Olson in the IBC would promise him a shot at Marciano's title.

He added he was "confident that I can defeat a middleweight," even Olson, who he says "one of the finest boxers that we have had in the last 10 years."

OHIO PIVOTMAN DAZZLED RIVALS AND CANUCK COACHES TOO

Dave Leggett is one name that Canadian football coaches and scouts won't forget. Viewing the 'Rose Bowl' game on television, Big Four and Western Conference brass saw the Ohio State quarterback dazzle his University of Southern California opponents. He ran for one touchdown, passed to another and sparked a drive that led to Ohio's thirty-major in their 20-7 victory. Mercurys Whip Windsor Bulldogs, Move Back Into First Place Tie

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Owen Sound Mercurys moved into a first-place tie in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League Tuesday night with a 3-1 victory over Windsor Bulldogs.

Mercurys treated a skilled crowd of 2,200 fans to their 19th win of the season as they scored three goals in the first two periods to outclass Bulldogs. They now are tied with Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen for the league leadership.

In the only other senior OHA game Tuesday night, Chatham Maroons and Niagara Falls Cataracts battled to a 2-2 tie.

At Owen Sound, Don Gillespie set up the Mercury win by firing two goals past netminder Bill Harrington of the third-place Bulldogs. Buck Forslund scored the other one.

Gord Haxby robbed goaltender Bob Gillson of a shutout with less than five minutes to play after stealing the puck from Ralph Hosking at the Mercury blueline and beating Gillson with a hard, low shot. The goal came at 15:58.

At Niagara Falls, 1,000 fans were on hand for the deadlock. It was hitless, shinny-type hockey for the first two periods but both teams bounded into life in the final session.

Jim Connelly sent Cataracts into a 1-0 lead at 2:10 of the first period and the other three goals were scored in the final 20 minutes. Connelly also got the other Chatham marker. Lorne Pirie and Jim Robertson scored for Cataracts.

The tie left Chatham in fourth place in the six-team league with 25 points, nine up on the last-place Cataracts.

Barbara Grattan, Ice Queen Retires from Colorful Sport

TORONTO (CP)—Barbara Gratton, a pretty brunette who became Canada's senior women's figure skating champion at 16, has retired from the sport.

The Toronto miss, now 18, announced Tuesday night that she is retiring from competitive skating because education is of prime importance.

Miss Gratton, who followed in the footsteps of Ottawa's Barbara Ann Scott and Suzanne Morrow of Toronto as the country's first lady of the sport, disclosed her move in a letter to Fred Boland, president of the Toronto Skating Club.

WAS TO DEFEND

Her retirement came 12 years after she started skating and only a couple of weeks before she was to defend the Canadian crown she won two years ago at the Canadian figure skating championships.

She was virtually a cinch to retain the honor at the finals on Jan. 30-22 and represent Canada at the world championships in Vienna next month.

Barbara, a five-foot-two, 100-pound beauty, is a first-year student in general arts at the University of Toronto.

Her record with the Toronto Skating Club has been sensational since she first won the Canadian junior women's title in 1950. She successfully defended it in 1951 and 1953.

EASY WINNER

In 1953, when Miss Morrow quit at the height of her career to further her studies as a veterinary surgeon, Barbara easily won the senior title.

She retained it last year and later went to the world championships at Oslo, where she placed fourth to stars Gundi Busch of Germany, Tenley Albright of Newton Centre, Mass., and Britain's Erica Batchelor. In that year, she was third to Miss Albright and Carol Heiss of New York in the North American championships.

The Gratton name will be carried on in skating by Barbara's younger sister, Elizabeth, a junior.

Trafton Wants Stamps' Job

CALGARY (CP)—George Trafton, former coach of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, has formally applied for the vacant field boss job of the Calgary Stampeders.

Trafton, fired by Blue Bombers after taking the Winnipeg team to the East-West final in 1953, Monday wired his application for the Calgary post to Ed O'Connor, president of the Stampeders. Calgary has been searching for a new boss since Larry Siemering was released shortly after the close of the 1954 campaign.

Detroiters Want Third Track

DETROIT (AP) — An investors group of 12 Detroiters has applied to the state racing commission for permission to build a third thoroughbred race track in the metropolitan Detroit area.

The group is known as the Michigan Thoroughbred Turf Club. It said it has purchased a 160-acre site in neighboring Macomb county northeast of Detroit. It also said it has obtained stock pledges for $3,025,000 and escrow to an additional million dollars.

State racing commissioner James H. Inglis has turned down several other applications in recent years, saying that licensing of a new track would force a longer racing season.

'We'll Take Em', No Help Needed Says Penticton

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP) — A tentative battle plan was announced here Tuesday by the Penticton V's, who go in quest of the world hockey championship in Pleasedoor, Germany, Feb. 25 to March 6.

Club president Clem Bird told the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association the V's need no reinforcements for the trip.

The V's, Allan Cup champions, play their last game in the Canadian Senior Hockey League Feb. 11. The team will fly to Europe and play four pre-tournament games, probably against Sweden, Germany, Switzerland, England or France.

Phillies Lost Quarter Million

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Philadelphia Phillies lost $250,000 last year and the future isn't too bright unless a real pennant contender is developed.

Owner Bob Carpenter said Tuesday that even the departure of Philadelphia Athletics for Kansas City, which makes Philadelphia a one-club town, won't change the ink in the ledger from red to black unless he has a winner.

"I'll trade anybody — providing what I get in return means a first or second place finish for the Phillies," Carpenter said. "I'm certainly not going to give away first stringers for second - stringers."

Teepees Lead Trophy Drive

MONTREAL (CP) — St. Catharines TeePees are leading the Ontario section in the hockey series for the Sir Wilfrid Laurier Trophy while the Quebec section presents a two-way tie for first place between Trois-Rivieres Flambeaux and Quebec Frontenacs.

St. Catharines has two wins and a tie in five games to hold a two-point edge over Toronto Marlboros, trophy statistics showed Tuesday.

Kitchener - Waterloo Canucks are last in the three-team Ontario section, with six losses in as many starts.

Trois-Rivieres, with four wins, and Quebec, three wins and two draws, are two points ahead of Montreal in the Quebec section.

It has not been decided whether there will be a playoff between the sectional leaders for the trophy.

Gavilan, Lopez Make Parley

NEW YORK (AP)—Kid Gavilan and manager Lou Lopez reached an agreement Tuesday on their lightweight championship relationship by which Lopez will release former welter champ from his contract when a "suitable manager" is available.

Both parties admitted the "suitable manager" would be a man willing to pay an amount of money that would be agreeable to Lopez. No figure was announced.

In the meantime, Gavilan agreed to let Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, negotiate a Johnny Saxton-Carmen Basilio bout for Saxton's welter title with Gavilan to fight the winner.

Sahh—A TITLE IS AT STAKE

A picture of concentration, David Bond, 13-year-old boys' billiard champion of England, is shown defending his title at the 37th annual championship tourney in London. Ages of competitors taking part in the championship range from thirteen to sixteen. (Central Press Canadian).

Hubbies Should Be Protected Says Divorced British Actor

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The bespectacled Edmund Purdom looked perplexed when he said he isn't unco-operative with the press. Just unavailable.

The English actor, who seemed to fame as Mario Lanza's sub in "Student Prince" and Marlon Brando's in "The Egyptian," has had the poorest press of any film newcomer in memory. Several female columnists delight in taking potshots at him. And the Hollywood Women's Press Club bopped him as the most unco-operative actor of 1954, an unusual "honor" for a lad who was unknown a year ago.

"I don't think I'm unco-operative," Purdom said. "I would plead guilty to being unavailable. As I have said over and over again until I'm sick of hearing it. I have done four pictures in nine months. That is not the kind of schedule that allows much free time for interviews."

Purdom, on the set of "The Egyptian Thief," was fresh in discussing his troubles with his wife, who has written a series of articles on their breakup for a London paper. He denied reports that he wasn't doing right by her in the divorce settlement.

"She is getting two-thirds of my salary," he said. "She also has a nurse for the children, a housekeeper and a four-door Cadillac. I wouldn't say she was suffering.

"And any time she wanted, she could go into the California courts and claim half of my salary. If anything, I think it's the husbands who should be protected."

Two Abuses Are Conspicuous In Commercials of TV Shows

By WAYNE OLIVER

NEW YORK (AP)—Most sponsors of night-time network television stick close to the time limit of three minutes of commercials to the half hour prescribed by the industry's code, but two abuses are conspicuous:

1. Splitting the commercials into several pieces and sandwiching them into the program so often that the entertainment seems to be a mere interruption of the sales spiel.

2. Free plugs in the entertainment portion, entirely aside from the sponsor's own commercial time, so the sum total of commercials leaves the viewer dizzy.

Most viewers concede the right of the sponsor to—a reasonable amount of time for his sales message in return for picking up the heavy expense tab for the show. But many question whether the sponsor does as well for himself with such frequent interruptions as he would with a more thorough job at the start and end of the show.

One of the most enjoyable new shows on TV is George Gobel's Saturday night rogram on NBC. But, it, too, suffers from the malady. The Gobel show, for example, had five separate commercials, including sponsor identification. Gobel had 12 minutes without interruption before the middle commercial and 9 2-3 minutes afterward—just under 22 minutes in all out of the half hour. This was followed locally by three quickie commercials before the start of the NBC Parade.

Then it was the same story over again—with the entertainment confined to 10 minutes before the middle commercial and 10½ minutes afterward, unless you count 30 seconds of a song plugging the sponsor's product.

But those two aren't by any means unusual, nor are they the worst in this respect. On CBS-TV's Beat the Clock and Two for the Money, big signs advertising the sponsors' products are on camera throughout the programs.

The extraneous plugs within the entertainment portions of the program, and separate from the sponsor's commercials, are familiar on such shows as This Is Your Life, Big Payoff, Welcome Travelers and Godfrey and his Friends.

In many cases the free plug for a product other than that of the sponsor is given in return for donation of a gift awarded on the show or for transportation of contestants, and helps keep production costs down. In many other cases the free plug is slipped in by the performer as a favor, or just for fun or so of the product mentioned. There are numerous commercial products for which a mention on the air will get the performer a case of scotch delivered at home.

In much the same category are many TV awards given not so much in appreciation of the merit of the program but in order to get free promotional time on the air for the donor. Then some magazines—but by no means all—offer a program a big article and picture spread in return for a program plug for the magazine. One popular Saturday night program turned down such a deal only a few days ago.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

An opening bid of four (in a major suit) is for men only. Women are allowed. There is no law against it. But they seldom accept the privileges because of economic conditions.

A man may get a hand with six or seven hearts or spades in it. Not much else. Not even the tops in his suit, maybe. Not enough for an opening one bid. His should pass and see if partner can open.

But he is afraid that if he passes so will everybody else. And he will never get a chance to play that bee-outiful hunk of trumps. Such a thing would just about break his heart.

So, unable to control himself, he bangs out with an opening bid of four hearts (or spades). Double by opponent. Down three for a loss of 500. Now he is satisfied. At least, he got his chance to play it.

For this reason I call it an uncontrollable-urge-bid. Man like, he satisfied his urge knowing it would cost him something. Women do not like to deliberately lose. They look more to security.

Occasionally such a bid scares the wits out of opponents who may not double. Or, who may double instead of taking a chance on starting high. As a result they may miss a cinch slam of their own.

Since this does happen once in awhile, a man justifies himself. The fact that he loses more than he gains thereby is something he is willing to overlook. He thinks only of the one time he gained.

You have the south hand shown here:

♠K J 9 8 7 6 4
♥5
♦8 5
♣A 8 4 3

You are the dealer and your side is not vulnerable. You have not what it takes for an opening one or two bid. If you open with a bid of four spades, doubled and down four cots 700. Not worth it.

If opponents open and reach four hearts, maybe you will gamble with four spades in defense, but don't grab for the line just to satisfy your uncontrollable urge. Have some consideration for your partner.

Brown Bomber Does Not Plan Training Career

CHICAGO (AP)—"I'm having a lot of luck with these boys but a career as a fight trainer is out."

That was Joe Louis, former world's heavyweight boxing champion, talking.

Louis said as a fight trainer sayrocketed the last couple of weeks after his fine ko Paul Andrews and Gil Turner brought about upset victories for both men.

And a couple of days ago, Fred Summers, manager of German middleweight Petz Mueller announced that Louis would help train his fighter.

"I sure have had a lot of luck," said Louis, "but training as a career is out. I help those boys as a favor to them or their managers. I would never make as much money as a trainer as I do refereeing wrestling matches.

AT THE BELLE — Tab Angeli plays a dramatic role as a young Italian girl who tries to prevent Lana Turner from taking her man away from her in "Flame and the Flesh," M-G-M's new technicolor romance, opening today at the Belle Theatre. The man is played by Carlos Thompson, the screen's outstanding new star "find".

AT THE CAPITOL—Phil Carey and Dorothy Malone co-star with Fred MacMurray and Kim Novak in this week's great suspense drama "Pushover" showing for the last time today at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program color by Technicolor is the musical drama "Tonight and Every Night", starring Rita Hayworth.

AT THE McCarthy—Humphrey Bogart co-stars with Ava Gardner in the Joseph L. Mankiewicz film, "The Barefoot Contessa," the United Artists release filmed in Technicolor, which opens today at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

English Eleven Beats Aussies In Third Test

MELBOURNE (Reuters)—England beat Australia by 128 runs in the third cricket test here today to take a 2-1 lead in the series of five matches in the defence of the mythical "Ashes" — symbol of Anglo-Australian cricket supremacy.

Australia, 75 for two wickets overnight, were all out in their second innings before lunch for 181, their last eight wickets falling for 36 runs this morning. They had made 231 in their first innings. England scored 191 and 279.

England's success was mainly due to Frank Tyson, their fast bowler, who today took six of the wickets that fell and finally finished with seven victims.

Juniors Set Penalty Record

Kitchener — Waterloo Canucks and Guelph Biltmores Tuesday night set a season record in penalties.

They shared 103 minutes in penalties. The Ontario Hockey Association Junior A game at Kitchener was won 5-2 by Biltmores in the only other league game, St. Catharines TeePees scored their fourth consecutive win by defeating Hamilton Tiger-Cubs 5-4 at St. Catharines.

Penalties at Kitchener included 11 majors and three misconducts handed out following a fight-necessitated before the second period ended. Six majors and two misconducts went to Guelph and Canucks got five majors and one misconduct.

The trouble started between Ivy Spencer of Canucks and Tom McCarthy of Guelph. It appeared to be quelled when McCarthy it broke out again with some players leaving the bench to take part in the several scraps.

COUNTED TWICE

Bill Graham scored twice for Biltmores with Ron Howell, Bill McCreary and McCarthy getting singles. Kitchener scorers were Stan Baldick and Al Lasnier.

The win for TeePees moved them to within four points of league-leading Toronto St. Michael's.

Captain Hank Cieslak scored two for the winners and Brian Cullen, Shiith Plata and Eddie Hoekstra scored singles.

Brian Kilrea scored two for Hamilton with the others scored by Bob Robinson and Ken Stenlund.

PETERSBOROUGH WIN

TORONTO (CP)—Gadabout F., owned and handled by Graydon Sheldon of Peterborough, placed his way to a double-heat victory in the BB class pace, feature harness attraction at Dufferin Park Tuesday.

In the first heat Gadabout F. followed the pace set by Lazy Boy and Handy Flash until midway into the stretch where he forged to the front and won by two lengths. William G. finished second and Handy Flash third.

Gadabout F. lost no time getting to the front in the second heat and sung on for a photo decision over Hazdy Flash. William G. was third.

Your Horoscope

By JANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR THURSDAY, JANUARY 6, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Today asks patient steadiness—not energetic spurts interspersed with lulls. Much can be accomplished now in endeavors suitable to your nature, your chosen field.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Friendliest aspects in early hour. Those who are agreeable in disposition, void of distrust and who don't voice dislike can carry out their programs successfully.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Industrial and financial lines need stars, but can prosper; and public services, matters of government and state. Make use of your best talents and abilities and you will achieve.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Your planet radiates generous forces; day differs, advantages in business matters, sound investments. Work for pleasant domestic relations; improved home affairs.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—A good start in a cheery mood will carry you to good results quickly. However, mind the temperament and don't try to be the sole judge in affairs that really call for more heads than one.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — An open mind, keenness, steady effort will bring you real benefits. Don't fear to try something new if it holds promise of sound advancement. Being usefully busy makes for happiness.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Caution is advised in matters involving legal, civic and all controversial subjects. Signing, writing important papers, making bids need extreme care in the P.M. tension lessens.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — A healthy outlook for those in healthy mood. Advantage can be yours for the taking. Giving your best, using tact and prudently handling routine matters will result in happy experiences.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — An auspicious day to further well-intentioned ideas and plans; to abilities assets, make improvements. Be consistent in speech, acts; don't expect others to do what you would not.

December 23 to January 21—Mostly receptive for general business, money matters. If well understood, and affairs of a personal nature. Make sure that agreements are clearly defined.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Go about your affairs ably and unmindful of opposition. Take time out to analyze propositions that involve properties or pertain to your occupation. Be logical.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Energetic, thoughtful effort will bear good fruit, now. Give all matters ample study; don't heed rumors. Romance, social and family interests favored.

YOU BORN TODAY have innate good judgment, a keen sense of industrial matters, finances; and, if using your natural perseverance well, can attain top goals in your profession or occupation. Tenacity, honesty, directness of purpose are among your most admirable assets. Develop finesse; watch out for a tendency toward selfishness. This year is promising for you. Have faith, be careful; don't brood or worry.

Birthdate: Joan of Arc, great French patriot; Carl Sandburg, American poet.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was on the living room floor on my stummick writing in my new Atomic Comics magazine, and ma came in with the vacuum cleaner, saying, I'm going to cleen this room, good bye now.

Being a hint for me to get out, and I said, Aw G, ma, heck.

I'll see you later, ma and I said, Well jimminy roonalem, ma, I wont disterb you.

I'll make note of that by disterbing you ferst, if it's all the same to you ma said, and I said, Bet heck, ma, I mean gosh, I just got settled, I tried different chairs ferst, and this is the ferst time I felt comfortable, I said.

My heart akes for you, now get out, ma said, and I said, Aw heck, ma, I can move around the floor careful out of your way.

That's extremely considerate of you, but I'd still perfer to vacuum the carpit with no sprawling boys on it, ma said.

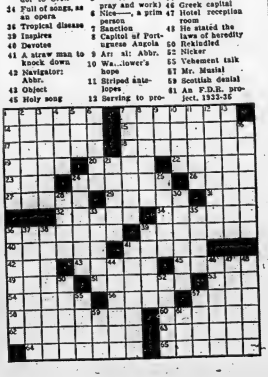
Meening me, and I said, Aw G, ma, you might at least try it and see how it works.

Of tar land sakes stay there, ma said. You make such an attractive deckoration I wouldn't move you for the world. I'll just cleen around you. You've probably got all the dust from that spot on your clothes by this time, anyway, she said.

Oh well, I think I'll go up in my own room and finish on my bed, I said.

Which I did.

Proving if you have your choice it dont seem so important to have your way.



NFB WINS TOP PRIZE

OTTAWA (CP)—"Neighbors," a 15-minute experimental film in color produced by Norman McLaren of the National Film Board, has won the top prize at the Salerno Film Festival in Italy, the board reported Sunday. The film produced two years ago, has won a number of awards including a Hollywood Oscar for best documentary short film.

SIGNS M.G.M. CONTRACT

William Sage, 30, of London, Ont., has signed a long-term motion picture contract with MGM in Hollywood. In nine years of professional credits, Sage has acted in summer stock, repertory, with road companies, New York stage, radio and television. In his first Hollywood motion picture role he portrayed the part of the cold-blooded shot-gun killer in "Dragnet." (CP Photo).

Deny Reports Pope Is Again Hiccupping

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Pius now uses an ancient open automobile for his daily ride in the Vatican gardens. The old car, a German-made Mercedes, enables the 78-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church to get more fresh air.

The Pope's private physician, Dr. Riccardo Galeazzi-Lisi, who accompanies the pontiff on his daily ride and walk in the gardens, said Tuesday he was somewhat more fatigued than he has been, due largely to his continuing work. But there was no recurrence of the hiccups that early last month sapped the pontiff's strength. The Pope has had no hiccups now for more than a week despite some reports, the doctor said.

Christmas Concert

SCHOOL SECTIONS 3-4

ALBURY — The two school sections, Nos. 3 and 4 of Ameliasburg, held a Christmas concert at Albury church on Tuesday evening which proved to be one of the best concerts ever held at the church. Much credit goes to Mrs. Bird and Miss Corke, also to the music teacher, Mrs. Riley for a fine program.

The children also rendered their parts well.

The program consisted of: Christmas choruses by both schools, "Go Tell it to the Mountains," and "Children's Happy Voices"; chairman's remarks (Rev. F. F. Townsend); Christmas Lullaby, S.S. No. 4; recitation, Peter Anderson; dialogue, "Here Comes the Bride"; song, "Christmas," - by Linda Peck, Barbara Jones and Karen Osterhout; pantomime, "A Terrible Catastrophe"; song, "Gingerbread Boy," S.S. No. 4; dialogue, "Photographer's Busy Day"; "Christmas Portholes," S.S. No. 3; song senior girls, S.S. No. 3, "Silver Bells"; dialogue, "Good Impression"; star drill, S.S. No. 3; "O, Rush Now, My Baby"; "A Confession of Faith," Sunday School; "If We Should Go to Bethlehem"; chorus, "We Wish You a Merry Christmas."

Santa arrived and gave the children bags of candy.

Melrose

MELROSE — Mr. and Mrs. William Gillies and baby Ronnie, of Drummondville, Quebec, are spending a three weeks' vacation visiting relatives in Bancroft, and Mr. and Mrs. Ken McMechan, Shannonville.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Stewart, Ritchie St.; Mr. and Mrs. Ken McMechan, William, Harold and Carl McMechan, Melrose, had New Year's supper with Mrs. Alma Pringle and Mrs. Grace McFarlane, Dunbar St., Belleville.

Declares Judges Violated Law

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail says that 20 to 25 Ontario judges have apparently been guilty of a technical violation of the law for more than 10 years.

"They have been acting as chairmen of labor conciliation boards or as one-man arbitrators of labor disputes," the newspaper says, "without having their appointments made by government order-in-council."

The story continues:

"In Ottawa, a high departmental spokesman said the federal government was anxious to see judges continue in labor work—"there is another group capable"—but the government was anxious to see that judges, of all people, acted in strict compliance with the law."

10 From Foundered Schooner Rescued By Bermuda Liner

Probably Necessary to Sink Disabled Ship With Gunfire

NEW YORK (CP) — The U.S. Coast Guard intercepted a message at 10:45 a. m. EST today reporting the liner Queen of Bermuda has rescued all 10 men from the Newfoundland fishing schooner Student Prince II which foundered in the stormy Atlantic north of Bermuda.

The coast guard said the message read: "Have rescued entire crew of 10 men from Student Prince."

New York coast guard headquarters said it later received confirmation of the rescue at 10:15 a.m. in its headquarters in Bermuda and added that the cutter Bibb is en route to the Student Prince II. They estimated that the Bibb will arrive on the scene in about 12 hours and said it would probably be necessary to sink the disabled schooner with gunfire.

An earlier cable dispatch from Hamilton said the Queen of Bermuda was on the scene of the disabled vessel and all attempts to get a lifeboat over "to aid four survivors so far failed, as seas too rough," the bundle said.

The Queen of Bermuda sighted the fishing craft about 8:35 a. m., and said it was planning to pick up survivors.

SALT CARGO

The 283-ton fishing vessel had sailed from Great Inagua, Bahamas, Dec. 28 with a cargo of salt. It was due at Grand Bank Nfld., Jan. 5.

United States Air Force and Coet Guard planes hovering over the scene 200 miles northeast and east of Bermuda earlier reported spotting three or four survivors on the deck of the flooded 283-ton fishing vessel.

The 30-man crew had waged a losing battle in trying to launch lifeboats in the raging seas. Waves reported as high as 20 feet smashed one lifeboat when it was launched, the coast guard said.

Another lifeboat could be seen floating alongside the Student Prince. It had capsized, the Coast Guard reported.

WATER REACHES DECK

The Student Prince sent out a distress call Wednesday night when she began taking water badly, apparently from a leak. The Coast Guard said water in the vessel's engine room was almost up to the main deck by early morning and the ship had lost its power.

The U. S. Air Force sent out an SB-29 Superfortress and the plane spotted the Student Prince about 10:30 a.m. EST today. The gallant but futile attempt by the crew to launch the lifeboats.

The Queen of Bermuda, the nearest ship, diverted from its course to aid the crew in the rescue.

LIFEBOAT SWAMPED

Two hours later the ship's balloon sail broke away and the pilot plane said the crew was preparing to abandon ship in the lifeboats. But a broke up and was swamped.

The coast guard area headquarters here, which was directing air and surface rescue efforts, said there was no information whether any of the crew had been lost. No one was sighted in the water.

Canadian Fleeces New Canadians

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — James Kelly, 25, was sentenced to 18 months in the county jail when he pleaded guilty today to what was described as a "despicable crime" of selling 13 applications for work at Chrysler of Canada to Italian immigrants.

During a seven-day period, police said Kelly collected a total of $2,980 from 11 new Canadians or Italian origin on the promise that he would obtain jobs for them with the Chrysler Corporation of Canada.

In each case, Kelly promised his victims they would begin work "within the next few days."

Russian Trio Will Visit Implement Firm

OTTAWA (CP) — A three-man party from the Russian agricultural ministry have arrived here and said they came to study farm machinery at the invitation of Massey Harris-Ferguson Co. Ltd., Toronto.

"It is a return visit," said Sergei Komov, who spoke for the trio. He said the Russian ministry accepted the Canadian company's invitation after a Canadian trade cultural party made a similar visit to Russia last year.

Mr. Komov is accompanied by Sergei Gerasimov and Aleksei Nekerikhenko. They arrived in Montreal by air Tuesday night from Montreal by air Tuesday night from London and took a morning train to Ottawa.

Mr. Komov said he and his companions do not yet yet whether they will visit other Canadian centres or the United States.

The Russians did not tell reporters what positions they hold in the Soviet ministry. Officials of the Russian embassy here said they do not know the status of the trio.

SIGN AGREEMENT

MOSCOW: (AP) — Russia and Yugoslavia today signed their first trade agreement since 1948. The formalities were carried out in the Soviet trade ministry.

The pact, to run for a year, envisages an exchange of goods from both sides totalling 600,000,000.

CANADA TO ASK U.S. TO RELAX IMPORT BARRIERS

Howe, Pearson, Harris Talk for Cabinet

By WILLIAM HARCOURT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP)—In a move to avert a crisis in international trade, Canada today will ask the United States to consider relaxing her barriers against imports.

That is the purpose behind the meeting this afternoon between Canada's Trade Minister Howe, External Affairs Minister Pearson and Finance Minister Harris and Assistant Secretary Dulles, Agricultural Secretary Benson and Commerce Secretary Humphrey.

Informed sources believe no immediate decision is likely to follow the talks, upon which may depend the fate of the 79-country General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

Negotiations aimed at tightening the seven-year trade pact and reducing obstacles hampering world trade resumed earlier this week at Geneva after a Christmas recess.

Howe, who briefly attended the Geneva meeting in December, said on his return that negotiations there had been "very badly and possibly might collapse.

The U.S. is reported to have returned to Geneva talks any to move to reduce her power to curb imports when she has production surpluses. The U.S. now restricts imports of grain and dairy products.

Canada deemphasized that the restrictions are harmful to world trade and prosperity.

In Australia, Wednesday, Commerce Minister John McEwen said his country may withdraw from GATT because her world trade interests are inadequately protected by the agreement.

As violations, he singled out U.S. curbs on agricultural imports and Britain's barring of subsidized products such as Argentine wheat.

Several Stores Question Validity Of City By-Law

MONTREAL (CP)—Validity of a city by-law requiring stores to be closed on certain Roman Catholic holy days will be challenged Monday in the Feast of the Epiphany—perhaps for the last time.

Heading departmental stores, which have remained open on holy days in the previous holy days, appealed the validity of the by-law in the Superior Court of the bench three months ago after it was upheld by the Quebec Court of Appeal.

With the appeal scheduled to come before the court next month, it is expected final judgment will be rendered before the January holy day—Ascension Day on May 19—arrives.

The seven appellants—all the by-law's are Eaton's, Holt, Renfew, Mappin's, Ogilvy's, Simpson's and Morgan's.

MUSICIAN DIES

TORONTO (CP) — Ellis Mcintock, 65, concertmaster of the Toronto bandleader Ellis L. Mcintock, died in hospital here. He was an instrumental soloist with the Royal Regiment band and a member of the Toronto Musicians' Association.

With Rustlers Fled, Rattlers Dead, Uranium Now Makes West Wild Again

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—The west isn't so mild any more. The rustlers are fewer and less deadly. The diamondback rattlers are no great threat to honest cattlemen. But the west is plenty wild just the same.

But dogpoint, podner, these fellers prowling 'round with those geiger counters are enough to run a poor cattleman plumb loco.

Ranchers and prospectors hunting uranium cross fences, dig holes and roam over ranches without saying a word to anybody.

And because a law passed in 1951, the ranchers can't bother them about trespassing or in trifles.

The Texas legislature in 1919 gave landowners who had bought land from the state the right to lease land for oil and gas. The state was awarded a 1-1/3th royalty. The landowner could get that much or more himself as long as the state received 1-16th or half of any amount more than that.

But the 1919 legislature hadn't heard about uranium and didn't say a word about minerals. Neither did the ranchers.

The prospectors for minerals other than oil or gas belong to the state. A citizen can go hunting them on state properties with geiger counters and such paraphernalia for a $25 permit. Prospectors on weekend hunting the atomic metal.

Directors of the Texas Cattle Raisers Association are expected to use strong words in asking the next session of legislature for the same rights on uranium and other minerals they now have on gas and oil.

"It's not just weekenders that are doing it," the ranchers complain. "Every dogone store clerk in the smallwards is writing Sears and Roebuck and Montgomery Ward for geiger counters. They even have mail order two-week vacations hunting A-bombs on our ranches."

British Troops Plan Mop-Up Of Mau Mau in Kenya Jungle

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) The British high command announced today that it will launch the biggest mop-up operation of the Mau Mau war in a drive to root the anti-white terrorists out of the jungles of Kenya.

Gen. Sir George Erskine, East Africa commander-in-chief, will throw nine battalions into the big push. the largest troop concentration in one area since the Mau Mau fighting broke more than two years ago.

The British and African troops will beat their way through the colony's forests and jungles in a "slow, methodical search" for terrorist guerrilla leaders, said Maj.-Gen. George Heyman, Erskine's chief of staff.

In their drive to wipe out the tribesmen's secret, hideouts, the troops will disappear in the jungle for weeks. Their only communication with civilization will be radio contacts with spotter planes.

Other planes will drop food, ammunition and medical supplies. Heavier equipment will be moved through the steaming jungles and forays by African porters and pack animals.

The date for start of the operation will be kept secret to allow the nine battalions to redeploy, Heyman said.

The big push was made possible because in the last year colonial forces have shifted more responsibility to local administrators and police chiefs, he said. The army will be the "hammer" behind the main effort to the hideouts of the Mau Mau leaders.

Wednesday night the defiant tribesmen, who have sworn to drive white men from the colony struck boldly in the heart of Nairobi, in a raid near the house of Governor Sir Evelyn Baring. A Mau Mau gang fought a gun battle with police in which one African woman was killed. Nairobi police arrested four African men and two women.

Sees 'Big Business Unionism' Threat to Individuals' Rights

OTTAWA (CP) — Ivor Wagner, president of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce, charged today that the rights of individual workers are rapidly disappearing in the realm of big business unionism, operating largely for the benefit of United States "union bosses."

"The matter of labor-management relations is one of growing concern in all sections of the province," he said at the opening of the chamber's 43rd annual meeting. Some 175 delegates representing 23,000 business men are attending the two-day session.

Mr. Wagner's comments were contained in the text of his speech issued to the press in advance of delivery.

"During the year," he said, "we have been faced with serious stoppages of work and production due to industrial disputes."

DIFFICULTIES AHEAD

Mr. Wagner said the months ahead are clouded with uncertainty. Because of high production costs, many Canadian firms are finding it more and more difficult to sell their products at prices competitive with those in other countries.

Ontario was recognized as Canada's industrial heart. But how that heart will continue to beat will depend "on the willingness of organized labor to recognize that its responsibility does not end with the punching of the time clock at the end of the day."

If labor and capital are to get along together, there must be mutual trust and understanding based on the spirit of each.

Touching on other points, Mr. Wagner praised progress made in the position of agriculture in the Canadian economy. Farmers were still of the utmost importance" in Ontario's economic development. But the question was how to keep the farmer's son on the farm, working a 60-hour week, when he could get high wages and a 40-hour week in the city.

"The economic imbalance between industry and agriculture is a problem of major importance and unless solved will have serious repercussions on the future economy of Ontario," he said.

Cardboard Box Home for Child During Night

TORONTO (CP)—A seven year-old suburban York township boy spent Wednesday night in a cardboard box in the basement of his parents' home—a box which he lives while his parents had police scouring the area for him.

Malcolm Butcher hid in the basement after a childish fit of temper. He was afraid to face his parents after damaging some household effects while his parents were out, he said.

"His mother happened to see him as he started for school this morning.

DOUCETT RESIGNS AS ROAD HEAD, ALLAN INSTALLED

Will Continue to Hold His Seat for Lanark

TORONTO (CP) — George H. Doucett quit his job Wednesday as Ontario's highways minister, expressing "very great concern" over recent disclosures of irregularities in his department.

Premier Frost called the resignation "an act of courage." He immediately announced the appointment of James N. Allan of Dunnville, 60-year-old Progressive Conservative member of the legislature for Haldimand-Norfolk, as the new minister of highways.

Mr. Doucett, however, will hold his legislature seat for Lanark but it was not disclosed whether he will remain a cabinet minister without portfolio.

Announcement of his resignation, after a week of unconfirmed speculation, came Wednesday with the release of two pages of letters between Mr. Doucett and the premier.

A CORNERSTONE

"It is an element of the democratic process," Mr. Doucett's letter said, "that an elected representative, charged with the direction of a government department, must accept full responsibility for that department, irrespective of the light in which the dictum may be viewed This has become a cornerstone of responsible government."

Mr. Frost replied:

"The position which you have taken is one of deep regard for your ministerial responsibilities and for one installing the highest sense of duty characteristic of you.

"May I be permitted to say that it is also characteristic that you should place the interests of your colleagues above your own personal interests."

Mr. Doucett suffered injuries in a traffic accident in 1951 which forced him to leave his post with the cabinet and relinquish the additional portfolio of public works minister. He returned to the house in his ill and went south to recuperate.

STUCK TO JOB

There were demands for his resignation a year ago when court action followed disclosures that Ontario highways had falsified records, but he stuck to his job. He was never accused of personal wrongdoing in connection with the highway frauds.

The 56-year-old bachelor farmer from Carleton Place in eastern Ontario had held the highways portfolio for 11 years, during which he helped lay the groundwork for a broad post-war program of road improvement and expansion.

Mr. Allan, sworn in Wednesday, is the Dunnville dairy proprietor who entered the legislature in the 1951 election. He is a former chairman of the legislature's highway safety committee, he has been a member of the Ontario Good Roads Association since 1940 and was elected president in 1954.

38,000 GEESE MIGRATE

ST. THOMAS, (CP) — Thirty-six thousand migrating Canada geese passed over Erie district of the department of lands and forests between Sept. 30 and Dec. 31, a spokesman said by the field staff of the district office in Ayimer showed. The peak of the migration was between Nov. 1 and Nov. 10, officials said today.

President's Talk to Congress Urges Cut in Trade Bars

WASHINGTON (CP)—President Eisenhower today called on the United States and other free nations to protect themselves from a "nuclear holocaust" by maintaining the military power to convince "the aggressor of the futility of aggression."

He outlined in his annual State of the Union message to Congress the five fundamentals of his world program and United States military strength.

These were: Ability "instantly to strike back with destructive power in response to an attack;" "undue reliance on one weapon or one kind of warfare;" balanced and flexible military planning emphasizing air power, new weapons, continental defence and "a strategic concentration of strength through redeployment of certain forces;" improvement and expansion of United States supplies of nuclear weapons; efficiency and ingenuity to provide a program that could be carried through for "many years" until the threat of aggression has disappeared."

THREE PROPOSALS

To maintain this kind of armed strength he proposed that legislative measures for the present session of Congress: Extension of two-year controls over rents which expires June 30, 1955; greater incentives to the private power professional soldier; a program to rebuild and strengthen the civilian components of the armed forces.

In the domestic field, Eisenhower outlined programs for an efficient highways system and public housing, requesting $12,000,000,000 and put forward proposals for new housing, improved health services and an increase in the minimum wage from 75 to 90 cents an hour.

The president's prepared 7,800-word message contained no real surprises. Much of the legislative program already has been announced in the White House or disclosed by other sources. Much of it was a renewal of proposals not carried by Congress.

Eisenhower also called for action in this year and repeated that he wants postponement of excise and corporation tax reductions now scheduled for April 1.

WANTS TARIFFS FREEZE

He also asked for action in these fields:

Foreign trade: A gradual reduction of "certain tariff obstacles to trade," by the United States in connection with the reciprocal trade agreements program.

Defence: Continuation of the strong defence of lands and forces between Sept. 30 and Dec. 31, a spokesman said by the field staff of the district office in Ayimer showed. The peak of the migration was between Nov. 1 and Nov. 10, officials said today.

"The massive military machines and ambitions of the Soviet-Communist bloc still create uneasiness

Triple Amputee at Three Leaves Writers Misty-Eyed With Admiration

BOSTON (AP) — A bright-eyed pert little miss aged two years and months — a triple amputee — gave a demonstration of climbing stairs Wednesday that left veteran reporters and cameramen misty-eyed with admiration.

A rare blood circulation condition following a throat infection required removal of Constance Devitalis's left leg, right foot and right hand when she was 13 months old.

The leg was amputated above the knee.

She was fitted for artificial limbs in September, 1953, and doctors said she was possibly the youngest ever to wear them.

Joseph Avenl, head of Liberty Mutual Insurance Company's rehabilitation centre amputee department, watched and cameramen misty-eyed with admiration.

"She learned to walk in six months. She fitted her to artificial limbs. "She walked the first day she got them and ran. She said, 'It is instinctive to walk,'" Avenl explained. "The child merely took pleasure what she sees."

Avenl said he hopes to be able to fit Connie with an artificial hand when she gets older. Unlike artificial limbs, which cost $50, the hand is not instinctive. The child has to be old enough to be taught how to use the hand."

No Tail Wind So Cop Catches' Record Seeker

RIVERHEAD, N.Y. (CP)—A Charles Grogan went back to jail Wednesday for the attempt to break the four-minute mile.

Grogan was captured by police as he went whizzing down Main street in his underwear; a bar chit marked "No. 4" taped to his back.

Friends explained to police that he had been lamenting over a few beers because no American had ever matched John Landy's 3:58 mile. He set out to do it himself.

He was still defiant as he was returned to the cell he left Monday after serving 20 days for public intoxication.

"That cop never would have caught me if I'd had a tail wind," he said.

Day Editor Of Montreal Gazette Dies

MONTREAL (CP)—George Macdonald, day editor of the Montreal Gazette and former Quebec supervisor of circulation of The Canadian Press died here early today. He was 73.

Mr. Macdonald joined the CP as an office boy at the scene of some of Canada's major news stories in the early years of the century, took ill suddenly Wednesday night and died shortly after reaching hospital.

He had returned to his job at The Gazette Tuesday after a six-week vacation in Bermuda where a daughter lives.

Mr. Macdonald was a popular figure in Canadian newspaper circles for more than a half-century. The greater part of his newspaper career was spent with The Canadian Press from which he retired at the end of 1946 after 35 years' service.

CAT FAMILY

WESTERHAM, England (UP)—Felina, a Siamese cat in this Kent town, is reported to have had 100 kittens in seven years.

In the world . . . Their steadily growing power . . . industry in Europe is strengthened in nuclear weapons. This power, combined with the growing military might of the Communist leaders to communize the world, is the threat confronting the world.

ANOTHER MENACE

Another menace threat is but one menace to our freedom and security. We cannot not only defend aggression; we must also frustrate the effort of Communists to gain their objectives by subversion. To this end, free nations must maintain a strong defensive shield against internal security, their political and economic vitality, and their faith in freedom.

FIRST WOMAN TO LAND AT NORTH POLE

Miss Peggy Keenan, who will be the first woman ever to set foot on the top of the world, is shown at Peterboro, N.J., with members of an Arctic expedition scheduled to land at the North Pole in March. They are Dr. Paul Seydell, left, and John F. Stonewell Fleichter, commander of the flight. They will use an experimental plane, similar to a flying wing, that will land the group at the Pole. The expedition seeks to perfect an instrument that can gauge the thickness of Arctic ice and determine its suitability for plane landings. (Central Press Canadian).

CITY & DISTRICT NEWS

ICY WINDSHIELDS MUST BE KEPT CLEAR

Icy and fogged windshields that block the view of drivers are being probed vigorously by city police who point out that regulations call for windshields to be kept clear.

"We are asking the co-operation of motorists in keeping their windshields free of ice and fog. Blocked windshields lessen the drivers' vision and may cause accidents," stated Inspector J. C. Hayes.

EX-MAYOR HAIG NAMED DIRECTOR ONTARIO C. OF C.

Ex-Mayor J. McLean Haig has been appointed a director of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce at the annual meeting of the organization being held in Ottawa this week. Mr. Haig served as a regional director for the Ontario Chamber last year.

Streets, Walks Coated With Ice, Few Accidents

Last night's freezing rain, which solidified streets and sidewalks with a liberal coating of ice and turned everything into an outdoor skating rink did at least one thing.

It served to keep a lot of people home who otherwise might have been out driving or walking.

At eleven o'clock last night police said the streets were practically deserted with no one attempting to negotiate slippery streets unless they had to. Likewise police patrol cars were called on few regular beats.

But despite the slippery streets accidents were at a minimum. City police reported one motorist had slid off the road on North Park Street, his vehicle sliding against a telephone pole. The only other accident happened near the G.S.D. Wednesday afternoon, but here again damage was less than $100.

Hospital authorities reported no broken bones or other casualties as result of the slippery streets.

In an effort to keep up with the ice the city public works sanding crews were out early and kept the steeper grades and street intersections sanded. The day crews then swung in this morning to continue sanding operations.

Despite the sand, however, highway transports were having difficulty this morning negotiating the hill on Bridge Street West, and several times during the morning traffic was tied up as heavy trucks stalled on the hill and had to back down.

Complaints of traffic tie-ups resulted in hurry-up calls to the public works department for more sand.

Local Cadets Make Good In Recent Exams

During the fall term at RCSCC "Quinte," examinations for promotion were held by the area officer and, true to their fighting spirit, many of the cadets showed they had the ability to continue to higher ranks.

Those passing were:

From Leading Cadet to Petty Officer—Cadets R. Bishop, D. C. Charlton, F. Shandraw, T. Woodacre, J. Clemens, W. N. Stephens, N. Osbourne.

From Able Cadet to Leading Cadet.—D. R. Bishop, R. E. Brown, J. Carmichael, C. E. M. Horning, D. M. Masters, J. R. Worney, J. R. Downey.

From Ordinary Cadet to Able Cadet: W. Bird, R. Boomhower, J. Scullion, W. Richards, C. Fleury, J. Brenner, J. Dewbery, T. Bruce, T. Butler, D. Sulley, F. Smith.

BADGES PRESENTED

These cadets were presented with their badges of rank at the corps' annual inspection and review and will take effective duty with this new rank today when the corps begins its 1955 training schedule.

The 1955 training schedule this year proves to be an extensive one with many theoretical lectures as well as practical training. The boys will also receive instruction in the care and use of firearms and boats. Although nothing definite has been settled down as yet for the summer months it is the hope of many of the boys to be able to attend summer camp at Sydney, Nova Scotia.

ENROLLMENT 110

At the present time the corps is at a total enrollment of 110 cadets, taken by mid-February it is hoped to have reached 150.

The commanding officer and officers of the corps wish to extend best wishes for the new year to one and all who have had part during 1954 with the corps and to extend thanks for the kind indulgence shown.

Follwell Supply Co. Passes Over To New Owners

Vandervoort Hardware Ltd., Eastern Ontario's largest chain of hardware stores, announced its Belleville operations January 1st when the purchase of Follwell Supply Co. went into effect.

Elgin Claude Vandervoort, president, has been in the hardware business for 30 years. He was born in Hastings County, attended public school at Eldorado, St. Alban's College, Brockville, and the Ontario Business College here.

He opened his first hardware store in Newburgh 30 years ago.

During World War II he served in the Canadian Army Service Corps. He went overseas with the Pictou Highlanders and was transferred to the Medical Corps in which he served as quartermaster of the 14th Canadian General Hospital in Africa. He was awarded the M.B.E. for service in the Mediterranean theatre.

Mr. Vandervoort opened his second store in Napanee in 1946. His third was opened in 1951 in downtown Kingston. In 1947; an uptown store was opened in 1951 and a third Kingston district was established in Reddendale in 1953. He makes his home in Kingston.

His Belleville store is his sixth and will operate as a hardware store only.

Ralph Wightman, assistant manager of the Napanee store since its founding, is manager of the Belleville store.

Mr. Wightman served for 3½ years with the RCAF during World War II and joined Vandervoort's staff in Newburgh on discharge.

He is married to the former Lucille Herrington, daughter of Rev. H. B. Herrington, who preached at Thomasburg for seven years.

Mr. Wightman is married and is the father of two girls.

Police Head Confers Here With Inspectors

Commissioner A. E. McKeill of the Ontario Provincial Police conferred here on Wednesday with police inspectors of four districts. Present for the conference were Inspector H. Weaver of Cornwall, Inspector Allan Stirling of Peterborough and Inspector T. Cousins of Perth, as well as Inspector A. McDougall of Belleville. The conference was held to provide the Commissioner with the inspectors' estimates of requirements for 1955 and men for the adequate policing during the coming year of the districts for which they are responsible.

Quinte Secondary School's Gymtorium Ready for Opening

Workmen today are busily putting the finishing touches to the new Quinte Secondary School's gymnasium, preparatory to its opening to pupils Monday.

A double-purpose layout and one of the largest in the county, the gymnasium will serve both as a gymnasium and an auditorium for the school. Spacious and airy, its dimensions are 80 feet by 60 feet and can accommodate approximately 1,000 persons for physical training classes for boys and girls.

Enclosed with bright yellow-brick walls and surfaced with northern maple, the building is lighted in daytime by large windows that run the length of the 22-foot high walls.

Basketball courts are marked out lengthwise and broadside on the floor. An electrically-operated dividing floor that folds flush against the walls, glides forward at the touch of a button to divide the gym in two when P.T. activities are in progress for boys and girl pupils. Each class then has a floor space of 40 feet by 60 feet for its activities. The stage at the south end of the building adjoins the gym.

HAS OWN EQUIPMENT

Each gym class has its own equipment storage rooms while the Intermediate Division offices off the gym. A large window-fronted office for the physical instructor is a wash room and a shower room accommodating nine boys at the same time.

Set up for the girls' gymnasium is much the same save that individual shower closets are provided.

"Every pupil has to take PT classes once a week unless medically excused, and it is part of the obligatory courses," principal Leslie Reid explained.

As an auditorium, principal Reid estimated the building has a seating capacity of 1,000. Bleachers will be installed against the walls to augment seating accomodation. The stage is probably the largest in any district school in fully equipped with electrical installations from footlights to flood lamps. A public address system is concealed in the proscenium arch. At the opposite end of the building a permanent projection booth juts out from the wall. Access is gained to it by a ladder balanced with weights that slip into brackets behind the booth after use. During film showings the windows will be masked by heavy drapes.

The gym will be thrown open for classes Monday morning. However, the official opening will not be marked until later, probably some time in February.

Naturalists Hear Story of Honey Bee at Meeting

Members of the Quinte Field Naturalists met in Queen Elizabeth school on Monday evening with Mr. Heddy James, newly-elected president, presiding.

It was brought to the attention of the members that Stuart E. Thompson, noted Toronto naturalist, would give the lecture at the Canada with a Canadian Naturalist" at the Queen Victoria school on January 31.

Mr. James then introduced the speaker, Dr. Howard House, a member of the staff of the Dominion Entomological Bureau, of this city.

Dr. House is an honor graduate of Guelph Agricultural College, and a post graduate of Cornell University, where he studied the physiology of insects. It is in this field that he is working at present.

STORY OF HONEY BEE

The story of the Honey Bee as told by Dr. House proved to be fascinating.

Bees have been known to man since prehistoric times.

Honey bees are not native to North America. The most used Italian honey bee is the most common, the most docile, the most tolerant to colder climate and the Carnolian, a producer of beautiful white wax.

The keynote of the hive is co-operation. From the laying of the eggs, one to a cell, by the queen to the part played by the drones, all work for the good of workers and drones.

The queen bee can lay her weight in eggs a day, and as many as 1,000,000 a year, and has been known to work after mating with the swiftest and strongest drone, in fact cared for by the worker bees.

The drones are tolerated in the hive until no longer needed. Then they are dragged out by the workers and left outside to die.

Scout bees go outside in the morning, in search of source of nectar and bring back samples. Then they do a dance to show, or slow, the direction of which forming an angle with the sun top of the hive, that the field workers how far and in which direction to find the nectar. The bee is really a map reader, reader of sign language and a navigator.

Young workers make the honey in the hive and go the work of feeding, cleaning and taking care of the whole hive.

DEPENDS ON CLIMATE

The quality of the honey depends on climatic conditions and the plants from which the nectar is taken. Poor qualities end up in vinegar or alcohol.

Beeswax, a valuable product is used in a great many industries today.

Bees were mentioned in early writings—Sanskrit, Hebrew, the Koran.

About 4,000 years ago in the time of Pericles the Greeks believed that to see a bee in a dream meant the approach of a powerful army. The Swiss also had this superstitious belief. Scipio, a Roman general, refused to advance till he was assured a swarm of bees ill on his tent. Ancient poetasters were embalmed in honey.

The discussion at the close of the address was lively and showed very interesting.

Several members reported having seen a female cardinal, a brown creeper, snow buntings, red polls and bluejays.

Federation to Urge System Of Collective Bargaining

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Federation of Agriculture today will consider a resolution urging a system of collective bargaining for farmers that farmers can get fair payment for land expropriated for industrial projects.

The resolution also asks that a federation representative be appointed to arbitration boards in disputes over land expropriation.

The federation's annual meeting was told Wednesday that farmers suffer more than any other group from industrial expansion.

Cecil Belyea of Toronto, federation economist, said many of the rules and methods used by governments and other agencies for taking over farm land need overhauling. He suggested some protection for paying farmers' legal fees where mutually satisfactory agreements cannot be reached.

The meeting also heard:

1. A claim by V. S. Milburn of St. Catharines, OFA secretary-manager of the federal district, somewhere along the line has lost sight of the original aim of setting all farm and co-operative groups. As a result many groups had become so involved in their own problems they could not realize others faced the same difficulties, and the whole agricultural industry was suffering.

A plea for unity by J. A. Ferguson of Port Stanley, federation president, and the problem of falling farm incomes could only be solved by concerted efforts toward efficient production and marketing.

A report by W. O. Coon of Elgin, president of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association, that Ontario farmers oppose imports of cheddar cheese from New Zealand. The domestic supply has a 46,000,000-pound stockpile and doesn't need any more.

Mr. Belyea pointed to eastern Ontario's grain valley as an example of land-purchase friction. A lack of information on how landowners affected by trade areas are using unrest in the area.

He said the land acquisition committees have stepped up their efforts to guarantee that farmers will be able to have a voice in decisions affecting their economic and social futures.

Collingwood Chief Is Sure Woman Slain

COLLINGWOOD (CP) — Police chief Lewis Elliot said today the body found in the bush 100 feet from a path of woods off the highway just east of this Georgian bay area was slain. He said investigation has not borne out suggestions the woman, still unidentified, died of natural causes.

The body was found by three hunters Nov. 30. It was lying face down and clad in two sweaters, a denim suit, two pairs of socks, a black half slip and a pair of moccasin-type shoes.

The woman is believed to have been about 30 although an examination of the skull indicated she could have been as old as 40.

In seeking to identify the body, police have followed up more than 20 reports of missing women without success.

DENTISTS HELP

A description of the body and particularly of his upper denture plate has been circulated to police departments across the country with the request that police visit every dentist to check for possible identification.

"Without identification, we're up against a stone wall," chief Elliot said. "But I believe it's a first-class murder mystery. To me the attitude and location of the body rules out natural causes."

CSL Commodore, Capt. Patterson, Will Retire

TORONTO (CP)—Captain Selby Patterson, commodore of the 49-ship fleet of Canada Steamship Lines, today announced his retirement after half a century of Great Lakes service.

Capt. Patterson went out on the lakes at 16 as a deckhand and nine years later had his own ship. He once saved a helpless ship that lost a rudder during a storm on Lake Superior by lashing both ships together and steering both to port.

Once, he was threatened with mutiny of stowaways armed with iron bars on a hurricane-lossed run from St. John's, Nfld., to Halifax. He led the crew in battling the mutineers back into the hold.

During his service, Capt. Patterson was skipper of the Stadacona, Lemoyne, Hochelaga, Thunder Bay and the passenger ships Huronic and Noronic.

He holds the distinction of carrying the largest grain and iron cargoes ever taken through the Welland canal.

FAMILY ESCAPED

SIMCOE (CP)—Jack Davis led his family to safety Wednesday after fire broke out in the chimney of his two-story frame home 10 miles north of here. The house was destroyed at an estimated loss of $4,000. Mr. Davis, who works nights at Brantford, was preparing to retire when the blaze broke out.

Obituary

THE REV. HARRY A. FROST
(Trenton - Cleveland — Florida)

The Rev. Harry A. Frost, one time Methodist minister in Trenton and husband of the former Janet Wilson, daughter of the late Rev. Dr. J. F. Wilson, one time minister of Bridge Street Church here, died on Wednesday at his home, Penny Farms, Florida, at the age of 70 years.

During the First Great War he went overseas as a chaplain with the first centlegent in 1914 and was stationed in England for two years and then served in the Egyptian and Gallipoli campaigns. After the war Major The Rev. Harry Frost served as minister in the Methodist Church at Lakefield, Trenton and Ottawa. Later he went to Cleveland, Ohio, and was pastor of a large church there for twenty years. Six years ago he retired and went to live in Florida.

Surviving him are his wife, the former Janet Wilson; two sons, Dr. James Frost, dean of the Teachers' College at Oneonota, N.Y., and David Frost, a school teacher in Long Island; one sister, Miss Mary E. Frost, Toronto, and one brother, Thomas Frost, of Dartford, Ontario. Mrs. John Nohlman, the former Mary Wilson of Cleveland, Ohio, and a frequent visitor here, is a sister of Mrs. Frost.

The funeral will take place at Jacksonville, Florida, on Friday.

Arrest Victim Of Assault As Incorrigible

TORONTO (CP)—Police Wednesday night arrested and charged as an incorrigible a 13-year-old girl who was beaten with a hammer Tuesday by an assailant who climbed through her bedroom window.

Her mother also was arrested and charged with contributing to delinquency of a juvenile.

Police said detectives are continuing their search for the girl's assailant, said to be a youth. He climbed a ladder to reach the second-floor bedroom window.

Paper Says Three More Ministers Will Resign

TORONTO (CP)—The Telegram says three more Ontario cabinet ministers will resign in the near future.

Highways Minister George Doucett resigned Wednesday and was replaced by James N. Allan, of Dunnville.

The paper says resignations will be handed in by Municipal Affairs Minister Dunbar, Provincial Secretary Welsh, and Reforms Minister Foote.

Picture of Nude Back in Show At Hart House

TORONTO (CP)—The University of Toronto's Hart House art committee has decided to leave its controversial two-man art show unchanged.

Mayor Nathan Phillips described three nude pictures in the exhibition as objectionable after viewing the show Tuesday.

One picture, showing a nude man and woman embracing, was removed temporarily Wednesday.

But a committee of 11 students and three lecturers announced after a 75-minute meeting behind closed doors that the exhibition will continue with all three nudes up.

Mayor Phillips said today he will not press his protest further.

"I have done my duty in drawing these pictures to their attention and their decision is their responsibility."

B. C. Interested In Collection Of Indian Art

VICTORIA (CP)—British Columbia is casting covetous glances at a rare assortment of Indian art collected by a Britton here following the 1898 Klondike gold rush.

The collection is the property of Sir Alfred Bossom, now a member of Parliament for Maidstone.

Einar Gunderson, on a European tour recently as a special trade commissioner for the province, saw the collection and made overtures to obtain it for British Columbia.

AMONG FINEST

"It forms one of the finest collections I have ever seen," says Mr. Gunderson.—Included was everything made by early B.C. Indians, such as dugout canoes, thunderbirds, totem poles, masks, baskets, cedar utensils and small ornamen s

Mr. Gunderson said the collection had many objects he had never seen previously, even in the B.C. museum.

Items were collected by Sir Alfred during many visits to remote Indian villages and settlements.

Sir Alfred was an architect in NewYork for many years before moving back to England about 25 years ago. His collection has been locked up in storage ever since until put on exhibit at the Imperial Institute in South Kensington.

DONATION SUGGESTED

Mr. Gunderson suggested Sir Alfred might wish to give B.C. his collection which would be known as the "Sir Alfred Bossom Collection."

However, if he was considering selling it, he was asked to let the B.C. government know first.

In a brochure at the Imperial Institute exhibit, Sir Alfred tells how he acquired a 30-foot "very early" totem pole from one of the coastal islands, then was presented with the problem of shipping it.

To get it to England he had to have it lashed to the deck of a ship that sailed around the Horn.

This was the pole exhibited in the Dome of Discovery at the Festival of Britain in 1951.

TOLERANCE AND CONVICTION

"Along with greater tolerance, there has been a decline in conviction."

That observation was made by William R. Plewman, veteran Toronto newspaperman, on his retirement.

Mr. Plewman, who started his newspaper career in 1899, joined the staff of the Toronto Daily Star in 1903 and now retires after over half a century of service to that newspaper.

He is best known for his penetrating analyses of events during the First and Second Great Wars. Surely, however, no sentence he ever wrote on military affairs could have been a more brilliant condemnation of a complex problem than this summing up of a half century of social change.

Is the growth of tolerance solely the result of the decline in conviction? If so, we have no particular reason to congratulate ourselves. Tolerance comes easily to those lacking in convictions. It is simple to grant others a right to their opinions when we have no opinions of our own.

The only tolerance worthy of cherishing is that displayed by persons of strong convictions.

Nevertheless it is doubtful whether there has been much increase in tolerance among people of this type.

During the course of the past half century, while a decline in conviction was occurring on this continent, a huge swell of conviction was sweeping across a great portion of two continents on the other side of the world. We refer, of course, to the spread of Communism, from the prison camps of Siberia or from exiles' garrets in European capitals until today it spans Europe and Asia from the Baltic to the Sea of Japan.

In many countries it has often been the foe of tolerance. It is not easy for the man with a mission to tolerate those who oppose him. Wherever conviction has been strong, intolerance has been rampant.

In this twentieth century, the new tide of conviction pouring out of Russia has been accompanied by a rising tide of intolerance. It is not true, as some would argue, that the intolerance is the product of the Communist and Siamese twins. It is true that tolerance was displayed by Karl Marx in his first exposition of the Communist creed; true that tolerance is displayed by those who today claim to be his disciples is not true. For in Marx, coupled with ruthlessness, is to be found an underlying concern with social justice, as he conceived it. Today this latter quality, if not impossible, is to discover amongst his converts. Their intolerance has grown stronger, but their conviction has not—although the numbers joining their ranks have increased.

Mr. Plewman, while evidently rejoicing in the growth of tolerance in Canada, just as evidently deplores the decline in conviction. Yet, in the past few years, there has been a disturbing trend. Amongst some individuals conviction has appeared with renewed strength—but returning with it has been a tendency towards a decline in tolerance.

This poses for us the melancholy possibility that man really made little progress during the past half century during which Mr. Plewman was outwardly observing the world and its ways. If man's tolerance can be bought only at the expense of a decline in his convictions, he has but little improved his outlook on the world and its problems.

THE PROBLEM OF THE LOVELORN

The Montreal Gazette reports that the Nuffield Foundation has made a grant of 700 pounds for a study of the psychological meaning of letters by the lovelorn. The Foundation, in announcing the grant, said that 300,000 people a year write to the lovelorn columns of British papers.

The Gazette is interested by the fact that "Englishmen evidently do not feel that the affair of the heart, any more than affairs of the pocketbook, should be left in the hands of other Englishmen. They have hired two Scotsmen to do the job."

The Gazette may be surprised but we are not. This just displays the Englishman's genius for justice. No judge should be an interested party to the case he is trying. Englishmen have referred to the Scots the job of deciding what was the psychological meaning of letters by the lovelorn, it might be later discovered that he himself was a lovelorn letter writer. The Scots selected will certainly not be in this category—not because Scots are not sometimes lovelorn, but because no Scot would spend a postage stamp to dispatch the details of his own particular affair to the lovelorn editor when, for nothing that, if he waits long enough, he is certain to discover that some spendthrift Englishman has a problem identical with his own.

This, incidentally, brings us to the most interesting point of any investigation of the psychological meaning of lovelorn columns, a point not apparently covered in the Nuffield Foundation reference to the Scots hired to do the job. Why do so many people who would never dream of writing a letter to the lovelorn editor of a newspaper nevertheless avidly read the lovelorn columns every day? Not all are Scots endeavoring to save the price of a postage stamp. People who laugh at the lovelorn and the advisor to the lovelorn make possible a continuation of this public airing of personal problems. If they did not, if lovelorn columns were perused only by those who write letters, newspapers would soon stop publishing them. The editors of Dorothy Dix and Beatrice Fairfax would not be household words on this continent.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

January 6, 1935

Following are the newly installed officers of the Kinsmen's club this year, past president Bill McIntosh; president, Keith Scott; secretary, Bob Graham; treasurer, Carl Sills; treasurer, Richard Arnott; directors, Jack Marsh; directors, Bob Graham, Jack Norris and Harvey Ross; entertainment committee, Bill McIntosh, chairman; Sunshine fund, J. Norris; chairman sports, C. Allen; chairman; membership and classification, Ormonde Butler, chairman. It is understood that a sterling service on behalf of the club during the past year, Bill McIntosh was presented with a pin which may be worn only by a Kinsman, similar to Rinsmen's club.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. Phillips, Gordon street, on New Year's night, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ingleton of Shirley, celebrated the 57th anniversary of their wedding. It was the 37th anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Phillips' wedding. Thirty five guests were present and both parties received numerous lovely gifts.

Mr. William Morrow of Ogdensburg, N.Y., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Mott.

Mr. Harry Wagner has resigned from after spending a week's vacation in Toronto.

A perfect bridge hand, the dream of every bridge player was held by Miss Helen C. Deroche last week, when she was dealt thirteen spades. The other players at the table were Miss M. J. Roberts, Mrs. W. Hurst and Mr. W. Lick.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack McKeown have left to spend the winter at Bradenton, Florida.

30 YEARS AGO

January 6, 1925

In the Stirling Village election C. E. Fralick was elected reeve over Charles Van Alstyne by a majority of 137. The following were elected councillors: Hugh Morden, Sam Hatton, Thomas Fralick and Addie Thompson.

The election in Frankford Village resulted as follows:

For reeve R. Miller defeated A. E. Fralick. The former reeve by a majority of eleven votes. The councillors elected are Charles A. Morris, Elmer O. Freeman, George S. Foster, and James Ferguson. School trustees elected are: Leonard Hendricks, Walter T. Morrow and A. B. Harrison.

In Thurlow township the election results were followed for reeve, R. W. Brown defeated J. G. Sills, the former reeve, by a majority of 150; for deputy reeve, R. M. Mitchell defeated H. Ketcheson by a majority of 396. The councillors elected and Daniel McDonnell. are: W. Gray, J. W. Embury

40 YEARS AGO

Lieut.-Col. Lorne W. Marsh is spending a few days in Montreal.

Mrs. A. Truman of this city is visiting her aunt, Mrs. C. Campbell in Hamilton.

Recruiting for the third contingent for overseas is proceeding briskly in this city and county. The new recruits are being drilled at the armouries.

Past President R. T. Pannell, ter of Oxford Lodge Sons of England, was presented with a past president's jewel at a meeting of the lodge last evening.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell has returned home from St. Paul, Minn., where he spent Christmas and New Year's with his daughter, Mrs. J. C. Jamieson.

50 YEARS AGO

January 6, 1905

At the annual meeting of the West Hastings Agricultural Association the following officers were elected: President, Dr. Simmonds, Frankford; vice-presidents, John Williams, and F. E. O'Flynn, Belleville; Marsh and G. Lawson, Trenton; J. T. Holgate and W. Sullivan, Sidney township; secretary-treasurer, W. J. McCamon, Belleville.

The town hall in Stirling was destroyed by fire last night. It was a stone building and had been in use for many years.

The Belleville hockey team was defeated in Cobourg last night, the final score being 4 to 2. The following composed the Belleville team: Scott, Townsend, Connell, Wetzler, Hamilton, Pepper and Allen. The referee was David Burrows.

We quote the following from our file copy at this time in 1855: "Mrs. Nathan Jones, one of Belleville's oldest residents, died at her home at the northeast corner of John and Bridge streets, after a long illness, in her 70th year. She was born near Brockville and was the daughter of Philip Clement, who died in 1837, and grandson of Father's death, her mother with five girls and one son, moved to Murray Creek, which is now the city of Belleville. Mrs. Jones was active in charitable work and upon the death of Mrs. Jacques, was elected member of the Women's Christian Association, she became president in 1880 and she turned the sod for the hospital buildings on July 23, 1884. Two years later she laid the corner stone of the building, and was followed as president in 1886 by Mrs. M. W. Maclean. Mrs. Jones was an active member of the Bridge Street Methodist church.

TODAY'S TALK

GOODWILL

We usually speak of goodwill as peculiarly a business asset, but each one of us, as a human being, has his worth in goodwill. Though no one may name it, there it is just the same, for it is a part of us as much as the hair on our head. Also it is what we leave to others and gives us our reputation.

Goodwill is that silent something that makes people believe in you and trust you. In business, the first Marshall Field once said: "Goodwill is the one and only asset that competition cannot successfully undermine." Certainly that statement applies as truly to individual character.

The goodwill behind a name cannot be wiped out, nor can it be diminished. Many a man has been elected to political office because of the goodwill represented by his name and reputation than for his known political beliefs. That was the case in regard to Abraham Lincoln, President Eisenhower and many a man in public life.

The largest asset that many a business has today may easily be represented by its goodwill. And this goodwill may be the hair thin of a trade-mark made famous by clever advertising. "Nonesuch," for example, and the word "Kodak". Millions in money could not buy them now if they were there long! "Vaseline" is another name that represents value, and the concern that invented and sponsored it.

Think of the unpurchasable value of goodwill among nations! Were it but kept at par all the time, our burdensome taxes would mostly melt away and all thought of war would be dispelled. Why can't this spirit of goodwill be created in the world, and it is for the good of every human being, no matter where he is?

Discovery In Inca Land

(Watertown Times)

For two years the American Geographical Society's expedition to Peru has studied the 2,600-mile highway of the Incas. They have followed the path of the Incas through the jungles; they have been the victims of villainous mosquitoes and other insects; they have forded streams seeking to avoid the deadly piranha, or cannibal fish, which the moment it scents blood in the water will attack and devastate the flesh from the bone; they have climbed craggy heights; and they have been exposed to cold and to heat each almost beyond endurance in their line.

But who can say that these expeditioners in these two years have not also found something distinctive in locating ruins seldom seen by man, and hitherto unknown to most? And here at the end of their toilsome journey they have come upon a vast city, which may have seemed worth all the suffering they had put into it. This was a stone city, remarkably well-preserved. It was surrounded by cyclopean walls with narrow stone streets between, and each built solidly. In the midst was a circular house, which, had the roof been added, would have resulted in a dome some 40 feet in height. Carved effigy heads were seen in the walls, some on the outside, and again within, the interior being reached by a door from the outside. Human and animal clothes racks, the anteiers of deer had been placed on the walls for hangers.

The explorers found cooking pots by the score, and a grinding mill of stone, and some pieces of stone pottery. Still they were not enough to know that here was an Inca building, but the work of the very secretive people who came to conquer, the Chancas. Nevertheless, the Chancas who built the Incas had made this a resting place on the way to battle.

But none the less, the archaeological history of Peru has such a find of great discovery, and that is 1911 of Machu Picchu. The expedition, then, had reached its climax. On this occasion it found 200 miles of explored Inca roads in Peru. This was the equivalent of their peak in Darien. Like Balboa, first viewing the Pacific, may they not have looked upon it with a wild surmise?

Selling Books By the Million

(Wall Street Journal)

A hard-cover book that sells 40,000 copies is a best-seller, but readers are numbered in millions for paper-backed copies of Erskine Caldwell's God's Little Acre, over 10 million of which have been sold. Pocket Book of Child and Baby Care are 21 million of Merriam-Webster's Pocket Dictionary.

Eric Stanley Gardiner's 82 paper-backed books have sold more than 75 million copies. Some 600,000 copies of Mickey Spillane's The Case of the Negligent Nymph, are being distributed to servicemen in Korea. Mickey Spillane's seven sex-and-violence detective novels have sold over 20 sales of 26 million. Kiss Me Deadly, published last year, is now running for the 24 million mark. Western writer Luke Short, who died in 1955, left behind him went on sale, has accounted for more than 10 million sales.

The publisher's profit on each book is a tiny one. On a 25-cent book the distributor gets 11 cents, the retailer five cents. The production cost on a stock book is about a cent, another cent goes for royalties. That leaves the publisher a one-cent profit.

Prejudice Misinformed

(Montreal Gazette)

One of the worst things about prejudice is that it is so often misinformed.

An example of this occurred recently in England. At the village of Kingston Blount, near Oxford, a radio relay station was planned to serve the nearby Royal Air Force, one of a chain. The people of the village were upset when it was learned the antennae would have masts 190 feet high and would destroy the present picturesque stretch of landscape. The whole thing was blamed on Americans. Indifference, ruthlessness and hard-heartedness.

Then it was learned that the fault lay with the British Air Ministry. It chose the site. It was that the U.S. Air Force had asked for was a general requirement. Now they have left the Ministry to choose the exact site. That is the end of the matter.

It is commenting on this incident The Manchester Guardian says that the U.S. Air Force can for our troubles has become about as common as blaming the BBC for our weather. "It is easy and unfounded."

Yet unfounded prejudices have a certain very real value of their own. Often enough they are the ammunition for those who seek to help the helplessness upon which so much that is prejudice really rests.

Are Mining On Bold Scale

(Northern Miner)

Time was, in mining, when advances were made cautiously. There were always conservative leaders; but their efforts were often hampered by the doubts and unexamining of those about them. We don't see much of that uncertainly nowadays, however. Witness the bold scale on which new camps are being opened up new exploration and development plans planned. Witness the amounts of capital and enterprise being put into the development of new and comparatively minor minerals. We doubt if any other industry, be this or any other country on the face of the globe, is undergoing stouter growth. Canadian miners are thinking big!

How to Live To Be 117

(Fort William Times-Journal)

Examinations have been conducted in a Denver hospital in which a man who claims he is now the age of 117. The authorities believe that his active life may have contributed to his longevity. For one thing, they found he had been a slave, that he was called as a bare-knuckle pugilist who fought under the name of Kentucky he is raising turkeys and chickens in Mississippi.

We are not told that the examiners reached any specific conclusions regarding this man ever. But thereat of us, without looking at him, can be sure he was equipped with an excellent heart, that his arteries were not the kind that hardened with age, and that what he ate throughout his century and 17 years agreed with him.

Heckling Lost Art

(Cleveland Plain Dealer)

Until quite recently the heckling of political speakers frequently enlivened campaigns for public office. That was before both in the United States and Britain, signifying free speech, Lord Tom L. Johnson invite hecklers to share the platform with him, and in other ways the hecklers who wound up tongue-tied, embarrassed and the victim of jeers.

Heckling, however, was sometimes a healthful pastime. It was not something for the Caspar Milquetoast type of individual. It required a successful heckler had to be aggressive, somewhat pugnacious, and endowed with ample vocal chords. And he always took a chance on getting a sock on the nose from some partisan spectator who was equally free with his fists.

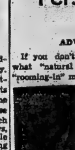
It is somewhat disappointing, therefore, to learn that the heckler who couldn't take it. A San Francisco shipyard worker has sued Democratic Senator Kuchel for $150,000, claiming he was falsely imprisoned (held down in a chair and insulted) (loosed out on his ear) when he tried to heckle Nixon at a campaign rally in that city.

What is pointless coming to, we wonder when a heckler can sue that they sue for damages when they voluntarily take the calculated risk of being peeled, bruised more or less damaged?

And what has happened to the fine art of heckling, which seems to be dying out in this generation? Is it because the latter question, we guess, is radio and television. When a man is given a set amount of time allotted to him on a network program, and has his speech prepared in advance for the occasion, it is considered unsportsmanlike to interrupt him because if he takes time to answer the heckler he is liable to run out of time before he finishes his speech.

Maybe the solution is for people to arrange in advance to be interrupted by professional hecklers' and to allow sufficient time to answer them.

Two Bottle Stories



(Fergus News-Record)

There is the story of the Negro who stepped outside the store and dropped a bottle of liquor on the sidewalk. He shook his head sadly and said: "Christmas done come and gone!" Then there was the Scot from Aberdeen who carried his in a hip pocket. One day he fell and one day and when he reached heaven he felt somewhat dazed and he said "I hope that's blood!"

ADVICE TO PROSPECTIVE PARENTS

Dr. Brady

If you don't understand just what "natural childbirth" and "rooming-in" mean you are likely to assume that it is a crazy attempt to do away with all the refinements and safeguards of modern obstetrics and return to dinetcenth century methods. And the trick specialists patronized by $800 smoke likes to have their customers believe that.

Salvesgange and fishwives, who tell frightful tales when they catch an ignorant expectant mother unguarded, make the throes of childbirth sound like an anesthetic seem dreadful indeed. But that's where a little intelligence helps—to wit, an anesthetist is always available if or when the woman in natural childbirth wants it. As one happy young mother said:

"Knowing that you can have the anesthetic at any time you want it—you don't want it for at least I didn't. But the fact that it is available is insurance against being tense. You can relax."

In the mail I found an undated newspaper clipping of a paragraph about a course in child care for new and expectant fathers, to be given by the American Red Cross. In response to suggestions by expectant mothers' classes.

As usual the expectant mother has to lead the way. This is proper for the expectant father should go hand-in-hand with his wife every step of the way in preparation for and achievement of parenthood.

For prospective parents to read and study together, I recommend the following:

Childbirth Without Fear, by Dr. Grantly Dick Read, the father of "natural childbirth." If the book is not available at the public library any book dealer will supply it for $2.75. Harpers.

Natural Childbirth, by Helen Heardman and Ida Mann. Lewis, Williams and Wilkins.

Childbirth. Questions answered by Carl B. Davis and Dennis Ferguson. $2. Harpers.

Natural Childbirth. A program of Natural Childbirth with Rooming-in. By Herbert Thoms, M.D., Professor of Obstetrics, Yale University School of Medicine. $3. McGraw-Hill.

A RECEPTIVE HEART

In the 57th chapter of the Book of Isaiah occur these words: "And thus saith the high and lofty One that inhabits eternity, whose name is Holy: I dwell in the high and holy place, with him also that is of a contrite and humble spirit, to revive the spirit of the humble, and to revive the heart of the contrite."

The word "humble" comes from the word meaning earth. A humble person literally means one who has prostrated himself upon the ground. The word "contrite" is the translation of a Hebrew word connected with crushing. The contrite heart is the heart that has been ground into submission to the will of God. The humble and contrite heart is the heart that has submitted—the heart that has had ground out of it bitterness, resentment, pride and self-expression which have acted as an impediment to spiritual progress.

Does this seem like a dismal picture? It is anything but that. It is a happy picture. It is the Bible's description of the condition under which our hearts and minds must be, if we expect God to come into our lives and make us at home. We must thrust aside pride and be humble. We must sorrow for our sins if we accomplish in our souls what God intends them to accomplish. When that happens, then says the high and lofty One that inhabits eternity, whose name is Holy: I dwell . . . with him also that is of a contrite and humble spirit."

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In a restaurant the other evening I was taken aback to see a gentleman, on seating himself at a table, reverently bow his head, fold his hands and close his eyes, and move his lips in saying grace.

More observant people than myself tell me that it is not at all uncommon now to see people saying asked privately in a public place. But for me it was a unique experience, and I kept my eye on the gentleman with considerable interest.

He was a stout, dark man, well dressed and a little florid. He looked full like a person used to being stuffed with delicacies. He studied the menu the waitress handed him, and ordered with half a grapefruit, which he ate with deliberation, chewing each spoonful of fruit as if it were precious. Then he ordered a steak and a double portion of French fried potatoes and toast.

Milk Producers Charge Dairies With Coercion

PORT COLBORNE (CP) — The Ontario milk control board Wednesday reserved decision until Jan. 11 on charges of coercion brought against Port Colborne dairies by members of the Milk Producers' Association here.

Producers' evidence was heard for nearly three hours in open session. The board then met for 40 minutes in camera with dairy representatives.

The producers said the dairies had exerted "pressure" on some of them to have them sign an agreement favoring a six-day pickup of milk in lieu of a seven-day pickup. During the hearing, it was reported from the floor that farmers in the area had recently considered establishing a co-operative dairy because of dissatisfaction with the local dairy operations.

Judge A. B. Currey, chairman of the milk control board, said after meeting with dairy representatives that the distributors had told the board the majority of the farmers were in favor of a six-day pickup. He said the dairies denied any influence was used to induce anyone to sign the agreement for a six-day pickup.

More Financial Support Sought For Ford Strikers

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Union sources said Wednesday night more financial support for the striking Ford of Canada workers may be sought from the executive of the United Automobile Workers Union (CIO) international.

The sources said the executive, which started its regular quarterly meeting Wednesday in Detroit, will report on the 88-day-old strike, and may be asked to vote more money for the Canadian UAW strike fund.

The international has already given more than $600,000 to the Canadian strikers.

A total of 7,500 workers at the three Ford plants are on strike. About 4,700 Windsor workers, 800 Oakville assembly plant workers and 150 employees at a parts depot in Etobicoke are on strike for higher wages and additional fringe benefits.

CIO Headquarters Suspends Local At Smiths Falls

SMITHS FALLS (CP)—Officers of Local 3140, United Steelworkers of America (CCL-CIO) have been suspended by the union's international headquarters in Pittsburgh, Stewart Wood, past president of the local, said Wednesday night.

He indicated the international's action resulted from the local's use of funds it had accumulated in the 10 years it has existed in this town about 40 miles south of Ottawa.

The local represents 250 employees of the Frost and Wood Company Limited, a farm implement manufacturer that announced some time ago it would be closing in the spring for lack of orders.

Mr. Wood said union members had instructed their four-man executive to divide evenly among the membership funds in the local's treasury. As a result, some $18,000 was handed out at Christmas, about $55 going to each member. A free turkey also was given each member by the local.

When a local, 1066, as No. 3140 is expected to when the company closes, its treasury normally is emptied into the international's coffers, Mr. Wood said. Suspension of the executive leaves them without power to use up the $2,000 Mr. Wood said remains in the local's treasury.

TO TRY AA IDEA

CLEVELAND (AP) — Formation of a "Narcotics Anonymous" club with 15 members was announced Tuesday by Angelo J. Cagliardo, chief probation county officer. Cagliardo said he wanted to test a theory that "junkies" and alcoholics have the same personality problems. Alcoholics Anonymous has helped provide cures in a number of cases by offering companionship and group therapy.

TRENTON, (Special.) — The School Association of College street public school classes horror films, suggestive TV serves and crime comics with "sex movies" as needing censorship.

An open forum following the showing of a National Film Board short subject "Sociable Sevens to Noisy Nines" at the regular meeting Wednesday night, felt that provincial and federal authorities should censor crime comics, TV shows and horror movies in the samh way that they now censor movie filmsship.

Parents at the meeting protested the showing of suggestive TV thrillers on week-ends when teen-age children have easy access to viewing them.

The film recommended such movie and television performances as those of Roy Rogers, Gene Autry, Howdy Doody and Kukla, Fran and Ollie as being wholesome and acceptable entertainment for young children.

The National Film Board picture stressed the activities of children from seven to nine years of age and the influences which affect their development.

Other Home and School Association officials in Trenton, polled Thursday morning by the Ontario Intelligencer, approved of some form of censorship.

STREETS SLIPPERY

There were nine vehicle mishaps in Trenton in the 12-hour period from 8.15 p.m. Wednesday to 8.15 a.m. Thursday.

Ice that produced hazardous driving conditions was blamed for most of the accidents. All accidents, including a collision of a police cruiser and a taxi, were of a minor nature. No injuries were reported.

Hydro officials reported no interruptions in service and no casualties were treated at the Trenton Memorial Hospital.

Union Official Sees No Strike At Chrysler

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — A top union official said Wednesday he is confident contract negotiations with the Chrysler Corporation of Canada will be settled "without trouble."

He warned, however, that if the talks break down, the United Automobile Workers Union (CIO-CCL) may be asked to step in to work out a settlement.

The Chrysler unit of UAW's Local 195 will hold a strike vote Saturday, but Charles Brooks, chairman of the unit, said the vote is "just a constitutional measure."

He said the vote will be taken to strengthen the hand of the unit's negotiating team, which has been meeting with company for more than a month, since a conciliation board report on the dispute was handed down.

The report recommended against a 15-cent hourly wage increase sought by the 7,500 Chrysler workers.

The workers, whose average wage is $1.61 an hour, also seek higher medical and hospital grants, a new apprenticeship program and revised seniority clauses.

Jobless Ask Govt. For Work Program

TORONTO (CP)—A meeting of 250 jobless workers Wednesday asked the federal government to make unemployment and a public works program the first items of business in the next session of Parliament starting tomorrow.

The meeting, sponsored by the Union of Unemployed Workers, a group with a constantly changing membership, resolved to ask Ottawa to provide unemployment benefits to all jobless regardless of whether or not unemployment insurance contributions had been paid in full.

Steel Workers, Management, Seek Settlement

MONTREAL (CP)—Representatives of the United Steel Workers Union (CIO-CCL) and the Steel Company of Canada were to meet today in another attempt at ironing out differences.

The union delegation will be headed by William Scandlan, international representative in Ontario and R. J. Lamoureux, Quebec representative.

The union's decision to meet management was made Tuesday at a closed meeting.

A spokesman of the labor group said that if the talks are successful they will help clear up differences in company plants here and in Toronto, Brantford and Ganaoque.

The union is asking wage increases and fringe benefits. The wage demands have not yet been made public.

Wives of Nazi Leaders Live In Obscurity

By RICHARD K. O'MALLEY

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—The leaders of Nazi Germany under Hitler are dead or in jail. But most of their wives live on.

Obscurity now marks these women who gloried in the pomp of Hitler's third reich. The deference shown them by German citizens has ebbed into indifference. Scarcely a head turns as they walk the streets. For some of the women the going is hard indeed.

It has been a decade since the women saw their men fall from power. The gallows claimed some husbands. Seven are alive, behind the walls of Berlin's Spandau prison.

Today, nobody takes a second look when Margarethe Himmler, widow of Gestapo boss Heinrich Himmler, takes a stroll on a Munich street with her daughter Gudrun, 24.

Mrs. Himmler has slid far down the social ladder. She lives in an apartment on $14 a month given her by a Protestant charity organization, Gudrun is a seamstress.

GOERINGS BETTER OFF

Emmy Goering lives in Munich, too. As helpmate of Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering, she headed the list of bigwig wives. But life isn't as rough for Mrs. Goering and her 15-year-old daughter, Edda. She has a comfortable apartment and a maid. The public does not know the source of her income.

Mrs. Joachim von Ribbentrop's life is comfortable, too. It isn't as lush as the days when her husband was foreign minister. But income from her family's champagne company keeps her well off. She lives in the Ruhr city of Wuppertal.

Most hopeful of the wives that the Nazis left behind is Mrs. Albert Speer. The former armaments minister, serving a 20-year term in Spandau prison, is due for release in 1966.

She was recently given back Speer's villa in Heidelberg and lives there with her three children.

Others whose husbands are in Spandau include Mrs. Erich Raeder, wife of the former admiral; Mrs. Walther Funk, whose husband was economics minister; and Ilsefless, wife of Hitler's No. 2 man until he flew to Scotland.

Mrs. Rudolf Hess, 60 years old, her husband 71. Barring clemency, it is unlikely they ever will be together again. Raeder was sentenced to life imprisonment, as was Funk.

STEBBINGS—ADDY

St. Thomas' Anglican church, Belleville, was the setting on Friday, December 24, at 4.00 p.m. for a lovely Christmas-time wedding when Joyce Marigold Addy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Addy, became the bride of Robert Harry Stebbings, of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stebbings. The Rev. William Robinson, rector of the church, officiated before a chancel banked with white chrysanthemums and red poinsettias.

Professor Ernest W. Wheatley, church organist, rendered the traditional wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Fred Newman, who sang, "O Perfect Love," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Gordon Addy, the bride wore a charming bridal gown of white Valenciennes lace with waist-length veil held by a headdress of sequins and seed pearls. She carried a white prayer book crested with Happiness rosebuds.

Mrs. John J. Fenn, of Toronto, as matron of honor, was attractively attired in holly-red taffeta with matching feather headdress. She carried a bouquet of pine and white chrysanthemums.

Mr. John J. Fenn, of Toronto, attended the bridegroom, while Lieutenant Gordon Addy, of the U.S. Air Force, Greenville, U.S., and Lieutenant William Brown of the Salvation Army, Tweed, Ontario, were ushers.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Harry Fenn, Belleville, which was attractively adorned with Christmas decorations. The bride's mother received the guests wearing dusty rose crepe and lace with matching feather hat, and white gardenia corsage. The bridegroom's mother, gowned in navy blue crepe with matching hat, and corsage of pink roses and carnations, assisted.

For the wedding trip to New York City and Boston, Mass., the bride chose a mauve wool dress, purple topcoat, black accessories, and squirrel furs, the gift of her bridegroom. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Stebbings will reside in Toronto.

Guests were present from North Battleford, Sask., Toronto, Greenville, U.S., Boston, Montreal, Ottawa, and Tweed, Ontario.

Mrs. J. Fletcher Celebrating 105th Birthday

HAMILTON (CP) — Mrs. Julia Fletcher, 105 today, was to celebrate the occasion with a special cake from Hamilton's Mayor Lloyd D. Jackson.

Mrs. Fletcher, possibly Ontario's oldest woman, became a resident of the Hamilton home for the aged three years ago. At one time she was a nurse for a prominent Hamilton family.

Born in England, Mrs. Fletcher came to Canada with her parents. Her father was a cab driver here.

The cake was a special gift from Mayor Jackson, a bakery shop operator.

Mrs. Fletcher, despite recent visits to hospital for a hip injury suffered three years ago, is up and around most of the day.

Ont. Diocesan W. A. Held In Kingston

The regular monthly meeting of the Ontario Diocesan Women's Auxiliary was held Monday afternoon in St. George's Hall, Wellington Street, Kingston.

Miss W. Burns, the president, welcomed all those present and wished them and all branches a happy New Year.

Miss E. Saunders gave an overall picture of the Ontario Diocese financial status and read letters of thanks from grateful clergy. Reports were given by all secretaries.

Mrs. Stanley Andrews spoke briefly on Social and Welfare work, and told how members could work it in with auxiliary activities in the diocese.

Miss W. Burns thanked Mrs. Andrews for her interesting talk.

Miss W. Burns said the next meeting would be an evening meeting and that St. Rev. K. C. Evans, Bishop of Ontario, would be guest speaker.

Fashion Flashes

COLD HANDS can be prettily and warmly gloved this year. A fur cry from those rather clumsy, heavy, fur-lined capeskin gloves is a line of slim glace kid or suede gloves, eight button models lined in contrasting wool jersey, the ends turned down and fastened with rhinestone buttons. Colors include white with shocking pink or dark grey, black with pink or silver grey.

PRINTS are back in the fashion picture—and big news, too—for home and city wear as well as for winter resort wardrobes. A charming dress for smart wear at home, fo movie-going or for a bridge game, is of taffeta done in a rich paisley print in muted shades or maroon and green. V neck, elbow-length sleeves, graceful skirt and wide midriff belt of tucked self fabric.

VERY MUCH in the pink is the word on new resort fashions, where pink is paramount in every category. A typical offering is a coat of lightweight, supple pink tweed, softly tailored on straight but easy lines, over a dress of pale pink sand crepe. The coat is lined with the same fabric, the crepe a shade or two lighter than the pink of the tweed coating.

THERE'S DASH and charm in the new budget fur collections, and many a girl has her eye on a pretty jacket or coat for the big holiday gift. Handsome as all get out, and very striking, is a coat of rabbit stenciled in a bold zebra pattern, a bloused bolero with high flap pockets and Peter Pan collar.

SOFT AND SWEET are the beaver felt hats in the off-whites and pale tones so popular just now. Profile hats, cloches, sailors and head-huggers look lovely in alabaster white or palest pink silky beaver. Some hats have striped beaver trim; others have slim pheasant feathers; other tiny touches of glitter.

That shining success, the small glitter-trimmed hat, is doing all right and is the leader all over the country at bright after-five gatherings and for theatre wear. Finely-woven glow-cloth satin is used for a small hat that has a tiny brim in front that curves to the back in a deep V. It is studded encrusted with pink-to-red sequins forming a leaf and flower motifs that end in small pendant drops on either side.

Will Seek W.I. Support For Macphail Fund

TORONTO (CP) — The women's division of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture will ask the federation to contribute to the Agnes Macphail Memorial scholarship fund.

The division also will seek support from the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario.

It reached this decision Tuesday when it approved a resolution urging support of the fund.

The resolution described the late Miss Macphail as a pioneer champion of farm organization, business co-operatives, advanced education, and a legislator of unflagging zeal and courage."

She was the first woman to be elected to Parliament in Canada. She served 19 years as a member of Parliament and seven as a member of the Ontario legislature.

PLAINFIELD W.M.S.

The postponed meeting of Plainfield W.M.S., was held recently in the church with an attendance of 11 members. The president, Mrs. Fred Hall, opened the meeting with some sensational passages and prayers, the group leaders having charge of the worship service taken from the Missionary Monthly.

Mrs. Clarence Hall led in the "Candle Ceremonial" with Mrs. Blanche Emerson representing "India" and Mrs. Clayton Hall, representing "Canada". Mrs. Clarence Marshall assisted with the prayers.

The slate of officers for the coming year was read by the Rev. K. J. Kersey and will be installed at the January meeting which will be held at the home of Mrs. Harry McCreary.

Mrs. Blanche Emerson had charge of the program. Readings were given by Mrs. Fred Hall, Mrs. Clarence Marshall and Mrs. Emerson and a hymn sung by Mrs. L. Brennan, Mrs. Harry Harrison and Mrs. Harry McCreary, was much enjoyed.

Mrs. Charles Treverton gave a reading and Mr. Kersey closed the meeting.

Offering amounted to $10.

LADIES!

We're having our AFTER CHRISTMAS SALE,
So won't you sort of spread the tale,
Don't say that we can advertise,
That takes brains, we won't tell lies.

Now back to business, you won't guess,
But we've nothing on sale that looks a mess,
We've high priced dresses to make you sigh,
Going at prices that make us cry.

Now do us a favor if you will,
We won't make you pay a great big bill,
There's costly dresses going for less,
So come on up and see the best.

Worth Remembering

by Phyllis Campbell

NEVER MIND FERDINAND—CAPTIVATE FREDDY.

Leave the bulls and cows to the toros. Do your lounging in flattering "Torero" pants with a high-neck blouse and contrast jacket if you like.

Plain black or bejewelled, low ballerina-type slippers are comfy and smart. Bet he keeps only one eye on the TV!

CHARCOAL HAS MORE USES THAN FOR BROILERS.

Next time you charcoal-broil a steak, save a small paperbag full of charcoal. Put a piece in your frig and watch it do wonders in absorbing and banishing food odors. Replace once a week—oftener if you like Camembert!

CHEAPER BY THE DOZEN—OR HALF-DOZEN, ANYWAY.

Though it may sound like a budget-bending idea at first, it'll save dollars for you in the long run. Buy your stockings at least 6 pair at a time—all the same shade. When one stockings runs, you match it perfectly from the other 5 pair. That way you don't discard a perfectly good nylon.

SUNNY ITALY—IN THE FRYING PAN:

Here's an Italian dish to start the bravos ringing! It's Veal Napoli, and it's easy. Ask your butcher to cut very thin slices of veal. Just before cooking, pound paper-thin. Sprinkle with black pepper and pound in tiny shreds of green-onion tops. Heat olive oil very hot and cook veal until brown and crispy. Delicious with spaghetti. A rivideci!

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

SHED BETTER LEARN TO GET ON WITH PEOPLE

At 23, Catherine has not yet learned how to get along with people.

That, at least, is the impression I get from the letter she wrote me about a romance gone wrong in which she suggests herself that her own attitude may have caused her young man to lose interest in her.

Here is what she says:

"Two years ago, I met Bob while he was home on furlough, and while he was away, we became very fond of each other through our letters. He didn't get home much, but when he did, I went out with him and enjoyed being with him. We are both 23 years old.

"We wrote pretty regularly until a month ago, when I received a letter from him telling me not to write any more. Of course I was hurt, because I had become so fond of him.

"I'm not sure why he wrote that letter, but maybe it was my fault, because when he was home, I never seemed to do anything he wanted to do as far instance, go dancing. I also kept harping on things he told me to forget, and maybe I made a mistake in always being home when he wanted me.

"I want him to come back and give me another chance, but I'm afraid he won't. I believe he still loves me; at least he told me he did, the last time we were together, which was two months ago, when we even discussed the future. I was sure, then, that he cared, but maybe I was wrong.

"I tried to forget about him by going out with others, but he is always on my mind, and I don't know what to do. Can you give me some advice?"

Well, Catherine, my advice would be to answer the letter this young man wrote you and tell him that you are awfully sorry if he feels your friendship must end, but that, since he does feel that way about it, you will of course, accept his decision and not write again. This is much the best way to handle the matter.

If you beg him not to break off with you, you are not only going to put yourself in a humiliating position, but you are likely to drive him further away by making him think that you want to hang on to him like a leech. Keep your pride and your self respect intact, and, if he ever really was seriously interested in you, he will retain a liking and respect for you that may eventually bring him back of his own accord.

In the meantime, go out with other young men, whether you feel like it or not, and, if this other chap doesn't pick up his friendship with you again, you'll eventually find a new friend to interest you. Of course you'll feel badly for a while, but have too much character to give in to IT. Keep going, and you're bound to come out ahead.

If you really are to come out ahead, though, you'll have to learn, first to be a bit more unselfish and considerate of other people's wishes. You'll never keep any young man's friendship if you insist on having your own way all the time, and on doing things he doesn't like. Better work on yourself before you get interested in any other chap so that you'll be less likely to have your unhappy experience repeated.

Don't you agree?

A Dessert Worth Coming For

By Mary Moore

The millions of words that have been written about dinner parties should cover the subject for all time to come, but it is a great temptation when your guests say they a meal that you have striven over to tell about it.

I have a trusty soap-box to stand on so I do tell about such little flavor feasts at will.

One such took place during the Christmas holidays when two of Pete's friends, drove to our city for dinner at our house. Such cheerful and charming young people inspire me to my best efforts. I'll cook dinner for Zeni and Dave any time.

Glazed Half-Ham with Pineapple
Candied Sweet Potatoes
Crumbed Baked Tomatoes
Mustard Relish Crabapple Jelly
Florida Salad
Chocolate Refrigerator Cake
Coffee

It delights me no end to see the faces of young people light up when dessert is brought in. They seem to reflect "This is the last for which the first was made."

When our young guests and I thanked them for driving so far to visit us, They brushed me off by saying the dessert alone was worth it.

Everyone enjoyed the salad which I have named "Florida" so I will give you the ingredients.

FLORIDA SALAD

1 One-quarter medium-sized head lettuce cut in bite-size pieces, 1-2 cup tiny sprigs of parsley, 1 medium orange cut into 1-2-inch cubes, 2 tablespoons salted skinless peanuts, 1-4 green pepper cut in narrow strips, 1-4 of a large ripe avocado cut in thin crescents, 1-3 cup finely shredded Savoy cabbage and if desired 1-2 cup finely shredded inner celery stalks, 2 or 3 tablespoons mayonnaise.

Make this salad at the last minute before serving time. The orange is a good combination with the avocado and the whole is a perfect production of green and yellow shades.

CHOCOLATE REFRIGERATOR CAKE

One 6-oz. package of semi-sweet chocolate, 1 square unsweetened cooking chocolate, 2 tablespoons sugar, 3 tablespoons cold water, 2 eggs, yolks and whites separated, 1-cup whipping cream, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1-2 teaspoon almond extract, 18 lady fingers split or the equivalent in sponge or plain cake. In the top of a double boiler melt both of the chocolates, then add the sugar and water and mix well. Remove from heat. Beat the egg yolks and stir the chocolate mixture into them until smooth. Cool. Beat the egg whites until stiff and when mixture is cool fold them into it. Then fold in 1 cup of the heavy cream whipped until stiff, and the extracts. In a loaf pan approximately 11x5x3 inches arrange some of the lady fingers to line the bottom and sides. (First I lined the loaf pan with double thickness of waxed paper to help this turn out easily.) Pour in some of the chocolate mixture then put a layer of lady fingers and more chocolate mixture until all are used having lady finger on top. Cover with wax paper, weight down with cover or other weight and chill in refrigerator 24 hours. If desired, after turning out on serving plate, cover with frosting of whipped cream using the second cup. Bit of ingredients above, and also use it for piping border around edge through icing tube. Decorate with halved maraschino cherries. Serve ice cold. Serves 6 generously. To quote Pete "That's a cock-eyed knockout, Mum!"

YOUNG PARTY-GOERS are asking mother for one of those brocade dresses that are so glamorous, so different from anything they have ever worn, especially when trimmed with a bit of mink. Minus the mink, but very pretty, is a dress of blue brocade, cut with a square neckline, wide shoulder straps and no sleeves. Rhinestone buttons punctuate the long torso to the bouffant line just below the waist, where the full, gathered skirt begins.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

BEAUTY SUPERSTITIONS

When your great-grandma was a girl she was told that if she ate bread crusts she would have curly hair. The sugar, in lumps, of her tresses were trimmed at the full of the moon. In the food belief that they would become luxurious and develop into pigtail more than a yard long. Ah, those funny old times!

But, in the same vein, it was not so long ago that some women believed that if you had a few facial treatments you had to continue them or more wrinkles would appear. Veteran beauticians heard that statement often enough and got pretty mad about it. Actually, professional attentions cleanse, lubricate and stimulate the skin, rejuvenating soft tissues and exercising the underlying fibres.

There are women, who still believe that the use of oily cosmetics will cause a growth of superfluous hair to appear on a woman's face. Operators of the electric needle which is used to remove these unsightly growths claim that surveys show that the worst cases are on the faces of women who have never used creams.

Nobody knows the cause of such superfluous hair but some authorities hazard the guess that when the affliction appears in middle life, it may be due to some slight glandular disturbance. It also has been observed that, if both parents have thick, coarse hair, daughter may develop an incipient moustache or have bristles on her chin.

Explained completely is the notion that deodorants used in the armpits will have a bad effect upon the breasts by restricting the free flow of perspiration. The condition of the sweat glands find other outlets.

Remember when shaving the ends of the hair was a general practice? It was said that that was done so the shaft wouldn't bleed. There is no circulation in the shafts. Just another ridiculous notion!

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHMAN

GRACE - NOTES FOR YOUR NEW YEAR COURTESY

As you step forth into the New Year let that shining word grace be your inspiration to fine, endearing manners. In the "fresh dozen of months" coming up, let that thought-compelling word grace be your watchword, to give courtesy and harmony and a blessed kindness to what you do and to what you say.

Think deep on these great words about grace:

1.
"An outward and visible sign Of an inward and spiritual grace"
—Book of Common Prayer.

2.
"Of Courtesy, it is much less Than Courage of Heart and Holiness, Yet in my walks it seems to me That the Grace of God is in Courtesy."
—Hilaire Belloc.

3.
"The infinite grace of little things."
—James B. Kenyon.

4.
"Give us grace to listen well."
—John Keble.

THE BRIDE-TO-BE AND HER THANK-YOU NOTES

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

1. How soon after a bride receives her wedding gifts is she expected to write her "Thank you" notes?

2. Is it true that any time within a year is acceptable?—

Bob. T.

1. The bride-to-be with the right sense of courtesy and appreciation writes each day a thank-you note for each present that arrives that day. If this is really not possible, she writes her thank-you note as soon as possible after the present arrives. Her ideal should be to have all her thank-you notes written before the wedding day. Presents that arrive too late to be thanked for before the wedding should be thanked for or soon as possible after the wedding.

2. No, sir! It is certainly not true that "any time within a year is acceptable" for the bride to write her thank-you notes. For her to delay writing her thank-you notes for such a long time would be incredibly thoughtless. She should write her thank-you notes promptly, to show (1) that she is polite, (2) that she appreciates kindness and thoughtfulness, and (3) that she is a person of consideration who tells the sender-of-the-gift as soon as possible that the gift was received. And she writes good words of thanks for it.

Second Charge Of Nitrogelatin To Be Exploded

LEDUC, Alta. (CP) — A second charge of nitrogelatin will be exploded today in an attempt to extinguish a blazing oil well deliberately reignited Wednesday.

The fire, which began Dec. 31, was doused Wednesday by a 150-pound nitrogelatin charge. But when workmen closed in to cap the well it was found a "blowout preventer," which should stop oil and gas spewing from the hole, was badly damaged. A fountain of oil and gas still surged upwards. Dusk was falling. Rather than have oil spurting from the well all night to saturate the surrounding land, it was relighted.

Meanwhile, drilling crews continued work on a nearby "directional hole" down which water could be pumped into the chamber feeding the burning well. This method is being held in reserve should the blasting method fail.

The well has been burning off 1,000 barrels of crude oil and 2,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas daily since it "blew."

Vote to Ratify Work Contract

NEW YORK (AP)—New York longshoremen have voted to ratify a new work contract containing a no-strike clause and designed to bring at least two years of labor peace to the waterfront.

Members of 31 New York and New Jersey locals of the International Longshoremen's Association (Ind.) voted in favor of the new two-year contract.

In addition to prohibiting strikes, work stoppages and lockouts, the contract establishes arbitration machinery designed to eliminate the wildcat stoppages that have plagued the port for many years.

The contract also provides new safeguards against the outlawed shape-up system of hiring, under which the men lined up at the piers at the blast of a whistle and a hiring boss picked the men he wanted to work.

The first union shop in the port's history also is provided. All of the port's 25,000-odd dock workers will have to join the International Longshoremen's Association as a condition of holding their jobs.

Possible Attempt To Kidnap Child As House Burns

TORONTO (CP) — A possible kidnapping attempt added to the excitement Wednesday night as 30 persons fled a burning home and three adjoining smoke - filled houses.

No one was injured during the fire but Shirley Langford, 11, whose home was burning, became hysterical and collapsed inside the house. She was rescued by a fireman.

Frances D'Agostino, forced out of her home by smoke, said she became suspicious of a woman she saw walking away from the crowd of spectators.

"She had her arms folded and seemed to be carrying a bundle under her coat," she said.

"I asked her what she had inside the coat and she told me, 'nothing.' Then I asked her to open the coat, but then when I found my nephew, Ernest."

Ernest Gienick, three months, was one of the 13 children forced out of their homes while firemen fought the blaze.

"I'm not sure she meant any harm to the baby, but it certainly seemed odd she should be carrying it away," she said.

The woman offered no explanation for her actions and left.

Selling Waves Jam Toronto Stock Ticker

TORONTO (CP)—Selling waves pounded the stock market's doors again today in the heaviest trading in almost two years.

Selling orders poured into the market so fast from the opening whistle that the high-speed ticker-tape fell further and further behind. After 40 minutes of trading it was nine minutes late.

Stock exchange officials said the jam on the ticker was the worst in memory, even surpassing the congestion of 12,000,000 and 13,000,000 share days in February, 1952.

Most losses were fractions but Price Bros., Consolidated Paper and a few others dropped $1 or more.

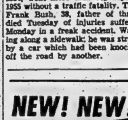
BOAC Claims Record

MONTREAL (CP) — British Overseas Airways Corporation today claimed an unofficial record of 11 hours and 56 minutes for a non-stop, west-bound flight from London, Eng., to Montreal.



A BOAC Stratocruiser in command of Captain James Howard of London arrived here today at 3:19 p.m., EST. The aircraft left London at 2:23 a. m., GMT.

The previous record of 12 hours, 22 minutes was established in May 1953 by another BOAC stratocruiser.

FREAK SNAPS STREAK

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit, the second safest big American city in 1954, went more than 3½ days of 1955 without a traffic fatality. Then Frank Bush, 38, father of three, died Tuesday of injuries suffered Monday in a freak accident. Walking along a sidewalk he was struck by a car which had been knocked off the road by another.

NOW EVERY WEAK, RUNDOWN MAN OR WOMAN CAN TRY SYNTONA

HOW IT ACTS!

Made from 12 of Nature's Finest Herbs and Roots, Syntona acts effectively to stimulate kidneys, liver and bowels. It promotes better activity of these organs and aids in the elimination of excess acids and impurities from the system. Assimilation of food is improved thus helping the entire system for increased strength and energy.

THIS MAN TELLS HIS EXPERIENCE

Mr. G. Fryatt, 121 Gammage Street, London, Ontario, recently told of his experience with Syntona in the following words:

"I first found out about Syntona 7 years ago when I was in a bad way with stomach trouble. For a long time I hadn't been eating right because of gas, pain, indigestion and sour upset stomach. So, I felt run-down, tired all the time, and had rheumatic pains in my limbs, joints and muscles. My nerves were often on edge that I couldn't sleep at night and I'd often get dull headaches and dizzy spells.

"Syntona was so effective in overcoming these troubles and in helping me get back to normal that I've used it as a "standby" remedy ever since. There's always a bottle of it in our home and if ever I have a recurrence of stomach upset, or don't feel right, I take it for awhile and soon I'm O.K. again."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville by Dolan The Druggist.

Decision of Supreme Court Misunderstood Says Writer

The power of Canada has been exercised by a British Columbia court to declare that Hitler Germany never divested the names of persons who have been interned under the Defence of Canada Regulations or have his defence struck out. The following article is one of two discussing the case.

By GRANT DEXTER

Of The Winnipeg Free Press

OTTAWA (CP) — The Supreme Court of Canada recently delivered an oral decision—no reasons were given—which has been widely misunderstood. The court refused to grant a decision by the Appeal Court of British Columbia which directly concerned freedom of speech and freedom of the press. The case is a libel action—Wismer vs. Maclean's magazine.

The misunderstanding arises because it has been generally assumed that the Supreme Court and, indeed, the lower courts have decided the merits of this action.

Actually, the case, hitherto, has been concerned wholly with the technical point of the rightness or otherwise of the rules of the Supreme Court of British Columbia. The real trial of the libel is only now to begin. This is not to say that the court decisions so far are not important. They are. But, as will be pointed out, they fall within the narrow plot of court procedure.

SUMMARY OF CASE

What has happened so far in this important case can best be summarized as follows:

Feb. 15, 1952. Maclean's magazine published an article by Hair Fraser, entitled, "The B.C. Coalition Commits Suicide."

March 4, 1952. Mr. Gordon Wismer, one-time attorney-general of B.C., brought action for libel.

April 29, 1952. Mr. Wismer obtained an order from the British Columbia courts authorizing an examination for discovery" of Mr. Fraser.

May 13, 1952. The examination was held and Mr. Fraser refused to divulge the sources of the information upon which the article was based.

Aug. 17, 1953. Mr. Justice Whittaker of the Supreme Court of British Columbia having heard argument, delivered judgment that Mr. Fraser must answer 18 specified questions or have his defence in the action struck out.

Nov. 17, 1953. The British Columbia Court of Appeal sustained Mr. Justice Whittaker. Chief Justice Sloan and Mr. Justice H. H. Robertson were the majority; Mr. Justice O'Halloran dissenting.

Jan. 26, 1954. Special leave to appeal was sought from the Supreme Court of Canada and refused.

REFUSED TO ANSWER

April 16, 1954. The examination of Mr. Fraser was resumed. He answered a number of continuous questions but refused to answer eight which would have revealed the source of his information.

April 27, 1954. On application, Mr. Justice Macfarlane of the Supreme Court of British Columbia, being informed of this continued refusal, ordered the defence of Maclean's Magazine to be struck out.

June 3, 1954. An appeal to the Court of Appeal of British Columbia was dismissed unanimously. (Mr. Justice O'Halloran not sitting).

Oct. 12, 1954. The Supreme Court of Canada refused special leave to appeal the decision of the B.C. Court of Appeal.

What has been in issue throughout these proceedings has been the rule of the Supreme Court of B.C. regarding examinations for discovery—a form of examination which precedes a trial and which varies from province to province.

SUPREME COURT DECISIONS

The two decisions of the Supreme Court of Canada—in each case given orally—are in keeping with the traditions of the court. Never has it admitted an appeal on a question arising out of the rules of procedure of a provincial court. It is traditional to refuse leave to appeal in such cases. Therefore these judgments have applied whatever to do with the merits of this action. All that has happened so far is preliminary to the trial of the case of Wismer versus Maclean's magazine.

But reference to the judgments shows that these preliminaries are not without significance. In cases of libel, the sources of information are rarely decisive. Some complainant wishes to show malice or hopes to take further damage actions. This must be kept in mind because the practice everywhere is that if malice can be proved, any privilege possessed by a newspaper, a journalist or any defendant in a libel action is destroyed.

An important consideration in the preliminaries in this case was the fact that the rules governing examination for discovery in the United Kingdom are more strict than in British Columbia.

DIFFERENCE NOTED

"The difference was noted by Mr. Justice Freedman in a recent issue of the Canadian Bar Review as follows: 'There is in England, a rule of practice which is applied, in the discretion of the court, for the benefit of newspapers sued for libel, under which the defendant, except in special circumstances, not very clearly defined, is not obliged to disclose his source of information.'"

Referring to the Maclean's case, Mr. Justice Freedman added: "It is of interest to note, however, that recently a Canadian judge refused to apply this English rule of practice in the different system of discovery prevailing here."

Empey Hill

EMPEY HILL—Holy Communion was observed in the United church on Sunday morning. The Rev. John Ranshaw was in charge of the service and also sang a solo. The attendance was small owing to the icy condition of the roads.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Hudson and Douglas; Misses Beverly and Brenda Keeso spent New Year's day at Napanee, with the former's mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Akey were New Years evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thompson and family.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Miriaetis and Leonard, also Mrs. F. Clarke were New Year's guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. Dafoe and Mr. and Mrs. J. Dafoe, of Napanee.

The monthly meeting of the W.A. was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Winter, on Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Waddingham also Mr. and Mrs. G. Waddingham entertained Mr. and Mrs. Durward Waddingham and family and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Waddingham on New Year's day.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Freeman spent the New Year's evening with Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Bennett at Deseronto.

MOTORISTS SUE WINCHELL

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—A suit seeking $150,000 damages was filed Tuesday against Walter Winchell, radio commentator and news columnist, his wife and son, Walter Jr., by two sheriff's deputies. The suit was filed by Lester R. Jones and Ralph W. Edmundson as the result of an accident last Dec. 7. They allege they were injured when the sheriff's car was struck from behind by a car driven by young Winchell.

Developments at Home, Abroad Expected to Spark Lively Debate in Session

Stocks Suffer Worst Setback In 4½ Years

By STEVEN W. DAVID

NEW YORK (AP)—The rousing bull market in stocks suffered its worst setback in 4½ years Wednesday as the federal reserve board increased the amount of cash necessary to buy stocks on margin.

Wall street analysts called the action the immediate psychological deciding factor in the stock market break.

Share prices fell at the start, improved a bit around mid-day and then slumped sharply in the late afternoon. By the end of the session, volume ran to around 3$ in some areas.

The selling wave extended to Canadian markets too. Prices suffered their greatest declines in months at the Toronto stock exchange as almost 1,500,000 shares were traded in the first half-hour following the break in the New York market. The industrial index dropped almost six points, the golds index 2½, base metals 3½ and western oils 1½ points.

Montreal exchanges suffered their largest losses in almost two years, and brokers called it a "reaction" to the New York losses.)

WORST SINCE WAR

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dropped to $132.40, down $4.80, the worst decline since June 26, 1950, when the Korean war started. The industrial list—the 30 in the ticker tell as much as 15 minutes behind in reporting transactions. Per share net street's turnover totalled 4,540,000 shares, largest since Sept. 27, 1950.

Biggest losses were posted by stocks that have been in high favor lately. Republic Steel fell $4.62, Kennecott Copper $4.50, Anaconda Copper $3.87, du Pont $3.13, General Motors $3.62, Bethlehem Steel $4.62 and Standard Oil (N.J.) $2.87. Amerada Petroleum closed down $5.50 after having declined more than $10 at one time.

While, brokers said the boost in margin requirements from 50 per cent to 60 per cent undoubtedly brought on the break, many said it was time that it was high time the market underwent a good-sized correction. Since the bull market started, some shares have doubled in valuation and others have gone well beyond that.

APPROPRIATE NOTE

"I'm rather glad to see it," said Winthrop Smith, managing partner of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Beane. "I think that a note of caution was appropriate."

The consensus was that the long-range effect of the action on the market would be good.

"If the market tops out," commented Harry Comer of Fulton, Webber, Jackson and Curtis, "it will be for some other reason."

The board's action does not apply to people who already have shares on the margin basis. It applies only to new purchases. Thus, an investor buying $1,000 worth of stock now must put up $600.

Avro to Reduce Work Staff

TORONTO (CP) — Avro Aircraft, yesterday announced a rescheduling of aircraft production which will result in a reduction in total employment of some 10 per cent, or about 1,000 employees.

The re-scheduling, on instructions from Ottawa, is on CF-100 aircraft, twinjet fighters.

The move is understood to be in the nature of a stretch-out in production, rather than a reduction and to look forward to later production of the C-105, a supersonic delta-wing jet fighter.

It is understood that Avro has been working since September on an order of more than 60 CF-100s, of which about 300 have been built.

MOSTLY NEW MEN?

The company, in a notice to employees posted on its bulletin boards yesterday, said the reductions would be in accordance with seniority provisions of the collective agreement. It is believed that most of those affected have been taken on since December, 1953.

Orenda Engines, Ltd., which, like Avro, is a division of A. V. Roe Canada Limited, said its employment would not be affected due to other projects in hand, but there would be some repositioning of employees.

100 BURNED OUT

HONG KONG (AP)—An early morning fire destroyed 300 squatters' huts in Kowloon today and left 1,500 people homeless.

OTTAWA (CP) — Developments in Canada and abroad since Parliament prorogued last June are expected to be centre-piece of debate during the new session opening Friday.

Opposition criticism is expected on such topics as unemployment, immigration, trade, radio - television policy and government spending.

Part of the groundwork for these debates will be laid in the speech from the Throne read by Governor-General Massey at the 3 p.m. EST opening. This will outline sketchily the government's legislative program.

AGREES ON PARIS PLAN

While many of the discussions will find government and opposition colliding head-on, little or no partisanship is expected over one of Parliament's first items of business. That is the proposed ratification of the Paris agreements on rearmament of West Germany and her admittance to NATO.

Unemployment problems as they develop during the early days of the session as the government brings in a bill to increase unemployment insurance benefits for winter jobless.

Opposition parties likely will take advantage of this, and a later measure overhauling the unemployment insurance act, to urge other action to provide jobs and alleviate unemployment.

Immigration debate is certain to receive its charge last summer by the subcommittee of the Canadian Bar Association that the immigration department was guilty of virtually of "shocking" procedural practices in its handling of cases.

There has been speculation that the department's estimates will be referred to a parliamentary committee for study.

Normally, such scrutiny is given to the external affairs department and to the government's railway, canal and telegraph lines.

A committee on veterans' affairs also will be established.

SEE HOT RULES DEBATE

Extended argument is expected on whether to change some of the Commons' rules of procedure to speed its work. Prime Minister Saint-Laurent said it will bring forward proposals early in the session.

They may include reduction in the length of speeches and possibly will limit the duration of daily debates. The opposition might oppose such time-cutting and favor more flexible arrangement organization of its agenda.

Radio and television policies or the publicly-owned CBC likely will come under considerable study. A royal commission on TV operations will be made if the government accepts a recommendation of the Massey commission on the arts.

RAIL UNION PROBLEMS

Union problems in the way last summer's threat of a rail strike was averted by the government may be echoed in Parliament. The cabinet got the unions to agree to arbitration under the terms of emergency Parliament session that would have followed. Unions generally complained that they thereby were deprived of their strike weapon.

Wheat problems will be under discussion as well as a small crop has eased some marketing pressure, the remaining surplus and what's to be done about it will stir up debate.

Other opposition targets inevitably will include declines in trade, falling farm incomes, the size of Canada's contribution to the Colombo plan for development and government spending and taxing policies.

Presumably both sides of the Commons will be bringing in their own bills, most of them private members' measures without any hope of enactment but some of them productive of debate. Forty remained on the order paper at the close of the last session, and many will be revived.

TWO MAJOR SUBJECTS

Among the major ones are proposals:

1. By Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) to relieve Parliament of the time-consuming task of ruling on divorce cases from Quebec and Newfoundland, and turning these over to the Exchequer Court for decision.

2. By Donald M. Fleming (Conservative) to provide a distinctive Canadian flag.

Ottawa Journal Appoints Director

OTTAWA (CP)—Appointment of Ernest D. Gurman, 43, to the board of directors of the Journal Publishing Company of Ottawa was announced Wednesday by E. Norman Smith, president.

Mr. Gurman, from Montreal, has been production manager and mechanical superintendent of the Journal for the last two years.

Labor Federation Wants Action In Labor Disputes

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Federation of Labor (CCL) Wednesday accused the Ontario government of inviting "the collapse of its labor conciliation machinery."

In a press release, the 300,000-member organization said the decision of judges to decline further conciliation board chairmanships is not a situation born of a sudden decision of the federal government as Labor Minister Daley has tried to suggest. It has been brewing for a long time past."

Mr. Daley said Tuesday solution of about 23 labor disputes in the province has been delayed because of a new federal government attitude toward appointment of conciliation boards.

MAY GET INCREASES

The labor minister said Ottawa officials have indicated judges should not take outside jobs because they are about to receive salary increases.

(At Ottawa Wednesday, Justice Minister Garson said in a statement defining the federal position that, federal judges have full time duties as conciliators as chairmen of provincial labor conciliation boards.

(He also said that extra allowances judges receive for acting as conciliators "have no bearing upon the question of whether they should be paid what they should get an increase in salaries at the present time.")

The association said Mr. Daley consistently refused to expand the conciliation list to include more labor representatives.

"His preference in this way out by picking judges — often whether or not the particular judge had conciliation experience — for conciliating labor conciliation," the federation said.

It is Mr. Daley's incompetence, not the judges' decision or decisions, that is the root cause of Canada's major industrial province with no effective conciliation service in these most troubled times of labor-management negotiations" the federation statement said.

Cheque-Spending Spree Lands Teacher in Jail

PORT HURON, Mich. (AP) — A self-styled former Detroit teacher who was arrested on a bad cheque charge in connection with a cheque-spending spree police say took him through Ohio, Michigan and Ontario.

Charles J. Meyers, 28, was quoted by officers as saying, "I thought I was smart, but I guess I'm not. I've been caught in a nearby Sarnia bank.

Port Huron Police Capt. Virgil James said Meyers gave this account:

Dec. 30 he wrote nine cheques on a Bowling Green, Ohio, bank for $25, cashed three cheques in three Toledo banks, wrote $1,000 bank drafts on the Toledo banks to be deposited in London, Ont. There he deposited money in three banks, then crossed into Sarnia, a student.

He was attempting to cash a cheque in a Sarnia bank when a bank clerk recognized him from a police description and called authorities.

HAD CHEQUES

Police said Meyers had $7,000 worth of travellers' cheques with him when arrested.

Meyers will appear in municipal court at Port Huron Jan. 14 on a negative warrant charge, police said.

Officers said Meyers told them, "I don't know why I did it, but I thought it would be a quick way to make some easy money."

Meyers told police he had been a teacher in Detroit for a year and a half. He said he made spare money selling rare coins and stamps.

The Detroit board of education said Meyers taught a student in the city school system for a short time in 1948.

Suit Dismissed Against Railway

OSHAWA (CP) — An Oshawa lawyer said Wednesday it is a "ridiculous situation" when railway companies have to be responsible under common law for negligence in train crossing accidents.

John Greer was acting for Edmund Webber of Oshawa, suing the Ontario Railway Company for $172. Webber's car was involved in a level-crossing accident with an electric shunter.

The suit was dismissed on the grounds the plaintiff didn't prove there was any breach of statute, by-law or order made by the board of transport commissioners.

Stanley Waltzman, private in the U.S. army, of Brooklyn, N.Y., is shown with a picture of his jet plane, for which he had been granted a U.S. government patent. It is said to have a revolutionary jet engine, lighter and more powerful than any now in use, and combining the best features of the Ramjet and the Turbojet. His idea was said to be in direct opposition to the present trend toward more and more powerful engines. The young GI is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania. (Central Press Canadian).

Fish Resources of Great Slave Lake Will Be Steady for Years

OTTAWA (CP) — Great Slave lake in Canada's Northwest Territories is expected to continue yielding an annual catch of some 9,000,000 pounds of fresh water fish for years to come, it was announced Wednesday by scientists who have conducted 10 years of research into the resources of the lake, the province's largest producer of lake trout and whitefish.

Fifth largest and the deepest lake in North America, Great Slave covers an area of 11,070 miles from above Alberta's northern boundary. Much of its fish production finds a market in the United States.

Dr. W. A. Kenney, director of the central fisheries research station at Winnipeg, told the board of Great Slave lake in 1945 to prevent overfishing.

Fisheries Minister Sinclair said Wednesday Canada has one of the finest fisheries conservation programs in the world.

He said last year's record catches reflect good management.

Mr. Sinclair spoke after the board heard scientific reports on latest steps to develop and further conserve Canada's $100,000,000-a-year fishing industry.

The minister expressed satisfaction at the recently - concluded treaty with the United States for fisheries research in the Great Lakes aimed chiefly at eradication of the sea lamprey which infests stocks of commercial fish.

Ontario, he said, is given every assistance by the federal government in this research as have the various states contained in the U.S.

George R. Clark, recently appointed deputy minister of fisheries, stressed the importance of the application of scientific findings to Canada's fisheries program. He said there is a big job to be done in improving Great Lakes fisheries.

Weekly Papers Entering New Era Says Royal Bank

MONTREAL (CP)—An accolade for the man with the eye-shade and the ink-stained fingers, the weekly newspaper editor, was sounded Wednesday by the Royal Bank of Canada.

Something new has been added to the life of the weekly newspaper, so far removed in this atom age from its traditional arts of the cracker barrel and the pot-bellied stove.

The bank's monthly newsletter says:

"Use of weekly newspapers for advertising has been growing steadily, not only among local merchants but among concerns that advertise in all parts of the country. These national advertisers are realizing that the good coverage given local tradesmen would be equally good for them.

"This is not to say that the weekly paper is something new, but only that it is entering upon a new era, with advertising one of their agents showing new appreciation of its worth."

CIRCULATION BOOM

Canada's 963 weekly newspapers have a combined circulation of 2,- 500,000, the bank reports. Some distribute a few hundred copies every week, while others have a circulation in the thousands. The growth of suburban communities was a boon to weeklies.

An article written by William H. Chamberlin, Moscow correspondent of the Wall Street Journal, in the Free Press Herald, is quoted to show that the average paper reaches a family of four persons. Weekly Newspapers Association covers 82 per cent of the population in its trade area.

The newsletter says: "There are few fortunetimes among the 533 publishers who are members of the CWNA, which is celebrating its silver jubilee this year. Most of them have been at it for the duration of its town.

W. Telfer, managing director of the CWNA, is quoted as writing:

"If someone asked me to list the qualities of a successful editor I would give readership the prime position. Any paper if it is to be influential must not only have subscribers—it must have subscribers who read it thoroughly.

"My own opinions and those of many readers and publishers with whom I have talked, make it appear that the weekly newspaper is perhaps a better claim to this criterion of worth than other newspapers."

Slippery Streets Cause of Two Deaths in Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Slippery streets, wet from rain, brought two fatalities in Toronto traffic Wednesday as parts of south-ern Ontario traffic slithered on icy highways brought by the change in the weather.

James Sutherland, 53, was struck by a streetcar on a slippery Toronto street Wednesday and died on the way to hospital.

Earlier, Peter N. Earwaker, 17, of Toronto, was hit when his motorcycle skidded on wet pavement and rammed into a parked car.

In other parts of southern Ontario a mixture of rain, freezing and sleet fell.

At least six transport trucks and several cars overturned on the ice glazed No. 401 highway in the Whitby-Oshawa area. Traffic was slowed for more than an hour.

Police said road condition in the area was the worst in many years, because of freezing rain. Police were, however, but few injuries were reported.

The forecast for this afternoon was cloudy in most parts of Ontario with occasional snow in eastern Lake Ontario region.

Saskatchewan Will Celebrate 50th Anniversary of Founding

By WILL CHISLETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

REGINA (CP) — Saskatchewan this month lights candles for a birthday party which organizers hope will be the biggest celebration in the history of the west.

The province's first year observes its 50th anniversary. Along with Alberta, which also is celebrating its entry into Confederation, Saskatchewan has planned a full year of festivities.

There will be pageants, dramas, musicals, new province-wide sports and conventions. Government and state officials will open golf clubs and all Canada will be invited to take a searching look at the province's progress and problems in lecturing potentials.

Major celebrations will be held during summer months with much of the activities concentrated on Saskatchewan Day, a week-end of provincial and international gatherings. In addition, an equal number of Saskatchewan organizations are expected to place commemorative events on the jubilee and plans have been made for community celebrations.

Highlights of the year will include a province-wide historic pageant, a jubilee day in all Saskatchewan schools, the opening of a $600,000 provincial museum in Regina and the $10,- 000,000 University of Saskatchewan, and special pageants in Regina and Saskatoon.

Saskatchewan has been preparing for the birthday for nearly two years. About 3,000 persons are actively engaged, working under eight sub-committees comprising 200 employees set up by the provincial government.

Meetings have been held in recent months in most communities to bring about the participation of civic governments, clubs and churches. The celebrations are expected to cost the government about $500,000.

The actual anniversary, declared a public holiday, will be marked July 20 although the proper date is Sept. 1. The earlier date has significance because it was the day rural assent was given to the province entering Confederation. July 17 has been marked as the birthday.

History will be the central part of observances. Saskatchewan hopes to draw students for the year by delving into the past and adding up its accomplishments.

A television writer has been commissioned to write a new history of the province. School students this year start on individual histories of their neighborhoods which will be used as the basis of the best compilation in many years. About 20,000 former residents of Saskatchewan have been invited to holiday in the province, because of freezing rain. Police were, however, but few injuries were reported.

The forecast for this afternoon was cloudy in most parts of Ontario with occasional snow in eastern Lake Ontario region.

Grocers in Favor Of Selling Beer

VANCOUVER (CP)—More than 200 guests of some 320 British Columbia grocery store operators here Wednesday at the Retail Merchants' Association are in favor of selling beer and wine in their stores.

The poll is to determine the opinion of delegates to the 46th annual permitting beer and wine sales in food stores.

Chiefs of 18 Railway Unions Resent Forced Arbitration, Seek New Bargaining Methods

MONTREAL (CP) — The chiefs of 18,000 railway union members go into a closed-door huddle today armed with a handful of suggestions and a basketful of protests over what they term the loss of the right to strike action.

It is the third straight day of secret discussions for representatives of 18 major railway unions. The bone of contention: What they believe to be the federal government's refusal to permit the unions to tie up Canada's rail network or seriously threaten to strike to back up contract demands.

After what is reported to be an angry-toned discussion Wednesday, a 14-man committee was named to sort out proposals and present them late today to the general conference in the form of a legislative "new deal" for Canada's rail unions.

OPPOSE COMPULSION

Frank H. Hall, chairman of the unions' negotiating committee, said after Wednesday's meeting that the delegates are "unalterably opposed to any form of compulsory arbitration" and that the federal government "forcing" such arbitration on them.

Mr. Hall said the main purpose of today's meeting will be to "formulate some constructive" than that contained in the Industrial Relations Act to aid the railroads and railways to discuss contracts on the federal government's new Newspapers Association covers 82 per cent of the population in its trade area.

The newsletter says: "There are few fortunetimes among the 533 publishers who are members of the CWNA, which is celebrating its silver jubilee this year. Most of them have been at it for the duration of its town.

Twins Top Class With Equal Marks For Second Time

SYDNEY, Australia (CP)—Nine-year-old identical twin boys have topped their class with equal marks for the second time at their school at Vaucluse, Sydney.

They are Peter and Brian Hartley. Their father said: "In all their school years and in their first year at university, they have never been more than two marks apart.

This year in fourth class they tied for the third time and came top of the boys' class. This is the second time they have been top of the class. Their marks for individual subjects also were the same or always adds up to the same or nearly the same.

Their father said the boys have been equal in height and weight from the start. They play the same games and hold the same scout badges.

Fluorinating City Water Will Be Asked by Sarnia

SARNIA (CP)—City health officer Dr. Gordon Anderson says he will recommend fluorinating city water to the next council meeting.

Dr. Anderson says a nine-year test here has convinced him there is "no possible alternative" to the use of fluorine as a means to help combat tooth decay, especially in children.

Sarnia is one of three Ontario cities where a survey has been under way since 1948 to determine the incidence of dental disease among school-age children and the effect of fluorine on teeth. The other two are Brantford and Stratford.

Newfoundland's Communications Being Improved

By STEWART MacLEOD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Transportation and communications are major projects in Newfoundland.

During the last five years nearly 600 miles of highway have been pushed through the province, 15,- 000 telephone subscribers have been added and 4,000 miles of copper wire strung along telegraph poles.

But along most of the rugged 6,000-mile coastline fishermen still depend on the radio and coastal boat as they carve their own fish in the seclusion of bays and inlets, hoarding it on St. John's-bound schooners for marketing. Only on the Avalon peninsula, where one-third of the population is concentrated, is fish sent to St. John's in ice.

BIG IMPROVEMENT

Roads, through scattered settlements help fishermen haul their fish to loading piers. New wharves and breakwaters, many built by the federal government, enable larger ships to come into port.

There is no official estimate on how much all this has cost, but Premier Smallwood says it's "over $100,000,000."

"But," he adds, "the improvement is worth it."

During the last 10 years the number of cars in Newfoundland has increased from 4,043 to 22,947, and in the same period commercial vehicles have risen from 2,182 from 2,033.

There is no accurate record of snowmobiles in Newfoundland, but the premier says "the increase is fantastic."

"If ever an airplane was made for country, he said, "it was Newfoundland."

"And if ever a helicopter was made for one country it was Newfoundland. Put the snowmobile and Newfoundland fell in love at first sight."

The airplane, and even the helicopter, play a vital transportation role here. Among the single-engine aircraft of Eastern Provincial Airways, carrying mail and passengers to outlying districts when it always been considered a godsend by fishermen stricken with illness or sick person requires hospital treatment. If an aircraft can't land, the provincial department of fisheries sends one of its two chartered helicopters.

Although telephone and telegraph lines are moving into more districts the extension of outport communication is still the radio. Many fishermen have standard broadcast, free of charge, personal messages for people who write or telegraph the stations.

Hammarskjold And Chou Talk About Flyers

TOKYO (AP) — Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold of the United Nations met with Premier Chou En-lai andpresumably went right to the point of his visit to Peiping this week by way around the world—the 11 American airmen the Reds convicted of espionage.

Peiping radio made the briefest acknowledgement of the meeting, saying only that Hammarskjold met Chou both personally and foreign minister, at 3 p.m. The broadcast pointedly omitted any word on the purpose of Hammarskjold's trip.

It was the first face-to-face meeting between Chou and Hammarskjold. They first met Wednesday today the UN official paid a courtesy call shortly after his arrival. Chou's guests met again at a cocktail party and then at dinner Wednesday night.

DOWN TO BUSINESS

Hammarskjold advised UN headquarters in New York Wednesday that he planned a formal meeting with Chou today. He indicated that he expected to get right down to business.

Sources have said Hammarskjold expects to find up the conversations with the Chinese Communists this weekend and head back to the United States via Tokyo.

Peiping said Hammarskjold was accompanied by Arvid S. Bohlart, UN undersecretary; Per Lind Hammarskjold's executive assistant and Humphrey Waldock, British professor of international law

Four Polish Refugees Facing Blasphemy Counts

NEW BRITAIN, Conn. (AP)—A man who exhibited wounds in his hands and feet and claimed he was Jesus Christ was among four Polish refugees facing blasphemy charges in city court today. All four claim to be 2,000 years old.

Police said that when they arrested John Tachajdinski, 50, Wednesday he was wearing a crown of thorns, causing him to bleed from the head, and was garbed in a loincloth fashioned from a diaper.

A seven-foot wooden cross with four spikes was found in his kitchen.

Arrested with him were Mieczyslaw Malewski, 38, who, police said, was wearing a black robe and had a long beard; and two women, Antonina Suszko and Dina Karasowicz, about 30. Police said all four were displaced persons from Poland and lived in the same tenement.

They are not known to be members of any religious sect here.

Will Ferry Orenda Sabres To Europe

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCAF soon will start ferrying new Orenda Sabre jet fighters to its air division in Europe.

The new planes are the Mark VI Sabres now being turned out by Canadair Ltd. at Montreal.

The operation will start almost before the last division's conversion to the comparatively new Mark V Sabres is complete.

The chief change in the Sabre VI is an improved Orenda engine, giving the fighter better all-round combat performance.

Defence officials rate the Orenda Sabre as the best aircraft of its type in operational use today—and, in fact, they have postponed a decision on a possible successor.

The Mark VI Sabres will be taken across the Atlantic in mass flights of about 12 planes by No. 1 Overseas Ferry Unit at Montreal. The operation will begin in a few weeks.

Seventy Suspects Questioned In Remon Slaying

PANAMA (AP)—Panama police today held 70 suspected United States citizen incommunicado for connection with Sunday's slaying of President Jose Antonio Remon as they questioned at least 78 suspects in the gang-style murder.

Police said they picked up Martin Irving Lipstein, tentatively described as a school teacher from New York, at the airport 36 hours after Remon and two other men were shot down at Juan Franco race track. Three others were wounded in the crossfire between the assassins and Remon's bodyguard.

Authorities said they had released another U. S. citizen who lives in Panama City.

Police were tight-lipped about Lipstein, but reliable sources said tests made of the American's clothing showed traces of gunpowder.

Informants said police became suspicious of Lipstein because of his unkempt appearance and his told he could not leave Panama because outgoing flights had been cancelled.

Oliver States Hydro Costs Getting Too High

ORILLIA (CP)—Ontario Liberal leader Farquhar Oliver said Wednesday night Ontario Hydro costs are "becoming prohibitive."

Addressing an East Simcoe Liberal meeting which unanimously named D. Smith Campbell of Oro to contest the riding in the next provincial election, Mr. Oliver said:

"In the days of Sir Adam Beck, Hydro was born on the concept of power at cost. We're still getting power at cost, but the only thing wrong with the picture is the cost factor which is becoming prohibitive."

Mr. Oliver criticized chairman Robert Saunders' management of the Ontario hydro commission and the cost of commission publicity.

"At last count, Mr. Saunders had 194 publicity men employed in the commission to sell Hydro to people at a cost of over $1,000,000 a year," he said. "I could understand the need for expensive publicity if the Hydro had competitors, but it has an absolute monopoly in the distribution of power in this province."

NEED "REPLACING"

The Liberal leader attacked Ontario's Progressive Conservative government as "old men who need replacing."

"Eleven years ago," he said, "we elected the Tory government. That was a mistake and 11 years later we are just finding it out.

"Eleven years ago the Conservatives were young men with young ideas, now they are old men who need replacing. There are a far cry from the government we elected in 1943."

In a reference to the resignation Wednesday of provincial Highways Minister Doucett and the appointment of James N. Allan, 52, of Dunnville, to replace him, Mr. Oliver added:

"Today when they need a new man for the department of highways they have to get a man 60 years of age."

STIMULATES MONKEYS

LONDON (CP) — The monkey cages at Regent's Park zoo are fitted with infra-red lamps this winter. Officials say the lamps "stimulate the appetite and activity of animals."

Hurricane Hazel Uncovers Ruins Of Old Village

OAKVILLE (CP)—Nature has excavated traces of a village that thrived in the valley of 16-Mile creek here until it was abandoned a century ago.

Evidences of the former river community, known first as the 16 Village and later as Proudfoot's Hollow, was uncovered when two youths, Edgarand Donald Bradley of Trafalgar township, were investigating hurricane damage along the wide flats of the creek north of the Dundas highway bridge, about 15 miles west of Toronto.

They found that waves which pounded the valley during hurricane Hazel had exposed a 15-foot section of stonework.

Records show the stone is part of a 200-yard mill race which brought water downstream to a grist mill around which the village grew.

STILT MILL

A Scottish immigrant, George Chalmers, built the valley mill in 1837, the same year Oakville was founded. Other Scots set up shop on the broad flats of the creek and shipped flour and timber downstream to the Oakville harbor.

Traders remained in the village 30 years more. Then, in 1860, as business declined, one by one, they closed shop and dispersed, abandoning the village.

Question Slayer About Robbery

SIMCOE (CP)—Two New York state police officers visited Norfolk county jail Wednesday to question Jerry Simmons, 47, of Syracuse, N.Y., about a robbery with violence in New York state in 1953. Simmons is to be hanged next month for murder.

The two officers later left for home without commenting on their interview.

Simmons and Joe Glen Lotharp, 23, of Detroit were convicted last November of murder in the axe-slaying of Bruno Beatty of nearby Renton. They are under sentence to be hanged Feb. 2.

Secretary Says Tax Evasion Not Widespread

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. A. D. Kelly, general secretary of the Canadian Medical Association, says he doubts income tax evasion is widespread among the association's 10,000 members across Canada.

He made the statement Tuesday in connection with a report that a special check is being made of records of Toronto doctors and lawyers suspected of falsifying their tax returns. Income tax officials said, however, that the job of checking returns is a continuing one and no special drive is being made at present.

"In any group there may be individual instances of tax evasion but the level of honesty (in our association) is high," said Dr. Kelly. "Exceptions are likely to be due to the complexity of accounting procedures or to preoccupation with the professional care of patients.

"The profession has always cooperated with the department of national revenue in rendering detailed returns of income from professional means and other sources. The complexities of accounting by self-employed taxpayers are very much greater than those which apply to the salaried taxpayer."

SEA-LAND EXERCISE

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—A joint United States Navy-marine amphibious training exercise involving nearly 20,000 men and about 30 ships will get under way in Carolina bean waters early this month, the Atlantic amphibious force announced Tuesday. Following two months of rehearsal landings, the forces will climax the exercise with a full-scale beach assault in early March.

Hope to Avert General Rail Strike in Britain

LONDON (CP)—Hopes of averting a general rail strike in Britain rose today with a report from a government fact-finding investigation that the rail workers have a case for a "critical re-examination" of wages scales.

The report raised immediate hopes that leaders of the 400,000-member National Union of Railwaymen might postpone or cancel the strike called for Sunday midnight, but preparations still went ahead to meet any possible crisis.

Should the strike go into effect, not a train would run in Britain. A big and intricate system called "the busiest railroad in the world" would stand still "in a country which cannot live without transportation."

But publication of the report, which highlighted the rail workers' case, may cause leaders of the NUR to reconsider their strike decision.

UNION CRITICIZED

The report said it wished to avoid prejudicing future negotiations, but held there is ground for looking into the wage structure "particularly in grades of higher responsibility."

The report also criticized the union, which called the strike 15 days ago, for its conduct during negotiations.

Urging the resumption of talks "with a sense of urgency" the three members of the court recommended that the union should withdraw strike orders so that negotiations would not take place under duress.

Over $3 Million In Contracts Let

OTTAWA (CP) — Public works contracts valued at $3,122,363 were awarded in December, including one for a federal building in North Bay.

The department said today in a statement the value of contracts for new works amounted to $2,-336,518, for repair and maintenance of existing structures $738,482 and for dredging $38,250.

The North Bay contract, for $1-361,986 was awarded to Bennett-Pratt Limited, Weston, Ont.

A $619,247 contract for forest research and accomodation buildings at Petawawa was awarded to M. Sullivan and Son Limited, Arnprior.

National League Players Sprout Wings As Referees Carry Out Orders

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

UP AND COMING!

This department has always had a profound respect for the puck-chasing abilities of the Whitby Wrens. In fact the club that swept through to the Ontario senior "B" championship last year to make it two in a row for "us down-easters" after the Kingston Goodyears inaugurated this championship habit, were one of our nominees for the four-team group playoff aspirants. You can guess the identity of the other three.

We are not "soft-soaping" Wren Blair for his blast the other day. In fact it appears the old adage: "It's an ill wind that does not dry somebody's washing," seems to hold good. For these Wrens have, it appears, taken the bit in their teeth and with no concern whatever for the feelings of the rest of the loop, have taken off on a win-spree that should make our pre-season prognostication correct.

Take last night. The Clinton Comets, who it seems, also have eyes on one of these playoff berths, and demonstrated their intentions by handing the Cornwall Colts their second defeat on home ice last Sunday, bowed to the Wrens by a 5-1 score up there in Whitby. That gives the Blair bunch areas an even keel with our Memos in the third slot in the loop.

All of which is in keeping with the uncertainty of a group that has at least six teams of matched ability with the seventh a distinct threat to playoff ideas of the rest of the pack.

And again all of which means that the Comets who play our side here tomorrow night will be out for victory come hook or high water. The Comets are no pushovers and the Memos will have to be on their best puck behavior to grab the laurels. As that lady fan remarked to us the other night after that Peterborough debacle: "Please don't write in your column the Memos got another bad game off their chests, they got the worst one over."

STOUT FELLAS!

Experience proved too much for Bill Gashi's fallast junior squad in their bassle with the powerful Point Anne team in a Trent Valley Hockey League game here last night. The youngsters held the Or Painters to a two-all tie in the first period, then the steet attacks of the down-east club proved too much for the youakers and they were forced to bow to superior strength. However the kids came up with a fine effort and observers state the score did not indicate the difference between the clubs. 'Tis a long season, however, and both clubs appear to be outstanding representatives of this part of the league widespread activities.

DO IT NOW!

In hospitals of the country today there are kiddies and others who have plenty of time on their hands. They turn this time to pleasant activities, one of which is the cutting and re-designing of old Christmas cards. If you are finished with some of those you received, why not drop them into the box placed for the purpose in Paul Mercier's Front Street Jewellery store. Paul and the staff will be glad to get them and will see they are forwarded to the proper people for distribution to the sick kiddies and oldsters. 'Tis a fine gesture on the part of Mr. Mercier and he deeply appreciates the co-operation of folks like you and me and the rest of us in providing some recreation for people less fortunate.

MUSCLE GAL!

Jackie MacDonald, the blonde, easy-to-look-at high school teacher-athlete who was disqualified from competing in the British Empire Games at Vancouver last summer because her nationality was on an Adenoid, says she is setting out to become the strongest woman in the world.

She plans to get her five-foot-10-inch frame into top condition for the 1956 Olympic games in a rigorous schedule of muscle building that will add 30 pounds to her present 160 well-distributed pounds.

Jackie, at 32, wants to become the world's shot-put champ and to do this she must beat out the Russians. The Russian women athletes at present are acknowledged the world's strongest. And they're the world's champion women shot-put competitors.

So Jackie has embarked on a program of weight-lifting and gymnastics under coach Lloyd Percival that she hopes will make her stronger and enable her to throw farther by 1956.

Right now Jackie can toss the shot 44 feet 10 inches, but Percival figures she has to be able to make close to 50 feet to beat the Russian girls.

Jackie's program calls for 12 hours of gym workouts each week. She has one consolation, she can pack away 8,000 calories a day compared with the average woman's diet of about 2,600 calories.

BUSY WEEK-END

The see-saw kids of the senior "B" group, Kingston Goodyears and Cornwall Colts, go at each other's throats in Cornwall tonight in another battle for the top-rung of the ladder. At the moments the Goodies are in possession with 33 points with the Colts breathing sizzlingly down their necks with 32. The teams kept pace this week with victories over the Brockville Kingsdomes. As was said before the Whitby Wrens and the Belleville Memos are tied for third slot with 28 points each, with Brockville and Clinton all even in the next slot with 23 points each. The Foies, by virtue of their victory over our side this week now boast 24 points. Whitby faces a tough task tomorrow night when they meet Brockville in the downeast city, while the Memos tangle with Clinton here. Saturday night the Colts go right back at Kingston in the Limestone City—and brothers that should be one for the book. On Sunday, Whitby goes to Cornwall with Brockville the guests of Clinton.

Demure Boston Bruins Edge Bashful Leafs in 2-1 Fray; Chihawks Nudge Rangers 3-2

By The Canadian Press

The National Hockey League isn't famed for the gentlemanliness of its performers, but the league's latest orders to officials may already have bowed down the roughhouse antics of the hot-tempered.

NHL referees were told Tuesday to call the plays closely to eliminate unnecessary rough stuff and Wednesday night in Toronto the indications were that the players, too, have been told of the latest edict.

Boston Bruins nipped Toronto Maple Leafs 2-1 in the game, a free-wheeling affair that lacked the usual rough boarding, high-sticking offences and probing elbows.

Referee Bill Chadwick called the game cleanly and with 16 minor penalties, eight to each club.

HAWKS MOVED UP

In New York, the revamped Chicago Black Hawks took a 3-2 victory over Rangers that moved them within five points of fifth-place Rangers.

Highflinger Leo Labine scored at 13:04 of the third period to give Boston their win over Leafs before 13,019 fans at Toronto.

SMITH TIED SCORE

Centre Don McKenney, who set up Labine with the game-winning goal, scored the other Boston marker in the first period. Sid Smith, Leafs' leading scorer, tied it 1-1 before the end of the period. The victory was Bruins' 12th in 33 games.

Rangers looked like they were on their way to the seventh win in their last eight home appearances when Jerry Toppazzini broke up the game between Rangers and New York.

Toppazzini fired in a pass from Johnny McCormack at 18:33 of the final period and Hawks held off Rangers' desperate bid to tie it up.

Bill Gadsby had given Rangers a lead midway in the first period only to have George (Red) Sullivan even the count while the Broadway Blues were a man short. McCormack gave Hawks the lead for the first time at 9:41 of the second.

Larry Popein tapped in Rangers' second goal at 17:10 of the third session.

Sid Smith of Toronto and George Sullivan of Chicago each scored a goal in Wednesday night's National Hockey League action to move back into the list of top scorers in the league.

The big guns were idle, however, and the standings of the top six marksmen remained unchanged. The Montreal Canadiens, idle on Wednesday, continued to dominate the race, with five players near the top.

Big Parade Of Golfers In Rich Tourney

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Golf's richest, most parade of tournaments gets under way today with 133 professionals heading into the first round of the $32,500 Los Angeles open at the Inglewood Country Club.

Starting a procession of 15 tournaments lined for the winter tour, the field was loaded with proven talent and a host of the young and hungry—all taking dead aim at the $5,000 top money in the LA open proper, with its $25,000 pot.

Fifteen women professionals, playing in threesomes sprinkled throughout the field of males, seek first money of $1,000 in their separate $5,000 purse.

The sum of $2,500 was paid out Wednesday to winners in a pro-amateur warmup for the big show.

SOME PROMINENT

Opinion was divided as to the probable winner of the Open. But first mention of Gene Littler of Palm Springs, Calif., Doug Ford of Kissimmee, Fla., N.Y., and E. J. (Dutch) Harrison were prominent in speculation.

Professional winners in the precelebrity event Wednesday were Al Buenechea, Montevideo, N.Y., Jay Hebert, Long Island, N.Y., and Max Evans, Utica, Mich. Each won $616.

Bezzelak and Hebert each had a best ball of 71 with rookie Bob Robert Wagner, motion picture star who was playing in his first tournament.

Baseball's Leo Durocher of the New York Giants teamed with Tom Demaret and Cary Middlecoff for best ball scores of 72, while manager Chuck Dressen of the Washington Senators had a 68 with pro Marty Furgol and a 70 with Harrison.

Junior Coaches Stewart, Bush Draw Suspensions

TORONTO (CP)—Two hockey coaches were suspended Wednesday night and three players fined as a result of fights in Tuesday's game between Kitchener-Waterloo Canucks and Guelph Biltmores in Kitchener.

Canucks and Biltmores set a season record of 103 minutes in penalties in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A league, most of them handed out following a fight just before the second period ended.

Bill Hanley, OHA business manager, announced Jack Stewart, Kitchener coach, and Eddie Bush of Guelph, will be suspended for the next three games.

Bill McCreary and Wimpy Robertis of Guelph and Ted McAuliff of Kitchener were each fined $10.

The brawl broke out when Tom McCarthy of Guelph and Irwin Spencer of Canucks started sparring with five seconds left in the period. Within two seconds every-body on the ice was fighting and assistants went out from the bench.

Hanley said the coaches were suspended because the OHA held them partially responsible for players leaving the bench.

HEAVY LOAD

LONDON (CP)" — Smoke-abatement officials estimate 30 tons of grit per square mile fell on one district in Lambeth borough during last July.

Powder-Puff Puckists Play

GUELPH (CP) — The powder-puff puckisters took over Memorial Gardens here Wednesday night and staged three hockey games. Hamilton posted 1-0 victories over Kitchener and Guelph and Brampton blanked Waterloo 3-0.

The evening was staged as an introductory session for the teams which hope to form a ladies' hockey league. Hamilton came back to play Guelph in the final game when Ayr was unable to appear.

Brampton, led by defencewoman Lois Strong, completely outplayed Waterloo, Lois tallied Brampton's first goal early in the first and Shirley Hignell added the second goal midway in the second frame.

Nan Lazenby scored for Hamilton against Kitchener with only 10 seconds remaining in their game.

Pearl Hickingbottom scored the only goal of the Hamilton-Guelph game with Gladys Herme picking up an assist.

May Conduct Senatorial Drive Against Boxing 'Racketeering'

By Herb Altschull

WASHINGTON (AP)—There's a "strong possibility" a U.S. Senate committee this year will conduct a drive against racketeering in boxing much along the lines of the crime hearings by the Kefauver committee five years ago.

That was the word today from Senator Warren Magnuson (Dem., Wash.), an ardent sports fan who quarterbacked the University of Washington Rose Bowl team in 1918.

Magnuson said in an interview he is giving serious consideration to conducting such hearings in his new role as chairman of the Senate commerce committee.

"First I want to discuss the situation with other senators and get their views," Magnuson said. "But I know there is a strong possibility we will take a good look at boxing to see if we can turn up evidence of organized racketeering."

Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem.-Tenn.), wrote Magnuson this week urging him to look into the possibility of an investigation of boxing.

Magnuson said he has been interested in boxing for a long time and has long been concerned over what he termed invasion of the sport by "racketeers and other shady characters."

Pro boxing is having troubles these days with the U.S. department of justice, which is seeking to have the sport declared to be in the realm of inter-state commerce.

The Supreme Court is considering a justice department case brought against the International Boxing Clubs of New York and Chicago.

Should boxing be ruled in the province of inter-state commerce, the way would be cleared for federal regulation.

'Sugar Ray' Flashes Old-Time Form In Sixth-Round KO of Joe Rindone

By JOE FALLS

DETROIT (CP)—For 10 exciting seconds, it was the Sugar Ray Robinson of old—swift, sharp and deadly.

In that brief burst Wednesday night, the former middleweight champion swarmed over Joe Rindone of Boston and scored a knockout at 1:37 of the sixth round to start his comeback.

As a howling crowd of 11,971 urged him on, Robinson floored the inept, confused Rindone with a flashing series of lefts and rights that made one wonder why Sugar Ray ever left the ring in the first place.

But, before that, the sleek New Yorker was cautious and uncertain, showing obvious signs of his 30-month layoff.

"I was satisfied with my showing," Robinson said in his dressing room. "Even though my conditions weren't working, I at least had an opportunity to try them.

BECAME A THREAT

Robinson was stung into action when Rindone, who did little more than huff and puff through the first five rounds, landed a solid left and right to the face. It was the most serious gesture of the non-believed fighter.

Robinson tore after his retreating, 28-year-old opponent, clubbing him with six, seven, eight blows to the head and body. A roundhouse right sent Rindone sprawling to the canvas.

The crowd, largest in Olympia Stadium since June, 1953, went wild.

Robinson's two managers said they had made no definite plans for the future. However, two dates are available if Sugar Ray wants them Jan. 19th in the Chicago Stadium, or Feb. 3 back in Detroit.

Mazur, Moore On Trade Block

MONTREAL (CP) — Managing director Frank Selke of Montreal Canadiens said Wednesday that left-wingers Dickie Moore and Ed Mazur are on the trading block—for left-wingers.

Selke said Canadiens were out to "strengthen at left wing and we are willing to make a deal for either of them, preferably Moore."

Moore has been something of a problem because of a various assortment of injuries that have beset him, although this season he has played in 36 of 39 games.

Mazur, a native of Winnipeg, came to Canadiens from Victoria of the Western Canada League.

Mazur has played in 22 games and has failed to score. He has four assists.

Columbus May 'Go' International

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Decision on Columbus' entry into the International League baseball circuit will be made known Friday morning, it was announced Wednesday. The franchise now is held by Ottawa.

A group of Columbus business men have been negotiating for the league franchise. Columbus was left without a baseball club when St.—Louis Cardinals transferred Columbus Redbirds of the American Association to Omaha. Kansas City Athletics own the Ottawa club.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—As a sort of afterthought, New York Giants announced Wednesday they had signed an outfielder named Don Mossler for the 1955 season. Incidentally, someone in the world championship organization got to president Horace Stoneham and convinced him that Willie Mays, great as he is, will need a little help in the coming campaign.

As we like to reconstruct it, the conversation between Stoneham, speaking from his winter home at Phoenix, and his assistant here in New York, of contracts must have run about like this. Horace, still dreaming of that catch Mays made in the first game of the world series, was a little irritated at having his favorite reverie interrupted.

"If it isn't important," we hear him say, "don't bother me. I've got important things on my mind."

SOMETHING FOR DON

"But, boss," pleads our contract man, "don't you think we ought to be doing something about Mueller? I was thinking maybe we might even give him a little raise. He's due a real good season."

"A raise! what'd that guy do to deserve a raise? I thought I told you if there were going to be any raises give 'em to Willie."

"You did, boss, and we've already given him a good one. But Don's going to notice, if he doesn't do it on, for Maybe you didn't notice, but he was out there in right field every day, and he didn't hurt us at all. Did you realize he got seven hits in the series?"

"If he did they must've been pretty little hits. I know that Willie hit 41 homers for us during the season and I'd like to know how many this guy you're talking about got."

"He only got four all year. But he got 213 hits, which was more than any other batter in the league. and he struck out only 47 times. He finished with an average only three points back of Willie's .345 mark. He's a class by himself, of course. But I just thought maybe you'd like to reward Don for catching a few balls that Willie couldn't quite get to. He got us three a lot, too, so Willie could knock him in."

"Well (somewhat mollified), if you really feel that way, go ahead and give this Millard, or whatever his name is, a little hike."

P.S.—The metropolitan press, obviously as ignorant about Mueller's worth as was Stoneham, estimated that the mysterious outfielder will receive anywhere from $20,000 to $25,000 for his services next season. They agree only that he is 27 and might have a fine career ahead of him if he keeps out of Willie's way on fly balls.

Indians Scalp Niagara 13-3 In Senior Tilt

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Roth-Flick Flanagan line sparked Kitchener Indians to a whopping 13-3 victory over Niagara Falls Cataracts Wednesday night and take a 2-0 Ontario Hockey Association Senior A game.

The line scored six goals and had eight assists to help the Indians bump their Niagara opponents into Canadian Marconas.

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen moved into a two-point first place lead by defeating Owen Sound Mercurys 7-3 at Kitchener. Windsor Bulldogs scored a goal with 38 seconds of play left to beat Chatham Maroons 4-3 at Chatham.

Mickey Roth, Stratford captain, picked up five points on one goal and four assists. Dinny Flanagan scored three goals and collected one assist. Billy Flick scored two goals and three assists.

DELEGRIO STAR

Herve Delgorio scored twice and the other seven counters by Ron Ingram, Johnny Muretich, Fratka, Hurst and Levesque.

Ed Plate scored two goals for the Cataracts and Eddie Mulligan added the third.

The Dutchmen had a wide margin of play in the first two periods before Owen Sound got the edge. Owen Sound beat them 3-1 in the second.

Bud Kemp counted twice for the winners. Jack McKenzie, Jack Hamilton, Ron Laufman, Joe Schertzl and Jim Logan counted the others. Ron Ingram, Burlington, Verne Gardiner and Bill McComb scored for the Mercs.

Ted O'Connor's goal with less than a minute to go gave Bulldogs their victory. Leroy Gee, Jim Peters and Reg Abbott scored the others. Frank Kerr, Ken Schmidt and Eddie Busch counted the Chatham goals.

Windsor at Chatham Friday and Owen Sound at Niagara Falls.

Rich Ferguson May Race Santee

MONTREAL (CP) — Officials of the Quebec Track and Field Association said Wednesday they will see what can be done about getting Rich Ferguson, Canada's top miler, and Wes Santee, the American ace, in competition at an indoor meet.

The subject was discussed Tuesday night at a meeting which set April 30 for the eastern Canada indoor track championships at the Montreal Forum.

Chairman Bob McIntosh said a committee will try to get Ferguson and Santee—although both may have engagements in the United States around the time of the Montreal meet.

Chan Caldwell, Drawling Southerner, Named Coach Ottawa Rough Riders

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa Rough Riders have chosen Chan Caldwell, a drawling, 225-pound southerner who favors the split-T formation, as coach for the next two Big Four football seasons.

Rider president Dave Gill announced the choice of the 34-year-old line coach at the University of Tennessee Wednesday night. He said Caldwell was given a two-year contract, but didn't add what the salary is.

"Just say both Mr. Caldwell and the Ottawa club are well satisfied," he said.

As for Caldwell, said he: "Am I happy? There's really no other way I could feel. I'm tickled to death at getting the job."

Caldwell, a halfback and end at Tennessee in his playing days, replaces Clem Crowe, who resigned at the end of last season after four years with Ottawa. The Riders won two of their 14 games last year.

Rough Rider officials had interviewed four other applicants for the job before Caldwell arrived here Tuesday night.

The other candidates were Joe Bach, former coach of Pittsburgh Steelers in the United States National Football League; Wally Ziegler who since has lost his job as head coach of Wayne Univer sity; Ben Martin, line and backfield coach at Northwestern University, and Herb Rich, coach at Edmonton Eskimos in the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

On his graduation from Tennessee in 1948, Caldwell was drafted by the now defunct Brooklyn Dodgers of the NFL and signed with them, but never played professional football.

"Got a chance to coach at Furman (Univ. in Greenville, N.C.)," Caldwell explained. "Spent a year at Furman and then went to Tennessee as an assistant coach and have been there for the past six years."

Bisons' Goalie Rage Of American League

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hank Bassen, rookie goaltender of the lowly Buffalo Bisons is rapidly becoming the rage of the American Hockey League.

The 26-year-old red haired lad, who recently had a three-game tryout with the Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League, recorded his third shutout of the season Wednesday night as Bisons blanked Pittsburgh Hornets 2-0.

In the only other game, Providence Reds moved into a three-way tie for second place by defeating Cleveland Barons 3-1.

Bassen, who leads the league in shutouts, has permitted 108 goals in 33 games for an average of 3.36. The victory moved the defending champions to within seven points of the league-leading Springfield Indians.

Jean Gamble, a former Montreal Canadien, tallied two second period goals for the Bisons. The victory was the first for the former over Hornets on Buffalo ice.

Paul Larivee scored first for the Reds and John McLennan tied it up for Cleveland in the first period. But then Pete Expozito tallied the winning marker late in the same period as Providence moved into the deadlock with Cleveland and Pittsburgh.

The 'Nose Knows' Says Rocky's Boss

NEW YORK (AP)—Rocky Marciano plans to make a few appearances in exhibition bouts to test his nose before he makes up his mind about an April or June defence of his world heavyweight title.

Manager Al Weill said Wednesday night that Rocky will begin preliminary training Sunday, he added:

"If the nose (cut in the second fight with Ezzard Charles) is all right, then we'll make definite plans. I'd like to have him fight twice this year."

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON

Reviewed by

In the course of your checkered bridge career you find life in every position. No opening bid up to four or five is too lazy to get a workout or some kind somewhere. It is so with a four bid.

Mrs. Knittingham opens with a bid of four when she has a game in her own hand. It is the wrong way to use it but not for her. She has a partner who would not keep a two bid alive.

Akoolap Oxpert opens with four to satisfy his unconscionable urge to play with his long trump suit. This wrong way is no bar to him. He wins not if it costs entry cent in his partner's pocket.

A skilful player of long experience opens with a four bid in certain situations only. Its purpose is practical and informative to his partner. Its aim is for a relative economic result.

It shows a hand with a responsibly independent trump suit and expects a defeat of two tricks when vulnerable; three tricks when not vulnerable. And denies a hand that could open with one.

However, this sound player will make such an opening only if the first two players have passed a chance to open the bidding. In other words, his opening four bid is only in third position.

You have the north hand shown here.

If you are dealer you should pass. If dealer passed and your hand is sound you should pass. But what if your dealer partner has passed and your opponent in second position has passed.

You jack what it takes for an opening one bid. If you are in third position and vulnerable, pass. If you are in third position and not vulnerable, open the bidding with four hearts.

An expert player knows why these seeming hairline details must be considered. The reasons will convince less capable players, too. You will hear these reasons by my coming series for beginners.

The game was very clean with the Juniors drawing four of the five minor penalties handed out. Tim Williams paced the winners with three goals and two assists, while Bill Strahan notched two and two and Leo Goyer bagged one goal and three helpers.

Wayne Bovay and Atkins had one goal and one assist each for Belleville.

The teams:

Juniors — Lelman, Hurst, Semark, G. Goyer, L. Goyer, Williams, Gilmour, Strahan, Wardhaugh, Doran, Graham, Hunter, Stewart, P. Maracle, J. Green.

Belleville Juniors — Ashley, Murray, Baker, Brooks, Brant, Garrison, Atkins, Stoliker, McKenna, Bryant, Casey, Petric, Bovay, Atkins.

Color TV Pressing Problem To Filmed Show Producers

By WAYNE OLIVER

NEW YORK (AP)—Color television still is of little concern to the motion picture industry, but is a present and pressing problem to producers of filmed shows.

There aren't enough color sets now to warrant the extra cost of filming in color. But they have to think in terms of two, three or four years hence when they hope they'll be collecting on returns from films being made now.

They have to gamble on whether the number of color sets in use then will be great enough to justify the extra cost. Some now, or so small as to leave the black-and-white residue in demand. There's betting on both sides of the question.

WEBB BANKS ON COLOR

Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz still are filming Lucy in black and white in the expectation they'll be able to capitalize on the return value before color is important. Jack Webb, on the other hand, has started shooting Dragnet in color, even though first-run transmissions will be in black and white. He's betting that color will be prevalent enough by rerun time to justify the cost or more.

Liberace is taking a middle course. Guild Films, which produces his weekly show, has 13 already done in color although current production is in black and white.

On the extremes again are the Walt Disney organization divisions which says it currently has no color plans and the big Ziv Television organization, which is shooting all its roster of syndicated shows in color. The Ziv shows include, Cisco Kid, I Led Three Lives, Counter Attack and Mr. District Attorney, plus the upcoming Eddie Cantor show.

John L. Sinn, Ziv president, says that "within a very short time film producers must be ready to offer the public regular color programs in order to compete with live color TV."

Live color shows, except for the ponderously slow spectacular, can wait until there are enough color sets in use to justify the expense and then swing immediately to multi-based telecasts, but the film producers have to make their decision now, or soon.

Ed Herlihy bowed off Television Theatre on NBC-TV with Wednesday night's performance in what was called an abrupt parting with his sponsor. Herlihy was unwilling to do the commercials on an exclusive basis for any of the other shows, including Comedy Hour and monthly color spectaculars, while the sponsor wanted an announcer not connected with other products.

Newly-engaged Marion Marlowe has obtained Arthur Godfrey's permission to leave his show the week starting Jan. 24 to play a week's engagement in Buffalo, N. Y.

The lively flavour refreshes you and the pleasant chewing gives you a happy little lift. Refreshing delicious Wrigley's Spearmint Gum is good to chew—and good for you. Enjoy it every day!

YMCA House League Basketball wound up the first series of games last night when two games were played.

The White Kids led by Don Harris came up with a win to give them first place in the standings. The Speedsters in the second game to give them their second win and thing place in the league. Idiots and pirates are tied for second place with three wins each.

In last night's games Ted Batchelor led the Speedsters with 44 points in their win over the Pirates 65-60. George Perchurst scored 33 points for the losers.

Don Smith and Glen Craig each scored 15 points for the White Kids in their triumph over the Idiots 55-44. Jack Mathews sparked the losers with 21 points.

Next Tuesday night Speedsters play the White Kids in the opener at 7.30 and Idiots take on the Pirates at 8.30.

Tunis Centre of Tiny Country Locked in Dangerous Struggle

By PRESTON GROVER

TUNIS, French North Africa (CP)—Six hours by air from Paris is here on one of the world's most explosive trouble spots.

This half-Oriental, half-European city of 200,000, founded by the Arabs and made into a metropolis by the French, is the nerve centre of a tiny country locked in a dangerous struggle.

This time it isn't the West against communism. It's the West, as represented by France, against an extremist Moslem nationalism.

As in the last crisis—Indochina —this one tests France's close relations with the Atlantic community. The United States has assured France it wants her to stay in North Africa but would like her to inaugurate reforms and advance the area more rapidly toward self-government.

HEMMED BY PRESSURE

The Moslems, aware of the American pressure, happily play on it, crowding a reluctant France with irritation mounting both against the Moslems and the Americans.

Communism is only incidentally involved as an instigator of trouble. There are few Communists here.

There are only 2,500,000 people in Tunisia. Like so many of these points of contest involving the West, it is poor—and strategic. Its population is increasing by 80,000 every year.

There are 200,000 jobless and 300,000 with too little income to avoid hunger for their families.

RESOURCES ARE VITAL

Tunisia, on the north African coast, reaches out toward Sicily so far it almost cuts the vital Mediterranean in two. This and the rest of French Africa to the west are the parts of Africa lying closest to Europe. Their resources and location are vital to France and the West.

Tunisia is in a crisis period, and the turning of the crisis will have strong effect on the other two big French holdings eastward, Algeria and Morocco.

Will the country accept the limited home rule offered by the French and thereafter settle down to a long period of quiet and friendly co-operation?

I came here to try to find an answer. The answer is that nobody knows, neither French, Arabs, Italian settlers, Jews—or the Moslem priests who want to see the country ally itself spiritually at least with the Arabs of the Middle East.

HOPE EXISTS

Those striving hardest for government power are the well-educated Moslems, generally referred to as Arabs. The rage to rule themselves took hold before the Second World War and has periodically reached riot proportions since. The various changing French governments have promised reforms and increased participation in the government year after year.

Stiffest of the opponents to concessions are the French colonists, successors to the big landholders and businessmen who followed the French armies into Tunisia in 1881 and have since steadily gained control of much rich farmland once held by the Arabs.

Often the French own little or none of the land they farm. They rent it from the Arabs, use modern methods and increase the yield three-fold. They pay shares to the Arabs which sometimes squeals the whole crops the Arabs once eked out with wooden plows and oxen.

YIELDS OFTEN POOR

A few Arab farmers, having learned new methods, are taking back their lands. Some do as well as the French. Others don't, with little money or credit for machinery, they go back to wooden plows and the yield drops to a starvation pittance.

France each year makes up a deficit of from $5,000,000 to $7,000,000 in the ordinary Tunisian budget, and provides all the capital for new construction—roads, dams and reforestation.

Tunisian leaders feel that once they get control, somehow they will do better.

DEFROSTOMATIC 9½ CUBIC FT. Refrigerator

COMPLETELY AUTOMATIC DEFROSTING!

No heaters . . . no hot gas recirculation, the Racine DEFROST-O-MATIC is entirely self defrosting. Refrigeration of the Racine DEFROST-O-MATIC is accomplished by freezing the condensed moisture on a metal plate on the back wall of the refrigerator. Each time the compressor stops this thin film of ice melts and drains through a tube into a pan in the unit compartment, where it is evaporated by the warmth of the compressor.

ROOMY FREEZER COMPARTMENT!

This large, extra low temperature, low humidity freezer compartment across the top of your Racine, keeps foods frozen and in perfect condition. Holds up to 50 pounds of food! Built into the freezer are two quick-freeze ice cube trays for a plentiful supply at all times.

GUARANTEED!

Your Racine DEFROST-O-MATIC is fully guaranteed for a period of one year against all mechanical defects and for a further period of four years against all defects of the Refrigerating Unit. All servicing done by highly experienced factory technicians.

Your Horoscope

FOR FRIDAY, JAN. 7, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—It isn't what we wish, but rather what is good for the whole that should be given consideration. But the individual should never be neglected either. Logic; good will!

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—First things first—but don't dwell so long on those "firsts" that you leave too little time for other important matters. Sensible procedure and reasoning urged.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—With reliability and a well-balanced ancestral, patient outlook, your day and affairs can bring top rewards. Avoid restless mood that are both tiring and unnerving.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Being observing of details and the attitudes and balances of people you born under this Sign are equipped to make amazingly accurate deductions. But be sure you have all the facts, 'keep smiling.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — A better period than you may think. There are hidden advantages to be uncovered and, as is often the case, many of the best come in peculiar, maybe deceiving, disguise. Your day for discovery!

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Think before voicing opinions; be mindful of others' desires, plans; today and every day happy by maintaining poise, cheerfulness. Go about everything steadily; do not hurry or worry.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Getting off "on the right foot" is half the battle. Don't force issues but, on the other hand, don't neglect interests you must promote. Use Libra's good sense of balance.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Take stock of resources, and encompass as much territory as you can handle without overreaching or straining; use knowledge, efficiently. Consistency, simplicity are assets.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Be ready for changes which may—or may not —occur. Calmness (inward and outward), consciousness, self-discipline will make this day bigger, better all around.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Knowledge and good judgment are far greater assets and happiness-builders than fame or fortune. Besides, they can enhance the latter. Know yourself; smile.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Creativeness and imagination are stimulated now and, sagely employed, can increase advantages greatly. Be aggressive only where it will really be efficient or helpful.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Tread carefully; make thoughtful records; be philosophical, and you will readily see flaws and be able to recognize the really good opportunities. Be your unbiased candid, albeit tactful, self.

Your born today have stability, strong ambitious, persistency and general capability. You can succeed where you must work in close harmony with others, or in a field where individuality is needed. The important thing is keep yourself in hand, not letting the materialistic obliterate the spiritual in your life. Maintain inner calm, cheerfulness. Do not let little things destroy your faith and determination; the big obstacles seldom bother you. Remember always for God's guidance. Birthdate of: Ila Hollomes, Pope Gregory XIII, recorder of the calendar; Israel Putnam, noted American Revolutionary soldier.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop came down to breakfast, whisteling to himself, and ma said, My, how nice ot hear a merry song in the morning.

It's nice to be one, pop said. I feel 90 and 44 per hundred percent cheery, although I dont know why, because I didn't sleep too well last night. In fact I slept too badly, he said, and ma said, That's a wonderful filosophy, William. If you can help a thing by worrying about it, the only intelligent solution is to cast worry to the 7 winds and ingor the rest of life as it passes by, she said.

The same to you, my dear, pop said, and ma said, Oh, that has always been my motto, and it still is, as I proved to myself just this morning when I stood face to face in the mirror and shrugged fillosophically at the sight of several new gray hairs. I'm glad to see you have the same viewpoint about your own ups and downs, William, she said.

Well, thanks, but I cant say I actually have anything at the moment to refrain from worrying about, pop said, and ma said, The test is still to come. I forgot to buy coffee yesterday, and I used the last few grains of the last pound for dinner last night, and the markets aren't open before breakfast. So that's the situation, she said.

Yes gods, pop said. Well, I'll shrug it off fillosophically. I'll tell myself that the next time I get hold of a cup of coffee I'll really appreciate my blessings. In fact I'll demonstrate it in about 5 minutes on a stool at the corner drugstore, he said.

And he quite likened ma goodbye and went out for his breakfast.

Chain Reaction Power Failures Delay Traffic

TORONTO (CP)—Every street car and electric trolley bus in the east end of Toronto was halted for more than an hour today when a hydro overload on Toronto Transit Commission feeder lines started a chain reaction of power failures.

Thousands of work-bound citizens were forced either to walk or try to hitch rides with sympathetic motorists. The failure occurred at the height of the morning rush-hour.

More than 400 vehicles were delayed.

Firemen were called when TTC wires at one intersection caught fire. In another place a man hole cover was blown off by an underground hydro cable blast.

The TTC said all vehicles started slowing down at 8 a. m., when the overload started. Normal operation was restored after about an hour.

Police were called to keep back crowds at two intersections where overhead lines smouldered from the excess current.

Irate Passengers Seize Control Of Toronto Ferry

Captain Refused to Sail, Saying Boat Was Overloaded

TORONTO (CP)—Harbor police were called in to quell passengers who took over a Toronto island ferry boat today when the captain refused to leave the dock because he said the boat was overloaded.

A shaky reaction of events preceded the disturbance. First the big J. C. Stewart was put out of service for a half hour when a steering cable broke.

Passengers waiting at Hanlan's point for a second ferry saw the big H. J. Dixon arrive and by without stopping. When it reached Hanlan's on a return trip from farther along the island, irate passengers swarmed on the boat.

Captain J. Lahey ordered them off because he said the boat was overloaded. They refused.

Finally two other tugs arrived to pick up passengers and the tug H. J. Dixon sailed.

Reed-Cutters Are Marooned On Chinese Lake

HONG KONG (Reuters)—Chinese Communist mercy planes have dropped food, clothing and "lashings of army pastry" to 400 reed-cutters marooned on a frozen lake since Dec. 27, the New China news agency reported today.

The Communist agency said the men are on Paoying lake, north of Nanking. They were trapped when temperatures dropped suddenly and locked their boats in ice.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Skies cleared during the night over Ontario, except in the Ottawa - Toronto - Lindsay - Windsor area, and produced sharply contrasting temperatures with northern Ontario showing around 20 below and the lower lakes and St. Lawrence recording minimums of 25 above. The seasonable weather is expected to continue today and tomorrow.

12 Million Bushels Top-Grade Wheat Sold to Europe

WINNIPEG (CP) — Sale of 35 cargoes of Canadian wheat for mid-summer shipment to Europe from the northern Manitoba port of Churchill was reported Thursday night in Winnipeg export grain circles.

The shipments, totalling about 12,000,000 bushels of top - grade wheat, would approximate record exports from Churchill this year. The report of the sale came from the export sources but was not officially confirmed.

It is the largest reported in recent years.

The grain is to be shipped when Hudson bay navigation opens in mid-July.

MOST TO U.K.

The United Kingdom and Belgium are believed to be the leading importers with the balance going to other European countries.

The Canadian wheat board, which buys all wheat from Canadian farmers and controls sales for exportation or sells the wheat itself, reportedly announced it would make wheat available for shipment from Churchill and quoted $1.82 a bushel for No. 1 Northern.

Exporters were reported to have closed the deal on its basis at the Churchill government elevator at Churchill currently is filled near its 2,500,000-bushel capacity. Work is well advanced on an extension which will double its capacity.

H. J. Colliver, Picton, Sheriffs' Vice-President

TORONTO (CP)—Sheriff R. H. Beattie of London, Ont., was elected president of the Canadian Sheriffs' Association's annual meeting Thursday.

Sheriff H. J. Colliver of Picton was elected vice-president.

Elected to the executive: Sheriffs C. E. Sundin, Fort Frances; W. Nelson Hill, Goderich; R. F. Conover, Napanee; A. C. Caldwell, Cobourg; Hamilton; and G. D. Campbell, Brantford.

Boy Rescued By Television Aerial Workers

HAMILTON (CP) — Police and two television aerial workers rescued an 11-year-old boy from a 150-foot ledge on the side of Hamilton mountain late Thursday.

Ronald Breslin of Hamilton clung to a tree on a narrow ledge for almost half an hour before help arrived.

He was eating a shortcut down the treacherous, icy cliff on the way to the municipal swimming pool with some friends when he slipped down to the ledge and was unable to climb back up.

His friends, descending by another route, heard his cries and called police. Constable Alex Stewart, climbing on his hands and knees managed to talk his way up the face of the cliff to where Ronald was stranded.

Rope and netting, but unhurt, the boy was brought down with mountain climbers 30 minutes with the help of light metal extension ladders supplied by two television aerial companies who happened on the scene.

Extortion Attempted

VANCOUVER (CP) — Attempts to extort $200,000 from Canada Packers Limited, meat packing millionaire, and wealthy William Vincent Astor of New York were disclosed in police court here Thursday.

Sheriff H. J. Colliver of Picton was elected vice-president.

Elected to the executive: Sheriffs C. E. Sundin, Fort Frances; W. Nelson Hill, Goderich; R. F. Conover, Napanee; A. C. Caldwell, Cobourg; Hamilton; and G. D. Campbell, Brantford.

Police announced the arrest of Heinz Ahrens, 40, of Vancouver, charged with "unlawfully sending a letter to Hubert Seifel demanding with menaces and without reasonable or probable cause $50,000," and a similar one demanding $150,000 from Mr. Astor. Adams will appear in court today.

Alert TCA Pilot Dodges RCAF Plane At Scene of 1954 Moose Jaw Crash

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Trans-Canada Air Lines pilot today told of taking emergency action to avoid a possible mid-air collision at the scene of Canada's worst aviation disaster.

The reported near-miss Thursday involved a westbound TCA North Star and an RCAF Harvard trainer, a flight last month's Moose Jaw crash in which 37 persons were killed. But this time there was no tragedy.

The pilot, Capt. Joseph Crispin of Montreal, said of the flight over the Saskatchewan City where tragedy struck last April 9:

"We were flying at 8,000 feet according to our prescribed flight plan and always clearance which should ensure a clear unobstructed airway at that altitude.

"I spotted another aircraft coverging on the right-of-way I took action to avoid it. It was obviously that the other aircraft didn't see us.

"I was very surprised to see another aircraft there."

Crispin's plane left Montreal at 1 a.m. EST Thursday and arrived in Vancouver at 12:45 a.m. PST today. Over Moose Jaw he was carrying passengers and a crew of four.

The first report of the incident came from a passenger who was on the plane and a Vancouver.

Capt. Marthur said in an interview that just west of Moose Jaw he saw a Harvard rise from below the North Star which banked sharply to the right. He said the Harvard also banked to the right then and moved away at an angle.

Another second plane steward Ken Ford of Vancouver as saying the brush was a "close thing." He said most of the passengers didn't

CANADA MAKES SOME GAINS IN MEDIATOR ROLE

May Not Be Sufficient To Preserve GATT Life

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada, acting as mediator, apparently has made some gains in narrowing the American differences on reducing import barriers.

But whether these gains will be sufficient to preserve the life of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade and make it an effective force for world trade is still the big question-mark.

Trade Minister Howe, on return this Washington trip Thursday night, said it may take "five, six or seven" days to find out what results his talks with United States cabinet ministers have produced.

Some "compromises" are likely, he said in an interview, but he said he probably could not say what impact they will have on international trade and payments to strengthen seven year trade pact.

WENT TO GENEVA

Mr. Howe, accompanied by External Affairs Minister Pearson and Finance Minister Harris, held talks with U.S. State Secretary Dulles, Treasury Secretary Humphrey, Agriculture Secretary Benson, Presidential trade aid adviser Clarence Randall, and others.

The high-level talks followed Mr. Howe's overseas trip where he sat in on the first phase of the Canada-United States trade talks at Geneva.

Canada wants all member countries to agree to reduce the use of import curbs imposed for reasons of balance of payments or farm surpluses in the home market.

Britain apparently will agree to limit use of the curbs imposed because of exchange problems, but will do only if the U.S. agrees to cut curbs imposed on food for the same reason. Some overseas countries have protested American curbs on grain and other products.

However, it is understood that the U.S. wanted more and freer trade from Canada in other products and tries she has heavy surpluses and tries to aid farmers with price propos.

Wants Links Dredged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Edward J. Thye (Rep., Minn.) Thursday introduced a bill to authorize dredging of 27-foot channels in the connecting links of the Great Lakes waterway.

Such dredging would be necessary to open the St. Lawrence seaway.

The seaway, authorized by Congress last year, will provide a 27-foot channel for Great Lakes traffic from the Atlantic to Lake Erie.

HISTORIAN DIES

MOSCOW (AP)—Eugene Tarle, the Soviet Union's leading Tsarist historian, died today at the age of 81. His death was announced in a notice issued by the Soviet Academy of Science and other organizations.

Ontario Farmers Protest Move To Sell N.Z. Cheese in Canada

TORONTO (CP) — Agricultural organizations meeting here have criticized a report that 2,000,000 pounds of "cheap" New Zealand cheese is on its way to Canadian markets.

Delegates attending conventions of milk and cheese producers and the Ontario Federation of Agriculture joined Thursday in protesting the move and resolved to enlist support of organizations across the country.

Wednesday, W. G. Coon of Elgin, president of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association, said the first shipment of New Zealand cheese scheduled to arrive in Canada in the next six months, is due shortly.

A deputation from the Cheese Producers' Association said Thursday the whole shipment will be brought through a single processor. They told the federation the processor is Kraft Foods of Montreal.

The farm groups decided to protest individually to members of Parliament and in a solid front to the federal trade minister.

T. S. Milburn of St. Catharines, president of the cheese board, said the cheese import was arranged through the department of trade and commerce, apparently without the knowledge of the department of agriculture.

He said New Zealand enjoyed a preferential tariff arrangement with Canada, under a trade agreement provided for the refusal of the goods to be sold.

"The permit was granted by the department of trade and commerce with a proviso that no further imports would be allowed within six months," Mr. Milburn said.

Mr. Milburn said 400,000 Canadian dairy farmers were being used as pawns in the game of international trade balances.

"It is up to us to emphatically tell Mr. Howe to stop," Milburn said. "I do not believe that he is not running this country . . ."

The federation approved a motion to join forces in protest with cheese producers. It approved a resolution to protest directly to the Montreal processing firm.

Another resolution considered by the federation was one asking for creation of a new cabinet post, that of marketing and co-operation. The federation said the post is necessary for minister to take care of all the responsibilities of the department of agriculture.

Another resolution suggested the federal government withdraw from competition in other countries.

The issue should be absorbed by funds available under the Agricultural Prices Support Act.

The federation said the 25,000,000 pounds of surplus butter in Canada had been built as a result of imports in 1951, when butter was brought in to keep the consumers' price down.

The federation felt that since butter had been imported to help the consumer it was only fair to support it now to aid the producer.

Ontario Agriculture Minister Thomas told the cheese producers a cheddar cheese research centre will be built in 1956, near school at Kemptville.

"It will be a low-cost, down-to-earth centre which will give producers free information on their problems," he said.

5 Children Among 8 Killed In Saskatchewan Plane Crash

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP)—The burned bodies of eight victims of a plane crash in Saskatchewan's Far North were given here late Thursday as investigation opened into the province's second multi-death air disaster in eight months.

A two-engined Anson owned by Saskatchewan Government Air Service crashed on landing at Buffalo Narrows, 185 miles northwest of here, and caught fire. Eight persons, including five children, died in the flames.

The accident occurred Thursday.

Killed were pilot Stuart Woodard of Prince Albert, Stanley Woodard, 5, of the Hudson's Bay Co. manager at Lac La Ronge, Sask., Woodard's wife, Marilyn and Robert; and three young Indian children, Cecil Lessigrew, Florence and John Bird.

It was the first fatal accident in the 9,000,000 miles logged by SGA since it was purchased in 1947 to open up the northlands.

Another 37 persons died when an RCAF training plane knifed into a commercial airliner over Winnipeg in 1951 and in southeastern Saskatchewan.

Department of transport investigators left Edmonton for Buffalo Narrows yesterday and Corporal C. G. Green and two RCMP officers paid a flying visit to the scene from Prince Albert.

Dr. Green declined comment on the circumstances of the accident but said no return here. He said the bodies, burned beyond recognition, would be flown to Prince Albert late today.

18 Unions Join in Request For Subsidy for Railroads

MONTREAL (CP) — Eighteen railway unions have recommended that the government write a letter to the railways to enable subsidy to the railways to enable them to meet "decline in earnings and working conditions."

Frank H. Hall of Montreal, spokesman for the unions, announced today that the recommendation was reached at a meeting Thursday in Labor Minister Gregg.

The letter outlined what had been described as a "very satisfactory" meeting here of union delegates representing some 150,000 railroad non-operating trades of the railways. The meetings ended Thursday.

At a press conference to his office today, Mr. Hall said the union had not recommended how much of a subsidy should be paid to the railways.

MEETING SOUGHT

The letter said the unions will meet conferences with the railways and the government with a view to streamlining the Industrial Disputes Act.

During the meetings, some of the unions protested that the right of railway workers to strike to enforce their demands now has vanished. They also expressed dissatisfaction with the bargaining conciliation and arbitration machinery.

NOT PAID, STAFF STRIKES

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — The Catholic newspaper El Pueblo has been closed by a strike of news and printing employees. Workers said the owner of the paper, which last appeared Dec. 30, was behind in payment of salaries and unable to pay an extra month's salary as a Christmas bonus as required by law.

Air Raid Siren Screeched News Of Phone Call

PACIFIC BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Robert J. Schroeder and 20 neighbors complained to police that his right to privacy was being violated.

A telephone repair crew was rushed to his home Thursday to restore some wires and restore his privacy.

What has caused the complaints was the fact that every time Schroeder's telephone rang, the raid siren across the street screeched.

Postpone Choosing Anglican Bishop

TIMMINS (CP)—Election of an Anglican bishop as Metropolitan of Ontario has been postponed indefinitely.

The election was scheduled following a dinner after the consecration Thursday of Rt. Rev. Dr. Cooper Robinson as the sixth bishop of the Anglican diocese of Moosonee.

Rt. Rev. A. R. Beverley, Bishop of Toronto and acting Metropolitan of Ontario, said the Ontario House of Bishops meeting here had decided to postpone the election until April at Toronto. He declined to elaborate.

LITTLE ROOM FOR EXPENDITURE CUTS SAYS SINCLAIR

Defence Spending Will Drop $200,000,000

OTTAWA (CP)—Fisheries Minister Sinclair, estimating the government will spend about $4,800,000,000 this year, says there is little room for expenditure cuts.

As for taxes, he told the Ontario Chamber of Commerce Thursday night, these could be reduced only if there is relaxation of international tensions or a jump in national production.

While there would be a drop of about $200,000,000 in defence spending this year—the result of completion of a large part of RCAF defence construction—overall defence costs were still high and no one was thinking of cutting them, he said.

"If international tension relaxes still further, it may be possible to decrease defence expenditures and so be able to afford tax relief," he said.

CEREMONY ON TV

Opening the second session of the 22nd Parliament, Governor-General Massey will address the Senate and House of Commons assembly of senators and Commons members in the red-carpeted Senate chamber, with the glare of television lights beaming on them for the first time.

The governor-general drove from his Rideau Hall residence through biting cold in an open landau, escorted by a mounted Ottawa police and RCMP carrying the Mounties' guidon.

In outlining proposed government action, the throne speech said the government proposes to bring into federal operation Feb. 1 a section of the National Housing Act providing loans for home improvements. This became effective Jan. 1 for Veterans' Land Act settlers.

AID FOR VETERANS

Increases in the basic rates of allowances to needy war veterans will be proposed, along with raising the income limit permissible income comes for these recipients. As is customary in the throne speech, only a general outline of legislation, no details were given.

About 42,000 persons now receive allowances. A spokesman said the government has "reasons" but would not be up to the scale sought by the Canadian Legion for $50 a month for single recipients and to $120 from $90 for married veterans.

Legislation will be introduced, the speech announced, to provide for loans to fishermen for improving their vessels and equipment. They will be available to those extended under the Farm Improvement Loans Act, which provides for get government-backed loans from banks.

REDUCE HAZARDS

Amendments to the Railway Act dealing with the eliminating of level crossings will be proposed. A major feature, it was understood, will be an increase in the $1,000,000 in the federal government's annual contribution to the elimination of crossing hazards, in line with a 1954 recommendation of the board of transport commissioners.

Throne Speech Says National Economy in Good Condition

OTTAWA (CP) — Legislation to increase the amount and duration of supplementary winter unemployment insurance benefits will be introduced into Parliament immediately, it was announced in the speech from the throne read at today's sessional opening.

The speech, read by Governor-General Massey, also said Parliament will be asked to provide money for a "substantial increase" in public works aimed at combating unemployment. Works already approved were listed as being stepped up.

"Although the national economy is generally healthy and prosperous, the throne speech said, "the fact remains that there is being felt a small decline in the total national income. Some unemployment of a regional and seasonal nature is being experienced."

CEREMONY ON TV

Opening the second session of the 22nd Parliament, Governor-General Massey addressed the Senate and House of Commons assembly of senators and Commons members in the red-carpeted Senate chamber, with the glare of television lights beaming on them for the first time.

The governor-general drove from his Rideau Hall residence through biting cold in an open landau, escorted by a mounted Ottawa police and RCMP carrying the Mounties' guidon.

In outlining proposed government action, the throne speech said the government proposes to bring into federal operation Feb. 1 a section of the National Housing Act providing loans for home improvements. This became effective Jan. 1 for Veterans' Land Act settlers.

AID FOR VETERANS

Increases in the basic rates of allowances to needy war veterans will be proposed, along with raising the income limit permissible income comes for these recipients. As is customary in the throne speech, only a general outline of legislation, no details were given.

About 42,000 persons now receive allowances. A spokesman said the government has "reasons" but would not be up to the scale sought by the Canadian Legion for $50 a month for single recipients and to $120 from $90 for married veterans.

Legislation will be introduced, the speech announced, to provide for loans to fishermen for improving their vessels and equipment. They will be available to those extended under the Farm Improvement Loans Act, which provides for get government-backed loans from banks.

REDUCE HAZARDS

Amendments to the Railway Act dealing with the eliminating of level crossings will be proposed. A major feature, it was understood, will be an increase in the $1,000,000 in the federal government's annual contribution to the elimination of crossing hazards, in line with a 1954 recommendation of the board of transport commissioners.

Blames Divorce On Low Cost Of Wedding Clothes

LONDON (AP)—Tailor and Cutter, men's fashion magazine which believes in large and expensive weddings, says it has hit upon a means to decrease divorce.

The clothing in which young folk marry should be planned long in advance and should "cost enough to hurt a little," the magazine says. There were no two many slap-dash weddings in everyday clothes with the result that there was "no ceremony in the ceremony" and life partnerships were established too casually.

If a prospective bridegroom had to absorb the expense "the betrothal should be dissolved on grounds of grammatical cruelty."

Baby Weighed Pound, 4 Ounces

BRANTFORD (CP)—The tiniest baby ever born in Brantford Hospital is in satisfactory condition her second day of life, hospital authorities reported today.

The child, born to Mr. and Mrs. David Weatherby Thursday, weighed one pound four ounces.

The baby was being given emergency care in an isolette, a type of incubator used for children weighing less than five pounds. Hydro crews rushed a 60-cycle power line into operation so the isolette could be used.

BRANTFORD MAN HURT

HAMILTON (CP) — Benjamin Smith, 56, of Brantford, suffered serious back fracturing when his truck crashed into a telegraph pole. His wife, Minnie, was a passenger in the truck. She was not injured. Smith was treated in "casualty" condition at hospital.

NO DAMAGE REPORTED

A North Front Street resident who chose an early hour for cleaning out his back yard caused an early morning run for city firemen.

Shortly after 8K o'clock a neighbour spoke rolling smoke around the eaves of a nearby building, phoned in the alarm. Firemen made a quick run to the address but found no emergency.

The only other run for firemen was to Wickett Street Thursday night for an over-heated stove. No damage was reported.

Two Women Struck by Car On Bridge Street

Two Belleville women, Mrs. Penhoop, 22, and Mrs. Venerette, 51, of 144 MacDonald Ave., suffered minor injury shortly before noon Thursday when they were struck by a car on Bridge street.

John Vernon Rupert, R. R. 7, Belleville, had turned out to pass a line of traffic when his vehicle struck the two women. Mrs. Penhoop suffered a bruised leg and ankle, while Mrs. Venerevelle received a bump on the back of her head.

Dealers See Increased Demand For Automatic Transmission

A Canadian trend to make his house a happy one if he can afford it, is his car a motor.

Automotive transmission, power steering, push-button windows, radio, power brakes, white-walled tires are now available in a 1955 deluxe model to give the motorist an obsessing Magnificent Possession.

However, for the typical motorist, who's financed 50 per cent low for deluxe models, optional installations of these accessories to smoother driving is a pleasurable plans are available.

Just how many are these installations appealing to motorists in Belleville?

According to one representative of a leading car dealer most of them are "on the up and up all the way through." Particularly does this apply to automatic transmission, first introduced in 1941.

"There has been an increasing trend toward the purchase of automatic transmission," he said.

WOMEN MOTIVATING FORCE

An interesting sidelight is given as one of the reasons for the growing popularity of automatic transmission by another salesman. Women, he claims, are one of the motivating forces in steering their husbands towards its installation, preferring the ease and simplicity its lends to driving.

Power brakes and power steering, introduced in 1952 and still something of a novelty, have not yet appealed to the public on the same scale. However, a salesman estimates that about five per cent of every 100 cars he sold have had power brakes installed and from five to ten per cent power steering.

Power brakes are fast becoming popular and are no longer regarded as a luxury but an increased safety factor, he claimed.

CAR RADIOS DECREASE

Radio installations present a more conflicting picture. One salesman estimated radios in about 80 per cent of the cars on the road today, but admitted this represents a decrease over the years 1946-48 "abnormal figures" when every car that passed, he claimed. Another representative was of the opinion reading in cars "are not as popular as they used to be while a third reckoned the sale of car radios to be only 50 per cent from last year.

While—with less in items the customer strictly reserves for his family or luxury car, their elemental appearance is a pleasure for the continued wear-and-tear of the family transportation vehicle.

Other accessories meeting a steadily increasing demand are additional lights for the safety most of them safety measures. Popular on the list are directional signals and back-up lamps.

One installation that has not "taken particularly" is the power button windows. And an item gaining a foothold is the air-flow cover-not through loss of appeal but because of its obsolescence. Automatic trunk-lids auto now is towards such durable and easily-washed materials as plastic, negating the protective-usefulness of the covers. Also, with the increasing use of chrome, signs of modern car upholstery nobody wants to cover them up.

PROGRESS

With all these accessories and optional additions available, keeping up with the Joneses in motor installations and accessories part of his entire make-up, by that time the dissatisfaction about sporting everything from television and business news to the kitchen sink.

Then truly the Canadian's castle will become his home.

Mr. McAdam was appointed assistant commissioner of the Ontario Division four years ago.

Residents Use Lot of Water In Course of Year

Belleville residents use a lot of water in the course of a year, in fact they use over a billion and a quarter gallons of the stuff.

At Thursday's inaugural meeting of the Public Utilities Commission the report of the waterworks department for 1954 was read, and this showed that 1,254,110,000 gallons of water had been pumped into the city mains during the past 12 months.

This rather tidy gallonage was 10,710,000 for the same time city residents used in 1953.

The average number of gallons pumped per day last year was 3,435,000. Most water pumped in any day was 5,174,000 gallons and the least gallonage pumped in any one day was 2,433,000.

Total gallonage pumped including some 96,097,200 gallons used in 2,022 backwashes was 1,350,000,000.

Senior Citizens Enjoy Film

Inclement weather was responsible for the attendance figure at the monthly meeting, in Kiwanis Centre, of the Senior Citizens of Belleville and district, those present were well rewarded and enjoyed a delightful travelogue, "Rambling Through the Rockies," by Dr. G. Stewart.

Scenes in Stanley Park, Vancouver, were also shown, and to many present a return journey west were brought to mind by Dr. Stewart in his review and he was thanked for his kindness in entertaining the club by Leslie Field, the chairman.

Refreshments were served after a short social time, so that those present could depart for home early, and were served by Mrs. Cook, assisted by Mrs. Hamilton and Mrs. Samalin.

The door prize was won by Mrs. Barnhart. The next meeting of the "Citizens" will be on Wednesday, February 2nd.

A total of $20,845.08 was raised by the Belleville Branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society as result of its recent campaign canvass, it was noted today by W. J. Morrison, campaign chairman.

The report given by Mr. Morrison showed receipts of $13,724.25 as result of the canvass in Belleville and adjoining area; $500 from the county of Hastings; a grant of $2,001.95 from the Provincial canvass; $638.96 partial canvass in Picton and Wellington; including the Prince Edward county grant; $630 from Deseronto and employees; $477 Stirling canvass; $387.30 Tweed canvass and $77 from partial canvass at Marmora. There was no 1954 canvass in Madoc or Frankford. Balance on hand as of March 1st, 1954, was $1,181.51.

Campaign expenses totalled $1,628.81, including $231.98 newspaper and radio advertising; $274.31 printing stationery and postage, and $112.62 secretarial and office expense.

Judge Reserves Decision On Move to Upset Election

NAPANEE (CP) — County court hearing on a contested election was told Thursday the Ontario Municipal Act does not provide for disqualification of a councillor who has illegally taken money from a municipality.

Oscar H. Babcock of Odessa, seeking to have a recent councillor election in Ernestown township set aside, charged he was illegally disqualified from seeking election by returning officer W. M. Lewis.

He also contended three members of the 1954 council were unable to qualify because they had received honoraria illegally and because contrary to the Ontario Municipal Act they had put themselves for serving on an illegally constituted council.

But defence counsel Arthur Kelly of Toronto said there was no provision in the act for disqualification on such a basis.

Testimony was that Mr. Lewis, the township clerk, had ordered ballots printed for election of reeve and council but then cancelled the order, awarding the election by acclamation to the 1954 reeve, Orwell Ruff, and three councillors, Cecil Crowder, Robert Reid and Fred McPherson.

Mr. Lewis testified he disqualified Mr. Babcock and another candidate, William Cleland, because they had been nominated to run for election were not attached to their nomination papers as required by the Municipal Act.

Mr. Babcock said the returning officer had expressed satisfaction with qualifications on the night of her nomination.

Judge W. B. Lane of Prince Edward county reserved decision after testimony of eight witnesses.

Safe-Crackers Get Undisclosed Amount of Cash at Grills Dairy

Prying the strongbox out of its location in the office wall, safe-crackers Thursday night debated about the safe and the Lee Grills' Dairy on Coleman St., and escaped with an undetermined amount of cash.

The heavy safe was pried out of the office wall and moved to the "cool room" at the rear, where the combination was smashed off and the door opened.

Dairy employees discovered the break-in at the unusual hour, safe when they reported for work this morning shortly before five o'clock.

Two other break-ins were reported to police during the night, both of which were believed by police to be associated with that in at the Grills Dairy.

Shortly after ten o'clock on Thursday night an employee of Reid's Dairy on Parker Street, discovered that the front door had a rear window had been forced. Nothing was missing and it is believed the intruders had been scared away by the unexpected return of the dairy employee.

Belleville police and the electrician's hut at the new entomological building on Dundas St. were entered, a refreshment bar, and other tools reported missing. Some of the tools stolen from the Dundas St. address were found at the Grills Dairy and it is believed by police the safecrackers also stolen sledge and bar, earlier to use at safe-smashing tools.

Entry to the Grills' Dairy was made by the unlocking door, which, according to police, had been left improperly secured.

From the loading door the safe crackers made their way to the office where they pried the heavy safe from the wall and removed to the cold room where assault of working on the safe would be deadened.

The safe cracking job is being investigated by Police Inspector J. C. Hagerman, Detective Sergeant Reid, assisted by provincial police photographer Reg. Rackbelieved.

Dairy Products Consumption Declines Since '39 Meeting Told

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario dairy farmers agreed Thursday that an important period of adjustment in the industry is near. But there were some questions unanswered.

The annual meeting of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association opened with reminders by some delegates of the decline in dairy products consumption in Canada since 1939.

It was reported that on an average Canadians consumed 1,227 pounds of milk annually, in all its forms, in 1939. In terms of fat solitutes, the annual average now is 1,035 pounds.

Dr. F. J. C. Hope, an economist with the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, argued that total consumption of dairy products might not be declining.

He said during a panel discussion on the future of milk production that the demand in North America would tend towards meat instead of fluid milk.

TOWARD MEAT

Dairy farmers could not compete, he argued, against oil substitutes and in future years these would offer more competition.

Dr. Hope said the dairy industry should have to adjust itself to the market changes. Dairy farming would no longer be a specialized field, but would form part of general farming.

E. M. Biggs, dairy commissioner for Ontario, disagreed with Dr. Hope and said there is a limit to the amount of artificially produced foods consumed.

C. W. McInnes of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture agreed with Dr. Hope. Mr. McInnes added that farmers could give more direction to the marketing and marketing of their goods.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and fluid milk prices were unchanged here today.

The egg market was barely steady with offerings in excess of a poor demand.

Quotations provided by the Dominion department of agriculture:

Eggs, graded in fifths cases: A large $4.32; A medium 30-31; A small 27-28; B 29; C 25. Wholesale by retail: A large 39-40; A medium 35-36; A small 32-33; B 34; C 30.

Butter solids: Out, first grade 61-61½; western, first grade 61½.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market climbed narrowly today in fast but orderly trading.

The session was the first since Monday that the market showed general strength. In the three days since Monday a number of selling waves swirled over the market, pushing the industrial index down more than 10 points.

Today's orderly dealings, with the tape never lagging behind floor sales, was a sharp contrast to Thursday's heavy selling which forced the tape to lag as much as nine minutes.

Papers, foods and refining oils led industrials while Steel, textiles and manufacturers were a little easier.

All other sections of the market moved slightly ahead.

Prospectors Airways jumped $1.05 to $4.65 on a single trade after reporting on its properties.

Union Leaders Suspend Call For Rail Strike

LONDON (AP) — Britons breathed easier today after union leaders suspended a call for a general railroad strike which could have crippled Britain's booming economy, in their place scheduled "Big Jim" Campbell warns a few strike call will go out if further wage talks are not satisfactory.

The suspension of the walkout was announced Thursday night following a long government-called conference between officials of the 600,000-strong National Union of Railwaymen and the British transport commission, which runs the state-owned lines. The walkout had been scheduled for Sunday midnight.

SATISFACTORY BASIS

A union statement said assurances by the commission "established a satisfactory basis for negotiation and speedy settlement" of the dispute. Union officials said the transport chiefs agreed that "wage rates would be adjusted" and that "there would b eno haggling."

CHARGED IN SWINDLE

TORONTO (CP)—Fred Martin, 29, Thursday was arrested and charged with passing forged paybooks in connection with the $150,000 Ontario pay-book swindle. He is the 20th man arrested in connection with the swindle. Five have already been sentenced.

HEADS EXPEDITION

John F. Stanwell-Fletcher, who arrived with the RCMP 30 years ago in the north, will head a three-week excursion to northern Canada to test equipment to be used in scientific studies of the North Pole in March. The expedition, privately financed by Mr. Stanwell-Fletcher, will leave Waterboro, N.J. about Jan. 13 for preliminary checkups at Rudy-Bay, travelling via Winnipeg. An experimental, unconventional looking plane that can take off or land in only 1,500 feet has been chosen for the expedition. (CP Photo).

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP) — Cattle prices were uneven this week at the Ontario public stockyards. Calves were steady to barely generally 25 cents lower. Sheep and lambs steady to as much as $1.50 a hundredweight higher.

The run of 7,000 head of cattle was 2,200 head more than last week. Included in the fresh run were 1,000 canner cattle, mostly stockers. There were five shipments of Manitoba Indian stock steers and one car exported to the U.S.

An estimated 500 head of common and medium heifers, common steers and stockers were unsold at the close.

SLAUGHTER PRICES

Prices on slaughter cattle: choice steers, all weights, $21.50-22; good and small lot to $22.50; one load of choice weighty steers bought early for export were $23; good steers $19-21; mediums $16-19; commons $13-16; good heifers closed at $17-18; a few choice at $18.50; mediums $14-16; commons $12-14; good cows sold before $8-12; good fed yearlings $22-23; a few choice at $23.50-24; mediums and good $18-21; common and medium $13; a few at $13.50; good bulls $13; a few at $13.50; choice odd extreme at $13.50; butcher bulls up to $14; common light bulls down to $10.

Replacement cattle prices: good stockers and stock calves $17-19; medium $15-17; common $13-15; medium $14-16; commons $12-14.

Calves were 1,300 head. This was about 650 less than last week. Good and choice vealers sold actively and steady at $24-26; mediums $16-23; commons $10-15.

Run of 3,500 head of hogs was about 500 more than last week. Grade A sold at $27 and B1's $26. However, offers sold out at prices ranging up to $28; sows were unchanged at $22 and $23.

Sheep and lambs totalled 700 head, a few more than last week. Feed-lot lambs made their initial appearance and sold at $23-23.50; native lambs $20-22 for good ewes and wethers. Shorn ewes discounted $4 a hundredweight; medium lambs $17-19; commons $13-16; good light sheep $8-10; heavies $3-7; commons $3-5.

Penniless Family Spends Holiday In County Jail

MONTMAGNY, Que. (CP)—While Quebec provincial police continued their efforts to get the penniless Stafford back to Ontario, the family spent the Roman Catholic Feast of the Epiphany just as they spent Christmas and New Year's—in Montmagny jail.

Earl Stafford, 44, said his brother George, 24, left Fruitland, Ont., in a 1941 model car intending to get jobs as lumberjacks at Grand Campbellton, N.B. They brought Earl's wife, Margie, 24, and their children, Joan, 11, Jim, 8, and Harold, five months. After two other breakdowns the car was wrecked in a collision near Montmagny, 60 miles south of Quebec, and all six were taken to hospital.

Harold, the baby, stayed in the hospital nursery while police gave the others lodging in the jail pending arrangements to send them home.

Thursday, Earl and his wife visited Harold in the hospital. They, as well as the prisoners in the jail got double rations in honor of the feast.

Police and other Quebecers have been helping the Staffords since their money ran out last month.

Radio Silence Is Maintained By Red China

HONG KONG (Reuters)—Radio silence was maintained by Communist China today on Dag Hammarskjold's talks in Peiping with jailed American airmen, hours after the United Nations secretary-general was due to meet Communist leaders for the second time.

Radio monitors tuned in Chinese radio wavelengths but heard nothing since Thursday's brief announcement that Hammarskjold and Prime Minister Chou En-lai had met with their advisers for 2½ hours.

The Communist radio has yet to let the Chinese people know the purpose of Hammarskjold's mission to Peiping.

The Swedish diplomatic expert and his six advisers are expected to sit down for Chinese officials at three more meetings beside today's in discussions on the 11 unbroken airmen who have been sentenced by Chinese courts as spies.

GIVE BARE DETAILS

In addition to giving the bare details of the first meeting, Peiping radio said the UN team visited Peiping's "Forbidden City," home of former emperors noted for his lavish palaces and priceless treasures.

Hammarskjold and his party will probably leave Communist China after the second talks. UN leader is expected to be back in New York by early next week.

Before he leaves he will also pay, at the request of the General Assembly, to learn the fate, and possibly secure the freedom, of several thousand UN men captured during the Korean war who are believed in Communist hands. Some 300 Americans are included in the total, made up mostly of South Koreans.

Expect Ontario Will Pay For Civil Defence

TORONTO (CP) — An indication that Ontario will after its long standing refusal to pay grants for local civil defence was given today by Provincial Secretary G. Arnold Hunt.

Mr. Welsh said Ontario is negotiating with the federal government and will probably make a sizeable civil defence establishment.

Until now the federal and provincial governments has not paid municipal governments for civil defence purposes. Ontario has maintained the project is a federal responsibility.

An Ontario government spokesman said that while the province has refused until now to make cultural grants for civil defence, it will probably make grants for capital construction and training standardization amounting to $196,000.

STANDARD PROGRAM

The standardization program means firemen from one town can fight fires in other areas.

Provincial civil defence officials feel this is a significant contribution to the defence fire-fighting organization.

Maj.-Gen. H. J. C. Worthington, head of Canada's civil defence program, arrived here today for talks with Ontario government officials.

Fred G. Gardiner, chairman of Metropolitan Toronto council, said it is likely civil defence in the area will be placed on a regional basis.

He added that a study of the civil defence situation in Toronto had revealed "a condition of serious emergency in the event of atomic attack on the city.

Ford and Union Negotiators Resume Talks

TORONTO (CP)—Company and union negotiators go back into conference room today to resume the latest series of talks aimed at settling the Ford of Canada strike.

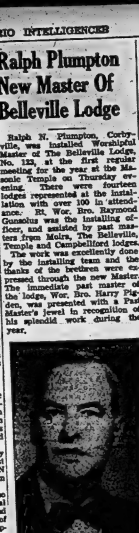
Officials of the United Automobile Workers (CIO-CLC) and the Ford Motor Co. will take up where they left off three days ago in their efforts to work out a solution to a wage walkout that started Oct. 19 and eventually left some 9,000 workers jobless in three Ontario plants.

The meeting was scheduled for 2 p.m. in a downtown hotel.

Both sides have agreed to make no statements on the meetings until they are finished. The only comment came from Emil Mazey, international secretary-treasurer of the union, before the meeting adjourned Tuesday to allow him to attend a regular executive board meeting of the international union in Detroit.

LONG WAY

If the strike lasts another 10 days, it will equal the shutdown of the 39-day walkout at Ford's Windsor plant in 1945.



Ralph Plumpton New Master Of Belleville Lodge

Ralph N. Plumpton, Corbyville, was installed Worshipful Master of the Belleville Lodge, No. 123, at the first regular meeting for the year, at the Masonic Temple on Thursday evening.

There were fourteen lodges represented at the installation with over 100 in attendance. Rt. Wor. Bro. Raymond Cook was the installing officer, and assisted by past masters Bros. Haig, The Belleville Temple and Campbellford lodges.

The work was excellently done by the installing team and the thanks of the brethren were expressed through the new Master.

The immediate past master of the lodge, Wor. Bro. Harry Pigden, was presented with a Past Master's jewel in recognition of his splendid work during the past year.

RALPH N. PLUMPTON

At the conclusion of the business session, the members adjourned to the banquet room, where a fine program was carried out. Bro. Rev. Sidney E. Larman was the principal speaker and he addressed the members and visitors on "The Principles of Masonry."

The Quintones enlivened the meeting with several numbers of their inimitable style. Those in the D.D.G.M. Robert McCorquodale, Brighton, was a visitor, and replied to the toast to Grand Lodge. Several other toasts were proposed and suitable replies given.

The following officers were installed:

W.M., Ralph N. Plumpton; I.P.M., Harry J. Pigden; Sr. W., Ronald Goddeyn; Jr. W., Wilfred Miller; D. William Sisack; Jr. D. William Dixon; I.G., Harry Coppelli; Sr. S., Kenneth Thomas; Jr. Jr. S., C. A. Stanley Smith; chaplain, Cameron Bunnett; D. of C., R. E. Woodley; treasurer, Arthur Hill; secretary, Harry Baines; organist, Wilbert Goddeyn; assistant organist, Harold McNish; tyler, William Adams. Trustees on Masonic Temple Corp., W. D. Embury; auditor Cameron Bunnett; Books, Everett Fairman; assistant stewards, Eugene Harrison, George Jeffers, Jim Rapino; solitors, Geo. Stanton and Errol Greenleaf.

Crane Topples Into Gaping Hole

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—A steel crane, used in demolition work on the condemned Glenridge bridge, toppled into a gaping hole Thursday when a bridge arch collapsed. The break will tie up traffic for some time.

Crane operator escaped unhurt. He was shearing sidewalks from the bridge girders in a heavy wrecking ball when the arch gave way.

The 40-year-old structure linked uptown St. Catharines with suburban Glenridge.

$500,000 for Schools

WELLAND (CP)—The board of education faces a bill for nearly $500,000.

Dr. Dan Cohen, newly-elected board chairman, said Thursday:

"A $238,000 extension is planned for the high and vocational school and a eight-room public school is to be built for $160,000.

Sought to Pay Up Insurance After Man Dead

TORONTO (CP) — A Hamilton man lost a $100,000 insurance claim Thursday because premium payment was a day late.

Norman F. Firth, former Hamilton insurance agent, told the Western Life Assurance Company in Ontario Supreme Court he paid a total of $100,000 under an insurance policy a lumber company had taken out on the life of James G. White, former Progressive Conservative member of the Ontario legislature for Kenora and assigned to him.

Mr. Firth said the Policy was assigned to him as part of an agreement by which he invested 100,000 in the lumber company.

The policy was taken out on April 15, 1951, and was to run until April 13, 1956. Premiums were to be paid annually by Mr. Firth.

HIS OWN LIFE

Mr. White shot himself at his home in Dryden early May 14, 1952, a few hours before he was scheduled to appear in court to answer criminal charges of fraud involving 78,000 in mining stocks and pulp and paper deals in the Southampton district.

Mr. Firth said he learned of Mr. White's death May 14 and that he went to the bank that afternoon and had a cheque for the premium endorsed by the bank manager. He said he knew that the insurance company office around 8 p. m. and since the building was locked put the cheque containing the cheque under the door.

The insurance company refused the claim on the ground that the premium was due April 13, 1952 and that the days of grace allowed to pay the premium expired May 13.

Mr. Justice W. F. Spence ruled that "prompt payment is the very essence of the business of life insurance. Forfeiture is not to be avoided unless it is something in the contract itself to dispense with it."

WILL PROVIDE

Another transport measure will be aimed at consolidating legislation affecting the publicly-owned Canadian National Railways.

The government will propose to assume responsibility for insuring the export of power. There will be amendments to the Electricity and Fluids Exportation Act—the measure by which such authority now is exercised—to fill in control works which affect the normal flow of rivers crossing the international boundary in the United States.

This bill, the speech said, will be the purpose of "ensuring that natural resources are developed in the best interests of the Canadian public." It is understood to be aimed partly at the pending bill to provide for the British Columbia government and the Kaiser aluminum interests in the B. C. for Columbia river water power, which the federal government considers unsatisfactory.

MORE

AMEND BLIND ACT

Amendments will be sought to the Blind Persons Act, to lower the age of eligibility and raise the permissible income ceilings for pensioners. The eligible age proposed is 21. The present 45 would be lowered to 18.

Permissible incomes vary from $840 a year for single blind persons to $1,440 for a couple both blind.

The speech said legislation will be proposed to replace the Meat and Canned Food Act by measures to provide for the establishment of standards for all agricultural products and for the inspection of meat.

The speech listed — by name only — a long series of measures to which amendments will be proposed, including the Emergency Gold Mining Assistance Act and the Municipal Grants Act.

Gold mining aid, it has been reported, will consist of a renewal for 1955 of the subsidy for marginal mines that expired at the end of 1954, with perhaps a change in formula reducing the ever-all cost of about $18,000,000 a year.

HIGHER GRANTS

An improved deal for municipalities having considerable tax-free federal property is expected under the Municipal Grants Act. It has been reported there will be higher property amounting to more than two per cent of their total assessment will get grants equal to full municipal taxation. At present those with more than four per cent get grants equal to 75 per cent of tax.

Another announcement in the speech said Parliament will be asked to provide for renewal of Ripple Rock, a menace to navigation on the British Columbia coast north of Vancouver.

Dealing with external affairs, the speech said Parliament will be asked to approve the Paris agreements for the rearmament of Germany and her admission into NATO.

While there was hopeful evidence that the strength of the Free World had increased, the threat of aggression, the free nations must maintain efforts to build their forces.

TO RAISE BENEFITS

While no details of the unemployment insurance proposals were given in the speech, it was learned earlier that the major provision will be the raising of unemployment benefits equal to normal benefits.

At present, those qualifying for supplementary benefit get 80 per cent of normal benefits. The supplementaries are paid during the first three months of the year, mainly by those qualified for regular benefits whose benefit period has run out. The change is expected to cost about $6,000,000 a year.

Earlier forecasts of a general streamlining of the Unemployment Insurance Act were confirmed in the throne speech. This will be done in a bill to be introduced before passage of the high-priority supplementary insurance measure. The changes, it was understood, will include elimination of the present stamp-book system and its replacement by a simplified method.

BECAUSE SUBSTITUTES

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Two oversize Christmas candles attracted the attention of the father superior in a Greek church near the capital, Christmas night by the Julian calendar. The candles had been brought by two strangers who said they had made a vow and asked the monks to permit the candles to burn through the night. The father superior became suspicious and took the candles to the police. They were found to contain dynamite.

Elizabethan Party Planned In Britain

LONDON (Reuters)—A five-man committee Thursday opened a campaign to form a new British political grouping—the Elizabethan party—pledged to "defend the Commonwealth" as a strong "third force" countering both the United States and Russia.

The committee began sending out thousands of leaflets to enlist backers, setting out a right-wing, 18-point policy. Among the points listed were the return of British bases leased to the United States during the Second World War, the tighter military integration of the Commonwealth and anti-Communist legislation. It opposed the unrestricted flow of immigrants without means into Britain and nationalization of industries.

Committee chairman Frederick Goetz, a 42-year-old publicist, said the Elizabethan party plans to contest parliamentary by-elections "in the near future" and put up candidates at the next general election, due before October, 1956.

"We feel that there are millions of men and women in Britain who are urgently looking for an alternative to the present political setup in this country," Guest said.

Backing him are working newspaperman and a former Socialist so far there is no sign they have major influential support.

SLIDE, GRANDMA, SLIDE

Co-operation has been urged as the key-note for the conduct of municipal affairs in 1938. A splendid example of teamwork is being provided by the Weatherman and our City Fathers, who have combined in admirable style to make life thrilling for Belleville residents of all ages.

First of all the Weatherman laid down a sheet of ice which would make a polar bear feel right at home. Not being polar bears, Belleville citizens found this sheet of ice provided many opportunities for entertainment.

A less imaginative works department would have hastily covered the Weatherman's artistry with gritty sand or sinah-making salt, spoiling the fun of everyone. Not so in Belleville, where life is exciting.

True, the works department made a few gestures towards convention. Streets which carry much outside traffic have been sanded. Even sidewalks on hills have been getting their load of sand after the early morning rush is over. Many of the streets and most of the sidewalks, however, have been unspoiled.

This has provided a lot of excitement for everyone. Children have been able to skate, instead of walk, to school. Adults have been presented with a golden opportunity to try for the jackpot. Even a good old week-end spent in hospital would be an excellent method of fattening the bank account. Nor would the city suffer. It is covered by liability insurance. One is not supposed to inquire, of course, what would happen if insurance rates next year if many of our citizens manage to fall into a pot of goff. One is not supposed to know that insurance companies have a peculiar habit of making money, and that when it comes to liability insurance for municipalities they base their rates on past experience in each separate municipality, so that, in effect, the city pays in the future for citizens in the past.

Besides making life interesting for all, the City Fathers in their co-operation with the Weatherman are making a splendid show of independence of senior governments. It is obvious that if conventional methods had been followed and streets and sidewalks had been promptly sanded, men would have had to be employed to do this work. They would be needed in the busy season of the year when unemployment is at its peak and to have hired them might have been misinterpreted as an acceptance by the municipality of the responsibility for caring for the unemployed. The policy adopted avoids any such sinister result. It leaves the unemployed looking for jobs while at the same time improving business for skate grinders, sharpening knives in both hospital and garage), and even morticians.

Quick Henry, the liniment!

THE FEUD OF THE NUDES

The Feud of the Nudes is in full swing in Toronto. Mayor Nathan Phillips, taking heart from seven lantern-jawed challenges of Boyd Saunder's miracle-making four-minute mile, proved that no record is so good that it cannot be surpassed.

There were those who were convinced that his predecessor, Mayor Leslie Saunders, had achieved the ultimate in the speed with which he stuck his neck out almost before his seat had sunk into the plush cushions of the chair's depths. Mayor Phillips, however, added something new, migrating from the City Hall to the University of Toronto's Hart House to comment on a question which was certainly none of his official business and about which he probably knows next to nothing.

A joint faculty-student committee had arranged an exhibition which included three paintings of nudes which annoyed Mayor Phillips. The faculty member of the committee, appears to have summed up the situation very nicely. He says he is "duly impressed by Phillips' feat as mayor" but as we all are "duly impressed." It is the most illuminative comment that one could ask on the nature of Toronto's body politic.

This would be the best joke of the new year if it were true. The fact that, as the president Lloyd Watson of the Ontario Society of Artists has observed, the mayor's action has dangerous implications.

As a matter of fact Mayor Phillips has every right to object to the showing of these nude paintings if he desires to do so. He has the right, as a private citizen, to request that they be taken down.

Like every other man in public office, though, he will find it difficult to dissociate himself from the office he holds. Any view he expresses, any request he makes, will be regarded as the view or the request of the Mayor of the City of Toronto unless he takes every precaution to make it plain that this view or this request is voiced by Mr. Nathan Phillips, citizen. As Mayor of Toronto he has a right to object to nude paintings and to request that they be taken down, because nude paintings are not a subject which come within the jurisdiction of the mayor. Mayors, reeves, members of parliament and members of the legislature are not elected to control every aspect of our lives although some of them find it extremely difficult to realize this fact.

"This sort of thing could be carried too far," says Mr. Watson, the president of the Society of Artists.

It not only could be carried too far but it has already been carried too far, on too many occasions.

What the University of Toronto should do is to start a short course for mayors—a course, that is, that would have a short curriculum but which, alas, might have to run for a long time before the single lesson was learned.

That lesson is simple.

Mayors should attend to their own business, which is the proper conduct of the municipal affairs of their cities.

HOME SCENE

Nothing lovelier to see,
Nothing lovelier to hear
Than a little child of three
Praying: "God, bless mamma dear."

Folded hands upon the bed,
Pure of heart and body clean,

Closed the eyes and bowed the head;
There can be no lovelier scene.

Stilled the room, and then the voice
Asking God for all to care.
Of all lovely things, my choice
Would be this: a child at prayer.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

January 7, 1918.

Inauguration of the city council took place this morning as the city hall and the aldermanic seats were in attendance, including the mother of His Worship Mayor Geo. O. Ponton, who has passed the 80th year of her age and on this occasion was the fourth successive time she has witnessed the installation of her son as mayor of the city. The mayor was escorted to the chair by two junior aldermen, Ald. Richard D. Arnott and Ald. Glencoe Thompson. The Rev. W. J. Walker, the recently appointed minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, opened the meeting with prayer. Mayor Ponton delivered an excellent address to the council, setting forth the position of the city and the business of the coming year. At the closing of the address a vote of thanks was tendered to the council was conveyed to the mayor by Ald. T. W. Jones. The following committee chairmen were elected: executive, Ald. T. Y. Willson; public works, Ald. Ben Safe; waterworks, Ald. W. R. McCreary; fire, Ald. Harry Hill; market and city property, Ald Thomas Marshall; light, Ald. Frank Demorest; industries, Ald. R. D. Arnott; printing and advertising, Ald. William Harvey; labor, Ald. Glencoe Thompson; power, Ald. Frank Wetten and R. H. Stiver. The resignation of J. Vincent Doyle from the Hall of Fame was accepted with regret and the clerk was instructed to forward a letter of appreciation to Mr. Doyle for his good work as a member of the Hall of Fame during the past seven years. The new members of the council are: Aldermen Bronson, Arnott, Thompson and Hodge.

30 YEARS AGO

Mr. Charles E. Hanna, M.P., spent yesterday in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Patrick have returned home from Peterborough where they spent holidays with relatives.

Mr. R. J. Graham will leave shortly for San Francisco, California, and will sail from there for Honolulu.

Mr. W. E. Wiggins of Bancroft, reeve of Faraday township, was in the city on county business.

Mr. Arnold Carr has left to resume his studies at McMaster University after spending the holidays at his home here.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Dent and daughter of Detroit, Mich., are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. Manley.

Mrs. A. M. Weddell has returned to Toronto after visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Brunin, Everett St.

The Belleville Poultry Show will open on Tuesday in the Armouries. Up to the present 400 entries have been received.

The Rev. D. W. R. MacTavish of Toronto has been invited to become the minister of St. Peter's Presbyterian Church in Madoc.

The Ritchie Company has kindly offered the use of its large millinery department in the Quinte Chapter of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire to be used as a tea room and the offer has been accepted. The tea room will open on January 11 and will be open every afternoon, and ladies of the chapter will be in attendance to serve afternoon tea. The proceeds will be used to donations to the Belgian Relief Fund and the Children's Shelter.

Mr. Arthur McGie has received a Christmas box from which he is much pleased. It is a Scotch coin sent from Aberdeen, Scotland, by Mr. Thomas P. J. Power. The coin is appropriately enclosed with a wreath of Scotch thistles, shield and ribbon.

"Old Probs" promised snow and this time the weather man spoke by the book, yesterday it arrived in great quantities. Business is almost at a standstill, trains are delayed and late in arriving here. It looks like old times with sleighs beside five feet high on Front Street.

The Rev. A. H. Drumm, minister of John Street Presbyterian Church, addressed the men's meeting at the Y.M.C.A. on Sunday afternoon.

Virtue's Last Sanctuary

(Toronto Globe and Mail)

Throughout the world, and possibly on some of the nearer planets, Toronto is famed for its high standards of morality. When a book or a daily newspaper, announcing the retirement of two editors, draw attention to the fact that neither had ever touched alcohol or tobacco? What other city can match the quiet decorum of Toronto's beer parlors, the refined wit of its cocktail-lounge entertainers, the ingrained courtesy of its subway riders, or the lofty intellectual tone of its council meetings? If, in this wicked world, virtue has any last sanctuary, it must surely be in the streets of Jaz—that is to say, Queen and Bay.

But worms get into the healthiest apples. In some parts of Toronto, it is said, the barbaric lyrics of drinking songs and the rattail-lounge entertainers, the ingrained courtesy of its subway riders, or the lofty intellectual tone of its council meetings! If, in this wicked world, virtue has any last sanctuary, it must surely be in the streets of Jaz—that is to say, Queen and Bay.

But worms get into the healthiest apples. In some parts of Toronto, it is said, the barbaric lyrics of drinking songs and the rattail, quivering speech of the native-born. Instances are reported unsettlingly often from the outer suburbs—where riches have been heaped upon the heads of peasants. Two housewives fainting on a Dupont car last week when some one, quoting Shakespeare, broke out and said "1735". And—worst of all—reports that a well-dressed woman keep popping up in other places than the pages of the society columns.

The latest case was at the University of Toronto, in the building where three such pictures were included in an exhibition of contemporary art. Some of the authorities were quick to protest. But one of the three offending pictures has been removed. Whether it, or they, or Hart House itself, will be burned, has not yet been announced. If such action is necessary for the protection of youthful innocence, we may feel sure that our sons and daughters will not hesitate to take it.

There are those, of our midst who prate of art, culture and the like. There are some, even, who profess to know what art is. But nothing to do with it—that Hart House door is open—under the City Hall's jurisdiction. We do not suggest that these people, too, should be run out of town. They should be forcibly reminded; a few of them to the stocks (stiff to do the trick) or the charterielie which has given this community its unique tone and character. Not tact, not taste, not tolerance, but Toronto.

Uncle Sam certainly does some baffling things. Take the recent shutdown of the daily newspaper, the Wiener Journal, in Vienna, Austria.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

GUMPTION

A theological professor once addressed a group of new students as follows: "Gentlemen, if you need three things if you are to be successful—gifts, God's grace, and gumption. We can do nothing to help you as to the last. I can give you the first two gifts. We can by training and prayer help you to gain grace, but I regret I do not have gumption, neither God nor man can help you, and I advise you not to even tinue your studies."

"Gumption" means common sense, shrewdness, cleverness. The word signifies the innate sense some people have for doing the right road and doing the right thing without being able precisely to say just why they do it. Highly educated person who appears to fail in everything. Here also is a person who never finished grade six and yet becomes rich on popularity and huge success. It would be hard to define why one has failed and the other succeeded, but the word "gumption" is used widely as good an explanation as any.

We would disagree however with the professor in this instance that gumption cannot be developed. Life would be hopeless if such were true. Some people have gumption as a gift. Others acquire it—for it can be acquired. We have it forced upon them after the circumstances of life have kicked them all over the place.

But gumption can be secured and cultivated like any other quality.

'Baptized at Both Ends'

(Robert Musel in United Press Dispatch from London)

"Sirsidivarius violin for sale cheap. Almost new."

Denys Parsons, who knows half one hundred misprints can be another's fortune, extracted that newspaper advertisement from the collection written for him by the rumbling fingers of writers and publishers in Fleet street.

A lean and cynical Briton with a flair for the errors that creep into modern publications, Parsons has made best seller lists with his own errors that he has collected.

Parsons considers a "garble" the typographical or unwitting grammar which gives a sentence an effect not intended by the writer. He finds them in the mail of correspondence — like this note to a tailor:

"You may imagine it is impossible to obtain a serviceable suit at this price for one time as us and be convinced."

Sometimes it is all garbles, but he has a few strong favorites. One of them is this letter to a London newspaper:

"Mr. Jones is wrong to suggest that the Bible contains a text against the poor. To the Christian there is no such distinction. That idea was largely concocted by the working classes."

He also treasures:

"The font so generously presented by Mrs. Smith will be set in position at the east end of the church. Babies may now be had at the vestry door."

And this testimonial—

"My husband took an accident policy with your company and in less than a month he was accidentally drowned. Consider it a good investment."

And another report:

"Tomorrow we may expect strong northeast winds reaching gumless impulses for two days."

And this news dispatch:

"About 11 a.m. there broke out in the pack part of the premises of Messrs. Blank, sausage and provision dealers, where several horses were rescued."

And this advertisement:

"Don't kill your wife with work. Let electricity do it."

Parsons found that in a provincial paper:

"Miss Blank sang with great feeling: 'Oh relieve me of all those endearing young charms'."

MY RECOMMENDATION MAKES CHEAP MEDICINE EFFECTIVE

For many years you could buy in any drugstore for a few cents the medicine I recommended for this or that trouble — such as sodium acetate, boric acid; iron and ammonium citrates; salicylic acid and flexible collodion or a ready-made solution of salicylic acid (30 grains) in one-half fluid-ounce of flexible collodion, commonly known as corn cure; unground flaxseed; dried chamomile flowers (Hungarian, German, Italian, English, whatever kind the druggist has) for making chamomile tea to apply to leg ulcers.

From a few isolated and farfetched instances of alleged poisoning by one or another of these home remedies the medical big shots who hate my style manage to persuade the federal authorities to take steps providing that the medicine shall be sold only on physician's prescription.

An Iowa reader complains that, having used the salicylic acid collodion corn remedy for many years, always with satisfaction, now he finds that the salicylic acid part of it requires a physician's prescription and the druggist can't even legally dislike the idea of paying a doctor $2 to authorize the druggist to sell him a few cents' worth of salicylic acid. Well, the doctors have to live, don't they?

Sodium citrate (citrate of soda) was used for years in the baby's bottle to prevent formation of large curds. It is the main ingredient in the Fruit Salts Medicine.

Many druggists now inform my patrons that they can't sell an ounce of sodium citrate without a physician's prescription. Whether this is some municipal or state regulation or one imposed by the federal bureau, it is absurd and, in my opinion, not motivated by an honest concern for public welfare.

For many years S. S. S. A. (saturated solution of boric acid) has been used in hospitals, dispensaries and home as a safe, non-irritating or actually soothing solution for sore mouth, mouth wash, gargle, wound washing. In the nursery the rubber nipples for nursing-bottles have been kept in S. S. S. A. between feedings. Gentle enemas of odorless and scentless have used boric acid — but now some obscure "scientific investigator" has put a popular prescription as astonishing report of his finding which shows that boric acid is a dangerous poison and should be forwith discarded . . . This is ridiculous. Boric acid is as useful and as safe as it was before the magazine article was printed.

TODAY'S TALK

THE SECRET OF SUCCESS

I have no idea why that term "secret of success" ever came about, for success isn't a secret at all. The rules are all out in the open. Have a worthy purpose and then pursue it. Have faith and never complain about working, for work is the key to all success.

Have many interests outside the one that dominates your life. Keep your mind open to what is going on in the world. You appreciate the things you know about. And you can't have great deal about many things, and enjoyment of life will be that much richer.

Make usefulness, not money, your guiding star, for money, useful, you can't help but gain materially profit from it. Your greatest happiness will always depend upon how much of it you give away.

Courtesy, kindness, unselfishness, cheerfulness, faith in God —these are all simple attitudements involving one's own self, yet they are but a couple of the things that contribute to success in life. Anyone observing them, however, will, at once, correctly judge that there could not be any failure in the life that has.

The most important business is the business of life. Master your own life and you'll need no one to chart your way. You'll keep your head in the stars, to the songs of the wind, and in the call of the Seasons. You'll be one with them while something set aside in the bank. You think ahead instead of behind. The secrets are within you!

THE PACKSACK

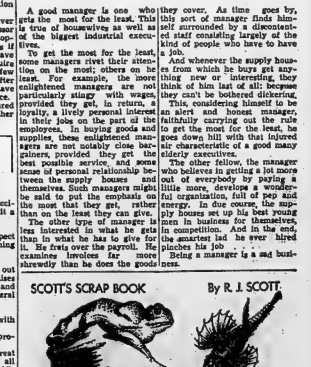
By GREGORY CLARK

A good manager is one who gets the most for the least. Efficiency of businesses as well as of the biggest industrial executive.

To get the most for the least, some managers rivet their attention on the lowest cost; others on the least. For example, the more highly paid employees are particularly stingy with wages, provided they get, in return, a loyalty, a keenness of application in their jobs on the part of the employees, a low cost of repairs and supplies, these enlightened managers are not notably close barrioners, provided they get the best possible service, and some sense of personal relationship between the supply houses and themselves. Such managers might be said to put the emphasis on the most that they get, rather than on the least they can give.

The other type of manager is less interested in what he gets than in what he has to give for it. He frets over the payroll. He quibbles over repairs. He is shrewdly than he does the goods they cover. As time goes by, he gets a reputation for being self surrounded by a discontented staff consisting largely of the type that would never be hired for a job.

And whenever the supply houses from which he buys get anything new or interesting, he is the last person to be approached because they can't be bothered dickering.



This, considering himself to be a good manager, and thought faithfully carrying out the rule of getting the most for the least, goes down hill with that injured air characteristic of a good many unappreciated men.

The other fellow, the manager who believes in getting a lot more out of everybody by paying a little more, develops a wonderful organization of pep and energy. In due course, the supply houses see to it that young men in business for themselves, in competition. And in the end the unappreciated never hired pinches his job . . . and succeeds.

Being a manager is a sad business.

Warrender Backs Report Urging More Immigrants

OTTAWA (CP) — Ontario Planning Minister Warrender, supporting a recent Canadian Chamber of Commerce recommendation that immigration be stepped up with a view to doubling the population, said today Canada must have more people if it is to take full advantage of the opportunities before it.

"We in Canada have laid the foundations for continuing development which can lead to a well-sustained, high rate of prosperity," Mr. Warrender said, "providing we the full advantage of the opportunities lying before us.

"In short, we must have a greater number of Canadians . . . to keep our forests and mines factories working on a high level of production."

APPROVES REPORT

Mr. Warrender, speaking to the annual meeting of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce, referred to a recent Canadian chamber report on immigration as "excellent" and called the reasons for it "sound."

The report urged increased immigration with a goal of doubling Canada's 15,000,000 population by 1975.

Mr.-Warrender's remarks were contained in the text of his speech issued to the press in advance of delivery.

The Ontario cabinet minister said a larger population would provide more markets for domestic consumers, producers of new and more goods for Canadians to sell at home and abroad, more tax-payers and more defenders should the nation's safety ever be threatened.

SOURCES DRY UP

There was a misconception that Canada should take a "very restricted view of immigration to prevent our being flooded with a greater flow of immigrants than we can absorb," Mr. Warrender added:

"Actually just the opposite is true. The sources of desirable and available immigrants are drying up."

Another misconception was that immigrants take a drain on the economy. He offered an illustration to show this was not so.

Ontario, which had absorbed at least 700,000 of the 1,100,000 persons immigrating to Canada since the war, brought 10,000 British immigrants to the province in 1947-48.

EQUALS CITY SIZE

It was estimated that when these were joined by their families the number increased to about 25,000—"in other words, the addition of a city a little smaller than Guelph."

The yearly income in a city that size was about $21,000,000 and income tax payments nearly $2,000,000.

"Reducing this to very simple terms—25,000 additional citizens mean new purchasers for 4,000,000 loaves of bread every year.

"Project this to purchase of automobiles, refrigerators, stoves, shoes and the thousands of items new householders must possess and you have a consumer market which will keep the wheels of industry all over Canada turning for many a day."

Wife of Chief Engineer Happy

GRAND BANK, Nfld. (CP)—Fred Reydell's bride wept for joy Thursday night because her man is coming home from the sea.

The wife of the chief engineer of the United Student Prince II breaks down after hours of agonizing uncertainty. So did a score of mothers, sisters and other wives when word reached here that the fishing vessel's 10 man crew had been plucked from the Atlantic north of Bermuda.

A laconic message numbed the villaggers with the first word of the vessel's plight and it was an equally brief message that brought them racing helter skelter into the streets to embrace one another and repeat the good news of the rescue by the Queen of Bermuda.

John Hardiman and his wife, both in their 70s, sat quietly throughout the day, side by side. Two of their sons died at sea, one by enemy action during the Second World War. A third was aboard the Student Prince.

Scientists Have Good News For Fly Fishermen

OTTAWA (CP) — Fisheries scientists came up Thursday with good news for the fly fisherman.

They say it is scientifically possible to transform small, infertile lakes into waters that will support good populations of those fighting little fellows—the eastern trout or brook trout.

Scientists of the Atlantic ecological station at St. Andrews, N.B., reported to the fisheries research board that by fertilization of plant life, the planting of hatchery-produced fry and control of predators, they have transformed formerly barren Crecy lake in Charlotte county, N.B., into a trout fisherman's dream.

The experiment took three years but the annual catch has been increased 24 times and the number of fish per acre has gone more than four times and the pounds of fish per acre eight times.

The scientists said the cost would make the procedure impractical for large lakes.

Minister Gives Friendly Advice

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario Agriculture Minister Thomas had some friendly advice for farmer Thursday.

Don't feel badly when a son says he is quitting the farm for the city, he said.

He told the annual banquet of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association:

"If a boy doesn't want to stay on the farm and doesn't have a love for the farm, the sooner he leaves the better."

ALWAYS OTHERS

There will always be others to take his place, he said.

Mr. Thomas also spoke on what he considered a farmer's obligations.

"The day has gone when you heard people say: 'I'm only a farmer.' Now they say: 'I'm a farmer, a businessman.'

"The job you are doing is the most important part of the whole economy," he said.

Mr. Thomas said today's farmer is no longer simply a tiller of the soil. He must apply sound business methods to his farm or go under.

Buffalo Bisons Of AHL Sold To Chicago Hawks

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Sale of a controlling interest in Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League to Chicago Black Hawks of the National League was reported by the Buffalo Evening News.

Control of the local club had been held by Louis M. Jacobs of Jacobs Beverage Co., a stadium Sportservice, Inc., a stadium Sportservice, Inc., a stadium arena concession firm, and Bisons star operater on a national basis.

No purchase price was announced, but it was believed to have been about $150,000.

Negotiations for the sale were believed to have been under way since last August.

The News says Freddie Hunt will remain as general manager and Gaye Stewart as coach, and that the Black Hawks also would ask S. Edgar Dunlop to remain as club president, among with other officers and directors.

GET 30 PLAYERS

Purchase of the Bisons gives the Black Hawks title to about 30 players—20 of them professionals—and the others amateurs in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League. The Hawks, who have already spent a considerable sum in rebuilding in recent months, get the Bisons franchise, the Bison players, the Bison working agreement with Ft. Wayne in the International League and St. Catharines TeePees of the OHA Junior League.

The sale follows a Sportservice policy to get out of the professional field and confine its activity to the concession business. Sportservice sold its control of the baseball Bisons in the International League to the Detroit Tigers three years ago.

Captain Tells How Ten Men Were Rescued

NEW YORK (Reuters) — The master of the Furness-Withy liner Queen of Bermuda described Thursday how, "on a sea spotted with a fresh gale," the Queen lowered nine men in a lifeboat to rescue the crew of the Newfoundland fishing vessel Student Prince II.

Capt. Leslie Banyard of Sussex, England, said in telephone interview that the luxury liner was about 65 miles from Bermuda when it received a distress call Wednesday night from the fishing vessel. The U.S. coast guard informed him that the Queen was the nearest ship to the sinking vessel and he immediately started back on the 150-mile dash to save the men.

"I ran the ship within a mile of the Student Prince," he said. "Then, on a sea spouting a fresh gale, we lowered our own lifeboat with nine of our crew aboard."

WITHIN 100 YARDS

Banyard said he brought his ship within 100 yards of the Student Prince while the lifeboat tried to make its way in the stormy sea.

Passengers on the Queen of Bermuda gathered at the side of the ship to watch the rescue operations.

The nine British sailors were finally able to bring the lifeboat alongside and took on board the Student Prince's whole crew, Banyard said. The fishing vessel later sank. There were no serious injuries among the crew of the Student Prince, but one man had a fractured right ankle.

Soldiers With Long Service Want to Stay In

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—The big majority of soldiers with long service in the army say in the army.

But the majority of men with only three years' service prefer to return to Civvy street.

These trends in service life are shown in engagement percentages—the percentage of men who sign on for another subsequent hitch—made available by the army Thursday for the first time in 15 years.

By October, 1954, thousands of men had been recruited in the army came up for re-engagement after serving a three-year hitch and a subsequent five-year term.

LARGEST NUMBER

It was the largest number of soldiers ever to come up for re-engagement at a single period in this number, 87 per cent had already served eight years, the remainder 13 per cent only three years.

Of the 87 per cent, 52 out of every 100 soldiers elected to stay in the army for at least another hitch. Of the 13 per cent, 36 out of every 100 soldiers decided to stay in and 62 to return to civilian life.

Actual figures of the number of men staying in or leaving the army are secret. If they were made public, any potential enemy service could judge fairly accurately the efficiency of the army and number of well-trained men in its ranks.

Liberal Leader Says Govt. Is Responsible

TORONTO (CP)—Farquhar Oliver, Liberal Opposition leader in the Ontario legislature, said Thursday the Ontario government as a whole is responsible for the situation which led to the discovery of irregularities in building contracts.

"It cannot escape liability for it by singling out the minister of highways to be made the scapegoat," he said in a statement.

George Doucett resigned as highways minister Wednesday and said he had been concerned over the irregularities. James N. Allan of Dunsville was appointed as his successor.

"ESTABLISHED PRINCIPLE"

"From 1812 it has been an established principle that all cabinet ministers are to be formed on some basis of political union agreed upon by the members and they accept collective responsibility," Mr. Oliver said. "It is now also distinctly understood that the members of a cabinet are jointly and severally responsible for each other's acts and that any attempt to distinguish between a particular minister and his colleagues in such matters is unconstitutional.

"Premier Frost himself paid homage to this principle when with Harvey Cotnam, Progressive Conservative member, he assumed the immediate direction and control of the highways department following each and every overpayment was by way of cheque and paid out of the treasury department of which the premier is head, and not out of the highways department. The responsibility therefore, not one department but at least two.

"EVIL SYSTEM"

"A study of the facts shows that the government itself not only acquiesced, in but depended upon this evil system of lump bedegrees over payments and improper tendering.

"In the light of recent developments and in view of the conclusions and questions raised it is inconceivable that the responsibility which the former minister of highways attempts to assume can be divorced from that which properly belongs to the government of which he was a part."

Do Not Want Holiday

OTTAWA (CP)—Remembrance Day should be observed in school and not at home, the Canadian Chamber of Commerce said Thursday. It called for elimination of Nov. 11 as a compulsory school holiday.

The chamber said in many cases a public and high school students could get a more effective impression of the sacrifices made by the war dead by special services in schools—while they are in session —on Armistice Day.

Question Wisdom Of U.S. Military Manpower Cuts

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — General applause for the military sections of President Eisenhower's "State of the Union" message has failed to stifle critics in Congress questioning the wisdom of military manpower cutbacks.

Many Democrats and some Republicans say they will await further details before making up their minds about the proposal to trim strength from the army, navy and marine corps.

And Democrats are wondering how to square it with what their leaders called a "new deal-ish" domestic program laid before Congress Thursday by Eisenhower.

The president appeared to have put the opposition party on the defensive with his message in which he asked action or laid the groundwork for future requests on 25 foreign and domestic problems.

First reaction to the president's call for "continuous consultation" between the Democratic-controlled Congress and the Republican executive branch was one of outwardly warm acceptance.

But there was disagreement in both parties with Eisenhower's plea to "let the general good be the compelling test" in new Metropolitan Opera House in New York. They will start their tour in St. John's, Nfld.

Key Democrats criticized the president's plea for continuance of high farm price supports, called his report on economic conditions "too optimistic," turned thumbs down informally on proposed revision of the Taft-Hartley labor act and urged a larger boost in the statutory minimum wage than the suggested.

There was enthusiastic bipartisan backing for Eisenhower's foreign policy objective of attaining a "durable peace," but even this was perhaps an ominous silence from Democratic ranks greeted his explanation of how he hopes to achieve military manpower reduction while maintaining the armed forces in balance.

Trend to Wider, Longer Cars Is Criticized

OTTAWA (CP) — The Thorold Board of Trade Thursday called on the automobile industry to pay more attention to engineering and less to what it termed "frivolous feminine foibles" in design.

The board, in a resolution before the Ontario Chamber of Commerce, also criticized the trend to longer and wider cars and wider doors which, it said, increased accident hazards, caused embarrassing parking problems and required enlarged private garages.

The chamber decided to refer Thorold's resolution to a committee on highway safety for study.

Thorold suggested that there be no increase in the present 30-mile-an-hour maximum speed on highways and that the maximum speed of trucks be five miles an hour less than passenger cars.

Milk Powder May Be Widely Used in Few Years

TORONTO (CP)—An agricultural economist said Thursday the processing of milk powder could revolutionize milk production in Canada within the next few years.

Prof. R. E. Campbell of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph said instant soluble milk powder is being perfected to the point where it could almost replace fluid milk.

Prof. Campbell told the annual meeting of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association that in time this milk powder could wipe out a good proportion of daily milk deliveries.

"Don't expect it in 1955, but within the next few years it should come," he said.

He said it would make it possible for producers across the country to pool cream and cut transportation would cease to be a major cost.

Three squirt and three midget games were played at the Arena last night with Northern Electric trouncing Robb's 10-0, Lewis Auto winning over Big "A" 3-1 and Booth's blanking Stewart Warner 3-0 in midget games. Rangers, Bruins and Canadiens were victorious in the squirt fixtures.

SQUIRT

Donald Smith paved the way to the Rangers 4-2 win over the Black Hawks with two goals, while Bobby Ridley and Pat Gainey netted one each. Bobby Rushlow and Donald Reid tallied in defeat.

In the Bruins 3-1 victory over the Red Wings, Wayne Brenton and Jimmy McGuire potted one goal each while Peter Mitchell sank the lone Wing marker.

The Canadiens' 5-0 shutout over the Maple Leafs saw Bobby Boyle and Wayne Woods bang home the goals.

MIDGET

Gord "Speedy" St. Louis sparkled the Northern crew with five of their ten goals, while Foster, Bellenger, Fuller, Wannamaker and Rowbotham added singles. Bob Wannamaker picked up five assists, Spafford four and Foster three. Ricky Boomhower answered by eight minor penalties, while the winner had none.

Three players split the scoring points in the Lewis Auto win over first of the year, Carl O'Neil, Jamieson and Kellar each had a goal and added singles were two helpers. Morris scored for the Big "A" team.

Fred Boomhower and Wright tallied once each in Booth's whitewash of Stewart Warner. Caddick and Dolan had assists.

Average Wife Has Created House Terrible

CHICAGO (AP)—An advertising consultant says the average American woman has created not the house beautiful—but the house terrible.

Bernice Fitzgibbon, formerly advertising director for Gimbel's, a New York department store, added that "most American women who do are sure they have created tasteful interiors are really living in shudderingly bad homes."

"The average homemaker is no more equipped to be her own decorator than she is to be her own lawyer, theologian or dentist," Miss Fitzgibbon told a luncheon group.

She criticized people in the home furnishing industry for encouraging the homemakers to buy what they like instead of telling them "what they ought to like."

"Telling the average woman to express her individuality in her home is like a surgeon asking a patient what kind of incision she would like," Miss Fitzgibbon stated.

PREVENTS CHILD'S KIDNAPPING

While firemen and neighbors were busy helping 23 men, women and children from two blazing Toronto houses, Mrs. Frances D'Agostino saved her nephew, Ernest Genilie, from kidnapping. She saw a woman walking away from the blazing houses carrying a bundle. She realized it was the woman, asked her to show what she was carrying. It was Ernest, gone three months, bundled up and hidden beneath the woman's coat. Mrs. D'Agostino had no trouble taking Ernest from the woman.—Central Press Canadian.

'Portrait of Paris' Told by Sparkling Narrative and Gorgeous Colors

Last evening the fine audience which filled the Collegiate auditorium was thrilled with the magnificent portrayal in color of the fabulous city of Paris by the noted world traveller, Cleo Nagel, under the sponsorship of the Kiwanis Club of Belleville. Mr. Nagel, who was introduced by Mr. Vic White, began his travelogue with a brief outline of the history of the city of Paris from the time of Julius Caesar, who found it an island of mud; named it "Lutetia," erected the first stone walls built the public baths; to the expulsion of the English in 1429 by Joan of Arc; down to the golden age with its beautiful palaces when fortunes were spent while the people hungered; through the time of the Republic and the second Empire to the Republic of France in his present day activities, with its glorious color and fascinating architecture. "For 2000 years France has been a pivot on which the history of Europe has revolved. Paris is the city of the ages, but with a heart ever young and gay."

SUNRISE ON THE SEINE

Beginning with sunrise on the River Seine, whose early mists hung like a bridal veil about the lovely scene, Mr. Nagel took his audience for a cruise along the river which divides the city in half; under the graceful arched bridges with their sculptured golden borders through the broad highways, into the market portion with its bird market, and flower market; behind the gorgeous colors; where even the newly hatched baby chicks come forth in yellow, blue, green and purple tints—done by inserting color pigment into the egg; past stately cathedrals; into the Place de la Concord; along the board walks with their book stalls where pedestrians stop and browse at will; past the home of Victor Hugo, the Shakespeare of France; past Napoleon's tomb; into the Museum of Modern Art where the renowned Picasso exhibits; up and up in the elevator to the top of the Eiffel tower, highest steel structure in the world, with the exception of the Empire State Building in New York.

NOTRE DAME

"Among the lovely cathedrals scene, that of Notre Dame, with its beautiful rose window, its strange looking gargoyles—supposed to keep evil spirits away from the holy place; the strains from the organ, largest in the world, and the chimes were a sight and sound long to be remembered.

Other outstanding places visited were the gardens of Versailles with its misty fountains; the Louvre with its wealth of art, depicting the Mona Lisa, Madame Le Brun and daughter, painted by herself from a mirror; the fashion show with its lovely wax dressmaking gowns, with their fabulous prices; the Paris opera; the night life; and the chateaux of the Loire nestling among the hills like jewels.

GARDEN OF ROSES

The garden of roses was an entrancing spot with its 34,000 types and 18,000 bushes. Here were shown the oldest rose, a white, single with petals of four, much like the Canadian wild rose, or the Sweetbriar of the countryside; the pink tinted single type, and gradually evolving to the double, velvety reds; the rich golden yellows, and the red-ringed yellows, as well as the beautiful white roses.

There were parks for children, and miniature lakes where they might sail their boats. Nothing was overlooked for their comfort and amusement. There were street dances where young and old might enjoy themselves, and wayside eating places where friends met from across the world.

LIBERTY PARADE

One of the outstanding pictures was the parade in memory of the leaving down of the Berlin. here were seen the soldiers marching as one man; the fine, spiritied horses; some white Arabians, from Tunisia, and some brown from Morocco, also American tanks complemented by the stirring martial music.

Truly a breath-taking picture story of 2000 years of Paris told by sparkling narrative and color film.

175 Young People Enjoy Bowling Party

Last Wednesday over 175 young people enjoyed a bowling party at the Bow-O-Drome under the sponsorship of the South Hastings district executive.

After bowling for two hours all wended their way to Bridge Street United church, where Ralph Swen, assisted by Evelyn Emerson led in a lively singsong.

The worship service, under the leadership of Bryce Philip; Glen Belcour, and Bob Jeffrey, members of Stirling Y.P.U. followed the theme, "Standing at the portal of the New Year."

The president, Miss Reta Christie, welcomed and thanked the group for the fine number present.

Refreshments were served by members of Bridge Street Y.P.U.

Y's Menettes Arrange For Cooking School

The Y's Menette's Club of Belleville held its first regular meeting of the year on Tuesday evening in the YMCA, with Mrs. J. Fletcher, vice-president in the chair, who welcomed the members and guests, in the absence of the president.

A committee, with Mrs. R. Clarke in charge was formed to plan a program for the YMCA annual meeting.

Mrs. R. Cass gave a report on the progress of arrangements for the Cooking School to be held in the Collegiate, this month. Mr. R. Clarke is to be master of ceremonies and Mr. Linton Read will play the organ. Mrs. Cass reminded the girls to procure the articles for the door prizes and to fill the shopping bags.

The meeting was turned over to Mrs. George Wonnacott and Mrs. G. King, who conducted a lively auction sale. Members and guests participated in the spirited bidding for the jewellery, games, baby clothes, dishcloths, homemade pies and numerous other articles.

A pleasant evening closed with refreshments served by the hostesses for the evening, Mrs. R. Leslie, Mrs. Wm. Holway, Mrs. R. Moorman, Mrs. R. Mooney and Mrs. M. Moffatt.

Fashion Flashes

A mere whisper of a hat, and ever so pretty, is an open crown chignon cap made up of bands of lilac-pink satin with crossed triple bands ending in tiny lilac bouquets.

Fun clothes for resort wear are bright, wearable and cleverly functional. Checked gingham makes a button -front coat style sports worn, or matching shorts with a solid shirt top that is banded at the waist and may be worn as a separate jacket.

Rich tones of brown mark some some of the most delightful of theatrical-season formal fashions. Chestnut brown registers in an evening ensemble, for instance. It has a short satin dress and a deeper brown velvet coat lined in chestnut brown satin to match the dress.

At its finest for evening is black and white, and this perennial color combination is delightfully interpreted in a evening ensemble of black velours woollen, a boxy suit with lining and blouse all of white satin.

Duchess of Kent Will Soon Move Into New Home

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—The Duchess of Kent and her daughter, Princess Alexandra, will be moving into red-brick Kensington palace any day now.

The decorators have left and the duchess' suite is ready for furnishing. The finishing touches are responsible for royal palaces, has topped its job with installation of central heating in the old building, birthplace of Queen Victoria, and centre of storage.

"Much has yet to be done," said a member of her staff. "Many personal touches are still required."

FAMILY GROWS UP

The move underlines the growing up of another part of the royal family. The Duke of Kent, 19, is the army. Princess Alexandra was 18 Christmas day—and came of royal age. Quebec is ninth in line of succession. Prince Michael, 11, the latest member of the Kent family, is away at school most of the time.

Hence the shifting of emphasis from Coppins, Bucks, which will become home to the country home. One of the Duchess' first jobs will be deciding what furniture is to come out of storage.

The duchess' apartment was presented by George VI in 1943, the year her husband died in an air crash in Scotland. It is in the southern section, farthest from the state apartments and museum, open to the public.

The duchess' rooms include an entrance lobby, staircase hall, accommodation for maid, family and staff, and kitchen and servants' quarters. The number of rooms is not divulged but half the space is occupied by staff accommodation and storage space. The unlaylenic, old-type kitchens have been renovated.

"The decorative treatment of the entire apartment," said a representative of the ministry of works, "is in keeping with the character and history of the building." The principal rooms—drawing, dining and sitting rooms—have off-white walls, ceilings and woodwork and the floors are mahogany parquet.

The bedrooms are in pastel shades, the corridors and Hallways are tinted white.

The duchess has a private garden, with central lawn and surrounding flowerbeds.

Mother's Helper

THE SMALL amounts of different kinds of food prepared for your toddler's dinner can cause lots of pan-washing. There's a handy and delicious way out on the market that has three separate casseroles, so you can heat everything at once on one burner—and have one dish to wash.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

BOTH OF YOU SHOULD STICK TO FRIENDS OF YOUR OWN AGE

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Do you think a boy of 21 is too old to go with a girl of 16? My parents think he is too old, but my friends think he is just right. He said himself that he was too old for me, but still he keeps wanting to go out with me.

Somehow, older boys appeal to me more than boys my own age, and I like this boy very much. He told me he loved me, but if he really did, don't you think he would want to see me every day, or at least a couple of days a week?—Mary.

Dear Mary:

Yes, I'm afraid I do think a young man of 21 is not a very suitable companion for a girl of 16. The chap of 21 has been out of school for quite awhile, and presumably, has exchanged his adolescent interests for more mature ones, while the 16-year-old is usually, and should be, actively interested in the things that belong to the school-going years.

I think it would be better if this young man would find his friends among those of his own age, and leave you to your school friends. On your side, it would be much more sensible if you refrained from thinking about "love" in connection with him. It's far better that he doesn't come to see you as often as you apparently think he would, and, if both your sides makes, I hope he will not do so.

It probably makes you feel more grown up to believe that you prefer older boys to those of your own age, but don't carry this too far. I'm sure there are many boys in your school or community who would be much more companionable at this time than any older young man, and you will lose out on a lot of fun if you don't look for such friends.

PARENTS ARE SILENT ON SEX INFORMATION

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Although I have been brought up in a nice home, with parents I love and who love me, I can't understand why they have not been frank with me yet about the facts of life. I am 17 years old.

Can you suggest some books I might read to give me the information I should have? I feel sure my parents would not object to my getting the information this way, as I think they are just embarrassed to talk with me about it.—L. W.

Dear L.W.:

I have a list of books, written for teen-agers, on basic sex information, which I will be very glad to let you have if you will send me a stamped self-addressed envelope. They are all books which you should be able to find in your local public library.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMESON

SYNTHETIC LOVELINESS

Hygienic living conditions and medical science have prolonged the life span. And, simultaneously, cosmetic chemists are prolonging the years of youthful appearance in women.

Laboratories compound toilet articles for which would-be lovelies spend billions of money each year. All of femininity is bent on the interesting project of making birthdays of no importance whatever.

A merry game, what?

The rouge compact serves as an understudy for natural blushes which have departed and a rosy lipstick lends extra glamor to any face.

Finger nails are no longer "naked and unashamed." They are polished to a high degree and contribute greatly to a woman's beauty ensemble.

If your eyebrows were patterned to suit you, why worry? You do some tweezing and teasing, extend them with the pencil. Lashes too light of color? What of it? Mascara will transform them into arches as dark as the raven's wing.

On occasion, when you would display a mysterious, come-hither look, you put a bit of coloring on your eyelids. Blue for the blonde or brunette; bronze best for the girl with copper-colored hair and hazel eyes. Green is for the redhead: it does something to bring out the highlights of her flaming locks.

The time has even come when one does not have to bear with hair of an uninteresting color. One has an appointment at the beauty parlor for a color rinse—and, if you will it, it washes away with the next shampoo and you are "as was."

All these things are pleasantly exciting, like changes in fashions.

Readers' Friday Column

BARRIE READER ATTENTION:

On December 14 a letter appeared here from Hilda W. Now I have a letter from another reader who would like me to forward some information to her regarding treatment for epileptics. Would Hilda W. please send me her address?

QUESTION:

I am writing for a receipt for scrambled eggs and also apple dumplings cooked on top of stove as I once had a receipt and cooked here that way and she said she first made a brown sugar syrup, then put them in that.—Mrs. Charles F. -

ANSWER:

PERFECT SCRAMBLED EGGS (For 4)

Break 4 eggs into bowl and beat until mixed then add 4 tablespoons milk or cream and 1-4 teaspoon salt and shake of pepper. Beat just enough to mix well. Melt 2 tablespoons butter till light gold shade in frying pan, quickly add egg mixture and over high heat cook until bottom layer is just set, then push it aside and allow liquid part to flow around it over bottom of pan, continue pushing aside cooked part until all of mixture is set and layered. Serve at once.

BOILED APPLE DUMPLING DOUGH:

Two cups flour, 5 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, about 3-4 cup milk; sift together flour, baking powder and salt and stir in just enough milk to make a dough soft enough to roll out. Spread over it evenly about 1 1-2 cups finely chopped tart apples, sprinkle them with 1-2 cup sugar and 1-2 or 1 teaspoon cinnamon or 1-2 teaspoon nutmeg and 1-4 teaspoon grated lemon rind. Roll up. With sharp knife cut into 1 inch slices. (If desired at this stage these may be wrapped in cheesecloth or pieces of parchment paper to prevent fruit from falling out. Drop into boiling hot syrup made of 1 1-2 cups brown or white sugar (or maple syrup) and 1 1-2 cups boiling water. If desired you may add some stick cinnamon and some red coloring.) Boil, covered, for 20 minutes, or until apples are tender. Serve syrup over dumplings when served.

LETTER:

Yes Ma'am! It's Lil the Limey calling Canadian Mary Moore Cook. I just had to put pen to paper to let you know that your 1954 Christmas cake looks and smells wonderful! Wow! What a cake. . . the smalls are fast entering our little kingdom. They are just out of the oven looking hot and bothered. If I remember correctly it was Pete who said "This is the cake for 1954."

I made it the same, only instead of fruit juice I added rum. Now Mary, don't think we are drinkers but we always have a sip add brandy to the Christmas pudding, as I lived in France so many years rum there was used for cakes too. . . I now have to wait Christmas Day to see how the cakes taste. If it is like the smalls not only will I pass the recipe on to my daughter but to the grandchildren too should I be spared to see the time long enough for the latter. . . what about a Mary Moore Cook Book? . . . If only for your special recipes I'm sure they would sell like hot cakes. . . —Limey Frog Lil, the Lone Ranger.

ANSWER:

Hello again Limey Lil. Your letters are so full of life they fairly leap from the page. Every time readers ask for a Mary Moore Cook Book I say some such thing as yes, in the lovely leisurely rosy distant future. I have a wonderful intention. Thanks for a letter that gave me a wonderful lift. Don't forget that taste of rum.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

SHOULD BRIDE-TO-BE TAKE PART IN WEDDING REHEARSAL?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Last evening I got quite a shock: I'm to be one of the bridesmaids at the wedding next Saturday of a very dear friend of mine. The rehearsal for the wedding was last evening, and I was amazed to see that the bride-to-be took her own part in the rehearsing. I had always heard that this was not done, that it is bad luck. I'm to be married in a few months, and I'd like to know if it is considered bad luck for the bride-to-be to take her own part in the rehearsal. —Marilou W.

Of course it isn't bad luck. Why should it be bad luck for the bride-to-be and not for the groom-to-be? This is a silly superstition of yesterday. . . today a bride-to-be generally pays as attention to it, and wisely takes her own part in the wedding rehearsal. She realizes that she needs to rehearse her most important of all part so that she will proceed smoothly and harmoniously. (However, if you'll be unhappy or uncomfortable about the "bad luck" superstition, follow your own wish about taking part in your rehearsal.)

COURTESY TO GUEST

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please settle a discussion my husband and I (recently married) are having? When he and I are host and hostess to a woman friend in a restaurant, should the cigaret should be light first, hers or mine? When we arrive at the table should he help her first with her coat? And should our guest be seated next to him or to my left?—Marie S.

Your husband, the host, should light the guest's cigaret first. And he should help her with her coat (and also when you three are ready to leave the table). And your guest, the guest of honor, should be seated at the right of your husband, the host. In other words, courtesy-to-your-guest should be your first hospitality consideration.

WOMAN WEDDING GUEST SHOULD AVOID OVER-DRESSING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am going to a wedding soon. The ceremony is to be in church at 10 o'clock in the morning, the reception following at a Country Club. I am not related to the bride or groom. The bride-to-be and I have been co-workers for some time. Would it be proper for me to wear a cocktail dress to the wedding and reception? It has a full skirt; the material has a lot of sheen; V-neck, not a strapless dress; turquoise shoes to wear with it. Since this is a morning wedding, I am in doubt about the appropriateness of my costume.

Is it proper to wear a black dress to a wedding if you wear colored accessories?—W.

You are right to be in doubt about the appropriateness of this costume. Please don't wear this costume to the morning wedding and reception. Wear a formal street-length dress or a dressy-tailored suit with jacket or coat of suitable weight. (If you don't agree with these suggestions, ask the advice of the bride-to-be.) Wear black if you wish, but with, say, a gay hat, perhaps a flower hat, and/or other colored accessories.

The Saga of the Puffball and the Horses head handle

Dear old Mrs. Mugg had always wanted an umbrella with a horses head handle. One day she decided to buy herself one but she made a sad mistake. Although she had oodles of money she bought one second-hand. On the way home it started to rain. The puffball leaked and she could look right through it at the thunderclouds.

A certain puff ball which lay on the parlour home said softly, "Tried to save money, huh!"

Exasperated, Mrs. Mugg hit the puffball a shot with her umbrella and the horses head fell off. As it popped apart, the puffball said, "Tee hee only get what you pay for".

Insurance is like that you know.

You might buy one line of insurance cheaper. However you must keep in mind that it is not the premiums you pay, but the lifetime benefits you receive that decides the value of your insurance. Only your local independent agent can give you complete insurance service. Over a lifetime you could lose money on insurance by not using his counsel.

Sunday School Lesson:

We Have But Two Choices

By ROY L. SMITH

Looking out on the vast universe in the midst of which he finds himself, man has but two choices; as he looks an explanation for its origin and maintenance.

He can believe it is all a result of accident and chance, or he can believe it is the product of the action of some divine creative intelligence. There are no other possible explanations.

In either case it is necessary for man to take a leap in the dark. If he is a scientist, he may call it a "working hypothesis," by which he means "this is the best explanation I can now see." If he is a religionist he sets out from Moses' proposition, "In the beginning God," and he calls it "faith."

ATHEISM CALLS FOR FAITH

If he undertakes to explain this present world without relying upon the fact of some intelligence, he must believe that blind force and endless time have produced Shakespeare's Hamlet, Einstein's relativity, and Beethoven's Unfinished Symphony. And that calls for more credulity than the most of us are able to summon. Moreover, it furnishes us with no assurance that another accident will not happen within the next ten minutes which will result in it all going to pieces again. Faith in blind, impersonal force, and endless time is far more difficult for a vastly greater strain on one's imagination—than faith in a personal God. If we are seeking for the most credible, the most rational, and the most scientific explanation for the origin of our universe, we will find ourselves driven to the belief that someone started it all.

WHAT ABOUT THAT SOMEONE?

"I have no difficulty in believing that some divine Power created this universe," said a brilliant young university woman. "But what I want to know is—what kind of person, spirit, or force, is he, or it?"

The Uniform Sunday school lesson for January 9: "The Living God," Genesis 1:1; Exodus 3:1-15; Psalms 103:8-19; Isaiah 40:18-31; Matthew 6:9; John 4:23,24; 10:3; Acts 17:22-31.

This was a modern girl's way of asking what a famous character asked when he stood at the foot of the Sphinx and cried out, "Is the universe friendly?"

The answer of the Hebrew psalmist and prophets was that he was a mighty God, all-powerful, magnificent, gracious, and kind.

The answer of Jesus Christ was that He is our Father in Heaven who thinks of us as His beloved children.

LET'S TEST DOCTRINE

As the proof of the pudding is in the eating, so the proof of a doctrine is in the pattern of life it produces.

Let us try testing this doctrine of God, as a Father, not by logic but by life. Suppose we try living for one week in the simple faith that the Creator of this amazing universe is Our Father. Let us think of each day as being a part of His planning for us. Let us believe that back of every circumstance and disabling threat is the kindly presence of that one whom Jesus called "Our Father who is in Heaven."

Let us put our trust in that kind of life, that kind of day, that kind of God, and that kind of plan. Then let's see what happens inside us!

Canadians Win Trophy In Big Bonspiel

DETROIT (AP)—Canadian rinks won their third straight Ahern Trophy Thursday by defeating United States teams, 181-178, in the opening of the annual international bonspiel at the Detroit Curling Club.

The Ahern Trophy battle is decided on the first-round scores on a cumulative basis, exclusive of the regular trophy competition.

Forty rinks, 20 from Canada and 20 from the United States, are seeking four major trophies in the bonspiel.

Winners of Thursday's first-round matches continue to compete for the Ahern Trophy and in the bonspiel—the Michigan Trophy, Losers move into another bracket and continue to compete for the Detroit Trophy, the Cornwall-Troyer and the Erwin Palmer Trophy.

No rink drops out of the competition until it has lost three games.

Results included:

Detroit, J. Dixon Brown, 18, Windsor, Ont., Harry Doughty 7.

Detroit, Percy Bower, 8; Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Roy Chabot 7.

Sarnia, Ont., B.C. Phipps 12; Wauwatosa, Wisc., Edward Waisanen 7.

Galt, Ont., John Broomfield 19; Detroit, Dudley Fisk 8.

Wauwatosa, Lou Collins 9; Brantford, Ont., John Preston 7.

Sarnia, Ont., J. Chilton 10; Milwaukee, Hugh St. Clair 8.

Saxton May Fight in Philly

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Blinky Palermo, manager of Johnny Saxton, indicated Thursday that Philadelphia may have to endure the welterweight champion's first title defence in April.

Palermo ruled out Syracuse, N.Y., as a possible site for his boy against the No. 1 147-pound challenger, Carmen Basilio.

"We won't fight in Syracuse, that's certain. Why, we haven't even received an offer from Rochester, Rochester's a strong promoter," Palermo said.

Philadelphia was the site of Saxton's "victory" over Kid Gavilan here last November. Gavilan cried "foul" after losing his title.

Almost all of the experts at ringside thought Gavilan won the slow, dull fight. They described it unanimously as a "stinker."

Palermo said promoter Herman Taylor of Philadelphia had offered a $50,000 guarantee for the title defence, and that Babe McCoy of Los Angeles had offered to put up $20,000.

Big Ten 'Rebels' May Form Showdown Today

NEW YORK (AP)—The rebelling Big Ten may force an all-or-nothing showdown today in the National Collegiate Athletic Association convention over the domestic-laden football television problem—a showdown that possibly could wreck the 49-year-old organization.

Michigan's H. O. (Fritz) Crisler Thursday demanded more liberal television along nation-regional lines or else the Big Ten might go ahead on its own. The Big Ten plan calls for one regional and four national telecasts. And another Big Ten figure said it's planned to ask the NCAA membership to vote today on a resolution on regional TV.

"If the convention turns it down, my school will go ahead and arrange to televise its games on its own," added the representative, who asked anonymity.

Such unilateral action normally would result in expulsion from the NCA and force the national organization to order its members not to compete with the insurgent. Thus, the school would not have any one to play with let alone to collect a game.

Crisler said that his powerful and influential conference would stick by any member forced to the football ranks by state legislative pressure.

In such an event, national controls on TV would be finished and the gates to unrestricted television would be wide open. This is what Notre Dame and a number of other schools have been advocating for several years.

Marlies Trim Flambeaux 5-1

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP)—Toronto Marlboros completed their sweep through Quebec in the Laurier Trophy junior hockey series Thursday by downing Trois-Rivieres Flambeaux 5-1.

The win was the second against one loss for the Marlboros in the three-game tour.

Bill Lambert scored for Trois-Rivieres. Marlboros went ahead to stay with three second-period goals by Bill Harris, Bill Kennedy and Bob Fulford. Gary Aldcroft and Gary Collins also scored for Toronto.

Sixty-Three Nags Named For Grand National

LONDON (AP)—Sixty-three of the finest jumpers in Britain and Ireland were nominated Thursday for the 108th running of the Grand National Steeplechase March 26 over Aintree's treacherous course.

The 30 fences, ditches and brooks along the four - mile, 856-yard course are expected to be just as tough this year as in 1954 when four entries, including a pre-race favorite, were either killed in jumps or had to be destroyed.

Two former winners, Early Mist in 1953 and Royal Tan in 1954, were nominated again but they will run under different colors if they start.

Weights for the jumpers will be announced Jan. 27. An Irish hospital sweepstakes is based on the result of the race.

Royal Tan is now owned by Prince Aly Khan and Early Mist by his trainer, Vincent O'Brien of Ireland. Both horses were ridden by Joe Griffith, Dublin candymaker, in a bankruptcy sale last November.

Has Driven Speedboats Faster Than 200 MPH

SEATTLE (AP)—Ted Jones, the man who has driven his famous Sho-Mo-Shun, speedboat, said today he had driven both of them faster than 200 miles an hour.

There is "no such thing as a water barrier" to the surface-skimming hydroplanes, Jones said.

Some boating circles have theorized that a "water barrier," similar to the sound barrier for aircraft, exists at the 200 mile-an-hour mark. Talk of a "water barrier" developed when Guy Vergo of Seattle was killed last fall when his boat disintegrated at high speed.

"Boats can go as fast as they're built," said Jones, "ride as high as nine inches out of the water touching at three points. Only one blade of the prop is underwater at one time. The force of the blade beats is the same as for airplanes—the speed of sound."

FIRST DISCLOSURE

Jones' statement that he had driven the two boats faster than 200 miles was the first disclosure that such speed may have been reached. The Slo-Mo-Shun IV has broken the world water speed mark twice and holds it now at 178.497 miles an hour. The Sho-Mo-Shun V, which has been tested over the official mile, defeated the former craft here in the 1954 Gold Cup race.

Stanley Sayres, owner of the two boats, declined to say how fast the craft can go. Jones, no longer a member of the Sayres team, has constructed a boat of his own, with which he hopes to take the cup from the Slo-Mo-Shun next August.

Patterson Favored Over Willie Troy

NEW YORK (AP) — Rocket-buster Julius Helfand, a former marine who left his dark state athletic commission, walks his new beat for the first time tonight at Madison Square Garden for the Floyd Patterson-Willie Troy bout.

Unless there's another upset, Helfand will see 20-year-old Patterson, former Olympic champion, who Troy, probably stopping him before the match has run its scheduled eight rounds.

Too Many Subs On Fight Card Starts Probe

BOSTON (AP)—The little men who weren't there today were the subject of a Massachusetts boxing commission investigation following a mass substitution fight card involving a last-minute switch of seven one of the officials.

A few of the originally-scheduled contestants and 1,227 spectators did show up but the six substitute fighters and one cancelled bout drew an immediate announcement of an investigation by commissioner Henry Lamar.

After the program put on Thursday night by the Sharkey A.A., Lamar suspended boxers Ted Murray, New York; Bill Nerl, Bridgeport, Conn.; Joe Arruda, Fall River, Mass.; and Harry Poulton, Charlottetown, P.E.I.

In addition, four other boxers were put on the unavailable list pending investigation.

Before the fight, fans were offered their money back because of all the changes but most of them decided to stick it out.

Rams' Star Gets 'Fabulous Offer' From Canadians

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Bob Boyd of Los Angeles Rams' all-National Football League team and who led the circuit's pass gained from passes in 1954, said Thursday night he has received a "fabulous offer" from a Canadian team.

Boyd said he is considering an offer from Toronto Argonauts of eastern Canada's Big Four, and another one, also from Canada, he considers less attractive.

The Toronto offer, said Boyd, calls for a two-year contract and a no-season job at a salary much greater than he is earning with the Rams.

"I have reached no decision, but both Canadian offers are worth considering," said Boyd. "The Rams have been most generous to me, but the Toronto offer is one I certainly can't ignore."

Boyd, known as Seabiscuit by his teammates, caught 33 passes for 1,213 yards last season.

Skelton Show Varies Little For Same Old Rubber-Face Red

By WAYNE OLIVER

NEW YORK (AP)—CBS television bills it as the new Red Skelton show at a new time, but Skelton is the same old rubber-face Red.

There are some differences from his previous shows this season: Skelton has incorporated a pantomime, however thin, and guest stars, George Raft was the first. And at least temporarily missing are some of his old stand-by characterizations, such as Willie Lump-Lump, Clem Kiddiddlehopper, Cauliflower McPugg, Freddie the Freeloader and Cauliflower Red.

Also new are the Redheads, attractive dancing-girl troupe.

GETS BETTER SPOT

Basically, though, it's the same Red Skelton, which is enough for Skelton fans. The changes in format may attract viewers who were in the lukewarm category. But the change likely to help his ratings most is the move out of the old time spot Tuesday night where he was in competition with Milton Berle to the new one opposite Circle Theatre in hour and a half later.

Skelton's comedy is inborn rather than acquired, but his difficulties on TV appear to have come from trying too hard. Red seems to be having more fun than anybody, and in fact says he enjoys his work enormously. But there also are times when he sees more humor in a situation than do his viewers, and breaks out in laughter when he should be playing it deadpan.

But with a comedian who has had as many ups and downs as Skelton, you can be sure he'll keep at it until he's up again.

Just when Mickey Rooney appears to be bogged down with his Mickey Mulligan on NBC, he gets back on track and provides a diverting show, if not a great one. His latest, as a would-be reporter assigned to a missing millionaire, was hardly new to the plot, but was completely unbelievable as many of his earlier efforts.

With NBC-TV's Home Show returning next week to its original slot in Chicago, the network's Today and Tonight shows hit the road for telecasts beyond the Beach next Monday through Friday. It will keep Jack Lescoulie busy doing his announcing chores on Today. He flies to Miami Beach Sunday to be on the Today show. Dave Garroway will return to New York Monday night to be on the Tonight show Tuesday night. He will fly back to Miami Beach for the Today show on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, and then return by air to do Tuesday night on the Chicago show on CBS.

The veteran Horace Heidt will bring his Show Wagon musical program on NBC television Saturday at 7:30 p. m. EST in the time formerly occupied by Ethel and Albert. He will do five of the weekly telecasts from Hollywood before starting on a tour during which the show will originate from a different state each week.

To Coach Canucks

MONTREAL (CP)—Sam Pollock head of the Montreal Canadiens senior hockey clubs, will go to Kitchener to coach the Canucks while coach Jack Stewart is out on a three-game suspension, it was announced Thursday.

Stewart and Goalie coach Eddie Bush were suspended as the result of a free-all between the teams in an Ontario Junior Hockey League game.

Kitchener is a farm team of the National League Canadiens.

Cambridge Debaters Will Visit Queen's

LONDON (CP) —Two members of the Cambridge Union Society—the debating club—left by air today for a two-week Canadian visit which will include eight talks and Quebec universities and colleges.

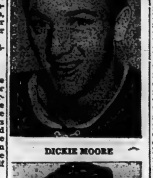
Travelling at the invitation of the Canadian universities are J.G.D. Medley, last term's union president, and J. D. Walle, union vice-president.

They will take part in debates at Toronto, McGill, Western Ontario, Queen's and McMaster universities.

Hurled Through Window

TORONTO (CP)—A five-year-old girl was hurled through a store's plate glass window when struck by a car Thursday night.

Joanne McAllister was taken to hospital in critical condition with a fractured skull and other injuries. She was thrown 20 feet while crossing a street with her mother.



Her mother, Mrs. R. McAllister, was treated for shock and bruises.

Police charged James Kennedy, 46, of Toronto with dangerous and careless driving.

TRADE WINDS BLOW FOR CANADIAN PAIR

DICKIE MOORE

EDDIE MAZUR

Although they have set the pace in the NHL race all season, Montreal Canadiens are seeking additional left wing power. They have placed left wingers Eddie Mazur and Dickie Moore on the trading block and hope to make a deal for one of them. Moore made an impressive NHL debut in 1951-52 season with 15 goals and 18 assists but has been riddled with injuries during subsequent seasons. Mazur was recalled from Victoria of the Western Canada league for the Stanley Cup series three seasons. He became a regular in the last season. — Central Press Canadian.

Winninger Leads Los Angeles Golf Tourney

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Almost everybody has something uncomplimentary to say about the weather provided for the start of the Los Angeles open golf tournament—everybody, that is, except first round leader Bo Wininger.

It was windy, cold and rainy, but Bo turned out Oklahoma City professional shot a 33-35—68 to lead by a stroke after 18 holes Thursday.

With the elements providing the handicap, only nine of the 144 players in the $32,500 tournament came in under par.

Pressing Wininger were the veterans Jimmy Demaret and Eric Monti.

Walls to Fight Jimmy Slade January 17

TORONTO (CP) — Earl Walls, Canadian heavyweight boxing champion, will throw jersey into ring of New York in a 10-rounder here Jan. 17, it was announced Thursday night.

Match-maker Deacon Allen said Slade was signed as a replacement for James J. Parker of Barrie, who was scheduled to challenge Walls for the Canadian title next Thursday. Parker was stricken with influenza at his New Jersey camp last Monday and the fight was called off for the third time.

Allen said a guarantee of $7,000 or a gate receipt percentage—whichever is higher—was assured Slade.

Slade and his manager consented to the match Wednesday but Walls' handlers didn't come to terms until Thursday after a meeting with promoter Frank Tunney and Allen.

Slade, who turned professional in 1951, has fought some of the top light-heavies and heavyweights. He has beaten Don Cockell, now British Empire champion, and has decisioned Walls in New York in 1953. He dropped a decision to Parker last year.

AT THE McCARTHY

Ava Barefoot Most of Time

What may easily be the most intriguing movie title of the year is "The Barefoot Contessa" — is an accurate description of its heroine, a cabaret dancer out of the slums of Madrid who rises to dizzy heights as an international film star. The lady who likes to go barefoot is played by Ava Gardner.

"The Barefoot Contessa," now at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre through Thursday, is a United Artists release, was written and directed by Joseph L. Mankiewicz, noted for, among others, "All About Eve" and "A Letter to Three Wives." The picture was filmed in Technicolor on location in Italy, and Miss Gardner's high-powered costars are Humphrey Bogart, Edmond O'Brien, Marius Goring, Valentina Cortesa and Rossano Brazzi.

Ava, as the slum girl who rises through various strata of society, including movie stardom, to become the wife of an Italian nobleman, takes her shoes off with great frequency throughout the picture. It begins, in fact, at the beginning. Her first appearance in the film (it has been described by connoisseurs as one of the sexiest ever seen) shows her bare toes twirling from beneath a curtain in her dressing room in a Madrid nightery.

Her next barefooted appearance in "The Barefoot Contessa" comes when Bogart in the role of a cynical movie director, prevails on her to come to Rome for a screen test.

In the course of "The Barefoot Contessa," Ava takes off her shoes in such varied and unexpected places as a bowling alley, an Italian palace, a Hollywood palace and in the studley of a sculptor who is fashioning a statue of her.

BABE JOINS FURGOL

CHICAGO (AP) — Incomparable Babe Zaharias will join Ed Furgol in playing against the world's "duffers" in the third National Golf Day June 4 at the Olympic Club, San Francisco, site of this year's national Open.

Mrs. Zaharias, 1954 women's Open champion, is the first woman star to compete in the annual event sponsored by Life magazine and the Professional Golfers' Association. Furgol, winner in 1953, USO and the National Golf Fund.

Ben Hogan last year shot against an even-all field of 147,000 players of whom only 1,900 beat Hogan's 64 shot at Ballcrust.

Leslie Caron Will Not Play Part of Waif in Any More Films

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — No more the waif for Leslie Caron.

At least she hopes she can escape from the pixyish gamin she has become noted for in movies. "That kind of role has been good for me," she reasons. "But I would be too limited if I stuck to them. I'm not a waif in reality."

The little French doll is getting her wish in her next two assignments. She now is appearing opposite Fred Astaire in the musical remaking of "Daddy Long Legs," the pleasant piece of sentiment that starred Mary Pickford in 1918 and Janet Gaynor in 1931. She ages from a girlish 16 to a mature 22. Though the early portions show her as a French orphan in typical Caron style, she gets more glamorous as the story progresses.

Her next role will be even more grown-up.

"Jean Renoir wrote a play for me," she reported. "He said that he got the inspiration after he saw me in 'Lili.'"

MGM has released Leslie to do the play, which she finds very exciting.

LIKE "UNDERWEAR SNAKE"

The Renoir play is called "Orvet," which Leslie once explained is "like your underwear snake" (she meant garter snake). The role is a ballerina opposite Robert Petit, with whom she has been linked romantically.

Leslie will have five months off from MGM and she said that ought to be long enough for the play to show a modest profit. It is a pleasure that she longs to do in New York, but that's strictly in the dream age so far.

In her efforts to escape the waifs she has played, Leslie is not knocking "Lili."

"The picture did a great deal for me," she said, "even more than my first film, 'An American in Paris.' Lili was a much more defined character."

On the screen today and Saturday is Technicolor, "The Outlaw Stallion," starring Phil Carey and Dorothy Patrick. Continuous show Saturday from 1:30 p.m.

AT THE BELLE — Leon Tarbet and MAM'A meeting new star "Dee", Argentine - born Corbin Thompson, form the romantic team of "Pasco and the Dream", showing Tonight for the last time at the Belle. Story of an adventurous who seeks the most of her sex appeal. Pier Angeli also stars in the same offering, produced in Technicolor.

Out for Season

TORONTO (CP)—Two players in the Toronto Maple Leaf hockey chain will be out of action for the rest of the season, officials of the National Hockey League club said Thursday.

Jack Bionda, on loan to Sault Ste. Marie in professional of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association, suffered a shoulder separation in a recent game and is not expected to be in action again this season.

George Wayte, a Saskatoon junior who has been practising with the Leafs to test a bad back, aggravated the injury which will probably keep him out for the rest of the season.

SEEK COURSE

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—Addition of music to the New Brunswick high school curriculum will be sought by the New Brunswick competitive festival of music. The matter is to be brought before the province's department of education.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Abnormal bridge hids deat with abnormal conditions. Such is the case when a player opens with a bid of four (in a major suit.) This is why a beginner should stick to one bids and two bids.

The most practical use of an opening four bid is in the third position; that is, after the first two players have passed. To use it even then a player must know why it is being done.

A skilful player against weaker opponents may not confine his opening four bids to third position. But a beginner is not yet in a condition to make such a variation part of his policy.

Responses to an opening four bid could best be summed up in two words: Always pass. At least this is my advice to students. In reply to your partner's opening four bid always pass.

If your partner is an uncontrollable-urge opener of four, pass even with three aces. Pass even with three aces and a void. If the responder is a gal married to her partner, pass without hesitating.

I'll tell you why! His four bid says he expects to be defeated. If you study your hand he will fear you are considering a raise and he will die of heart failure. You may lose him right there.

With some opening four bidders you may consider the possibility of a slam. But the chances for slam is very slim unless the hand of responder is crawling with aces and kings in all side suits.

Two reasons will be read in my coming series for beginners. In the meantime, here is your north hand:

♠A 4 3
♥A 8
♦A 8 5 3
♣A K 4 3

Your partner in south banged out with an opening bid of four hearts and west passed. What should you do with your north hand? Pass. If you are considering a raise, perish the thought.

Be glad you have those three aces and a sweet disposition. It may be that your three aces will help him considerably. He may even be able to make his contract. But not for sure.

Be popular—the delicious flavour of Wrigley's Spearmint Gum sweetens your breath . . . and the pleasant chewing helps to keep your teeth bright—your smile attractive. Enjoy chewing Wrigley's Spearmint Gum every day.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY, JAN. 8, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Risks and chance are not advised, and don't consort with gloomy souls or those who gossip or find fault. Ignorance of facts can effect thinking, results. Be certain before acting.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — You are naturally efficient, perceptive and have many attributes which, used rightly, can bring you commendable achievement today.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Some topsy-turvy tendencies may cause concern, some reverses if you are not on guard. Be willing to listen to advice from right sources. Err not, adequately before getting into anything.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Special care, and a slightly slower tempo should keep you within the winning circle. Plant your seeds of good will for future friendships, needs, happiness. Be thankful for what you have.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Make sound deductions. This is the sort of day wherein counting ten first will save time, work and speech. Be ready to go half way with family, friends, associates, and your rewards will be doubled.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo) — Don't upset apple cart the day. Take some time at midday for relaxation, study, or just a "brother." Do not let the fretters and fussy ones catch you in their net. Be cheerful.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Sincerity heads the list of virtues needed now. With proper planning and shrewd execution of your ideas, you will come out with truly fine averages. Be consistent.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Look both right and left before going ahead. Don't be averse to making quick revisions in plans where it will help. Take sound advice where it is available, do your own thinking, too.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Some negative influences now, but routine activities are favored. You will have a need for determination, courage and intelligent deduction. You have the mentality; use it without fear.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — A rich Capricornative can move forward successfully now. Loyalty and courtesy can offset possible obstacles, contention.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — The thoughtfully concentrated ones will reap fresh rewards. Take up routine tasks in the order of their importance. Don't allow thought, drive through.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Keep a practical outlook during this moderately stimulating period. Watch your manners and speech — and carry on staunchly to final success. Enjoy the good "little things"; avoid worry.

YOU BORN TODAY have a reliable, likeable personality. You have the ability to handle big tasks, to get things done in businesslike way; the talent for either a trade or profession; could excel in surgery, medicine, building, engineering, as investment broker, as farming. Capricornians are notably progressive. Study and be elastic in method to reap the many advantages before you. Don't fret or take trifles too seriously. The outlook for 1955 is excellent for you wide-awake eager ones.

Little Benny's Note Book

I had to get my hair cut and so did Puds Simkins, so we started to go to the barber shop together on account of mixxery loving company, and Puds said, My mother says the more the barbers charge for a hair cut, the less time they take to cut it.

Thats what my mother says, but it seems long enough to me, I said. Good night it seems more like 15 hours than 15 minutes, I said, and Puds said, Hay, let's make it seem shorter by making up moron jokes to tell each other.

Sounding like a swell idea, and the big barber started to cut Puds's hair and the little barber started to cut mine, and Puds said, Hay, Henry, why did the moron try to telefone his wife without lifting the receiver up?

Why? I said, and Puds said, He didn't want her to hear him.

G, that's a good one, I said, and we both pretended to shake laffing, and I said, Hay Puds, why did the moron hang the wall paper so the wrong side showed?

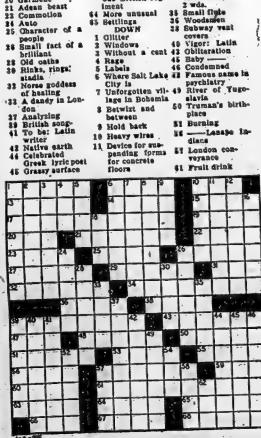
Why? Puds said, and I said, He didn't want the sum to fade the pattern.

And we both shook even harder, and the little barber said to the big barber, Hay, Fred, do you know why the moron never sharpened his clippers?

No, Joe, said the big barber said, and the little barber said, So they would pull better.

And he gave my hair a fierce pull with his clippers, and the big barber said, Hay Joe, why didn't the moron push the boy's head harder?

I dont know, Fred, why? the little barber said, and the big barber gave Puds's head a fierce push, saying, He didn't want to quit brake his neck.



Being the end of the moron jokes.

The Canadian Army now offers you training as Nursing Assistants, covering what is known as paramedical anatomy, nursing procedures, care and treatment of the sick. After your training, you will work in one of the Army Hospitals in Canada or serve in Europe. If you meet requirements during your third year of service, you become eligible to be trained as a Certified Nursing Assistant. You receive the same pay, pension rights, leave and other benefits that are given to men in the Canadian Army.

Classes are being held at Camp Borden, Ontario.

MANY ATTEND CHURCH

MOSCOW (AP)—Americans and many other foreigners joined Russian Orthodox believers in crowded churches for the Christmas Eve mass celebrated at midnight Thursday night. Christmas in Moscow is celebrated by the old calendar. The religious occasion was observed by numerous young people, including soldiers, even though the Soviet press in the past has been full of complaining that too many youths were falling under the spell of "religious prejudices."

TRAFFIC RESUMES AFTER SHIP OBSTRUCTS SUEZ

The end of a span of the Suez Firdan bridge is shown resting on the deck of the Liberian tanker "World Peace" after the tanker crashed into the structure about ten miles north of Ismailia. The crash tied up canal traffic. More than 150 passenger liners, freighters and tankers were standing by at both ends of the canal, creating the worst jam in the 85-year-old history of the canal. "World Peace" was freed and moved downstream, a 50-ton section of the drawbridge span still remained on her superstructure.—Central Press Canadian.

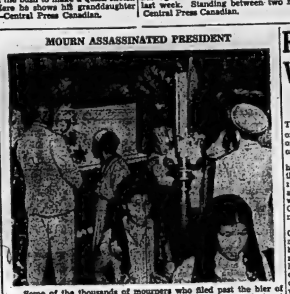
HUNTER-TRAPPER ACHIEVES FAME AS PAINTER

In the cabin near Port Severn, Ont., where William Baker has raised his family, oil paintings hang on the walls along with traps, furs and hunting equipment. A trapper for over 20 years, Mr. Baker has achieved fame as an artist, with his sketches and paintings in demand in both Canada and the U.S. Self-taught, he paints only what he sees as he tends his trapline or tramps through the bush hunting. He usually paints from memory, but often he will stop in the bush to make a quick sketch of a scene that impresses his and he finishes it later in his cabin. Here he shows his granddaughter one of his canvases showing deer fleeing at the sound of a hunter.—Central Press Canadian.

LOUIS TRAINS GERMAN FOR SHOT AT OLSON'S CROWN



Joe Louis (right), once a great champion himself, strikes a fighting pose with Peter Mueller, the German middleweight who is making an all-out assault on Bobo Olson's middleweight crown. Mueller, a former Olympic middleweight who is making an all-out assault on Bobo Olson's middleweight crown. Louis, whose tips to U.S. boxers Gil Turner and Paul Andrews brought them stunning upsets recently, has agreed to advise Mueller. The German belter scored a stunning knockout over Ernie Durando last week. Standing between two fighters is Edith Nassaria, a dancer from Hamburg, Germany. — Central Press Canadian.

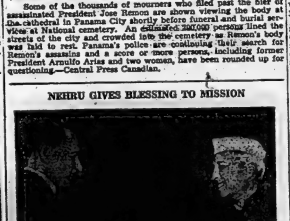
MOURN ASSASSINATED PRESIDENT



Some of the thousands of mourners who filed past the bier of assassinated President José Remon are shown viewing the body at the cathedral in Panama City shortly before funeral and burial services at National cemetery. An estimated 300,000 persons lined the streets of the city and crowded into the cemetery as Remon's body was laid to rest. Panama's police are continuing their search for Remon's assassins and a score or more persons, including former President Arnulfo Arias and two women, have been rounded up for questioning.—Central Press Canadian.

TIE-UP FAILED

NEW YORK (AP)—A lone bandit tied up 21 elevators in a mediumsized skyscraper on lower Broadway for 35 minutes at lunchtime Thursday. Six thousand hungry office workers fumed and waited for elevators while police searched each of the 34 floors fir the man who lifted a $4,253 payroll from the building manager at the 7th-floor office. The elevators were halted in an effort to trap the gunman, but he got away.

LESS UNEMPLOYMENT

LONDON (AP)—Unemployment in Britain dropped last month to the lowest December levels since the end of the Second World War, the ministry of labor reported today. The number of jobless throughout the country was 256,000 on Dec. 6, a decrease of 7,000 from November.

SUFFER QUAKES

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—A series of earth shocks has rocked the New Hebrides Islands since Wednesday morning, reports reaching here today said. The reports from the island group in the coral sea said the earthquakes knocked down houses and uprooted trees. No casualties were reported.

NEW COACH

Chan Caldwell, 24-year-old line coach at the University of Tennessee, has been signed to a two-year contract as head coach of the Ottawa Rough Riders in the Big Four football league. (CP Photo).

Wellington

WELLINGTON — New Year's day dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Young were: Mrs. Debbie Bedell and her sister, Mrs. Florence Palmer, of Picton, and Mrs. Mollie Ellis, of Trenton.

The mild weather on Sunday enabled Mr. and Mrs. Claude Young to join in a family dinner party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Ketchenson, on the 8th. concession of Thurlow. Their daughter and son-in-law, Irene, and Donald Bateman, of Tweed, and Don McDonald, of Halloway, completed the family gathering.

Mr. Ralph Ellis is attending the Canners Fieldman's School at Guelph this week.

Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bryant were: Mr. Lorne Brickman, Miss Audra Brickman and Mrs. Harry Sager, of Victoria.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Foley and Ann were guests on Monday at Mr. Lorne Brickman's, Victoria.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Broadbridge and family entertained Mr. W. A. Broadbridge and Alton, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Moore, Doxsee's, for New Year's dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Sid Broadbridge spent New Year's with Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Carter, Northport.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert King and Mr. and Mrs. Murray Wilise were holiday guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Smith and family, Napanee.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray Wilsie were New Year guests of Mr. and Mrs. David See, Weston.

A good time was had by all who attended the New Year's eve dance recently held in the Legion hall. The dance was sponsored by the Canadian Legion and the Ladies' Auxiliary. Round and square dancing was enjoyed. Prizes given for a birthday dance were won by Mr. and Mrs. George Bailley, while Mrs. C. Harris, Mr. Charles Goodmurphy, and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hendry won the spot dance prizes. Mr. Beverly Gibson carried off the door prize. Refreshments were served by the ladies in charge.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Smith and family of Napanee, were dinner guests on Tuesday evening of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert King.

Miss June Pierson, daughter of Mr. Harry Pierson, of Wellington, has joined the teachers' staff of the W.C.S., replacing Mrs. Clifford Raynor, who took over Grades 2 and 3, when Miss Mitchell of Otawa, was forced to resign due to ill health early in November.

Mrs. Cora Tice returned home Tuesday after spending Christmas and New Year's in Napanee.

Robert Taylor Signs Again With MGM for Six Years

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Robert Taylor, who already holds the record for longest exclusive contract of an MGM star, has just signed on for another six years.

Next month, handsome Bob will have given 21 of his best years to the company and you seldom see records like that these days. As a matter of fact, the only star who can beat that mark is Bing Crosby, who has been at Paramount for 23 years.

Since the departure of Clark Gable, Taylor has been called the new king of MGM, a title he would be the first to scoff. But there's no denying the regard the studio has for its boy. His deal still had over a year to go when the bosses offered him a six-year extension, with the loot to be paid off in 12 years.

Bob is back on the set doing some retakes for "Many Rivers to Cross," and I found him in the studio's version of a stateside tavern. Dressed in soggy buck skins but looking as devilishly handsome as ever, he was watching his double perform a daring episode with a redskin. I asked him about the new contract.

"Well, they wanted me to sign, so I took them up on it," he explained. Then he reflected: "You know, I've made a heck of a lot of money from the studio in 21 years, and I've got doggone little to show for it." (Best guess is that MGM has paid Taylor about $2,000,000).

Why didn't he try for the profit-sharing deals on the outside, as did Cable?

"No, I'm the kind of a guy who likes to play pat. I'm comfortable here and that's where I'll stay."

It's possible that some of his reasons for signing again concern security for his growing family. He married the German beauty, Ursula Theiss, who has an 11-year-old daughter with her. She also has a son, Michael, 9, who may come here from Germany next spring. And the actress is expecting the first Taylor child.

I asked Bob about the pains and low points of his long career at MGM. His best pictures: "Waterloo Bridge" and "Johnny Eager." The worst was last year's "Valley of The Kings," which he hated.

TO CUT RENTS

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Foreign diplomats and correspondents living in Moscow were told today that rents for their offices and apartments will be cut by an average of 25 per cent. A typical reduction was that for a four-room apartment, not including bathroom and kitchen, which went down from 32,000 rubles ($8,000 by the official rate) a year to 26,000 rubles.

FORM GOVERNMENT

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—Formation of a new government was announced Thursday by 77 year-old President Carlos Ibanez, ending an eight-day cabinet crisis. The president appointed a government made up largely of his own Agrarian Labor party and army officers. The cabinet resigned Dec. 29 after the government yielded to Congress' demand that it lift a state of siege caused by labor unrest.

This sketch shows an east-west, open-cut, rapid-transit plan which Mayor Nathan Phillips is boosting to speed Toronto's cross-town traffic. The system — rapid-transit tracks between two three-lane highways — would cut through the city's midtown area just north of Bloor street and would connect with the present subway running north and south under Yonge street. Cost is estimated at $130,000,000. (CP Photo).

ROBBERY BECOMES DEATH TRAP

Shot to death during an attempted hold-up of the New York Trust Company bank in Manhattan, the body of a bandit identified as Ellison Gray of Kansas City, lies on the floor as bank customers enter to conduct their business. Standing (top, left), is William Rettig, messenger for another bank, whose bullet killed the stick-up man. Gray, upon entering building, fired a gun against the back of Edward Kuzmba, a guard. Whirling around, Kuzmba was shot in the foot by the bandit.—Central Press Canadian.

Foxboro

FOXBORO.—Dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. McKeown on the holiday were, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Carr, of Stirling; Mr. Alvin Carr, Mr. and Mrs. Adam Brummel, and family of Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Marshall of Wellington, and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Phillips, of Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. John Joby were holiday guests of their granddaughter, Mrs. Everett Lyons, and Mr. Lyons.

Sunday afternoon and tea hour guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. McKeown were, Mr. and Mrs. Fred McKeown, of Springbrook; Mr. and Mrs. Mel McKeown and family, also Mrs. Stotts of Campbellford, and Mr. and Mrs. Don McKeown and boys.

Ontario Chamber of Commerce Calls for Tighter Government Control Over Labor Strikes

OTTAWA (CP) — The Ontario Chamber of Commerce Thursday called for tight government controls over labor strikes and law enforcement against sympathy walkouts, mass picketing and intimidation of workers in labor disputes.

In a policy statement adopted at its annual session, the chamber proposed that all strikes be prohibited until they have been authorized by a majority of employees in a secret, government-supervised ballot held after a "cooling off" period.

It urged also that when a strike is called, the labor minister be empowered to poll employees secretly to find out whether they wish to return to work.

SYMPATHETIC

"Sympathetic strikes, strikes due to jurisdictional disputes, mass picketing, intimidation and the secondary boycott are inconsistent with the Canadian way of life," it said, "and the provisions of the law should be enforced."

The chamber took its stand against labor walkouts after president Ivor Wagner charged that big business unionism operated mainly for the benefit of "United States union bosses" by rapidly eliminating the rights of individual workers.

More and more Canadian firms, he said, are losing out in competition against foreign firms because of high Canadian production costs. The months ahead were clouded with uncertainty. Organized labor had to recognize that its responsibility to keep the industrial heart beating did not lie in "locked gates and smokeless chimneys of idle plants."

FIRM STANDS

In a three-hour policy session, the chamber, representing some $1,000 Ontario business men, took firm stands on problems of agriculture, education, taxation, highway accidents and a host of other issues.

It predicted that the continuing drift of farm youth to city jobs will make agriculture economically sick and that a sickly agriculture "can well be the harbinger of a general depression." It urged that a government body be set up to work vigorously towards a solution of this problem.

The chamber opposed so-called "progressive" education and commended the Ontario government for returning to emphasis of standard basic training. It urged member organizations to help get better qualified persons on local school boards to ensure proper administration of public funds and to encourage more young people to take up teaching to overcome a shortage.

EQUITABLE TAXES

Among other resolutions and policy statements adopted:

1. The Ontario government should work with other provinces to get a federal - provincial tax conference convened to devise a more equitable distribution of tax revenue among municipalities, provinces and central government. Municipalities were finding it more and more difficult to meet financial responsibilities.

2. The Ontario government should reduce red tape by cutting and combining departments where possible.

3. The forthcoming legislature session should provide legislation to help reduce the present high toll of highway accidents.

Other resolutions adopted called for a system of permanent automobile licence plates as a substitute for annual numbers and the compulsory retirement of all Ontario Supreme Court judges at the age of 75.

MOTHER SENTENCED

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A woman was sent to state prison Thursday for from one to two years for holding the hands of two adopted children over a gas burner until neighbors heard them scream with pain. Mrs. Frances N. Shriman, 35, was convicted of inflicting injury on June Marie and Robert Allen, two-year old twins she adopted in 1951.

See Union Official's Remark Hint Ford Talks Will Fail

Too Hasty With Protests

TORONTO (CP)—A feeling of pessimism today clouded strike peace talks between Ford of Canada and the United Automobile Workers (CIO-CCL).

Negotiators were to meet at 2 p. m. today to resume talks aimed at settling the strike now in its third week after 99 days of idleness. But closer observers saw little room for optimism.

Possibility talks would collapse was seen Friday when negotiations broke off an hour before schedule.

Emil Mazey, international secretary of the union, told reporters he suggested the recess because "it didn't think we were getting anywhere and I saw no reason to pursue it."

He added that the company "apparently is not willing to make a settlement at this time."

KEY ISSUE

The union leader, a key figure in contract talks during the last three weeks, said he hoped to be able to tell newspaper readers "in a day or two" the complete story of what had happened during negotiations.

Some observers felt Mr. Mazey's statement indicated that the talks were headed for failure since both sides had agreed not to discuss the issues being considered until some final conclusion had been reached.

T. E. Emmert, Ford executive vice-president and one of the company's three negotiators at the meetings, declined comment.

Negotiators were to meet here Saturday from 2 to 7 p.m. behind closed doors in a downtown hotel suite and again Sunday.

IN DAYS

The strike started Oct. 10 exactly 90 days ago, when Ford workers in the Ford plant in Windsor walked out. It spread to Oakville, midway between Toronto and Hamilton, five days later, and to a parts depot plant at Scarborough about two weeks ago.

(The Hamilton Spectator said Friday that a group of employees at Oakville will sponsor a back-to-work movement in an effort to settle the dispute seems likely. It said the group is from the Oakville Chamber of Commerce.)

Mazey: "Supervise the voting of corporation stockholders after changing the Corporations' Act to provide democratic voting amongst such stockholders."

The union charged the Chamber of Commerce has "reopened the feud with the trade union movement by applying their full pressure for laws aimed at shackling the democratic rights of the labor movement. . . ."

"Whether he knew it or not, the honorable president of the Oakville Chamber of Commerce sounded like a party out of the Canadian Tribune, publicity outlet for Canadian communism," the statement added.

"For the Communist pet line in this country now is for compliete separation from all that has to do with the United States. . . ."

Unions Strike Back at Pres. Ontario C of C

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Local 195, UAW-CIO, struck back today at Prec Wagner, president of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce, who Thursday told the chamber's 43rd annual meeting in Ottawa that the rights of individual workers are rapidly disappearing in the realm of big business unionism, operating largely for the benefit of United States "union bosses."

In a statement issued over the names of local 195 president Earl Watson and vice-president Lorne Dowell, the union local, largest in Canada, strongly criticized both Mr. Wagner and the Windsor Chamber of Commerce move for government-supervised union membership votes to be held before and during strike action.

The union local's executive board followed up with a resolution asking for the government to:

"Voice its confidence in the labor movement as a guardian of human rights and a true and hard-working partner in the struggle to preserve and strengthen democracy and . . .

"Supervise the voting of corporation stockholders after changing the Corporations' Act to provide democratic voting amongst such stockholders."

The union charged the Chamber of Commerce has "reopened the feud with the trade union movement by applying their full pressure for laws aimed at shackling the democratic rights of the labor movement. . . ."

"Whether he knew it or not, the honorable president of the Oakville Chamber of Commerce sounded like a party out of the Canadian Tribune, publicity outlet for Canadian communism," the statement added.

"For the Communist pet line in this country now is for compliete separation from all that has to do with the United States. . . ."

FEAR SEAWAY WILL INCREASE COMPETITION

Chamber of Commerce Hears Differing Views

OTTAWA (CP)—Differing views on the effect the St. Lawrence seaway will have on Canadian industry and transport appeared at the closing session of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce's annual meeting here Friday.

Two high-ranking Canadian business men, at a panel discussion on the new waterway, told some Canadians out of business through increased foreign industrial and transport competition.

Their views were opposed by W. H. Bosley, chairman of the Toronto harbor commissioners, and G. G. McLeod, federal transport department economist.

R. McLagan of Montreal, president of Canada Steamships Ltd., called for federal restrictions on coastwise trade to reserve it for Canadian operators.

WILL "TAKE ALL"

Otherwise, when the seaway opens, he said, ships from Britain with lower-paid crews will be "putting Canadian seamen on the beaches and Canadian shipbuilders in the graving yards."

To this, Mr. McLeod said he believed Canadian shipyard would have an advantage over foreign competition because most local cargoes have to be carried by lake carriers, which can carry more with less draft than ocean-going ships.

J. R. Thompson of Hamilton, vice-president of Canadian Westinghouse Ltd., said opening Great Lakes ports to ocean-going ships will increase industrial competition from European factories, which have lower production costs.

ALREADY SUFFERING

Many Ontario industries already were suffering from European competition in cheaper transportation for imports would only add to their problems, Mr. McLeod said.

Mr. Bosley said the seaway, with its complementing hydro - power project, will make Ontario a source of such historic industrial giants as the British Midlands and Pittsburgh with the Detroit-Cleveland belt of the United States.

Reduced transport cost would be reflected in broader overseas markets for farm products, pulp and paper, minerals, grain and other products.

OPINION ON MARKETS

Mr. Thompson said the seaway and power project will give Canada low-cost transportation and electricity, but it is not believed this will increase the country's export markets since U.S. restrictions on agricultural products, tariffs and sterling-area overseas markets by dollar-area products.

Mr. McLagan disagreed when Mr. McLeod said Canadian ships will be able to obtain contracts to ship Labrador iron ore to Canadian and American steel foundries, picking up coal and grain on return to make the trip economical.

Mr. McLagan said the eastern coal market is dwindling. He had studied Robert Saunders' industrial set who uses a lot of coal that when natural gas from the West is available at his factory, his need for coal will disappear.

Throne Speech Predicts More Jobs, Benefits for Unemployed

OTTAWA (CP)—More jobs and more benefits for those who can't find work—these were the cardinal points in the speech from the throne delivered Friday at the opening of the second session of Canada's 22nd Parliament.

The speech was read by Governor-General Massey, who rode 1½ miles through biting cold to Parliament Hill in an open carriage to do it. Besides the glittering audience in the Senate chamber, thousands of Canadians heard the speech in Parliament's first televized opening.

The speech, an outline of intended government legislation, said a measure will be introduced without delay to increase the amounts and duration of supplementary unemployment insurance benefits this winter.

As is customary the speech gave no details, but it is understood benefits paid during the first 3% months each year will be increased 25 per cent and there will be a new arrangement for insurance credits to provide jobless with longer periods of insurance coverage.

Supplementary insurance benefits are paid to persons who qualify for regular benefits. Only those benefit-collecting terms have run out during the winter months of seasonal unemployment. Supplementary benefits now amount to 80 per cent of normal benefits. It is believed this will be increased to 100 per cent.

The speech also said construction of public works projects already planned will be accelerated and that Parliament will be asked to approve a "substantial increase" in expenditures on further public works.

The speech, read in both English and French before scarlet-robed Supreme Court justices, top armed forces officers and ambassadors and business-suited senators and commoners, forecast increased heavy spending for defence.

"While there is hopeful evidence that the increasing strength of the Free World has lessened the likelihood of aggression, the terrible destruction that war would bring to North America and indeed to all mankind has been magnified by the increase in the number and effectiveness of atomic and thermo-nuclear weapons and the means of delivering them," the speech said.

"My ministers are convinced that, while the resources of diplomacy must never be neglected in the search for peace, the efforts of the free nations in building their deterrent forces must be maintained."

After the speech, the Commons got right down to work by hearing the answer and seconder to the address in reply to the speech from the throne. Today the Commons does not start work on the same day that the speech is delivered.

Yves Leduc, Liberal member for Portneuf who moved the reply, said liberty, stability and national peace are to be the basis for "unrelaxed progress and expansion. He spoke in French.

Donald Carrie, new Liberal member for Toronto-Trinity, the seconder, said the hope that "conditions and unemployment would be eased in his riding.

Mr. Carrie, unconvincingly self-possessed in his maiden speech, spoke quietly but firmly at times briefly.

Hon. Earl Rowe, acting Opposition leader, rose off the throne speech debate Monday when the Commons resumes work.

Penniless Staffords to Get Ride Home in Police Cruiser

MONTMAGNY, Que. (CP)—The wandering Staffords head back to Ontario today penniless, their hopeful journey to New Zealand ended in a series of calamities.

A provincial police car will drive them to Hamilton. Their own car, or what is left of it, stays in this small town on the south shore of the St. Lawrence river below Quebec.

They never made it to Campbellton, N. B. where the two men in the group, Alfred George Stafford and his married brother Earl, 44, hoped to find work in lumber camps. They got only as far as Montmagny, 50 miles from Quebec, stalled after leaving Quebec City and ending the trip with French-Canadians and local police helped them on their way with money, food and new parts for the car.

Then just before Christmas they were in collision with a truck near Montmagny and were taken to hospital here. Earl Earl's five-month old baby, Harold, in the hospital.

George, Earl, an out-of-work welder and a painter, the wives and the baby left the hospital and were put up in a local hotel.

Police gave the trouble-ridden family Christmas, but it wasn't the same as the home they left in Ontario's Muskoka.

Money troubles beset the Staffords almost from the start. Funds ran out at Quebec City and then

43 Students Fail in First Year of Study

TORONTO (CP) — Forty-three first-year engineering students at the University of Toronto have been ordered to quit their courses after failing to pass writing the final examinations, university officials said Friday.

The students were dropped for failing their mid-term tests. It was the first time in the history of the university that such students have been failed half way through the year.

University officials said the 43 all received less than 35 per cent and term fees of $225 last fall will get their money back, said official said. There are 639 students in first-year engineering courses at the university.

The mid-year tests were introduced this year for the first time because of the faculty council's concern over the high rate of failure of first-year engineering students.

McCarthy Claims He Is Still Acting Chairman

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep. Wis.) prepared today for a new probe into the army's honorable discharge of Irving Peress in the wake of a comprehensive army charge of its actions in the case.

McCarthy called a meeting of the Senate investigations sub-committee for Monday, and said he will demand that witnesses be required to testify. He said that some of the army officials now being questioned may be in still acting as chairman of the sub-committee until it is reorganized as another Democratic control.

The army, in a 1000-word document released late night, said it were ahead with plans for Peress' discharge in the face of opposition from McCarthy because a review had established there existed no basis to indicate "characterization of the case."

It said that final decision was made by Maj. Gen. Walter L. Weible, deputy army chief of staff, and army counselor John G. Adams.

HAD EVIDENCE

Their decision, after receipt of a protesting letter from McCarthy, permitted Peress to get an earlier discharge, the army said, that since there was no evidence that Peress had engaged in subversion on active duty, the discharge was the best and quickest way to get him out.

In offering the new and detailed explanation of the Peress case, the army took pains to defend Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker. It said Zwicker had urged, upon several occasions, that Peress be disciplined because his refusal to answer questions about Communist affiliations in an appearance before McCarthy's sub-committee.

Adams and Weible were among those who praised Zwicker for army clurcology as having had a part at one time or another in the trial and discharge of Peress.

The chronology — the 3rd edition of a copy was furnished to Senator Leverett Saltonstall (Rep. Mass.) and to Senate Army Secretary Robert Stevens for it.

Pays Tribute To Absent Drew

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent paid tribute today to Hon. George Drew and said he hopes the Opposition leader will be able to return soon.

Mr. St. Laurent made what he termed an unusual request that Hon. Rene Beaudoin send Mr. Drew "our sincere greetings and good wishes."

The 60 + year - old Opposition leader, who has been ill since Nov. 11, is resting at Ste. Adele, Que., and is not expected to resume his duties here until early February.

Farm Federation Endorses Hog Marketing Plan

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Federation of Agriculture wound up its business Friday after having spent early resolutions in its ding nearly 70 resolutions in its Resolutions Friday ranged from a vote of confidence in the hog producers to a suggestion the OFA hold a short course in journalism for young farmers.

The Ontario Hog Producers' Association and its marketing agency, United Livestock Sales, received the vote of confidence in a resolution backing the marketing plan of the association had "demonstrated its value to hog producers of the province."

ENDORSE PRINCIPLES

The OFA resolved to endorse the marketing principles involved and to "work with them to improve methods so that they will become more efficient, effective and satisfactory to all producers."

Marian Anderson, Metropolitan's First Negro, Scores Triumph

By RAY KOHN

NEW YORK (AP)—Ammid applause and cheers—and a few tears—contralto Marian Anderson became the first Negro to sing with the Metropolitan Opera in its 70-year history.

The warm welcome given the singer proved but the artistic success by the famed concert performer. Critics were unanimous in praise of the rich and moving voice, heard in the second scene of Act I of Verdi's "Un Ballo in Maschera" (The Masked Ball).

The contralto roan on the second scene there was Miss Anderson as Ulrica, stirring the witches' pot.

Says music critic Olin Downes: "Her artistic powers, the simplicity and well the dark and rich color of the voice, the simplicity and eloquence of Miss Anderson's singing graced the song." Says Howard Taubman, critic of the New York Herald Tribune, "Miss Anderson made a notable debut. She is ample voice and good control of the widely separated vocal registers, both of which she supplied freely. . . ."

W. G. Rogers, Associated Press arts editor, said:

"The only color that counted was the color of her voice, which has been one of the richest and most beautiful instruments heard in recent years. Her vocal resources provided none of the vocal responsibilities of her part. . . ."

Britain Charges Vietminh Flout Armistice Body

Reds By-Passed Commission To Protest Alleged Violations

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain, as an official note to Russia, has accused the Vietminh Communists of "flouting the authority of the Indochina armistice commission."

A foreign office statement said the note was delivered in Moscow Friday, it said the three-nation armistice commission's authority had been abused by the dispatch of Vietminh complaints direct to armistice violations to the British government.

Under the terms of the Geneva armistice agreement the Communist Vietminh control about half of Viet Nam, largest of the three Indochina states.

On Dec. 29 Russia on behalf of the Vietminh asked Britain, as co-chairman of the armistice, Indochina conference in Geneva last year, to circulate two documents to the other co-chairmen. Both documents alleged Western violations of the armistice terms.

NOT PUBLISHED

The charges have already been published by the Vietminh authorities. They included allegations of killings, imprisonments and tortures of individuals in Southern Viet-Nam by the French and Vietnam-ese authorities; the charge that South Viet Nam, in breach of the armistice agreement, had illegally sponsored Southeast Asian Treaty Organization; and the charge that the mission of Gen. Lawton Collins, United States special envoy to South Viet Nam, violated the military provisions of the armistice.

British officials denied these charges when they were first made last year.

Peiping Radio Silent About UN Mission

TOKYO (AP) — Peiping's evening propaganda broadcast today made no mention of talks between Hammarskjold and Premier Chou En-lai in the case of 11 U.S. fliers held by the Chinese as "spies."

Today's meeting was scheduled for 10 a. m. (6 p.m. EST). The Peiping broadcast began at 6:15 p.m.

The Red radio's previous broadcasts have given the talks more than seven hours of closed-door conferences between the United Nations secretary-general and Chou. Neither has there been any hint of a possible breakthrough.

Hammarskjold made the dramatic flight to Peiping to seek to arrange the release of the 11 airmen, plus 25 civilians from Asia, U.S. and other United Nations personnel.

The envoy has been sending communications to United Nations headquarters in New York but never has been as bare of news as the terse Peiping reports.

Observers from Hong Kong came an indication that Hammarskjold apparently expects some kind of decision soon. British Overseas Airways said he and his party will leave Peiping late this week and arrive in Hong Kong Monday.

Nutritional Needs of Feline Set Bolstered

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. (AP)—It's your cat off its feed lately? Is it getting fatter (or thinner) by the day?

There may be some hope. Rutgers University's year-old program in nutritional needs of the feline set was bolstered Friday with a $6,000 grant from the Mark L. Morris Animal Memorial Foundation of Topeka, Kan.

Railway Unions Back Arbitrator On Subsidy Plan

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada's railroad unions have backed the federal government in subsidize the railways and thus smooth the path of future labor-management relations.

Union chiefs representing 180,000 workers Friday sent a letter to Labor Minister Gregg inviting the recent arbitration award of Chief Justice Gordon Sloan of British Columbia and asking Ottawa to consider financially the Sloan recommendations.

They also said they are "highly critical" of what they consider the government's determination to the railroads to use the strike weapon to settle disputes.

Spokesman Frank H. Hall, chairman of the group, told a press conference the three-day closed meeting should be brought to a close by the national treasury."

Mr. Hall said Mr. Sloan, in granting a $7,000,000 slice of the unions' "fringe" demands effective Jan. 1, would have cost about half that share by the national treasury."

The railroads, Mr. Hall added, pay $7,000,000 slice of the unions' "fringe" demands effective Jan. 1, would have cost about half that share by the national treasury."

The railways claimed in comment on Mr. Hall's remarks.

H. B. 'PAT' PATTERSON PATIENT AT MUSKOKA

Friends of Harold B. (Pat) Patterson, former local resident who worked out of Melville, Sask. as a C.N.R. conductor 1910-28 and some years later came east, will regret to learn that at present he is a patient in Muskoka Hospital, Gravenhurst, Ont.

Mr. Patterson lost his wife, a former Melville girl, on April 28, last year. He has a son, Melville, 14, attending high school at Stirling.

Rossmore Home Gutted by Early Morning Fire

An explosion of an oil space heater was blamed early Saturday for a fire which gutted the four-roomed bungalow of Herbert Harvey, one mile south of Rossmore on No. 14 highway.

Mr. Harvey who lived alone in the house was awakened by the explosion and managed to escape unharmed from the burning home but all his household possessions and most of his clothing were burned.

The fire broke out a short time after 2:30 but spread so rapidly that nothing could be saved from the dwelling. Belleville fire men raced to the scene with three trucks and managed to bring the flames under control but the entire inside of the house was gutted and the roof was burned through in places.

Mrs. Elmer Minaker, wife of Police Constable Minaker of the Belleville Police Department said the fire was well underway when she awoke up at 3 o'clock. The Minaker residence is just across a driveway from Mr. Harvey home.

"I didn't hear a thing until the firemen arrived," Mrs. Minaker said.

Police Constable Minaker who was on night duty with the police force in Belleville went home when he learned of the fire. Firemen managed to control the flames however before any damage was done to the Minaker home.

No estimate of Mr. Harvey's loss was obtainable at press time.

Cold Weather Cuts Trade On Local Market

Cold weather cut trade almost to a standstill on the local market this morning. Only fewer vendors piled for business on the outside with bulk of trade centred on the indoor market.

Cabbage sold at 10-15 cents a head with carrots and beets 10 cents a six-quart basket. Parsnips were 60 cents a basket, Turnips were five-ten cents each, 50 cents a peck and $1.50 a bushel. White beans sold upward from 20 cents a quart with onions, 12 cents a basket. Potatoes were 30 cents a basket, $2.75 a 75-lb bag.

Apples, Spies and McIntosh were $3 a hamper, 75 cents a basket, Pumpkins were 15 cents each.

Honey continued at $1 per four-lb. tin; sauerkraut 25 cents a quart. Loaves were 25 cents each and rolls 30 cents a half-dozen. Pies were 45-50 cents with cookies selling 18 cents a dozen.

Eggs were unchanged at 65 cents for large; 37 cents for medium and 33 cents for small. Poultry was unchanged at 45 cents for fowl and 50 cents for chickens.

3 New Garbage Disposal Trucks Now in Operation

Three of the largest and most modern garbage disposal trucks available went into service in Belleville on Friday when Smith and Sons, garbage contractor, put their three, new, five-ton International Harvester packer-type trucks on regular collection routes.

The trucks, purchased by Smith and Sons from Truck and Farm Equipment, local International Harvester dealer, are among the finest units in operation in Canada. They are unsurpassed in size.

The gleaming all white packer-type bodies, built by the Woods Co. in Windsor, provide a completely enclosed garbage container for maximum sanitation in collection.

Larger size of the units makes for a more rapid and more efficient garbage collection than was possible with older and smaller units.

Construction in City Close To Three Million Dollar Mark

Construction in Belleville during 1954 was close to the three million dollar mark with close to half of that amount made up by new housing units.

The year's buildings list showed 305 building permits were issued with a total construction value of $2,950,178.00. One hundred and sixty-three new housing units were constructed with a value of $1,930,300.00. Also an additional 19 new housing units created by conversion of existing houses.

Commercial construction during the year totalled $553,600.00 with industrial building adding another $211,050.00. Institutional building including the construction of the new Sir Winston Churchill public school, the hospital extension and church extensions made up another $816,333.00.

The 1954 building list topped that in 1953 when total construction was valued at $3,813,647.00, and more than doubled that for 1952 which saw new construction valued at $1,370,331.00.

By a coincidence the number of permits issued in 1954 and in 1953 was the same for both years — but last year saw a very definite swing in which number of new residential units — 163 as compared with 110 in 1953 and 77 in 1952. Lower building payments and easier carrying charges were given as the principal reason for giving housing the big shot in the arm last year.

Commercial buildings erected last year included a new office building at 133 Dundas street east; Reitman's store on Front street; new warehouse for Keyes Supply on South Church street; warehouse for Kingston Lumber on Newberry street; McCreary warehouse on Coleman street; the new apartment building and store on Front street constructed by Mr. Bean replacing the building lost in last winter's fire; a $60,000 building at the Northern Electric and an office extension for Stephens-Adamson.

Last year's commercial, industrial and institutional construction was matched in 1953 by the new entomological building on Dundas street and the Quinte Secondary school.

In 1953 there were 316 permits issued at the city hall, including the 110 permits for new housing units valued at $600,000 and 24 permits for dwelling units created by conversion of existing properties. That was the year, apparently in which local owners of large houses converted their dwellings into duplexes and multiple apartments in order to take advantage of high rentals.

Scotty Returns To Commons

OTTAWA (CP)—Scotty has returned to the House of Commons.

He is William Bryce, 66, CCF member for Selkirk from 1945 until it was defeated in 1953. On a by-election victory last Nov. 8 he has been wall-liked, Scot, Lab-born member.

Friday, even to Speaker Rene Beaudoin, he was "Scotty."

In the stiff formality of the session's opening day, the Speaker read the names of winners of six by-elections Nov. 8. The other five were Liberals. Then came Mr. Diefenbaker—but Selkirk's member was Scotty Bryce.

Formality prevailed, however, as all six were introduced to the chamber and sworn in. Each had been sworn in previously.

MARLEE INTRODUCED

First to enter was Transport Minister Marler from Montreal St. Antoine-Westmount. He introduced Prime Minister St. Laurent and Trade Minister Howe.

Then Mr. St. Laurent and other cabinet ministers brought in three other new members: Doctor Said Carrick, Toronto Trinity, with External Affairs Minister Pearson; Claude Richardson, Montreal St. Lawrence-St. George, with Postmaster-General Ward, and Hector Levigne, Stormont, with Revenue Minister McCann.

John B. Hamilton, new Progressive Conservative member for York West, was introduced by acting Opposition leader Rowe and John Diefenbaker (PC—Prince Albert).

Five Expected In Field For County Warden

A hot contest for the Hastings county wardenship is expected when county council convenes for the first session of the year on January 17th. At least four and possibly five reeves are expected to be in the field for the county's highest honor.

Rumor has it that Reeve Russell West of Stirling; Reeve Elmer Tucker of Madoc; Reeve Gamble Reeve James Sprackett of Tudor and Cashel; Reeve C. Thompson of Tweed and Reeve Theodore Tryan of Bancroft will be seeking the wardenship. Reeve Charles Buskard of Deloro is also mentioned as being interested.

Reeve Sprackett is the only council member who has sought the honor of warden on a previous occasion, the others being new in the field.

Former Chairman Denies Charges

WATERDOWN, Ont. (CP)—Michael Sprung, former chairman of the Waterdown high school board, Friday denied charges that the board has refused to allow Roman Catholic children to travel on school buses with Protestant children.

"The whole thing is a surprise to me," Mr. Sprung said. "The board has never discriminated by these people to provide transportation for their children. I didn't even know they had been complained."

Some Catholic families in the near by village of Freelton, 10 miles north of Hamilton, said Friday their children have been forced to travel in a garbage truck while Protestant children make the same trip in a modern bus.

Mr. Sprung resigned as chairman of the high school board at the end of 1954. Appointment of a new chairman will be made at the next board meeting Tuesday.

Mr. Sprung said discrimination is ridiculous. Mr. Sprung said:

"We have a contract with a bus company to take our students to school. We have no control over any other students."

Governor-General Had Red Nose And Blue Lips

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—It was, as they say, a colorful opening of Parliament.

One of the most colorful features was the red nose and blue lips of Governor-General Massey as he arrived Friday at the centre block of the Parliament Buildings.

Mr. Massey shunned a warm, comfortable limousine, and, though the weather was cold and the wind chill, drove the 1½ miles from Government House to the centre block in an open carriage drawn by four horses.

There was a wild scramble by photographers at the arrival. They —and the public—thought that the governor-general would arrive at the front door of the centre block. Instead, his carriage drove under the archway immediately in front of the doors.

TV BLOCKED

A CBC television camera on the steps in front of the building was unable to "shoot" the actual arrival because a corner of the archway was in the way.

The governor — general's black-and-gold carriage was preceded and followed by 24 fur-capped Mounties on black charges. The Mounties held canted carbines against their shoulders.

After he stepped down from the carriage, Mr. Massey, his face purple with the cold, walked down the steps to the terrace in front of the centre block where the guard of honor of the Governor-General's Foot Guards was drawn up. They were jet-black bearskins, blue greatcoats and white belts.

A fife and drum band played as Mr. Massey inspected the guard, the white plumes of his fore-and-after blowing in the wind.

GREETED INSIDE

A few minutes later, inside, Mr. Massey was greeted by Prime Minister St. Laurent and W. Ross Macdonald, government leader in the Senate.

After the governor-general had shed his black cape, the procession began to the Senate chamber where Mr. Massey read the speech from the throne which outlines government legislation during the session.

The high-ceilinged, red-carpeted chamber was a blaze of lights, mostly for the benefit of television cameras. There was gold braid in fill'eral quantities—on the uniform of the governor-general and on those of the chiefs of staff and some ambassadors. The Supreme Court justices were scarlet-and-ermine robes. There were clergy-men in black, scarlet and purple. There were myriad colors in the fashionable gowns of the women.

C. of C. Directors Concerned Over Post Office Rumor

Directors of the Belleville Chamber, of Commerce are concerned over the rumor that the local post office may be moved from its present location in the downtown section of the city to a site on Foundry street where it is planned to build a new federal building to house all federal government offices.

At a special meeting of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce on Thursday night, Secretary Don Kingdon was instructed to wire Hon. Robt. H. Winters, minister of public works, to ascertain if there was any foundation to the rumor. They pointed out in their wire that if the post office were moved from its present location it would seriously affect the business life of the community.

Directors admitted they had had no information that the post office would be moved to the federal building when it was constructed, but were obviously very concerned over the possibility.

The telegram which went to Public Works Minister, Hon. R. H. Winters, reads as follows and was forwarded to Frank S. Follwell, M.P., for Hastings South, read as follows:

"It has been brought to the attention of the Chamber of Commerce that some consideration has been given to moving the present post office site to the location some distance from the present location, namely to the site on Foundry street which will affect the business life of the community.

"At a special meeting of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce, I was instructed to request definite information as to whether there is any consideration being given to moving the post office from its present location. We would appreciate a prompt reply as this is a subject of considerable interest to Belleville citizens."

(Signed) Don W. Kingdon
Secretary Belleville Chamber of Commerce.

Obituary

FREDERICK CARMAN SIERICHS
(Kenston, N.Y.)

The funeral of Frederic Carman Sierichs, formerly of Kenston, N.Y., was held in Kenston, N.Y., in December. He was 70 years of age.

The deceased was born in Belleville and was employed in the Post Office here prior to moving to New York City where he was employed by the National Biscuit Company for most of his working life.

He is survived by his wife, Emma; a brother, H. William Sierichs, of Hopewell, Va., and a sister, Janet of Picton.

Interment took place in Kenston, N.Y., Cemetery.

The deceased was born in Middlesex county, England, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Marsh, and lived in England and Montreal prior to moving to Belleville, 35 years ago.

She is survived by her husband, Alfred A. McCoy; two daughters, Mrs. Percy (Olive) Yeiseman, Belleville; Miss Elaine McCoy, at home; and one son, A. Raymond McCoy, Belleville.

Also surviving her are her brothers, Frederick C. Marsh, Belleville; William Marsh, Saginaw, Mich.; and three sisters, Mrs. Allan (Josephine) Wyatt, Mrs. William (Esther) Hughes, both of Belleville, and Mrs. Elva (Connie) Hall, Toronto.

The deceased was a Bible Student.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, the funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

Milk Producers Adopt Plan To Sell Surplus and Products

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario milk producers have adopted a plan to finance a campaign to sell surplus milk and milk products.

Under the plan each farmer will contribute a percentage of his income to help finance the campaign.

The levy to be paid by each milk producer wasn't set. But a resolution adopted by the annual convention of the Ontario Whole Milk Producers' Price, authorized production of up to 1½ per cent of each farmer's milk cheque.

W. H. Hobbs of Nobleton, chairman of the session, said dairy producers have been "hog-tied" and recently adopted a similar scheme. He said he was convinced a job of market research and advertising could be done by milk farmers in Canada.

He said if the dairy industry were forced to seek government assistance in the future, the acceptance of a stabilization plan now would prove the producers' sincerity to help themselves.

V. S. Milburn of St. Catharines, secretary-manager of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, told the league that while the income of the average farmer in the provinces had dropped 28 per cent between 1951 and '353, milk producers had a decrease of not more than four per cent.

RCAF Plane On Mercy Flight Deep in Arctic

WINNIPEG (CP)—Radio signals crackled thousands of miles across the Arctic Friday night to tell of the progress being made by an RCAF Flying Boat on a mercy-relief mission deep into polar country. Messages relayed by Arctic radio stations scattered throughout the barren northland reported an air signal from the ski-equipped Dakota that it was landing at Resolute bay, 1,940 miles from the North Pole Friday afternoon.

The plane was carrying a young Eskimo girl home from hospital and is scheduled to pick up a child with appendicitis at Spence bay—a man with a broken arm before returning to Winnipeg.

EIGHT-HOUR HOP

The plans was in the air for more than eight hours after leaving Fort Churchill, Man., 1,500 miles south of Resolute. The Dakota left Winnipeg Thursday and stopped overnight at the Hudson bay military base, 610 miles north of here.

The third leg of the trip will be a 230-mile hop southeast to Resolute on Cornwallis island, to the Arctic bay on the northern coast of Baffin island to drop off the Eskimo girl and pick up the sick child. If the youngster is not ready ill the plane will fly another 150 miles east to Food inlet to pick up the man.

Air force officials said flying conditions are good although winds may hamper the mission at any time.

It was 13 below at Resolute Friday. Skies were clear and the moon was bright.

EARLY PROHIBITION

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B POWER.

"COME, THOU ALMIGHTY KING!"

Come, Thou Almighty King,
Help us Thy name to sing,
Help us to praise:
Father all-glorious,
O'er all victorious,
Come, and reign over us,
Ancient of days.

Jesus, our Lord, arise,
Scatter our enemies,
And make them fall;
Let Thine almighty aid
Our sure defence be made;
Our souls on Thee be stayed;
Lord, hear our call.

Come, Holy Comforter,
Thy sacred witness bear
In this glad hour;
Thou, who Almighty art
Now rule in every heart
And ne'er from us depart
Spirit of power.

Come, thou incarnate Word,
Gird on Thy mighty sword,
Our prayer attend;
Come, and Thy people bless,
And give Thy word success;
Spirit of holiness,
On us descend.

To the Great One and Three
Eternal praises be
Hence, evermore.
His Sovereign Majesty
May we in glory see,
And to eternity
Love and adore.

For Christians whose faith recrowns Christ each season as they celebrate the anniversary of His resurrection and victory over death, there is no more glorious hymn than "Come, Thou Almighty King!"

Through nearly 200 years it has been a favorite with all church groups and denominations, yet to this day its authorship is in doubt. It was probably composed during the era of the Wesleys, and some hymnists give Charles Wesley credit for its composition because it was found, in 1757, printed on a little leaflet with two other hymns known to have been written by Wesley. Other authorities suggest that George Whitefield, eminent English preacher, may have been the author.

Whoever the composer was, he gave the world one of its most inspiring lyrics and one which through the years of strength to stand as a bulwark of strength for the religious faith of human kind. The tune was written in 1789 by Felice Giardini, a widely known violinist, famous for his concerts and as conductor of the Italian Opera in London.

Before Giardini provided the tune which has become so popular, and for some years afterward, the English tune for "God Save The King", which is the same tune that used for "America" was linked with the hymn. In the days of the American Revolution, a congregation of patriotic colonists—so the story goes—was attending church on Independence Island when the service was interrupted by the arrival of a company of Hessian troops.

The captain of the company stalked down the church aisle and ordered the church people to sing "God Save The King". The organist started the tune but the people, true to the cause of the American colonies, and to their God, sang the words of the hymn: "Come, Thou almighty King! Help us Thy name to sing."

The soldiers, it is reported, withdrew from the chapel without harming the Americans and without attempting to enforce their demand.

A Lift For Living

Elected to Serve

(By DR. RALPH SOCKMAN)

The leaders elected last November are now taking office. The criticism hurled at America by the Soviet Union and her satellites have at least one irrefutable answer.

We allow our people to pick their leaders.

The Kremlin clique tries to deceive the Orient by picturing Russia as the liberator and America as the oppressor, but we are demonstrating that our rulers are not irresponsible dictators like the Politburo, but leaders answerable to the sovereign people.

When the citizens of our nation express their will through a majority vote, such a vote is called the sovereign voice of the people. Yet the sovereign people, when it inaugurates a new president or governor, requires him to take an oath or affirmation with his hand on the Bible, symbolizing that he holds his powers under the dominion of a divine authority. And when our Congress convenes to represent our people in the making of laws, its sessions are inspired with prayer invoking wisdom of a Divine Lawmaker.

WHAT PRICE DICTATORSHIP?

I wonder if we Americans quite realize what it would be like to live in a land where a dictator had the last word, where there was no appeal to the general public conscience, where there was no looking up to a Divine Source of right and justice. We should think about this until it sinks into our hearts.

Today the lines are drawn around the earth between two vast power blocs. One is led by the Soviet Union, which officially declares itself a godless nation. The other bloc is led by nations like the United States, Great Britain, and Canada, which call themselves Christian nations. The world is now watching to see what difference there is between their conduct. On a world scale and before a global audience for the first time in history, this issue is being tested.

If the nations which professedly look to the Cross can demonstrate to the world that their principles and methods are superior to those of the countries led by the Soviet, we shall open the way for a world-wide spiritual advance on a scale never before approached.

"The Son of Man came not be ministered unto but to minister," Christ sought to rule over men in order that He might serve them. Many a nation has risen to power by pretending to be the servant of the people, as Hitler and Mussolini did that. But once in power they showed their greedy desire to dominate.

MOTIVE IS SERVICE

When will we learn that Christ's motive of ruling to serve is the only one which lasts? When we gain power over others for the sake of profit or domination, such rule is likely to be short-lived, as was Italy's conquest of Ethiopia and Japan's control over China. But when we use our power to help others earn for it a welcome which grows with time.

If America now uses her strength and leadership in a genuine spirit of service she will win the respect of the smaller nations. They will see that the Cross is better than the Kremlin.

"Methods of governing as well as motives are important. Some well-intentioned persons serve others in ways which prove a disservice. A mother may earnestly desire to help her daughter, yet she may so rule her household that the girl grows up lacking in self-determination and force of character. Good parents so govern their children that the children become able to govern themselves.

A good government does not treat its people as pets or pawns. If ours is to be "a government of the people and for the people," it must be "a government by the people"—a people concerned for the welfare of each of its units, a people responsible enough "to love their own neighbor" and responsive enough to help bear one another's burdens and so fulfill the law of Christ.

Appliances Now for Sale In Varied Hues

CHICAGO (AP)—The American housewife will be able to buy her electrical household appliances this spring in traditional white, but she's also going to find a wide selection in varied hues of decorator colors.

They range from soft copper to pinks and blues in new merchandise being displayed now for dealers at the international home furnishings market.

Goods being displayed will be in retail stores in the spring and summer.

One large appliance manufacturing firm is so convinced that the trend in kitchens is towards more color that it is producing an entire line in six colors which can be "matched or mixed."

The firm has arranged with several paint manufacturers to produce paints in exact duplicating colors to match appliances which come in turquoise green, canary yellow, pastel pink, cadet blue or woodtone brown in addition to white.

For Parents Only

Family Councils

(By NANCY CLEAVER)

"Could we have a Family Council once a week like Uncle John's?" When I was visiting their home they had a "pow-wow" about their plans for a vacation week-end. George asked his parents.

His mother looked doubtful and his father groaned. "You and your sister scrap so much, I'm all for less, not more talk!" his Dad said. "You had better sell the idea to Betty of a peaceful family conference and then we'll see about giving it a trial."

* * *

There is one blueprint for a democratic home and there is no one way to conduct a family council. Lincoln's famous definition of this type of government being "of the people, by the people, for the people" is well known. Walt Whitman once called democracy, life's gymnasium, not of good only, but of all, which supplies a training school for making first rate men."

NO ONE PATTERN

There is no one pattern for a family council, but the idea is sound that each member of the household will have the chance to express his ideas on a suggested plan. Some families like a formal conference with mother or dad as presiding officer and business procedure such as motions and amendments strictly followed. This is good training in taking part in public affairs. But other families just don't take to that kind of a discussion. They get much farther in an informal, friendly "pow-wow" after supper or at bedtime "snack" time.

Some people have the mistaken idea that a home which uses this method of presenting ideas of plans in open discussion is ignoring the ruling force of parents and handing over too much responsibility to children. But the ideal in family group is to develop boys and girls gradually who will willingly abide by the rules of a family group in matters which concern the whole household as in the case of the home. When they are grown and away from home they should be able to make their own rules based not only on their own wishes, but on other people's rights as well.

USEFUL MEETING

The large family or family with a big gap in the ages of the children frequently have found it useful for mother or dad to take over privately with an older boy or girl any plans which especially affect them. Then after clearing with the other parent, at a meal or at some time when the family is together as a group, let the other children know their decision.

Helen may want to clerk in a shop on Saturday to earn extra money instead of baby-sitting several nights a week. Tom, who is finishing collegiate, may want to make an arrangement with dad about washing the car and having the use of it on Friday or Saturday nights.

Perhaps you think a Family Council too much bother or too ambitious a plan for your household? Do you protest that there were no such get-together ideas in the home in which you grew up? Do you say apologetically that you're just an ordinary parent—and this family conference makes quite a demand on the mother or dad who is the "presiding officer?"

DEMOCRACY IDEAL

But if you are convinced that it is for the good of your children that they learn what it is to know it works in your home. Don't forget Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick's apt comment that the democratic ideal is based on the conviction that there are extraordinary possibilities in ordinary people!

Some type of family roundtable, either formal or informal, following any pattern which best fits your family, will strengthen the bond between the members of your home. A much better for differences of opinion to be aired than to have almost there poisoned by a smouldering resentment against something a boy or girl thinks is unfair.

Conducting a Family Council is not easy. But who ever said solving children was a simple job?) Try it! Decide for yourself if it pays good dividends in mutual understanding and co-operation.

U.N. SEAT FOR RED CHINA NEARER?

United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold's visit to Peiping for negotiations with the Chinese Reds for release of eleven captive American fliers might be the next to the last move of a series of moves designed to admit Red China to the United Nations.

It is no secret that only the opposition of the United States has prevented admittance of Red China to the United Nations before now. Great Britain has long called on the United States and the United Nations to recognize Red China diplomatically as she herself does. The argument used for Red China's admittance is that the Red regime is in fact in control of the Chinese mainland and that it is unrealistic to continue to overlook the realities of the greatest land power in Asia.

While the war in Korea raged and while Chinese interference in the Indo-China conflict balanced the future of Asia on bayonet point; and threatened the collapse of the Western alliance by prostrating France, the Peiping regime had little hope of presenting a strong case for membership in an organization dedicated to peace and universal brotherhood. However, with their position in Asia greatly enhanced by the Korean stalemate on the 38th parallel and by the abandoning of 13 million persons in north Viet Nam by the French, the Chinese Reds are in the best bargaining position in Asia since they assumed control of China.

The only immediate objectives which still elude the Red rulers of mainland China are occupation of the Nationalist Chinese island of Formosa and recognition of their government by the United States and the United Nations.

John Foster Dulles, secretary of state for the United States, put an impossibly high price on conquest of Formosa by declaring recently that the United States would resist, with force, any invasion from the mainland. The only other immediate objective, therefore, lies in the attaining of official diplomatic recognition.

Payment of $40,000 in compensation to Great Britain for the shooting down of a Cathy-Pacific airliner last spring was not designed to alienate Britain's continuing efforts in the cause of recognition for Red China. A facade of friendliness was erected immediately before Christmas for Canadians with the release of Squadron Leader Andrew Mackenzie after two years in a Red Chinese prison and the publication of statements on his release in no way worsened Canadian opinion towards Red China.

And now the Reds have the United Nations' general secretary pledging his trip to Peiping to obtain release of fliers. Nothing has been said about the release of the more than 500 other American prisoners who, the United States claims, are being held captive by the Chinese Reds.

Nothing is said either about the thousands of South Korean captives knowledge of whose whereabouts has been denied by the Chinese Reds.

The Chinese Reds, of course, have nothing to gain immediately by bartering in lives with South Korea. They have much to gain by returning 11 American fliers to a country which is emotionally, as well as diplomatically, sensitive to their imprisonment.

In dealing with Communists, however, it is always wise to remember that treachery is an instrument of diplomacy. And the return of all 11 American prisoners may be a lucky omen for the future, it would seem unlikely in view of the 13 million Viet Namese who disappeared into captivity behind the bamboo curtain three short months ago.

A DISCREPANCY HERE

There is something wrong with a business in which one of the hired help gets more money than the boss.

James Coyne, at 44, is the new governor of the Bank of Canada and his salary, he has a big job. For it he will draw the highest salary of any servant of the crown in Canada. He remuneration is not exorbitant, by the standard of private enterprise.

But his salary is $13,000 more than that received by Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent.

Some adjustment would seem to be in order. It would be a sorry day for the nation when the salary was the biggest attraction about the position of prime minister. The laborer, however, is worthy of his hire, even if he is the prime minister of the country and should receive the highest salary paid to any servant of the crown.

WRONG DOGHOUSE

Our sympathy is extended to Alan Harvey, Canadian Press staff writer.

No doubt it was a rush to make a deadline which caused him to end up in the wrong doghouse.

In a recent dispatch from Paris, Harvey referred to Christian Dior's "fleet of whipsaft-slim models."

Now whippets are slim, we will admit, but not in the same places as the models for the Dior silhouette.

In fact, the whippet may be said to be the Mae West among the dogs.

JUST FOLKS

CHECK UP

"Now," said the doctor, you'd better come
You're at the age when man's slimness begins
You're feeling all right and you seem to be well,
But we'd better make sure, for 'Let me tell you you never can tell.

"Come in for a check-up. You'll find that it pays.
We'll know all about you in two or three days.
We'll open you up and search you
both inside and out.
Should you feel any pain, we'll learn what it's about."

So they looked at my teeth and they looked at my tongue,
And kept solemnly saying:
"You're no longer young."
And I said with a smile: "It's that's costing me dough.
"But I'll not have the doctors find something I already know."

You'll I went through the mills which in hospitals grind
And waited and wondered just what they would find.
They examined the stomach, the heart and each lung.
And gave me this verdict:
"You're no longer young."

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

January 8, 1935

Mr. Morley P. Duff will be the chairman of the Belleville Hydro Board, this year; this is the second time that Mr. Duff has filled the office. He was appointed by Mr. George A. Reid, the retiring chairman, and supported by Mayor Geo. O. Tice.

Mr. Timothy Sullivan was unanimously elected president of the Belleville branch of the Ontario Barbers and Hair Dressers' Association at the annual meeting of the local branch. The other officers are: vice-president, Mr. Arthur Snare; 2nd secretary-treasurer, Mr. C. L. Cole. The following were appointed to compose a grievance committee: Mr. W. E. Mittin, Mr. W. Sharpe, Mr. Arthur Snare and Mrs. Cole.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sharpe have returned to their home in Williamsport, Pa., after spending the holidays here with Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Latue, Dundas street.

The Rev. J. S. McMullen and Mrs. McMullen have returned home after spending the holidays with relatives in Toronto.

Miss Helen Walker has returned to her home in Hoard's Station, after spending the holidays here with Miss Laura Thompson, Bridge Avenue.

30 YEARS AGO

January 8, 1925

At a meeting of the members of the Belleville Liberal Conservative Association the following officers were elected—honorary presidents, E. Guss Porter, M.P., and R. A. Grahm; president, Major R. D. Ponton; vice-presidents, Mrs. A. Thompson; secretary-treasurer, Richard H. Ketcheson.

The following announcement has been made in Ottawa of the appointment of W. B. Northrup, who has been Clerk of the House of Commons for some years, to retire with a pension of $2,500 per year and a gratuity of $5,000. Mr. Northrup practised law in Belleville, for a considerable time and represented the riding of East Hastings as a Conservative in the Dominion House for several terms.

Mr. Lorne Cook has returned to Amherstburg, after spending two weeks here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cook.

Captain Heffernan of Picton, former Oshawa hockey star is spending a few days here.

Mr. James Welch, St. Charles street, has left to visit his sons at Niagara Falls, N.Y.

Workmen are busily engaged in clearing the big snow banks on Front and Bridge streets.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARE

In the restaurant today, a couple sat in full view of totally unaware everything around them. The woman was positively beautiful. She could be anywhere between twenty-seven or so, and a matron. Possibly the wife of the man.

The man was in middle thirties or better, and a man depending once you never saw. For the beautiful woman talked, talked, talked. Over the normal din of the restaurant, her voice came faintly, full of infection, vibrant, gay.

She was the sort of woman who never looked directly at you. Instants when she paused, her lips apart, her lovely teeth showing, her eyes danced with the thought of the next thing she was going to say.

She never stopped talking except to take a few quick chews at her food. The man never talked at all. He sat gazing in complete devotion at the fine looking woman facing him. He nodded. He might have uttered a word here and there, but if so, they served merely to encourage the woman to fresh garlands, bouquets, lyrical verses of speech.

I do hope they were married. With all my heart, I hope the poor devoted fellow is not advancing into a situation. For there is something I want to tell all decent men, whether young or in the late thirties. Beauty fades. Even the loveliest charm, even that supreme set of beauty worn by a young matron in her late twenties, vanishes surely and certainly away.

But talk goes on. A woman who is a talker at twenty-seven is going to be a geyser at thirty-seven, and at forty-seven, she will be an eruption. Facility in talking grows, it increases with practise and experience. Mouths do not remain beautiful very far into the thirties. Eyes that are full of light in the twenties develop a sort of glare in the forties. It is a rare thing when a woman seems to by tossing in her head, boys; it is more like old bandies.

Letter to the Editor

Canadians Can Assist Schweitzer Hospital

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer

I feel that I cannot let this month go by without making plea for help for the Albert Schweitzer Hospital in Lambarene, Equitorial Africa. It is on this Jan. 14, that the doctor will celebrate his 80th birthday. He has spent his life in great discomfort and tedious labor for his great cause and belief. Would it not be a marvellous satisfaction if all Christians would help in their individual way by sending amounts of money as they see fit to brighten the heart of this great man at this time?

It isn't enough to say, "Yes, he is a wonderful man, but what can I do about it?" Let us change talk to action because you can do something about it now. Kindly send donation by cheque to

Dr. Emory Ross
The Albert Schweitzer Fellowship
156 Fifth Avenue
New York, N.Y.

In this way we each can have the wonderful satisfaction of knowing that we are a part of this great work. This can be prayer in action and God will bless you in what you can hardly believe possible.

Irene Moore.

Editor's Note: So that Canadians may participate in the 80th birthday celebration of Dr. Albert Schweitzer, CARE today launched a program in aid of Dr. Schweitzer's hospital at Lambarene, French Equatorial Africa. The hospital CARE is sponsoring's own assessment of his institution's needs is sending shipments of blankets and warm clothes in behalf of its donors and Canadians. Dr. Schweitzer

Blankets and work clothing are the articles in shortest supply at Lambarene. And CARE are the commodities that CARE has earmarked in the name of Canadians who wish to honor Dr. Schweitzer on his birthday. When the hospital's CARE can send contributions of CARE donors will be shipped in packages weighing specified by Dr. Schweitzer.

For $10 CARE can send each standard shipment of men's shirts, coveralls, trousers and fatigue jackets. Each shipment of a shipment of blankets represents $800.

Tortoise Lives Too Long

(Christian Science Monitor)

So long as the tortoise can't talk, perhaps he isn't too much of an embarrassment to his owners. But if the tortoise can't talk, he's much alive pet who had been in your family for 177 years? Disconcerting, we'd say.

Yet that's just what the royal family of Tonga has on its hands with "Way back in 1777, when the late Capt. James Cook visited these islands of the Pacific, he presented the king with a giant tortoise. Today, it is not known how wise that four-footed reptile already was at the time of gift. No telling how much he sees and disapproves of now. He isn't telling.

But that look in his ancient eyes! You've seen it on many a tour great-great-grandfather, if you're lucky to say. And as for you, your great-great-grandfather, he did twice as well rearing her children as you're doing, you-ever you going ahead making that same old mistake? I can't see Tonga, your grandfather, your great-grandfather — and even ancestors further back — making the same foolish thing. Don't you humans ever learn?

We'd much rather have a young puppy who looks up to us.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE CAMPUS

Campus—the ground upon which college buildings are erected. We all know the meaning of the word campus. Perhaps few of us know its derivation. The word "campus" in Latin means a broad field used for military purposes—and it was used at times for combat. The word "campus" is also derived from the Latin word "campus". Champions are people who strive and win their victories on the campus.

Here is a little parable for our sons and daughters. If any parent, reading these words, is not aware of the fact that our children today are subjected to unprecedented temptation and that the life of a college student is a grim struggle to maintain one's religious beliefs, stay decent, sober, and honorable—then such parents had better wake up and rub their eyes and start thinking. The young people of today are precisely the same as young people have always been, but the world in which they live is different to a horrifying degree. All bars are down. The young person who goes through a college course and comes out with a strong religious faith, with moral decency, and with an unyielding fidelity to moral purposes has gained all this at the cost of an awful struggle.

College days is a field of battle. Those who strive thereon and win are champions.

It used to be as much heroism on the modern campus as there was on the ancient.

Wrong Way To Get Capital

(Hamilton Spectator)

Most countries in Asia face a common problem upon the favourable solution of which depends the economic progress, political contest and eventually freedom of vast populations. That is the problem of capital. Without this important factor land will remain untilled, crops will rot in the fields and semi-naked people will continue to live in mud or palm-leaf huts. With its magic combination, new roads, hydro-electric projects, irrigation schemes railways, mines and more important than all, a rising standard of living.

For capital of this kind there is only one source in the world—the West. But capital requires stability of government and the assurance that it will not be discriminated against; like credit, it is extremely sensitive. It is unfortunate that many governments in Asia at the moment are unwilling or unable to see in the recent actions of Indonesia. Early this year the Indonesian Government suddenly imposed a tax of 66 2-3 per cent on exports of rubber and copra.

The object of this impost was obviously to snatch the major benefits of the boom made by foreign-owned firms in the country. The Indonesian Government was deeply represented by the firms affected. It was flagrant discrimination, they said, against nationals, of all countries in the East, can only end in disaster.

Indonesia is one of the most backward countries in Asia and, as such, in the world. Improving the living of its population, it must encourage capital to flow in. Now Indonesia has not only frightened away new capital, but has undermined the confidence—never very strong—of capital already there.

The Indonesian Government insists that foreign companies employ their qualifications, be promoted first in foreign firms. Few Indonesians of the necessary standard were ever suited for those types of administration, that can be provided by regulations that reduce responsibility to negligible proportions. Yet the people who provide over individuals who are talented entrepreneurs and have executive ability is another of the Indonesian government's major mistakes. Ignorance of economics impoverishes the country in the real sense as much as the people.

There is only a certain amount of foreign capital available for investment in the world. There are obviously choose those countries where stability and fair treatment can be assured. Competition for this capital, particularly from Eastern countries, is keen. Its rivals here are Pakistan, India, Turkey and Greece.

With these countries making themselves alluring and offering reasonable terms, it is unwise for the Indonesian Government arbitrary and unilateral.

These actions must be due either to inexperience in government or to the influence of narrow nationalism induces. The charitable view suggests the first, but it must be watched carefully. The Indonesian Government's performance since 1949 will believe the second is at the root of it all.

Personal Health Talks

ALTERNATIVE FOR RISKY SURGERY

Advising a patient to "go home and waste no money on doctors or treatment" is presumptuous—but that once naturally is doctors in the clinic racket. When we trick specialists have exhausted our resources (and your available cash) you'll drift along for quite a while with the feeling that ordinary doctors don't know how or not capable of handling your case.

Boston physician writes:

Mr. — came to my office stating that you advised him that cortical prodigiosy examination. He has large internal hemorrhoids which call for surgery, but in view of the patient's hypertension I'm giving injection treatment to control the bleeding. This may give enough relief to make surgery unnecessary. (Signed — M.D.)

The Boston physician practises better his own name. Even though he still perpetrates the atrocity by running the letters he is evidently aware that injection treatment makes the strictly unnecessary. That's encouraging.

Will Ditch Dingo Mitch

(Edmonton Journal)

One of the nastiest features of the official mind is its ability to hate all of everything colorful and picturesque.

The latest example comes from Australia, where the authorities have been declared to be "disgusted" with Dingo Mitch or Murdering George, as governments usually call these titles "undignified" and proposed to replace them with the more dignified names they like those of white people.

This will be quite a comedown, especially for Murdering George. With a name like that he has been automatically a man of consequence in his neighborhood. Dingo Mitch, as we imagine, ever contradicted him in anything, or ever talked of him in a low-up, or did anything that might conceivably provoke him. But if his name is such a big Fool Jack, Dingo Mitch, he will find himself demoted to the ranks of the common people.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

FRONTIERS

The frontiers in this western hemisphere all been discovered and put to man's use. It has always taken vision, courage, privation, and the best brains of the land. But behind those who have accepted the call and the risks were others willing and hopeful of taking their places. Such is the pioneer spirit. We owe to our fathers who sacrificed so much for us, that there is no room for envy.

Physical frontiers all over the world also have about been conquered, but there are countless human frontiers that will be among human activities as long as there is life in the world. There are diseases of the body that remain unsolved as to their cure. Their mastery constitutes the frontiers of today. What science has achieved is the work of wiping them out! Just think of the frontiers that have already been conquered!

None of us should be satisfied to think as our fathers thought, or even as so many now think. Appreciating their courage and freedom, we should be inspired to think beyond our own lives into frontiers that can be made to bless mankind long after we have retired from the stage. The ideal before us at all times should be that which shall represent the greatest good to the greatest number. Free government has been on trial for a long time. It has imperfections but they are lessening.

Go far back into human history, and then read of events since! Over the last two hundred years—and what progress has been made. Even that great change, the steam engine introduced, and what opportunities and happiness have been promoted as an open gift for all with the will and imagination and the courage to grasp them.

How strange it is that so many people in the depression years of bad times just as business is extra good, and the prospects even better. Those with faith and those who believe in their country and its opportunities are not among the other short! There will never be frontiers to the human mind and spirit!

A Weekly Review of Sports Activities of the * City's Secondary Schools

In the final upper school floor hockey game of the season the Desperadoes edged the Polecats 13-11 in overtime. Farnsworth scored seven goals for the winners. For the losers Kennedy had three goals and one assist, Williams and Bedell each scored three goals while Redner had two goals and two assists. The stars in this game were Farnsworth and Redner.

The Desperadoes now meet the Kingsmen in a two game, total goals to count, semi-final series. The winner will then play a two out of three game series with the Dynamos for the Upper School floor hockey championship.

The Lower School floor hockey season opened up with the Riverdale edging the Indians 3-4. Marsella fired four goals for the winners while O'Neil scored one. Purdy had two goals for the losers, Wright and Hingston each had a goal, while Williams got an assist. The stars were Marcelle and Purdy.

The Beavers swamped the Eagles 8-3. Thomas scored four goals and one assist, Roseberry had two goals, while Foster and Wakefield each had a goal. Wannamaker scored two goals for the losers. Foster fired the other goal. The stars were Thomas and Wannamaker.

The Orioles trounced the Cowboys 10-6. Irwin had five goals and two assists. Gill had two goals. C. Rowbotton scored one goal and one assist, while Vaughan and Dorador each fired a goal. Hill and L. Davis each got assists. For the losers Foley scored two goals while Callnan, Elliott, Booth and R. Davis each had goals.

The Eagles blanked the Indians 5-0. Elliott, Schwab and Wannamaker scored the wins by goals while McNevin got an assist. The stars were Anderson and Plane who incidentally put on a tremendous effort to gain a shutout. This is the first shutout of the season in both leagues.

The Beavers defeated the Cowboys 8-5. Thomas led the winners with three goals. R. Dickson and G. Rowbotham each scored two goals and one assist while Foster and J. Wilson each had a goal. For the losers Callnan and Gill fired four goals and Booth got one. The stars were Callnan and G. Rowbotham.

Applications for ice hockey have now been filled. The league will comprise of five teams. The games are to be played during noon hours in the Memorial Arena commencing at 12:15 and ending at 1:00 o'clock. The schedule will get under way within a week so if you are a rabid hockey fan don't miss this treat.

Did you know that there are only thirty-eight more school days before that outstanding production of Kampus Kapers reaches the stage spotlight in our school? This show is made up of school talent and is directed by the Boys' Athletic Association.

It promises to be great entertainment and here are a few of its main features. Grant and Cara Butler, Belleville's popular concert pianists will favor us with some of their noted selections. Don Cherry and Doug Anglin are combining to perform a hilarious comedy team. By popular demand the Rockettettes will appear to harmonize once again. The Drama Club will put on a skit and better yet the teachers plan to do one also. There are going to be human pyramids, acrobatics, judo displays, tremendous feats on the apparatus and many more wonderful acts. Don't forget to attend this spectacular event next March 3rd and 4th. It's going to be "the shows of shows."

NOTHING TO WORRY ABOUT

His wife, Mercedes, self-styled "Manhattan Queen", who was recently found surrounded by a fortune in stolen goods, unwittingly led detectives to their rendezvous.—Central Press Canadian.

Uranium Field Is Discovered In Australia

By I. L. I. LECK
Canadian Press Correspondent

SYDNEY, Australia (CP) — A huge new uranium field is being uncovered in Australia's underpopulated, undeveloped and relatively unknown Northern Territory.

Located some 180 miles southeast of Darwin, capital of the territory, the new prospect follows the watercourse of the South Alligator river in an area inhabited only by nomadic aboriginal tribesmen. Mule and horse trains are the only satisfactory mode of transport in the seven - month monsoonal wet season.

Rio Tinto Co. Ltd., London-based company with world - wide mining activities, has made deals with all of the prospecting companies in the area with the object of sharing in the discoveries.

It is generally believed in mining circles that Rio Tinto eventually will build a plant for treating the local ores—a necessity in this area where long hauls of ore over rough bush tracks would render uneconomic the transport of all but very highgrade material.

STRIKE TOOK MONTHS

The original finds were made by a prospecting team of a local company headed by German - born Dr. George Sleit. Using horses and camels for transport, and supplied by air with food, Sleis and his party made the strike after months of search.

Australia's short uranium history is colored with many "rags to riches" stories. The valuable Rum Jungle finds was found by 24-year-old Jack White, peanut farmer and itinerant prospector, when hunting kangaroos. He collected a $50,000 government reward but still lives alone in his bush shack in Rum Jungle southwest of Darwin.

An important find at Adelaide in the Northern Territory came as a result of a Sunday golfing trip by three young Darwin men. One, Stan Lennox, went over with a borrowed geiger counter. In half an hour he had made a strike which he sold later for $250,000 and, in addition, collected the $50,000 government reward.

In desolate Mount Isa, 1,400 miles to the southeast in the neighbouring state of Queensland, Clem Wahlton, 53-year-old cab driver, sent the town wild with his fabulous "Mary Kathleen" find.

TIMELY ILLNESS

Wahlton was besieged by company promoters and when about to name the successful company, dramatically went to hospital with a heart attack. When finally announced, Wahlton's lucky jaunfished the collapse and made the heads of mining men spin.

His syndicate was to receive $500,000 in cash, a one - fifth interest in the company formed to exploit the area; and five per cent of the gross proceeds of ore won.

Australia - wide discoveries this year touched off a uranium share boom which justified the country's hopes of a major oil find, to provide twin Eldorados for stock exchange speculators. But over - anticipation of uranium's benefits, and subsequent disappointing oil news, brought the shares back to earth with a jolt.

As the position now stands, Rum Jungle, controlled by the federal government, and Radium Hill, operated by state authorities in South Australia, are at present Australia's only major producing uranium mines.

Opening Watched By More People Than Ever Before

OTTAWA (CP)—The opening of Parliament Friday was watched by more people than ever before.

Television cameras were permitted inside the Senate chamber for the first time to broadcast the reading of the speech from the throne by Governor-General Massey.

The production was good although marred by two power failures near the end.

The processions inside Parliament, including Mr. Massey's arrival and departure from the Senate chamber and the summoning of members of the House of Commons were shown on a CBC network which included nine cities.

SHOWN ON FILM

The CBC estimated that the broadcast made it possible for 2,500,000 persons to watch the ceremonies. Film reproductions of the broadcast will be carried later on all 22 television stations in Canada.

The telecast was described by a number of members of the Commons as "the best way to watch opening."

About 35 members of all parties, slipped out from among their colleagues standing at the bar of Senate during the reading of the speech to view the proceedings on the screen of a television receiver installed in Room H, the reception room of the Commons Speaker.

Scion Low, Social Credit leader, said the telecast should have included the opening ceremonies in the Commons as well.

Mobile cameras followed Major C. N. Lamoureux, Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod, to the door of the Commons but did not go inside. However, the formality was described by the commentators.

Fast Ambulance Trip

TORONTO (CP)—A six-week-old boy was brought in hospital here from Chatham Friday in an ambulance trip at speeds up to 70 miles an hour.

Timothy Dixon was placed in an oxygen tent to make the 180-mil trip. The ambulance stopped at London for 10 minutes to change the tire in the oxygen tent.

Timothy will undergo an operation for a congenital heart disorder at the Hospital for Sick Children. Hospital authorities declined to give the child's condition.

Ex-Airman, Living in Arctic For Past Year, Praises Eskimo

VICTORIA (CP)—Philip Allen, 32-year-old ex-airman who lived in the Arctic for a year, now plans to spend a year in the warmer climate of Australia and New Zealand.

During his stay in the North he lived with Eskimo tribes part of the time. Visiting here before leaving for Australia, he told an interviewer:

"My greatest discovery was the Eskimos' integrity. They don't steal. They aren't prone to anger. And most of all, they never speak their children.

"Instead of warring, they have developed a philosophy of life best represented by the smiles on their faces. To them life is tough, but it is great to be alive."

ARCTIC JOURNEYS

Allen travelled 15,000 miles across the top of the world taking notes and films. He's off to Australia and New Zealand with his wife and seven-year-old son to tell of his experiences in the North.

"The start of a lecture and learning tour which will take him and his family around the world, in three years he hopes to be back in Canada with stories and pictures of the other people live. Asia and Africa are stepping-off places after the southern Dominions.

Allen, a native of North Battleford, Sask., started his life of travel two years after he left the RCAF in 1945. He spent two years at the University of Alberta and then retraced the trails of the Klondike gold - seekers in the Yukon.

ABOARD ICE-BREAKER

He married shortly afterwards and with his wife moved from Vancouver to Halifax. Then he worked aboard an ice-breaker as an able seaman, travelling aboard the Rena Polaris from Montreal to Churchill, Man.

There he learned to be an interior painter to earn money while he lived. It has been suggested that they survive for 200 years, but this is little more than a guess.

One of the biggest puzzles is why they have almost died out on the mainland of New Zealand, yet still thrive on a number of islands off the coast. Enemies among introduced species do not seem to supply the whole answer.

The study made by W. H. Dawbin, lecturer in zoology at Victoria University College, has shed some thrown much new light on the habits of tuatarus.

One of the biggest misconceptions is that the tuatara is a completely silent creature. Mr. Dawbin says he roars, although in muted tones. When amplified on a tape recorder and broadcast over the radio, the sound was recently recorded on a tape recorder and broadcast over the radio.

CLAIM RECORD

MONTREAL (CP) — Trans-Canada Air Lines Friday night claimed a record of 11 hours and 27 minutes for a flight from London to Montreal, shaving 22 minutes off the old mark. TCA spokesman said a Super Constellation piloted by Captain Don Barnett of Dorval, Que., set the record, leaving London at 6:15 a.m. EST and landing at Montreal at 5:38 p.m. EST.

Tuataras of N.Z. Strange Survivors of Prehistoric Times

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (CP)—New light is being thrown on the world as it was millions of years ago by the first close scientific study of strange survivors of prehistoric times—the tuataras of New Zealand.

The small tuataras, slow-moving and almost defenceless cousins of the once-mighty dinosaur, have managed to live on here to the present day.

A creature about two feet long, the tuatara resembles a cross between an alligator and a lizard, but it is much more the inhabitants of the prehistoric world than any living species. It has come down exactly as it was in form and habits millions of years ago.

IMPORTANT LINK

As a "living fossil," the tuatara has long been recognized as of major importance in expanding knowledge of the prehistoric world, but it is comparatively rare even in New Zealand, the only place where it is found.

Attempts to study it have also been handicapped because until recently no one has been successful in rearing tuataras in captivity. Mature specimens have been studied, but young ones hatched from eggs in captivity have soon died.

Three years ago two baby tuataras were successfully hatched in the zoological laboratory of Victoria University College, Wellington, and with careful treatment they are still thriving on a diet of snails, beetles, small worms, flowerlies and an occasional slug.

No one knows how long it takes a tuatara to reach maturity. The pair hatched three years ago have reached a length of about seven inches. A mature couple under observation at the college are two feet long.

Similarly no one knows how long they live. It has been suggested that they survive for 200 years, but this is little more than a guess.

One of the biggest puzzles is why they have almost died out on the mainland of New Zealand, yet still thrive on a number of islands off the coast. Enemies among introduced species do not seem to supply the whole answer.

The study made by W. H. Dawbin, lecturer in zoology at Victoria University College, has shed some thrown much new light on the habits of tuataras.

World Tour by Cargo-Liner

By Lavonia Stockelbach

Editor note: The author, who returned in October from a world trip on the cargo-liner, Clarabella Prince, has written a series of articles giving her impressions of the journey. The first article details some of Mrs. Stockelbach's thoughts on the proper preparation for the voyage, and it might be added, she is well qualified to do this as she has made almost fifty crossings of the Atlantic Such places as Hong Kong, Japan, Penang, Singapore and Cairo were visited so it can be expected that much interesting reading is in store for readers of The Ontario Intelligencer. The series will be published each Saturday for several months.

After having accomplished anything it is not always easy to say what really started you on your way, and after interviewing numbers of people who go to distant places it becomes even more difficult. The reasons for not going are few, chiefly the lightness of the bank account or the weight of years. But anyone who can afford an unnecessary motor car and is in fairly good health, no matter what the birth certificate says, can manage a trip around the world on a cargo liner taking four to five months.

It is absolutely necessary to be a good sailor, to have a good digestion and to take along a medium good temper.

It ought to be absolutely necessary to have a great desire to see certain places on the way, places that you have heard about all your lifetime or perhaps only last month, so that discomforts can be overlooked, when balanced by the pleasure derived. One is ill-advised to take such an upstairs if only restlessness is the driving force.

CONTENTMENT NECESSARY

Restlessness on a 9,000-ton vessel is not a pleasant disease to cope with. Ports of call, Panama, Canada, and gossip avail little if you cannot manage contentment after the usual miles around deck and the many hours on a deck-chair just a few feet above the water. With the greatest excitement before (a month to two months than schools) of flying fish or a noble sunset. One might add sunrise except that in the early morning hours there is always a feeling somewhere between the deluge managed by the crew who handle the huge hose with which they slosh the decks, and you sometimes suspect, would be designed to flush the passengers out of their way.

This particular passenger wanted to visit dear friends in Malaya and going around the world seemed a fascinating way to make the return from there. It was well worth the four months' voyage to be in the midst of a happy young family who wanted one. So, last February, plans were arranged to set forth towards the end of June. Even that length of time is not always enough to get into gear on the better of the cargo-liners with a cabin to oneself, if travelling alone.

BRITISH SHIP PREFERRED

Also, if one prefers to sail under a British flag. One could be sure of the formality of a dining-room table, usually fine food, easily and certain to become more and more impressed with the meaning of the word "ship-shape. Then what happened? Apart from the glamour of the Mediterranean, the Suez Canal, China, Hindu and Moslem with the Christian women are a curious lot.

On the ship I chose, the food was good and well served. Being a British ship the stewards were well trained and the tea served by drinks also were good, and cheap enough to allow for occasional cocktails, twenty-five for a cottee. A vast quantity of milk was consumed by the only sickly person on board—a Christian Scientist—and tea could be had at the waking hour of six-thirty, at tea-time four o'clock and at every meal time. Iced tea is a new taste to drink. But with two exceptions the passengers drank coffee.

GOOD ACCOMMODATION

Next in importance to the food was the hot and cold salt water baths, the hot and cold fresh water baths, the perfect plumbing, the good lighting, the always scrubbed bathroom shared by two people. By the best of luck the weather for the 25,000 miles was noisy for only about three or four days all told.

And the files and yarns told by the passengers were a daily delight give as expected: It is so easy to classify a fibbing passenger. Operations make a never ceasing source of interest as a topic of conversation and that reminds me to detail the contents of my travelling medicine chest. There are the doctors on board they vessels so I provided myself with some yards of the gauze material with which you bind up wounds, a roll of tape, some ten-year-old court plaster, Johnson's baby oil and aspirin of which latter the ship's stores was about ten to the four months. Nobody borrowed anything of me—except some dollars when I had run out—for anyone contemplating a round-the-world tour there is one piece of advice I would give years to give. Spend the preceding year with your geography, history and biography of the places and people who have made them famous. Study the beginnings of British control of the places you visit. Our education in those lines is so very limited that there are many countries in the world anyone who can make such a voyage.

Tabernacle W.A. Elects Officers For 1955

The Tabernacle W.A., had its first meeting on Thursday, in the church parlors.

The outgoing president, Mrs. E. Davidson handed the gavel for their splendid co-operation during the year and said how thoroughly she had enjoyed her two years of office.

NEW OFFICERS

The minister, the Rev. R. A. Rowley installed the new slate of officers as follows: honorary president, Mrs. Rowley; past president, Mrs. Davidson; president, Mrs. B. Johnston; vice-president, Mrs. P. Kerr; recording secretary, Mrs. Paul; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Lent; treasurer, Mrs. Schilvert; social convener, Mrs. G. Winters; manse convener, Mrs. G. Geraltine; pianists, Mrs. M. Duff and Mrs. J. Coughlin.

Mrs. Johnston took the chair and opened the meeting with Scripture verses and thanked the W.A. for her appointment as president, asking that all co-operate in doing God's work in the coming year.

Mrs. Paul conducted the worship service.

Treasurer's report and reports from the various groups were read.

The past president, Mrs. Davidson, was presented with a gift, by Mrs. Johnston.

It was decided to have a potluck luncheon at the February meeting.

Mrs. M. Buck was appointed press reporter for the ensuing year.

Everyone agreed that the last year was a profitable one.

A social half hour was enjoyed following the close of the meeting.

Fashion Flashes

Hardio-resist lingerie is now in the shops, luxurious and lovely and new looking. Black, or white nylon lace makes a slim slip lined entirely with matching net. The bodice has a slightly lowered basque waistline; the skirt is softly slim.

Big gift item is the wraplet for carrying and for resort wear. Kelly green velvet makes a handsome cape with a close-hugging neckline controlled by ends that tie into a big, soft bow. It is lined in a matching print and there is a band of matching green fox at the rippled hemline.

A wonder to keep on hand, say our manufacturers create such style, such fashion, such beauty at down-to-earth prices. Around the neck, a wide satin collar of peach of a party ensemble fashioned of pink acetate and cotton brocade. The above-waist-length jacket is collared and cuffed in muskrat dyed to a dark mink tone. The slim sheath has a fur-lined V neckline.

News of resort wear makes mention of silk twill in neat prints. White silk twill, with a beige and yellow polka dot design, makes up into an elegantly casual shirt-waist dress with back fullness and high-placed bodice pockets beneath a casual, open neckline.

Women's Institute

FOXBORO W. I.

Mrs. H. Ashton was the hostess when the Foxboro Women's Institute met for their January meeting on Tuesday night. Mrs. Shorey presided and opened the meeting in the usual manner.

Correspondence, "thank you" letters from the "shut-ins," who had been remembered by the institute at Christmas, Mr. Harold Stewart, who had been ill in hospital from Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Goy and Dale, and a letter from Mrs. MacPhatter on the U.N.E.S.C.O. project at the Institutes, were read.

The following business was decided: that $10 be sent to the latter project; that the W.I. hold a euchre party on January 22nd to raise the allocation for the C.A.W.W. delegate fund; that it be taken from the treasury to pay for the prizes; that Mrs. Lapp, Mrs. Bamber and Mrs. Meyers compose the committee to look after the prizes and other details.

Mrs. Kilpatrick reported for "Agriculture" and Miss E. Johnston reported for "Historical Research." It was decided that the secretary-treasurer automatically pay the film council dues when they become due; and that the W.I. sponsored a film showing at the County Home.

Mrs. Shorey gave an amusing reading.

Mrs. LaRue, in charge of the program, called on Mrs. Meyers to read "A New Year's Resolution," Mrs. Hollinger to read "Women's Work," Mrs. Gilmours "Why Apes Don't Talk"; Mrs. Churchill "The Oyster," "Jealous", written by Elzie Crane, was read by Mrs. Bamber, and a reading by Mrs. Read completed this part of the program.

The motto, "Great Lovers in Small Things" was ably and intelligently dealt with by Mrs. LaRue who gave an insight into the lives of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor.

The roll call "Great Mothers of History," was answered by 21 members and their guests.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Ashton and her assistants.

Basic Tips for Winter Drivers

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

Let's jump with all four wheels into this - oft-discussed question of how to drive a car in the winter. With the help of research by the National Safety Council, here is what we can tell you about it:

Two factors make winter driving the most hazardous kind: reduced visibility and poor traction! One out of eight fatal accidents can, be pinned on a driver's shortened view caused either by darkness or bad weather. Since nights are longer and weather worse in winter, these accidents are mostly winter's babies.

And if you happen to think you can drive as well during the day as at night, keep in mind that there are three times as many fatalities, per mile driven, in darkness than in light.

Poor traction means slipperiness, and slipperiness comes from snow, sleet, ice, rain, frost, looking , weiness—more winter babies. In one out of five fatal mishaps, there is liquid weather, and in one out of four a slippery road is involved.

SIX BASIC RULES

If you do nothing else to protect yourself, these six basic rules are recommended:

(1) Test your brakes periodically to make sure the pumping your brakes. That is, tap them lightly, but firmly and repeatedly to feel whether they're locking and rolling. Even on a dry pavement problem can develop suddenly and sometimes have to fight to steer the car when your foot is on the brake.

(5) Keep further than usual behind the car ahead. Don't remember how much harder it may be for you to stop in an emergency.

(6) Use reinforced tire chains on ice and icy ice.

CHAINS OVER TIRES

We know we just got ourselves in the middle with that last remark, but remembering the experience of many drivers, including ourselves, the National Safety Council has examined the subject of chains versus winter tires—and found the answer is chains. Tests have shown that they cut stopping distances in half, and they give you as many times as much pull as standard or snow tires.

The Council tested 25 different types of snow-tires and their traction was found to be poor. Heavy-lugged and cleated tires give no protection and do not come close to the performance of reinforced chains.

Reinforced chains, by the way, are the type with cleats on each side of the tire to prevent them smooth links. This latter type, now obsolete, used to cause as many skids as it prevented by acting as runners for sideway sliding.

Here's something else the Council found out about tires: Instead of putting the caps of valve, it skids a little further than natural rubber and gives considerably poorer forward traction on ice.

The Council's tests showed that chains stop a car in less than half the distance of the best of the snow tires. Also, as a rule, the three-quarters the distance on wet pavement. Chains on the rear two tires as much pull on glare ice and about three times as much on slick hard snow.

KEEP SPEED DOWN

Even with chains, of course, you must keep your speed down. The driver rispaire the advantage they give him under the false assumption that he is as safe as on a dry road. This idea is particularly dangerous on curves, where the front wheels can still throw the car into a skid—though not as badly as when you're not out of most times.

Statistics aren't everything of course. Chains are still a great nuisance to put on, cross links break every few blocks and pound the inside of the fender recurring so you feel like you're riding in a kettle drum with wheels. They are almost unbearably bumpy to ride on, and you have to stop at every filling station to get them fixed. This, naturally, turns any wintry trip into a prolonged nightmare.

As soon as the road clears you've got to take them off, or pay to get them taken off as you did to get them put on, a cost factor which together with link repairs tends to offset the low price of chains during the course of a winter.

Heavy snow tires, on the other hand, are almost impossible to blow out, and if you've ever had a blowout in bad weather you know what this can mean in terms of both convenience and safety. They are no more good and can be run comfortably through the summer months, cutting down the expense of an extra pair of off-season tires.

COMPETITION SECOND

Cost, of course, runs a poor second to life and limb in importance. Even so, the cost problem with modern snow tires has been satisfactory—perhaps psychological more so than physical—so we don't know. We'll be interested in hearing readers' experiences on this score.

Hard packed snow or ice, incidentally, hardly gives any satisfactory traction—until it starts to melt. Be careful to note when temperatures are rising whether rough ice is becoming lubricated with water.

Sanding equipment on cars have been shown to have some traction value, particularly with skillful drivers. But the biggest problem with sand is that you have to pump rapidly and gently on application or slowly and firmly on hard snow, and you should get along fine.

Black Is Most Popular Color For Women

Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — High fashion decided with historic pageantry at the Chateau Laurier Parliamentary Wives of diplomats, cabinet ministers and senators, dressed in a variety of tasteful outfits, crowded the Senate floor and galleries to hear the speech from the throne, ready by Governor-General Massey.

Black was the most popular color, chosen by more than half the guests. Jewels and furs ran the gamut from white feathers to bright emerald fox fur caps of sequins and rhinestones than sparkled gaily under powerful television lights.

Other suits, dresses and ensembles were of blue, green and brown, with a few in bright red and deep purple velvet. Fur capes were widely fashioned.

Mrs. S. Stirk Heads W.A.

ROSLIN.—The January meeting of the Women's Auxiliary was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. Geen with ten ladies present.

The president opened the meeting in the customary way.

Mrs. C. Sills gave the Scripture reading taken from Matthew 7:1-12.

The treasurer gave a report of the year's work which showed a balance on hand with all obligations met.

The president, Mrs. E. Geen expressed thanks to members for their co-operation in the past year and presided for the election of officers with the following being elected: president, Mrs. S. Stirk; vice-president, Mrs. N. Alexander; secretary, Mrs. W. Gillespie; treasurer, Mrs. A. Bates; Dorcas secretary, Mrs. W. Bates; auditors, Mrs. F. Meeks and Mrs. E. Geen.

Mrs. Stirk offered to have the February meeting.

The new president occupied the chair for the remainder of the meeting.

Mrs. Burleigh offered to have a pot-luck dinner and quilting at her home on January 28.

Plans were made to hold a euchre party in the hall on Monday evening, January 24.

The leader, Mrs. Geen, conducted the program consisting of a reading "The Beauty of the Lord," by Mrs. Alexander; two musical numbers sung by Constance Templeton, "The Lord's Prayer", "Love That Will Not Let Me Go" by Mrs. Gillespie.

The leader conducted a car contest.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and a social time enjoyed.

pearls or diamonds.

Mrs. Louis St. Laurent, wife of the prime minister, wore a mid-night blue satin dress, matching wide brimmed velvet hat and a blue mink stole.

Canada's women parliamentarian joined the general trend to-wards dark colors, exception of Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, Progressive Conservative member for Hamilton West. She wore a new beige two piece dress trimmed with brown velvet.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

IF YOU'VE WARNED HER, THAT'S ENOUGH

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a boy of 18, and have been dating a girl for a year.

Recently, she told me that she has been having occasional dates with a couple of older men without the knowledge of her family.

As she tells it, these men believe her to be older than she is, and as I have become very much interested in this girl, and am afraid she might get hurt if she continues to date these men, I would like to know what I can do about it.—Reader.

Dear Peter:

If you have already warned this girl that she might very likely get into trouble if she continues to go out with these men, as you probably did when she told you about her dates with them, then I doubt if you can do very much more.

Nagging her about it might make her so stubborn and resentful that she would keep on with what she is doing just to show you, if no other reason. Unfortunately, that is the way many people react, especially young ones, when friends interfere in what they consider their own business.

Having once made your protest, and given her a warning, your best plan is simply to say no more about the matter and leave her to do as she will. She will probably do that anyhow, but if you keep quiet about it you may discover a reason to your way of thinking.

SHE MADE A MISTAKE— SHOULD SHE CONFESS?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Two years ago, when I was 18 years old, I very much fell in love with a young man a year older than myself. I was constantly trying to persuade me to have an affair with him, and because I was afraid to lose him, I may I could hold on to him, I finally gave in, but just once. When I refused to repeat this, he stopped dating me, and although I've tried to get him back, my heart is broken, I finally lost interest in him.

Now, for the past six months, I have been going out with another young man, who has just asked me to marry him. I'm sure I love him and would like to marry him, but I don't know whether or not I should tell him about the affair I had. I am afraid that, if I did, he might leave me, and yet I wonder if it is right to marry him without telling him.

Dear Marg. H.:

It was, of course, most unfortunate that you were so foolish as to let yourself be persuaded, even once, into a relationship you knew was wrong. But at the same time, that shouldn't mean that you must spend your life atoning for one mistake.

I am sure you have deeply regretted what you did, and that you would never be likely to repeat such a thing. That being the case, I see no good reason for bringing up that one indiscretion now, and believe it most unlikely that them will ever be any need for doing so in the future.

Readers' Saturday Column

By Mary Moore

LETTER:

I have had so much pleasure from reading your column that I want to send you a recipe for Pudding. Unfortunately, I can't give you any exact measurements, but I feel sure you can test them from what I write: 1 quart milk in double boiler, 1-2 cup sugar (heaped), sweeten to taste, dash of salt, 1 tablespoon cornstarch blended with cold milk, cook till it thickens. Then add oil of lemon, oil bitter almond (imitation). (The oils are much stronger than extracts so add very carefully.) Add to hot mixture 1 cup sultana raisins, 1-2 cup red chopped cherries, 1-2 cup green chopped cherries, 1-4 cup chopped crystallized ginger, 1-4 cup ground up pineapple. Set aside to chill thoroughly. When very cold add 1 pint cream whipped, folding it in carefully. Freeze.

Hoping this may be acceptable, I am a thankful dessert for Christmas dinner or supper.—Geo. B. F.

ANSWER:

The ingredients in the recipe you have given us are delicious and will make a delightful pudding. Neseirode calls for French chestnuts and pineapple syrup too. To other readers I would like to say that the amount of milk to add is about 2 pints cups, and this should be added to the beaten eggs, and sugar, and then stirred into the scalded milk until thick.

Thank you very much, Geo. B., of this dessert and for sending your version. I am glad you enjoyed your first dessert party this week. Let me help you sometime.

LETTER:

I noticed in your column Mrs. Geo B. had trouble boiling brown sugar and milk curdling. I had trouble with brown sugar adding some corn syrup "it doesn't do that now: for 2 cups brown sugar and 1 cup of white sugar, add 2 tablespoons corn syrup, 1-3 cup milk. You will not have that trouble. Hope this will be some help.—Mrs. A. S.

ANSWER:

Thank you Mrs. A. S. I hope Mrs. Geo. B. will try this. I was puzzled though. What is it you two girls are making with your cornflakes—sugar and milk mixture?

DEAR EM EM:

Pardon my familiarity but I really feel I known you for you rave I never let a day go by that you don't sit down to have a chat with you by way of the paper.

Housewife Is Quite a Walker

Between the first day of this New Year and its last day, the average housewife will spend enough steps to cross the Continent of North America, without leaving her home. And all without leaving her home!

Our feet, in fact, do a lot more travelling than we ever imagine. A farmer plowing his field may average 25 miles a day, while a salesgirl may walk as much as eight miles between morning and evening. Active school children in their play average 10 to 12 miles a day, and a golf player 18 a day. A golfer playing 18 holes of golf likes to think he's quite a stenographer will walk as much as 43 miles in a week of her secretary.

These figures were produced in a survey carried on by pedometer, instruments which record walking distance. The researchers come to the conclusion that the average person takes 18,000 steps a day which adds up to more than seven miles.

TAKEN FOR GRANTED

Most of take our feet for granted and so give them much attention or care until something goes wrong with them. Few of us realize how much stress and strain we actually put upon our feet, and how much they serve us in really life. We usually become aware of the loyal service of our feet only when one of many of the different disorders comes to plague us affecting our feet directly or indirectly.

These are some of the diseases that can result in aching feet: corns, and calluses, warts, ingrown toe nails, inflammations round the nail, fungus infections, chilblains, frost bite, ulcers, varicose veins, abscesses and cramps. There are also bunions, hammertoe, flat feet, fallen arches, enlarged calf muscles, gout, growths and cancers and nerve troubles, sprains and fractures, eczema, psoriasis, blisters.

Our feet can give the doctor clues to general disorders of the body. Swelling of the feet and legs may come from ailments that include diseases of the heart, kidneys and liver. Leg pains and cramps may be the result of diseases that range from varicose veins to cancer.

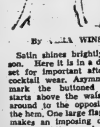
SYMPTOMS OF DISEASE

Consistently brittle nails, nail infections, scaling of the skin of the feet and other symptoms combined with a general tired feeling are warning signals that your footwear is not getting the proper treatment. Stubborn cases of backache, headache, fatigue, nervous tension, poor circulation, and spinal troubles may originate in the feet when the sturdy little bones of the foot slip out of position and the arches start to fall.

Improperly fitted shoes, or shoes not suited for the person's occupation, are blamed by experts for 90 per cent of the foot strain, fatigue, corns, weak ankles, and arch troubles of workers. Ill-fitting shoes say, about 70 per cent of all workers, men or women, have aching feet. The foot troubles are serious enough to cause from two to seven days absence from work every month for one in ten of the workers who are afflicted.

No foot complain: gives as many people trouble as does a corn. Like a toothache, a corn on a toe can make a person irritable, or careless of safety rules. It may cause a salesman to offend his customer, and a typist to make a striking feet may gnaw at a housewife's nerves and cause her to quarrel with her husband. A corn's possibilities for making trouble are endless.

Modern medicine has produced a number of remedies for foot troubles. Among them are salves and ointment for burns and blisters, and drugs to control infections. But, in fact, most foot troubles can be avoided.



TEN HEALTH RULES

One expert has devised ten rules to help keep your feet well and to save them pain and discomfort:

1. Feet should be washed frequently, at least once a day, dried thoroughly and powdered with a foot powder afterward;
2. Socks and shoes should be changed often. If possible the same pair of shoes should not be worn two days in succession;
3. Toe nails should be cut straight across, and no shorter than the flesh;
4. Good - fitting shoes, preferably of leather, should receive, and in selecting them, consider what kind of work or play they will be used for;
5. The proper size of shoe and proper size of stockings are most important;
6. Feet should be exercised. Wiggle your toes, give the muscles of toes and feet a workout to keep them in healthy trim;
7. Feet should be kept dry and not allowed to stay wet through perspiration;
8. Good posture helps, and this depends on proper support of the feet with well-built shoes;
9. Examine your own, and your children's feet regularly; and
10. If the feet need attention consult your doctor.

As long as rules like these are followed, you and your feet can travel a long, happy life together.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

DROP THAT DISTASTEFUL MIDDLE NAME

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a senior in High school, in the East, and am planning to go to college in California next year. I have a problem about my name, and I like your advice about it. Soon we will be ordering graduating announcements with our Commencement invitations and for other uses, at that time and afterward. I have a middle name I loathe. I used to think I just had to use it, whether or not I wanted to, and in the last few years I've just used the initial. But I don't please me, for I don't like initials, particularly on cards. What would you advise us to do?—Margaret.

Drop the name you loathe, and drop the initial too. This is the perfect time in your life to make this change. . . . When you've graduated from High school, about to enter college. I think it's foolish to hang on to the burden of a middle name that is so distasteful to you.

WHO PAYS RENTAL-CHARGE FOR USHER'S ATTIRE?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When the bridegroom ushers are informed by the prospective bridegroom of the responsibility of renting their formal attire (and the rental place suggested), are they responsible for the entire expense of the rental? (I am one of the ushers.) The bridegroom wore (cutaway coat, striped trousers, and so forth) is rented who pays for an ascot tie, the gloves, and boutonnier?—Bob L.

Each usher pays the rental-charge for his attire. . . . In other words, he provides his own attire to wear to the wedding, whether he owns it, has it made, or (as is most frequently the case) has to borrow it. The groom provides and pays for each usher's tie, gloves, boutonnier, and (the most important interest of uniformity.)

GRANDSON SITS WITH GRAND CHILDREN ONLY

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a grandmother. In my life-time I've had quite young looking, if not so so), and my grandchildren have always called me "Grandma," a name I love to have them use, are now starting to school. I strenuously object to having other children call me "Grandma" also. Recently my daughter and her family moved next door to me. My daughter's children are the neighbor's children are beginning to use that name for my grandchildren call me "Grandma." What do you suggest you do to suggest I do about this, without having their parents consider me disagreeable?—Grandma, part.

I advise that you do something about this, and at once. You can be forthright and firm, and very gracious, in a way that explain that you would like to keep "Grandma" for the use of your grandchildren only, that you prefer to have these neighbor-children call you "Mrs. ——."

TWO WEDDING CAKES AT DOUBLE WEDDING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My two nieces, sisters, are to have a double wedding in June. I offered to bake my own wedding cake, planning to order it from a professional baker. My mother specializes in very handsome wedding cakes. Now, however, when I am talking over this plan with my husband, he said it is customary to have two wedding cakes at a double wedding. Is he right about this?—Bertha S.

Yes, he is. . . . Two wedding cakes at a double wedding. Is a nice touch. . . . Two cakes and yroom. That's a fair proceedure!

Episcia--The Ideal House Plant

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

The Episcias are fast becoming favorite house plants. There are several good reasons for this. Perhaps the greatest is the ease with which they grow.

Another good reason is their beautiful colors. They have the tones of brilliant jewels and precious metals. Clear emerald, amethyst, topax and platinum, burnished copper and bronze are formed into intricate designs on the velvety leaves. The foliage is so colorful that these plants are used as specimen plants, and are also popular in groups, or as accent plants with other foliage types.

Like Gloxinias and African violets are Episcias like shade, or partial light. Their name comes from the Greek meaning "shady."

CLASSED AS CLIMBERS.

Some growers class them as climbers, or vines, but this is not right. They do have runners which produce new plants at their tips, and should be placed in a position where these runners have room to grow and to display their beauty.

These little plants on the end of a string look like strawberry runners, or Anthuriums, or Mother-of-thousands. They are attractive displayed on a pedestal dish, or raised on an upturned pot that allows the runners to cascade over the sides. Florists often grow them on under shelves and allow the runners to fill in as ground covers. They will do this on large planters too.

GROWN FOR LEAVES

There are 16 different varieties grown for sale, but about 30 varieties are known to exist. Some have attractive blooms, others are quite insignificant, but all of the Episcias are grown primarily for their colored leaves. These are somewhat larger than African violet leaves, less fuzzy, but have a crumpled appearance and are intricately veined in contrasting colors. They will not stand sudden chills, or low temperatures. Be sure to place them where they will have at least 60 degrees of heat through the night.

They may be propagated from leaf cuttings as are African violets, or from the little plants on the ends of the runners. These may be severed and planted in sharp sand, or vermiculite, or planted with the runner attached to the parent plant until roots have formed.

In either case make a shallow depression with the finger or a pencil in the damp medium. Press the bottom of the new plant firmly, but gently into close contact with the soil. It would be best to anchor it in position with a staple or half hoop of wire (an invisible hair pin is good for this. It is made of very thin wire.)

POTTING SOIL

Potting soil should be like that used for African violets—1-3 peat moss shredded fine, 1-3 sharp sand and 1-3 garden loam and 1-4 teaspoon of azalea fertilizer, or good complete plant food. Crush a plant food tablet if you have these on hand. Episcias do not mind cold water, if they have dried off by night.

Reforestation Plots Yield Pulpwood

By FRASER MacDOUGALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Southwestern and central Ontario, long ago stripped by pioneering farmers of most of its natural forest cover, now finds itself in an unaccustomed role as a source of pulpwood for newsprint.

Two factors are responsible:

1. Reforestation of poorer land with pine, carried on since the 1920s by government and public authorities as well as private farmers;

2. Development of techniques which make it possible to use jackpine, red and Scotch pine in making newsprint — once almost wholly a spruce and balsam product.

PINES NEW TO AREA

The development is all the more unusual since in most of the area the natural forests, as preserved in farm woodlots, are of hardwood such as maple, oak, hickory, elm and ash.

So far the pulpwood business hasn't made much of an impression on the area's wealthy mixed farming and industrial economy. The pice pulpwood harvest now runs about 10,000 cords a year.

If newsprint makers are successful in present experiments aimed at using all sorts of hardwood as well as pine, potential supply will be far greater. One forester thinks it might reach 2,000,000 cords.

GROWING MARKET

Pulpwood now being purchased is thinnings from pine plantations. Buyer is the Ontario Paper Company. Its mill at Thorold, near St. Catharines, is the only one in the area to use pine. It gets most from northern Ontario forests.

Ontario Paper began testing plantation thinnings for paper making in 1946 when it purchased 1,000 cords from the Ontario department of lands and forests, first truck-delivered wood used in the mill which was built in 1913. Its northern wood comes by water.

By 1954, use of wood from the southern part of the province rose to 10,000 cords, all brought to the mill by truck.

Much came from Norfolk county, Ontario's sandy tobacco country north of Lake Erie, one of the first sections of the province to get into extensive tree planting. It started there 35 years or more ago to stop the light soil from blowing away.

TREE CROPPING

The trees remained despite spread of tobacco farming which yields crops worth up to $65,000,000 or so annually. The trees were set out four feet apart. Now they are crowding each other so closely that thinning is necessary for future growth.

Experience of government foresters with a plantation in the Lake Simcoe country north of Toronto indicates the possibilities in tree cropping. The yield on one government plot is two cords an acre annually. Foresters say this yield is high and that half a cord an acre is the more probable average for the first 35 years and one-third of a cord after that.

Officials say there are 75,000 to 100,000 acres of pine plantations in the southwestern and central sections of the province. Many are young and have not yet started to yield a pulpwood crop.

Thinning is supervised by government foresters with the aim of promoting future growth. It is anticipated that by 1970 older plantations will yield pine timber as well as pulpwood.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

YOUNG WATCHERS

While the children are on their Christmas holidays, initiate them into the art of bird watching. The benefit will be four-fold: a definite position, health, exercise, a surprising aid to you in spotting birds, and the implanting of the love of birds in your youngsters. This is a good season for a beginner, as there are not too many "subjects" to be confused.

Tommy, aged eight, will be lacking in judgment. Do not expect him to tell size, or be able to recognize the nature a bird. Judgment and the fine points of distinction come only after years of experience. But his eyesight will be quicker, his hearing keener, and his endurance on a field trip greater than yours.

There is no need to find any pleasure to demonstrate an English sparrow. But show Tommy good plates of other birds which might be seen at this season once you have left behind the city streets and houses.

(Let him study the portraits of hairy and downy woodpeckers with their black and white striped suits, the pale grey nuthatch that captures attention by its nasal "yank", and the little Redpoll that likes to fly around in flocks.

EXAMINE PICTURES

Examine together pictures of the beautiful red birds that might be found if you are lucky, the pine grosbeak and the red crossbill, both rather unusual sights, and the familiar purple finch. All these help to enjoy our Christmas weather.

Before starting on a trip give Tommy definite points to observe. Birds have different methods of flight, sitting postures, and silhouettes both when flying and at rest. Color and pattern are important identification. Some birds have wing bars. A bill may be long like a robin's or stubby like an English sparrow's.

Tails may be long (see the picture of a brown thrasher) or short (look at a winter wren); ending in a fancy shape, like a blue jay's or a goldfinch's, or straight across, as a waxwing's.

Tell Tommy to listen for voices. He will not be prejudiced the way you are because he expects a certain call, and he may detect a sound to high-pitched for your hearing. Young ears do not miss much.

Soon the boy will surprise you in spotting a flock of sleek cedar waxings, and will be the first to point out a tiny saw-whet owl of a hermit thrush that has remained here longer than its relatives.

Escaped Flames, Children Taken From Parents

DUNKIRK, N. Y. (AP) — Five young children who narrowly escaped death Sunday when they were trapped alone in a blazing farmhouse were on their way to new homes today under supervision of the Chautauqua county welfare department.

Judge Robert H. Palmer ordered the county to provide foster homes for the children after the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Swan, both 27, pleaded guilty to "improper" care for them.

The parents were away from their farmhouse when flames broke Swan, 7, lowered her three younger sisters "and brothers out of a second-story window and then jumped herself. None of the children was hurt.

Japanese Lovers Try to End Lives in Hissing Lava

TOKYO (AP)—Two young lovers who tried to commit suicide by leaping into a boiling volcano were rescued Friday after 33 hours near the lurid lava.

They plunged into the crater Thursday, trying to end an unhappy love affair. They tumbled hundreds of feet down the slide, steep sides of the crater, but missed the deadly lava at the bottom.

Their pitiful cries for help could be heard on the rim, and the couple themselves were hidden by the steaming sulphur fumes that curled around the crater floor.

Seven policemen descended into the treacherous pit this afternoon and carried the two, perhaps 1,000 feet up the slopes.

The woman's ankle was smashed and she was covered with blood. Police said she was in critical condition. The man escaped virtually unscathed.

Major Oil Fire In Alberta Out

LEDUC, Alta. (CP)—Alberta's third major oil fire within a year is out today and the oil and natural gas production under control after the giant flames raged near this town for 18 days.

The fire in the Imperial Oil Ltd. well in the Leduc field 25 miles south of Edmonton was snuffed out Thursday with a heavy nitroglatin charge.

None of the workers was severely injured when the well caught fire Dec. 21 during operations to force natural gas back down to the oil pool. The well, in production for 18 months, gushed oil at the rate of 1,000 barrels a day in the 16 days it was on fire and blew an estimated 1,000,000 cubic feet of gas.

Other oil well fires within the last year, at nearby Ma-Me-O Beach and near Legal, were put out without extraordinary measures being taken.

Lake Shipments Drop Sharply

CLEVELAND (AP) — Hit by a drop in steel production, the Great Lakes fleet hauled 151,297,789 net tons of commodities last year, compared with the record 199,696,933 tons in 1953.

Cargoes on iron ore, backbone of the steel industry, dipped 36 per cent, to 60,783,697 gross tons from the record 95,844,449 tons in 1953.

The Lake Carriers Association, reporting this Friday, said the decline was the result of a large carryover of ore from the preceding season, reduced steel production and the importation of foreign ores.

1953 to 24,975,440 net tons in 1954:

Shipments of other commodities:

Limestone, from 26,800,207 in 1953 to 24,975,440 net tons in 1954; grain, from 14,839 to 11,866,241 net tons; bituminous coal, from 50,733,100 to 46,081,293 net tons. Anthracite coal shipments increased, to 285,574 tons from 281,613 net tons.

Figures on petroleum traffic will not be available until next month.

Duke Will Get Freedom of City Of Glasgow

LONDON (AP) — The Duke of Edinburgh, says a Scottish schoolmaster, speaks better English than his wife, the Queen.

One reason, said Aberdeen teacher Tom Murdoch, in a speech there Thursday, is that the duke enjoyed the advantage of going to school in Scotland, and it is well known of course that the Scots speak better English than the English. The duke received part of his education at Gordonstoun, Scottish public school.

While the duke got good marks from Aberdeen, he didn't do as well in another corner of Scotland, Hugh Brown, Socialist member of the Glasgow city council, said he did not think the duke should receive the freedom of the city because he didn't think the duke had ever done anything special for the community.

Brown was voted down. The duke will get the freedom of the city when he goes to Glasgow Feb. 15 to open a dairy show.

Brakeman Loses Two Legs, Given Over $168,000

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—Suit against the New York Central Railroad by a brakeman who lost both legs has been settled for a reported "more than $168,000."

The brakeman, Harold E. Conkey, 40, father of two children, fell beneath a locomotive in the yards here Dec. 31, 1952. He charged the railroad with negligence in failure to provide a safe place to work, and in not allowing adequate clearance between cars on adjacent tracks, and asked $750,000 damages.

Let Nov. 12 a Supreme Court jury awarded him $300,000. On Dec. 17, Justice Carroll M. Roberts, who presided at the trial, ruled the award excessive and gave Conkey 20 days to accept a cut to $168,000 or have the railroad granted a new trial.

Lawyers Thursday filed a joint stipulation discontinuing the suit. They declined to disclose their "compromise figure" but court room reports placed the figure somewhere between $168,000 and $200,000.

Nothing Too Small For House Speech Says Fiery M. P.

By TOM McCUSKER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

RIVIERE DU LOUP, Que. (CP) Jean Francois Pouliot believes no issue is too small for a speech in the House of Commons.

For 30 years this 66-year-old liberal member of Parliament for Temiscouata in eastern Quebec has displayed this philosophy with wordy speeches punctuated by gestures, touches of humor and occasional tears.

The new session opening Jan. 7 will mark his 31st year in the House. In Liberal party seniority he is second only to Hon. C. G. Power, dean of the House of Commons. But he gave his first political speech 46 years ago, when he was 18.

FIERY SPEAKER

Older MPs associate the fiery, French-speaking member with the Riviere du Loup railway station and the paint job it needed during the Conservative regime of Premier R. B. Bennett. Younger MPs remember his long bitter parliamentary battle on conscription during the Second World War and his subsequent fight with his liberal party.

All declare him unpredictable, with an acid tongue that spares neither party nor Opposition member when "my regions and municipalities" are involved. Civil servants who displease him seldom escape his wrath in Parliament, as Hansard regrets show.

BIG LENDY

On his 30th anniversary as a member of Parliament, last Dec. 1, the big lineny outside the law office in this St. Lawrence south shore was not unusual. Since 1924, he said, he has been seeing about 50 persons a day while in his office, and also writing the 50 letters a day "mostly to government officials."

The stocky, greying Pouliot says he is still in "first-class" health, does not plan to retire from his tempestuous approach to parliamentary issues.

An MP who sat with the Liberal Opposition during the early 30s thinks Pouliot's first major issue was the paint job on the Riviere du Loup railway station.

Few debates, either on national or international questions, could pass through the Commons without a scorching discourse by Pouliot relating them to the government's neglect in painting the drab CNR station in his home town.

Mr. Pouliot, whose father, grandfather and great-grandfather sat in the house of commons, said he learned about politics as a youngster and never lost his love for it, "even if it meant going against the wishes of some of my political chiefs."

He split with the Liberal party over the conscription plebiscite issue in the Second World War and was elected in 1945 as a Liberal-Independent.

STOUT INDEPENDENT

Soon after, he rejoined party ranks and served in the two-party system."

"However," he adds, "that's provided there is freedom of speech within the party fold."

Mr. Pouliot, who is bilingual, made his first political speech at a Sir Wilfrid Laurier campaign rally at Murray Bay, Que., in 1908 while he was studying law. He was batonier of the Lower St. Lawrence division of the Quebec bar in 1944 and 1945, wrote legal works and covered the 1937 Coronation in London for the Montreal newspaper La Presse.

His uncanny memory for birthdays and anniversaries has won him many friends in Ottawa as well as at home. He is a pipe-smoker but loves imported cigars which he generously hands out to friends and visitors.

Wellman Couple Mark Wedding Anniversary

RAWDON—Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Pauley, Wallman's, were tendered a special party in the form of a turkey supper for 40 guests by their family, on the occasion of their 40th wedding anniversary on Wednesday evening, December 29.

The supper was arranged by their two daughters, Gladys, Mrs. Harris Dean, of Thomasburg, and Hazel, Mrs. Howard Wallace, 6th concession, assisted by their son, Cecil Pauley, who lives at home with his parents.

Tables were laid for the guests with a three-tier decorated fruit cake which was cut and shared and a pretty "bride's cake".

The supper was served by the three children, and there are also five grandchildren in the family.

GUESTS

The guests were, Mr. and Mrs. Harris Dean and family of Thomasburg; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wallace and Garnet of Wellman's; Mr. and Mrs. John Farrell; Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Farrell and sons of Moira; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Hitchon and sons; Mr. and Mrs. James Thornton, Belleville; Mrs. Will Hutcheon, Burnbrae; Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Hutcheon and family, Hagerville, Ontario; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hutcheon and Terry, Stirling; R.C.A.F. Mr. and Mrs. Ted Ovens and Ruth of Campbellford.

Following the supper, Mr. Wesley Farrell was chairman for a delightful program of singing, speeches, and recitations, after which he read an appreciative address on behalf of the family, which included relatives in the West and at Sarnia, who were unable to be in attendance. On behalf of the group, Mr. and Mrs. Pauley were presented with a lovely studio couch, for which they graciously expressed thanks.

At this point Mrs. John Carlisle presented Mrs. Pauley with a china tea pot designed in gold on behalf of Wellman's Women's Association.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlisle spent the evening at the home of Mrs. Pauley.

The happy couple were also the recipients of a large array of congratulatory cards and they were sorry that it was not possible to mention the friends owing to lack of space.

They are both members of Wellman's United church and Mrs. Pauley is a member of the local W.A.

Mrs. Pauley was formerly Margaret Ann Davidson, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Davidson and the wedding, December 29, 1914, was held at the home of her parents at Clinton, Ontario, with the Rev. John Allan, officiating.

Her sister, Mrs. James Thornton, of Sarnia, the former Eliza Jane Davidson, was bridesmaid, and owing to illness she was unable to attend.

The groomsman was William Morton of Rawdon township.

Mr. Pauley is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Pauley, of Wallman's.

Rawdon friends extend their best wishes for future anniversaries.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

THAT'S NOT LIKE IT!

The lethargic Memos' cocoon that dawdled with the puck in its previous outing zoomed into a full-bodied, fast-flying hockey butterfly last night in a convincing 12-1 dunking of the Clinton Comets.

It was a vastly different team to that which played its previous engagement. The Memos did not bother with second or third gears, threw everything in high from the first whistle and proceeded on the biggest scoring binge of the season to rack up the largest score of any team this season.

It would not be fair to attempt to pick any stars. Every man on the squad tossed in his share to bring out the team's scoring potential to the fullest. They may have been chumps the other night, but they played like champs last evening.

Unfortunately for the Comets they played into the Memos' hands by objecting too strenuously to the decisions of Referees Maurice Walsh and Jim Crombie, two of the toughest sweater-and-whistle rannies in the business.

It could have been they were a mile too severe with some of the miscreants, but the press box, like the pewdiers' seats, is not equipped with a P.A. system whereby one can hear what is going on. If profanity was used, the sentences were well deserved, but if only a mild remonstrance, then they could have been a little on the tough side.

However, Walsh and Crombie will not tolerate any backtalk, whether profane or drawing room—and thereby hangs the tale. The Comets had no less than five misconducts, while playing coach Shamlock and Augie Defelice were tossed out of the fray completely.

There may be some repercussions to the officiating last night on the part of the Comets. Prior to the game playing coach Shamlock told this department that his club was not satisfied with the refereeing in all parts of the circuit.

From other clubs have come similar complaints. Kingston has objected strongly to the work of certain referees, while Brockville and Whitby have leaned in their objections at times.

It could be the whistlers are taking Chief Referee Patterson's pre-season edicts too literally. If the officiating here is a criterion, the referees are not taking any chances of a game or players getting out of hand. They have channeled down heavily with no respect for player or club. Which perhaps, is just as well, even if some of the sentences do appear to be borderline.

QUITE A GUY!

You pounsters—and oldsters, too—have heard National Hockey League stars, coaches, managers, brass and whatnot tell you what is required of you if you want to be a big time hockey players. In the majority, they stress speed, size, especially the latter, guts, and other so-called ingredients.

That may be the general rule—but to every rule there is an exception. We advise you to read Trent Frayne's story of Tony Leswick, the Detroit Red Wing's "Mighty Mouse," in this week's Maclean's Magazine.

Leswick, a five-foot-six, 155 pounder, who scored the goal that gave the Wings the Stanley Cup last year, is tabbed the "biggest pest in hockey."

Frayne's story bears that out. Here's part of it:

"Now thirty-one and in his tenth full season in the NHL, Leswick has been infuriating people through most of his hockey career, baiting rival team's stars and provoking them to such rage that they'll lash out in retaliation and earn themselves penalties in a trip to the penalty box—and occasionally a strip of Leswick's hide. He carries more than two hundred stitches on his fire-hydrant frame but he says with a wicked grin, "I've been cut by some of the best players no longer in hockey. They're all washed up—I'm still around."

"Leswick needles Ted Kennedy, captain of the Toronto Maple Leafs, by endlessly calling him 'Captain Syl.' This is a snide reference to the fact Kennedy succeeded as Leaf captain the great scoring centre Syl Apps. 'You never saw the day you could carry Apps' skates, Captain Syl,' he sneers, giving Kennedy a rap across the ankles with his stick, 'and what's more, Captain Syl, you never will.'

"A couple of years ago a Toronto newspaperman in a story about the Leaf defence observed that thirteen of the last fourteen goals against Toronto had been scored while Toronto's defenceman Fern Flaman was on the ice. Leswick, who has frequently feuded with Flaman, picked up the item immediately. Every time he skated near Flaman the next time Detroit played Toronto, he'd scoff, "Thirteen out of fourteen, eh, Meathead? Want to try for fourteen out of fifteen?"

"Yet all Leswick's nuisance with intent to dismember escape the law. A few years ago in Madison Square Garden when he was with the New York Rangers he took a thumping from Fern Flaman, who then was with Boston and who didn't stick with Toronto as now back with the Bruins. Tony's head bounced off the ice and he was still steaming as he and teammates Don (Bones) Raleigh had a post-game snack in a restaurant near the Garden.

* * *

"Next time Boston's here I'm gonna kill him,' growled Tony. 'He's always got his stick up around your neck; digging away. I'll pound his head through the ice.'

"He was overheard by a patron unfamiliar with the jargon of mayhem hockey, who, hearing the words 'kill him' and 'stick up' and 'ice', apparently thought he'd fallen upon a couple of diamond smugglers. He called the police and two of New York's finest came quickly to investigate. Confronted by a couple of lean and scarred and reasonably dapper hockey players, the policemen were loathe to accept explanations. Finally a call to Ranger manager Frank Boucher convinced the cops."

Pocket Purge Follows Scrap With Leafs' Bailey Dec. 29; Fans' Gifts Will Ease Pain

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal's famed Rocket—Maurice Richard—takes the Leo Saturday with a lighter pocketbook to remind him to keep his fiery temper under control.

Richard paid $250 into the National Hockey League coffers Friday for his latest outburst—a battle with Bob Bailey in Toronto, Dec. 29. It includes two automatic $25 fines for two misconduct penalties handed out by referee Red Storey during the blowup.

NHL president Clarence Campbell said he was imposing the fine for "gross misconduct." He said it consisted of "general flouting of the authority of the officials, including calling Referee Storey names across the face with his glove when he was attempting to elude the official."

HEAVY TOLL

The fine boosted to approximately $2,000 the total Richard has paid in fines in his 13 years in the NHL. The figure includes a $1,000 fine he was assessed to post last season for lashing out at Campbell in a weekly column he wrote for a Montreal publication.

Montreal fans will help ease the pain however, with presents they plan to present to the Rocket during Montreal's game against Boston Saturday. The presents, in honor of his 13 years, will include a combined television-radio-phonograph set.

Richard, Storey and Carl Voss, referee-in-chief of the league, were in Campbell's office for the hearing. The Canadiens club was represented by Frank Selke, coach Dick Irvin, defenceman Doug Harvey and Tom Johnson, assistant to Irvin.

Campbell's statement on the Bailey-Richard affair said that half-way through, Richard had gone to the bench.

RENEWED EFFORTS

"... he returned to the ice and resumed his efforts to attack Bailey and thereby prolonged the trouble further several more minutes.

"These reports were confirmed by all the other witnesses who also testified that coach Irvin had throughout the game directed the other Canadien players in their efforts to bring Richard under control and to induce him to leave the ice," Campbell said.

Campbell said no attempt was made to review or reassess the penalties imposed by referee Storey in connection with the two earlier fist-fights.

The present fine marks the second time Richard has been nicked for $250 at one clip. In the 1947 Stanley Cup series he reached over the head of the officials with his stick and knocked Toronto Leafs' Bill Ezinicki over the noggin.

Patterson KO's Willie Troy In Fifth Round

NEW YORK (AP) — Everybody finds fault with Floyd Patterson except the ring record books which shows 19 gaudy victories in 20 pro starts after Friday night's fifth round technical knockout over Willie Troy.

"He missed too much," said Troy, sixth-ranked middleweight contender from Washington, D.C., as he sat in his Madison Square Garden dressing room with a tightly-closed left eye and an "egg" over the right eye.

"He couldn't knock out a middle weight," said a fighter manager. But that was strictly a technical fly for the former Olympic champ inflicted Troy with his quick, vio lent hands so that even Al Weill, Pat Rooney's manager, asked them to stop it.

The ending provoked the usual queries. Under New York rules if went as a fifth round TKO because the time between rounds belongs to the previous round until the bell rings in National Boxing Association states, it would have been the sixth because a round ends with the bell and the one-minute rest period belongs to the next round.

Hocking Troy with those rapid fire combinations, Patterson, the 15-to-5 favorite, had trouble only when Troy moved inside and snuggled close in the third.

Patterson came in at 166 to Troy's 162.

Because Patterson is the No. 4 lightheavy contender, manager Gus D'Amato must move him carefully. If he doesn't watch out, he will be in the path of Archie Moore, the 175-pound champ. And he isn't quite ready. In fact, D'Amato doesn't want any part of Paulie Andrews, a top contender, just time.

The International Boxing Club announced no exact figures, estimating a crowd of about 5,000 paid around $12,000 to see the televised bout.

Biltmores Edge Marlboros 5-4; Irish Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Guelph Biltmores moved into a second-place tie with St. Catharines Teepees in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League Friday night by defeating Toronto Marlboros 5-4 at Guelph.

Each team now has 36 points, six behind the league-leading Toronto St. Michael's Majors who beat Kitchener-Waterloo Canucks 3-2 at Kitchener. In a third game Galt Black Hawks shut out Barrie Flyers 2-0 at Barrie.

The first period of the Guelph game was rough and eight penalties, including two majors, were handed out. But although fights threatened several times only four more minors were called.

TWO GOALS EACH

Ron Howell and Ray Crew paced the winners with two goals each. Bill McCreary added the fifth. Gary Aldcorn scored three for Marlboros and Gerry Collins one.

The Canucks spotted Majors a 3-0 lead in the first period then came back to tie it up during the game. The Canucks drove hard in the third period but didn't get the equalizer, mainly due to sharp goaltending by Gerry McNamara.

Ken Laufman scored twice for the Majors and Pete Buchman came up with the third. Angus Carroll and Stan Balkwill counted the Kitchener goals.

FENALTY PARADE

The Barrie game was marred by a parade of penalties as referee Jack Shropshire handed out 30 minutes in penalties. However the victory moved Galt into sixth and last playoff position in the league. Ron Stewart scored the first Galt goal in the first period. Hec Lalonde scored the second with 60 seconds left in the game after Flyers pulled out their goalie.

Seeded Players Win at Squash

TORONTO (CP)—Seeded players came through as expected in the abbreviated opening round of the third annual Badminton and Racquet Club pro-amateur squash tournament here Friday night.

Azam Kahn of Pakistan and his cousin, Roshun Kahn, both scored easy victories. Kahn was scarcely extended in eliminating Bill O'Malley, Toronto amateur, 15-8, 15-4, 15-8, while Roshun defeated John Foy, Montreal youngster, 15-8, 15-9, 15-8.

Cataracts Roar Over Mercs 5-2; Indians Victors

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Niagara Falls Cataracts, in the cellar in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A league, defeated the second - place Owen Sound Mercurys Friday night for their eighth win of the season. They've lost 21 games.

The Cataracts, using only 12 men because of injuries, beat the Mercs 5-2 at Niagara Falls. They were never headed.

In another game Stratford Indians downed Chatham Maroons 7-5 before 2,100 fans in Chatham.

The Cataracts took a 3-1 lead into the third period and then outscored Mercurys 2-1. The Falls city players checked hard and outshot Owen Sound 37-14.

COUNTED TWICE

Larne Pirie scored twice for the Cataracts. Lloyd Ferguson, Al Buchanan and Danny Nixon scored the others. Doug Gillespie and Tom Jamieson counted for the Mercurys.

The Indians scored two in the first, three in the second and added two more in the third period.

Harry Pautka scored two for the Indians. Others score shared by Billy Pratt, Jack Bell, Ted Desbiendo, Maurice Levesque and Tommy Walker. Glenn Busch, Jim Connelly, Cliff McArthur, Jim Wilson and Paul Oliver were the Chatham scorers.

Sees Record Entry in World Hockey, Canada Favored to Capture Title

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — J. P. (Bunny) Ahearne, president of the British Ice Hockey Association, predicted Friday a record of 17 or more countries will be represented at the 1955 world championships in Germany next month.

Ahearne, who is supervising arrangements for the tourney, said a final meeting will be held at Krefeld, West Germany, Feb. 5 to accept entries and draw up a schedule. The tournament, in which the Russians will be defending champions, begins Feb. 25 and ends March 6. It will be held at rinks in Dortmund, Duesseldorf, Cologne and Krefeld.

Although the Russians defeated Toronto Maple Leafs 7-2 to win the championship in Stockholm last year, Canada, to be represented by Penticton, B.C., V's, are favored to take the title this year.

"Interest is fantastic," said Ahearne, referring to the series of exhibition games played on the continent in recent weeks. "When the Russians played two games in Switzerland last month, all tickets were sold six weeks ahead of time."

Ahearne said in an interview that the gross receipts from this year's tournament may run to $500,000 compared with $250,000 at Stockholm.

The United States, not represented last year, will be taking part in Germany. Others expected to enter are Switzerland, Sweden, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Norway, Finland, The Netherlands, France, Austria, Hungary, Italy, Yugoslavia, West Germany, Belgium and possibly East Germany.

Ahearne said Britain is staying out of the international competition until she can ice a stronger team.

Memos Leap Back Into Form And 3rd Place With 12-1 Win Over Clinton

Duncans Pace Pack's Attack In High-Geared Scoring Spree; Seven Misconducts to Comets

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

Displaying a brilliant reversal of form over their last outing the Belleville Memos ran wild in a scoring spree here last night, swamped the Clinton Comets under a 12-1 score to regain sole possession of third place.

Scoring their first goal in 23 seconds of play in the first period the Memos showed complete mastery of the situation, leading 3-1 at the end of the first, running home five in the second and four in the third period without a return.

Clinton's strong objections to the decisions of Referees Maurice Walsh and Jim Crombie aided in their downfall. They drew 14 sentences, seven of them minors, five misconducts, and two game misconducts. Playing coach Eddie Shamlock and Angie Detellice were tossed out of the game in the second period.

penalties tacked on them.

Bob Wilse, made it 4-1 after 61 seconds of the period, driving an intercepted puck high into a corner. Keith MacDonald scored a beauty four minutes later on a three-way drive with Doug Day and Davy Jones, slamming home the sizzling goalmouth pass. Doug got the gate and Detellice followed him two minutes later.

FULL VALUE

The Memos were full value for their victory. They broke in high gear at the opening whistle and never changed it. They forechecked and backchecked like veterans, while their scoring potential was never seen to better advantage. Ron Kissing in the nets had a comparatively easy night, while at the other end Cozens, in the absence (illness), was busier than the proverbial one-armed paper-hanger.

Every man on the Memos' roster, with the exception of Jake Wade fattened his point score.

Erwin Duncan paced the pack with four goal with brother Edwin being credited with six assists. Bob Wilson and Frank Bettiol each had two goals with Davy Jones, Keith MacDonald, Hub Macey and Johnny Muckler getting singles.

Bill Thomson scored the Comets' lone marker.

The Memos opened at a terrific clip in the first period, starting in on Coxon in the Clinton nets. After 24 seconds of play Bob Macey, Hub Wilson and Erwin Duncan engineered a passing offensive in Clinton territory, blasting a short drive for the opening marker.

The Memos sustained a driving offensive and two minutes later Johnny Muckler backhanded a low drive into a net corner from a pass from behind the net by Peter Jones; Red Doran drawing an assist on the play.

Play became a see-saw affair, but fast, and Muckler and Timmons drew another but the Memos were on the ice three seconds when Muckler got the gate but the high-geared Memos defence kept the cage intact.

The Memos, except for sporadic Clinton outbursts in the third period completely dominated the play. Comets' lives got the gate in the first five seconds and at the minutes mark Bob Wilson scored his second goal of the night on a three-man foray with Macey and Ed. Duncan.

Bettiol got his twin goal of the night at 3.29 with Arnie Dugan and Doug Jamieson picking off the score 10-1 the Comets consistently feed the puck to referee the pressure. Then Erwin Duncan scored his fourth goal after a centered drive by Edwin and Ted DeGray.

With five minutes left Steele drew a minor sentence but he too argued too strenuously and was tossed out by the Comets' gate in ten-minute rest of the night.

Ed. Duncan, after turning out Davy Jones picked up the puck at his blueline and dipsy-doodled his way through the whole Comet team to score the prettiest individual goal of the game.

The Memos were still driving when the gong ended the hostilities.

The teams:

Belleville — Goal, Barclay; defence, Macey, Wilson; centre, Ed. Duncan; wings, Erwin Duncan, DeGray; subs, Wade, Dugan, R. Jones, Doran, D. Jones, MacDonald, all, Bettiol, Muckler, Day.

Clinton — Goal, Coxon; defence, Jamieson, Weber; centre, Menchini; wings, Breen, Houston; subs, Timmons, Detelesce, Steele, Shamlock.

Referees: M. Walsh, J. Crombie.

Canadians Win Curling Title At Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — Only two American rinks remained in contention for the Michigan Trophy after the second and third round competition Friday in the annual International bonspiel at the Detroit Curling Club.

Sam Henry's rink of the Detroit curling club and Lou Collins' rink from Wauwatosa, Wis., are the lone U.S. survivors for the top trophy.

The 20 Canadian teams collected enough points, however, in the first day's matches to win the J. J. Ahern Trophy, emblematic of national supremacy.

The award, presented to the country with the highest total score on the first day's matches, squeaked over to Canada by a close 31-28 victory.

TWO KNOCKED OUT

In the race for individual team honors, two more Canadian contenders were knocked from the top division of the bonspiel as they threw their last stone to their hosts' cruel clubs.

Tom Gordon, Ont., rink skipped by Jack Nash, which last year won the Michigan Trophy as the top rink, was relegated into a lower class losing 10-8 to a Detroit rink skipped by Frank Johnson.

The Windsor, Ont., rink skipped by 85-year-old curling veteran Nels Logie bowed out to their host's curling lead over Nels Brown's Detroit club.

Although most of the attention centres on the Michigan Trophy competition there are three other trophy competitions under way.

Winners in the Tankard Trophy competitions, the Detroit, Nate Cornwall and Irwin Dimes Club battles, must lose four matches before it is eliminated four competitions at noon Sunday.

The bonspiel continues Saturday with the finals scheduled for all three competitions at noon Sunday.

Sam, 'The Rifle' in Hot Water, Signs With Alouettes, Bears; Giant Lawsuit Is Threatened

MONTREAL (CP) — Quarterback Sam (The Rifle) Etcheverry, Canada's most valuable football player last season, has signed contracts with two teams for the 1955 season and possibly put himself in the tightest jam of his grid career.

The sensational American import, whose passing wizardry led Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four Union to the Grey Cup final last season, admitted Friday night that he signed with both Chicago Cardinals of the U.S. National Football League and with Alouettes.

Why?

Nobody, except may The Rifle, seems to know.

The 24 - year - old quarterback about the hottest piece of football talent Alouettes ever owned, confessed in Albuquerque, N.M., his hometown, that he had signed both with Chicago and Montreal.

The disclosure of Etcheverry's move came from sportscaster Don Smith of radio station CFCF here Friday night.

Smith said Sam, voted the player most valuable to his team last season, signed a two-year pact with the Cards. He was offered $15,000 for his first season and a bonus of $2,000 for signing.

Smith added that Chicago has threatened a giant lawsuit "if the biggest ever launched in sport," if Etcheverry returns to Montreal.

In Toronto, the Globe and Mail says Etcheverry signed "the Chicago contract first, last Tuesday, and it was approved by the NFL office Thursday, which was when he signed a new contract with the Alouettes in New York."

The newspaper quotes Etcheverry as refusing its representative in California:

"I guess I'll get into a lot of trouble. My final contract was with Montreal. I'm sorry I guess I'm going to be sued. I'll play wherever the law tells me I must play, but I would rather play in Montreal if I had my choice."

The story adds that Etcheverry said he became "very confused" when he signs:

"He said Joe Stydahar, Chicago coach, had spent about two or three hundred dollars' calling him and he finally signed with Stydahar in New York."

The newspaper also quotes Walter Wolfner, managing director of the Cardinals, as saying:

"It's very interesting. I don't know what could make a-boy sign with two teams. He contacted us. We didn't contact him. He mailed in his contract from Albuquerque or it was delivered."

Coach Doug (Peahead) Walker of the Als and Ted Workman, part owner of the Montreal club, talked Etcheverry out of the decision to join Cardinals and he signed a two-year contract with the Big Four team in New York Friday.

Smith said he spoke to Walker by telephone in New York and the Alouette coach was not worried about losing his ace signal-caller.

"Sam is our property," Smith quoted Walker as saying. "We had reserve control over him and we have him signed to an iron-clad contract."

Etcheverry signed with the Als for $7,400 miles from his New Mexico home to meet Workman in Montreal.

Thirty-six hours earlier he put his name on a Chicago contract. Then the Cards advanced Sam $5,000 on his salary for the coming season.

Meanwhile, Leo Dandurand, new Alouette president, said he has received a portion of his contract money from Montreal after signing the pact. He added:

"All I know is that we had an Als and Sam's services for 1955 and he has signed his contract with us, and received some money on it."

Etcheverry has been with Alouettes for three seasons and made the first all-star team in 1953 and '54.

Racket-Busting Fight Commissioner, Shows Fraternity He Is Not Fooling

NEW YORK (AP)—Racket-busting Julius Helfand Friday turned down a bid for a license for a bookie with a long criminal record, threw out one entire fight card which he said was mediocre from top to bottom and generally took charge in his first regular hearing as chairman of the New York state athletic commission.

Helfand, who moved from racket-busting into boxing with a change of state administrations Jan. 1, refused to license Joe Pacl, a Brooklyn middleweight. Helfand said Paci had a long list of criminal convictions and read them aloud. One was for possession of dope.

The new commissioner said a conviction would not necessarily bar a boxer in New York state but one for possession or use of drugs would mean an automatic denial.

Helfand previewed a fight card scheduled for tonight at Springville, N.Y., and called it poor from his main event on down. He withheld the commission's approval.

The new commissioner warned he would tolerate no "undercover" managers or bosses and said if he found any he'd kick both the manager and the fighter out of the game.

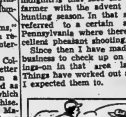
The subject came up in connection with a request to approve the transfer of part interest in two New York boxers to Irving Cohen, one-time manager of Rocky Graziano.

Helfand asked Cohen if anybody else had an interest in the fighters. After being told no, the chairman said that if he found out differently he would cancel the whole deal.

ROYAL HENLEY DATES

HENLEY, Eng. (AP)—The Henley royal regatta will be held on the River Thames June 29-July 2, it was announced Friday. Russian rowers, bit out of town last year, are expected to compete again.

Ottawa Move To Columbus Pleases Cooke



TORONTO (CP) — Jack Kent Cooke, owner of Toronto Maple Leafs of the International Hockey League, said he was "pleased" to hear the franchise of Ottawa Athletics will be moved to Columbus, Ohio.

"It will be great for all teams," Cooke said. "It should mean a resurgence of interest in the International League."

Cooke said he believed the Columbus entry will prove a better addition to the league than Miami (now Omaha) was listed as one of the possible cities which might move from Pittsburgh.

At Havana, Cuba, Bobby Maduro, president of Havana Sugar Kings also pleased the franchise shift and was optimistic that the other clubs will "work out something" to cut his expenses and keep the Cubans in the league.

Maduro previously had hoped the league would move the Ottawa franchise to Havana, a plan which would have reduced expenses for the Sugar Kings. He said his club lost $50,000 last season.

Sure enough, the landowners had a meeting and then posted the entire area against trespass and hunting. The usual gang of hunters showed up on opening day. Some of them hunted with permission from the landowners. Most of them didn't bother about permission but simply went hunting, signs or no signs. So far as I could learn, no arrests were made, but there were quarrelities involved, arrests are simply too much trouble.

MORE ROOM FOR HUNTING

But here is an interesting corollary; all of those landowners are doing their utmost to make their pheasant cover as full as what was once very good natural habitat for these birds.

Instead of them is cultivating fields right to the fence line, they leave every row, no longer is corn hand-picked; all of them use mechanical corn pickers and as you know, flatten the so that little cover remains. Clover and alfalfa are kept out of crops and these, also, provide scant cover by the time the size of the pheasant. Cattle are turned into the woods patches and little undergrowth is left.

When you recall that these men, almost without exception, prefer pheasant shooting as much as they sportsmen-visitors, you can see that they are taking these extreme measures at not a little sacrifice to themselves.

Obviously they must act in self-defence. Naturally, where there are no birds there will be few, if any hunters. All of this does not tend to build up good will between farmers and hunters; in fact, the gap seems to be widening.

GAME MUST LIVE

Probably one of the basic troubles underlying the whole blooming business is that all too many of us regard game as being public property. We pay down our license fee, and that entitles us to go out and shoot all the game we can find, within, of course, prescribed legal limits.

What we overlook is the fact that this same game must have a place to live. All of it must eat to survive. There isn't much government-owned land nowadays. The great majority of the land on which most of it must belongs to somebody.

Moreover, the demand for good hunting territory is increasing annually. In Pennsylvania alone over a million guns take the field each year. The yearly sale of hunting licences across the country has reached staggering total — to be exact, 13,002,428 licences were sold in 1953.

All right—let's face realities. Game, by and large, is a crop. A crop that must produce just as much game per year, just as his fields and woods lots produce their quota of corn, hay, timber or what have you. Why not encourage a farmer to cultivate his game crop as such?

Why not pay subsidies would be far more sensibly placed than to make it profitable for a man to raise a crop to be spoil in the field because there is obviously a surplus.

PROFITABLE CROP

Moreover, a game crop can very well be a profitable crop. Let the man who raises one, and harvests it or sells it, charge so much per head for the privilege of coming on to his farm and hunting, paid by the sportsmen.

Last, but by no means least, we can foresee some laws that will protect his game crop, just as his fields and wheat and hay crops are protected now. At present his only recourse is trespass law, and we all know from that quote.

Visionary? Well, maybe. But think it over a bit. As matters stand now, farmer-sportsman relations are far from being ideal. Moreover, they are growing more tense instead of better. If we, the gunners of the nation, wish to look forward to shooting in the future, some effort during the years to come, it is high time that we began to face facts instead of continuing to harp on worn-out idealistic theories.

Solmar Notes

Farmer-Sportsman Relations

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Noted sportsman, author and creator of Solmar Tables.)

You who read this column may recall that I wrote a story a few weeks ago about the abuses and indignities that face the average farmer with the advent of each hunting season. In that story I referred to a certain area of Pennsylvania where there is excellent pheasant shooting.

Since then I have made it my business to check up on the goings-on in that area last fall. Things have worked out about as I expected them to.

Canadian Teams Wont Play in NFL For Some Time

TORONTO (CP)—Eric Cradock, Toronto stock broker and former part-owner of the Hamilton Tigers, said Friday he had talked to persons in the United States about the possibility of Montreal and Toronto playing in the National Football League next year.

Cradock said the conclusion was: "I don't think it was out of the question until there were stadia in both cities to handle crowds of 40,000 persons. A stadium in Toronto or Montreal of that size has been needed to make it a paying proposition.

He was commenting on an Ottawa story which said according to rumour Lew Hayman, former managing director of the Big Four Alouettes, is ready to transfer one of the NFL's teams to Montreal.

Cradock said he had discussed with Hayman the possibility of Montreal and Toronto playing in the NFL some day. Everybody knows that every time it could be done, either by having the franchise of a NFL team moved or transferred outright or by entering new teams.

Good for Two Or Three Years Says Bob Feller

CLEVELAND (CP)—Pitcher Bob Feller, pondering over signing for his 12th season with the Cleveland Indians, said today he "doesn't feel a day older than 19 years ago."

But, he added jokingly:

"I don't expect to be paid as much as I was 10 years ago."

Feller, who was 36 last Nov. 3, says he doesn't know why I can't pitch a few games next year, the way things stack up" and he thinks he'll be good for "two or three more years."

Minor Hockey

Three games were played in the Minor Hockey League of the B.M.H.A. this morning with the Canadiens adding to their lead by defeating the Red Wings pulling out a 5-3 victory over the Rangers while the Bruins trounced the Maple Leafs 6-0.

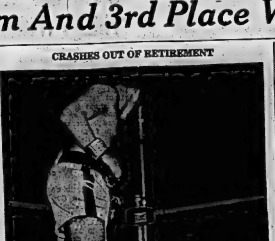
Lorne Brunn and Jimmy Dalton led the Bruins with two goals each, while Lou Burley and Robbie Dalton added singletons. Ian Moreau and Moe Peoples picked up one assist each.

Paul Brown and Dennis Poste were the Red Wing stars, Brown scoring three goals and Poste two, while Bob Michard had one assist. Rodney Crozier scored one goal and assisted on two for the Rangers, while Graydon Scott potted the other two markers.

Billy Hill netted the lone goal in the Canadiens' shutout over the Hawks.

Lorne Main Canada's Top Tennis Player

MONTREAL (CP)—Lorne Main, ambidextrous little Vancouver product, was named as Canada's top tennis player for the second straight year Thursday by the annual rankings.



Main, star of Canada's Davis Cup team, finished ahead of Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., another Davis Cupper, who retained his second place ranking from 1953.

Mrs. Hanna Sladek of Montreal displaced Mrs. Hilda Doleschell of Toronto as the leading woman player. Mrs. Doleschell dropped to third place behind Mrs. Louise Brown of Toronto.

The rankings were announced by Dr. George Lyon, chairman of the Davis Cup selection and national ranking committee of the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association.

Brendan Macken of Montreal came out of retirement to take down third place in the men's bracket. He was followed by Paul Willey of Vancouver and Gordon Forbes of Montreal, who was unranked in 1953 because he had competed in only a few tournaments.

Jim Macken of Vancouver took the biggest tumble, dropping from second place in the 1953 rankings to eighth in 1954.

CRASHES OUT OF RETIREMENT

Thirty-four-year-old ex-middleweight king Sugar Ray Robinson stands over his opponent, Joe Rindone, after knocking him out in the sixth round at Olympia stadium, Detroit. The bout was Robinson's first formal victory in his comeback campaign following his months of retirement. Sugar Ray is confident he can punch his way to a June title bout with middleweight champion Bobo Olson. —Central Press Canadian.

Bridge partners who open with three bids are still a serious problem. They are the prime proprietaries of the game. They have come to it over a long road paved with dead bodies.

In 1931, Culbertson said an opening three bid showed strength. In 1933, he said it showed weakness. So, by 1935 half the world was playing it for strength and half for weakness.

In 1936, Ely announced that, since the weak ones won't open in twain between weak and strong three bids, he now has the two-way three bid. Use it, he said, for either weakness or strength.

An epidemic of two-way three bids drove bridge players almost crazy and many looked for relief in other card games. Remember gin rummy? That's when it got a behold.

As it always does, bridge bounced back fast to top popularity. However, memory of weak three bids lingers on in the minds of many oldtimers. And they spring it on partners at unexpected moments.

The sound requirements for an opening three bid is a hand with eight tricks, a rebiddable suit, an outside sure trick. This is shaved down slightly as standard requirement for expert play.

Culbertson, and Goren both settle for a very long trump suit in seven tricks when vulnerable as tricks not vulnerable. But only if the hand lacks the high card quality for an opening one bid.

Accordin' to Gordon, beginners should stick to the soundest requirements. Other players may taper the down-forward to meet the seven-six basis, according to their respective ability.

You have the south hand shown here:

♠ A
♥ K J 9 8 7 4 3
♦ Q 8 4 3

If you are a beginner your best bet is to pass. If you are an expert with an understanding partner you may prefer to open with a bid of three hearts. Let your conscience be your guide.

Ezinicki Breaks Hand In Hockey Fracas

VANCOUVER (CP)—Bad news was mixed with good for the Vancouver Canucks here Friday night as they scored a 2-0 shutout over Victoria Cougars before 4,800 Western Hockey League fans.

Their victory celebration was marred by the almost-certain temporary loss of Bill Ezinicki, who was thought to have broken a bone in his left hand. The injury was the result of a second-period fight with defenceman Walt Clune. A roundhouse swing that glanced off Clune's head did the damage.

Club physician Dr. Brewster said Ezinicki would be "unable to hold a stick."

The shutout was John Brower's first for Vancouver in 21 games. Rookie Hugh Barlow, playing his first year of pro hockey and veteran Billy Dea scored for Vancouver.

O'Connor Generally Discusses Things With a Sober Air

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Donald O'Connor is about as serious a fellow as anyone who makes his living from getting laughs.

Perhaps it is the sorrow of his personal life. Or maybe it's because success in show business come from a great amount of serious delightful O'Connor wit. But usually he discusses things with a sober air.

He now is fed up with equal portions of TV and movies. He says:

"Each has its own field. In movies, you can do big things, extravaganzas that TV can't afford. I have tried to keep the TV show in a different vein, so we wouldn't appear to be competing with movies. The shows are done on a more intimate scale."

He has maintained a high quality of entertainment on his "Here Comes Donald" programs over NBC, Tonight, for example, he features topnotch routines with Mitzi Gaynor.

LIKES THE WORK

Married to his partner Sidney Miller, Donald is directing the series, and he finds the experience gratifying.

"It's the sort of thing I want to do, not everybody," he explained, "I think most actors run into serious problems when they reach the point when they are no longer in demand as performers. Then it helps to have had other experience to bridge this transition period."

There's no sign of a letup in the demand for Donald's services. He is busy for two more years with the TV show, which he produces on his own company. He finishes his first season's quota of 15 shows in a few weeks and then goes right into a new "Francis" picture. Immediately following that, he joins Doug Crosby, Mitzi Gaynor and Jeanmaire in "Anything Goes."

The March films will mark the end of Donald's deal with Universal - International, which began back in 1941.

AT THE CAPITOL—Caricature scene from the Technicolor MGM musical "A Date With Judy", starring Jane Powell, Elizabeth Taylor, Carmen Miranda, Wallace Berry, Xavier Cugat and orchestra. On the same program and having its first Belleville showing "Cry Vengeance", starring Mark Stevens.

AT THE McCARTHY

Kelly Ryan Makes Her Screen Debut

Kelly Ryan, who shares top billing with Bill Williams and Lisa Davis in Alpine Pictures' "The Outlaw's Daughter," which comes to the McCarthy Theatre on Monday, is a young Irish colleen who has the honorable distinction of being starred in her first film venture.

This is an honor few Hollywood stars can boast, and for Kelly it is the result of hard and diligent work.

Kelly made her first public appearance when her picture appeared in the New York newspapers after she won a beauty contest sponsored by the New York Telephone Company where she worked. This was followed by various modeling jobs and appearances on top television shows.

Upon her return from Korea in 1953, where she went with an entertainment troupe as a singer, she learned that a screen test she had made for Alpiee Pictures was a success and she was signed to do the title role in "The Outlaw's Daughter," which is a Twentieth Century-Fox release.

"I've read about things like this happening in Hollywood, but I never thought that my first real break would be a title role. Isn't America wonderful!," she exclaimed with a twinkle that only the Irish have in their eyes.

Among Hollywood circles, talk has it that Kelly will certainly look forward to a bright career.

Share Lead In Rich Golf Tourney

LOS ANGELES (AP—Gardner Dickinson of Panama City, Fla., fired a second round 66 and Eric Monti of Los Angeles a 67 to deadlock for a six-under-par 136 as the $32,500 Los Angeles open golf tournament reached the halfway mark.

Two strokes behind Friday came the former U.S. Open champion. Jimmy Demaret, who had the best round, 65. At 139 were youthful Gene Littler with 72-67, and Johnny Fulla, winner here in 1941, who put in his best round 70.

The bulky field of 121 professionals was cut to 65 and ties for those with scores of 146 or better qualifying for c o n t i n u e d play. They'll be joined by 24 leading amateurs headed by Eddie Draper of Seattle, who has 72-74—146.

NBC Uncertain About Canadian Grid Telecasts

TORONTO (CP)—Tom Gallery, sports director of the National Broadcasting Company, said Friday night he expects to be in Montreal Jan. 15 for the Big Four Football Union meeting to talk over televising of Big Four games in the United States next season.

Gallery had a telephone conversation from his home in Scarsdale, N.Y., that NBC has not yet made up its mind whether to televise Big Four games again. They were carried over the NBC's coast-to-coast network for the first time last season.

"We don't know what we're going to do next year until after the 15th," Gallery said.

Eskys Accumulate Over $100,000 In Three Years

EDMONTON (CP)—Edmonton's Grey Cup champion Eskimos, who re-entered the Western Interprovincial Football Union on a shoestring in 1949, announced Friday night an accumulated surplus of more than $100,000 was reached with a $20,061 profit on the 1954 campaign.

The profit compared with the 1953 figure of $13,172 and $30,363 in 1952 when they were defeated finalists in the Grey Cup.

Club treasurer Bruce Collins revealed the figures showing a profit for "the sixth successive year, in his financial report presented at a meeting of the Touchdown Club.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SUNDAY, JANUARY 9, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) —Some serious thought about the months ahead and how best to handle your affairs generally won't be amiss during the quiet of today. Start the day right by attending church services.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — A good outlook for wholesome activities ,social and charitable affairs; also for healthy sports and the arts. But do not overstrain or worry. Do things in the order of their importance and be happy.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Avoid extremes and maintain an even, yet productive, pace for best results this Sunday. Heed your conscience and spiritual needs. You clever, bright folks can be an asset to any group when natural, agreeable.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Read Taurus. If you avoid worry and irritability, you can have a pleasant and constructive time. Essential matters, home interests highly favored.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — You may have to tone down a too exuberant attitude now. Some matters have need of your calm judgment, plus patience and a very helpful when serene and thinking things out calmly. A happy day is possible.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo) — Fortunate influences for most endeavors. Church services, prayer at home; charity; useful social matters, also healthy exercises and outdoor activities are all sponsored.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Advice to Taurus and Gemini pertinent to your sector. This can be a happy Sunday. Do not neglect seemingly "small" matters that may be consonant with your family's happiness and welfare.

October 24 to November 21 (Scorpio) — Your keenest judgment and commonsense may be required at home and at work or with others now. Don't be upset or disturbed easily. You can be helpful and be helped, too.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Look pleasantly ahead as you pray for good counsel and right direction in all that you do. Assist where you can; also think of your own health needs.

December 22 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Today's influences are generous, indicative of action and accomplishment —with your help, of course. Be in a good mood, seek Divine guidance. Think of ways to aid those less fortunate.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — A day to try out your best talents, for your own and your family's edification; to benefit others by your interest in them. Don't be stubborn.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Keep to the wise pattern set for today rather than deviate too much and perhaps spoil what can be a gratifying, fruitful Sunday. Start day with prayer and you cannot miss.

YOU BORN TODAY are active, vigorous and though at times inclined to be overtrustful, have sound business acumen. You have qualities which, properly cultivated, can be productive of real achievement, success. Correct any tendency to be impatient, self-conscious. Capricorn is known for high intellectuality, general sagacity and industrious-ness. You make very capable managers, directors of large institutions; can do exceptionally well in whatever you choose and stay with. Birthdate: Thomas Warton, Eng. poet laureate.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was eating my breakfist in an eater hurry, and ma said, For land sakes, Benny, do you want to get indigestion before you're barely old enough to spell the werd?

No mam, but I dont want to be late for school, I said, and ma said, If you'd get up as soon as you're called in the morning, you'd have time to eat your breakfist like a boy in a civilized home, instead of an ostrich in an abandoned desert. William, I believe we ought to get a clock to put in his room, it would be right there as a constant reminder of the time after we call him in the morning, and it might save wear and tear on our voices, she said.

It's a thought, pop said. Does the idea appeal to you, Benny? he said, and I said, Sure, I guess so, but G, suppose I get forgetful and forget to wind it?

That's a practical objection, but I think it can be overcome, pop said. We'll get you one of those inexpensive alarm clocks with such a noisy tick that it it runs down, the suddin deffening silence will wake you up in the night and remind you to wind it, he said, and I said, Well, suppose it gets out of order by its own fault, and if I give it an extra tite winding, it will make it still worse.

William, I believe he would actually prefer to have us keep calling and shouting and threatening him till he's out of bed, ma said, and I said, Sure I would ma.

But why, for Peet sake? pop said, and I said, Because it's nice to feel you have a friendly intrist in me.

Yee gods, pop said, and ma said, Oh, drink your milk.

Which I did,

HONOR PRINTING TRADE THIS MONTH

Contribution of the printing industry to the progress of civilization will be recognized during Printing Week, Jan. 16-22, sponsored by the International Association of Printing House Craftsmen. Haller fax claims first honors in the history of Canadian printing, for it was there the first printing press in the country was operated. Though printing was invented and established by the Chinese over 1,000 years ago, it was not until about 1450 when Johann Gutenburg produced the first movable type that the modern age of printing was begun. The book, above, is believed to be one of the first three ever printed in Europe. It was published by Gutenberg before he printed his famous Bible.

This is one of the famous Hoe presses on which 19th century editors on this continent laboriously produced their newspapers, one page at a time with hand-set type. This particular press is one of those still in operation as a tourist attraction in Virginia City, Nevada. Editors in the last century were often as not their own printers and pressmen, but exerted a tremendous influence on Canadian national life. It was through their knowledge of printing that men such as Howe, Ryerson and Mackenzie left their mark on Canadian history.

Today's huge newspaper and magazine presses gulp whole forests to turn out one edition, and in so doing support Canada's most profitable industry, that of production of wood pulp from which paper is made. And it was a Nova Scotian named Fenerty who pioneered in production of paper from wood pulp industry. To honor the printing industry—the Mother of Progress—more than 130 Canadian and U.S. cities have scheduled observances which will coincide with the birthday of one of the most famous members of the trade, Benjamin Franklin.—Central Press Canadian.

GIVES KIDNEY TO SAVE TWIN

Ronald Herrick, 26, of Northboro, Mass., who donated a kidney to his nephritis-stricken twin brother, Richard, prepares to leave a Boston hospital where the transplant, one of the rarest and most complicated in all surgery, proved successful. Ronald shows a picture of his brother to nurse Barbara Fink.—Central Press Canadian.

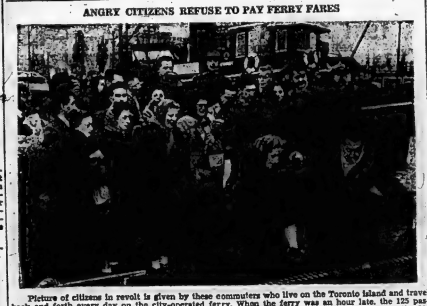
SETTING FOR A TRAFFIC JAM

What at first glance appears to be a twenty-fourth of May fireworks display is really an aerial photograph taken during the annual nine-hour endurance race of speedboats at the Pelican harbor, Miami, Fla., yacht club.—Central Press Canadian.

CHAMPION SKATERS

Frances Dafoe and Norris Bowden of Toronto, Canadian pairs champions for the last three years and runners-up for the world title last year, are practising for the Canadian figure-skating championships at Toronto Jan. 20 (CP Photo).

PREPARE SPEECHES



Rehearsing their speeches just before the opening of Parliament are Yves Leduc (left) Liberal member for Montreal Verdun and Donald Carrick, Liberal member for Toronto Trinity. Mr. Leduc was named to move the traditional reply to the throne speech and Mr. Carrick was to be seconder. (CP Photo).

OLYMPIC TEAM BERTHS AT STAKE IN CANADIAN BLADE CHAMPIONSHIPS

This year Canadian blade experts have an additional incentive to spur them on in long practise sessions for the Canadian figure-skating championships. Berths on the 1956 Olympic team will be decided on the showing of competitors in the all-Canada championships to be held in Toronto, Jan. 20-22. Putting their best skate forward for senior ladies' titles will be Vevi Smith, left, junior champion two years ago, and Ann Johnston, right, a member of Canada's world team last year. The two Toronto girls will meet some formidable opponents for the senior crown recently vacated by Barbara Gratton in Calgary's Joan Shippam and Sonja Currie.—Central Press Canadian.

ANGRY CITIZENS REFUSE TO PAY FERRY FARES

Picture of citizens in revolt is given by these commuters who live on the Toronto Island and travel back and forth every day on the city-operated ferry. When the ferry was an hour late, the 125 passengers, angered by the delay in the cold, passed through the turnstiles, refusing to pay the 30-cent-fare. Fare-collectors were brushed aside by the commuters, who have been protesting the ferry rates for months and who have long been complaining about the service.—Central Press Canadian.

2nd Thurlow

NEW YEAR'S ENTERTAINMENT

2nd THURLOW — Mr. and Mrs. Donald Leeming, Hill and Don, entertained the following for New Years: Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Whittle and family, Front Road; Mr. and Mrs. Albert McGowan and Kay, Marshall Road; Mr. and Mrs. Ormsby, of Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Eric Leeming, Mr. and Mrs. C. Brown and family, and on New Year's night, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Grills, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Atkins and Gowan, consolation, F. Mitchell. Refreshments were served by the hostess and a social time spent.

Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Whalen, of London, spent the New Years' week-end with the former's mother, Mrs. Dan Whalen and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Greatrix and family were New Year's Day guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Greatrix.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Greatrix and Marion spent New Year's week-end with the latter's parents at Greenview.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Pound and Stanley, Cannifton, were Thursday night supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. Mitchell.

Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham, Mrs. L. Moncrief, Peterborough, and Miss Doris Thompson, Toronto, were New Year's week-end visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Mitchell.

Miss Margaret Thompson, of Belleville, spent Monday with her sister at the above home.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Atkins spent the supper hour and evening on Tuesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Tullis.

Messrs. Arnold Mitchell, Don Leeming and Douglas Atkins attended the Milk Producers' Convention in Toronto at the Royal York Hotel on Wednesday and Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. McMahon and family of Purdy; Mr. and Mrs. Manley Mitchell and family were New Year's dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs.—Donald Mitchell. The latter accompanied her parents, Mr. and Mrs. McMahon, to their home for a week.

Mrs. Earl Grills and family accompanied Mrs. Cecil Grills and family to their home at Brockville for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Reid were New Year's supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Grills.

While milking on New Year's morning, Mr. Claude Clark had the misfortune to be kicked and knocked down between two cows. Fortunately he escaped with several bruises, no bones were broken.

Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Reid entertained several of their friends on New Year's eve.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pound, Miss Marion Pound, 3rd Thurlow, spent the supper hour and evening with Mr. and Mrs. M. Mitchell.

Mrs. Douglas Atkins visited with Mrs Arnold Mitchell on Wednesday night.

QUINTE HAPPY GANG

The Quinte "Happy Gang" Sewing Club met in the home of Mrs. Lloyd Greatrix on Wednesday night with a good attendance.

Miss E. Erwin, home economist, of Shirley, was present.

Mrs. C. Reid, leader of the girls' work and assistant leader, Mrs. Robert Atkins, conducted the class. Refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed.

The homeward journey was rather slow owing to the icy condition of the roads but all arrived safely. Miss Erwin remained with Mr. and Mrs. Reid for the night.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Grills, Mr. and Mrs. E. Vivian were Wednesday night guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Houston, Shannonville. Cards were enjoyed and refreshments were served by the hostess. Owing to the slippery condition of the roads, after starting for home they remained with Mr. and Mrs. Ken Vivian for the night

Mr. and Mrs. M. Mitchell and family visited with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Donaldson, Belleville, on Sunday night.

Mrs. Harry Grills spent a day recently with Mrs. Arnold Mitchell. Mr. Grills came later for supper.

Mrs. Hazel Grills and boys were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. Mitchell on Wednesday night.

There seems to be night prowlers in this community. Some time ago while absent from their home some one entered and took a radio from Mr. and Mrs. Don Leeming. Recently some one broke into the hen-pen of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Greatrix and took several hens, leaving the heads on the floor. On New Year's eve some one broke into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hector Jordan. However he was interrupted by their arrival home. Some food and a can-ora were missing.

Mrs. John Craig spent Thursday with Mrs. Arnold Mitchell.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

For Monday, January 10, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—You will need a true sense of proportion and of basic values to know what's to be pushed, and what's to be left alone this day. Don't rush into things without gleeful forethought and careful planning.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Be alert, worthy of trust placed in you. Much depends on how you look at prospects, opportunities in hand. Inside matters often regets quicker recognition than ces boldness and fervor.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—et off to a flying start this lendid day. Results could surises if you give your best efforts nd don't do anything to offset onfabilities. Don't be too rest, changeable.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—uspicious rays should stimulate your interest and desire to accomplish big things. Realize the opportunities before you and don't be timid or undecided in action. Have faith in yourself.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Don't try to carry too many burdens. Concentrate on the essentials to get maximum credits. Avoid anxiety and impatience; neither will help and both can do great harm. Seek God's guidance.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—Generally encouraging rays for professional pursuits and mental work generally. Gains in chemistry, medicine, scientific research can progress if you choose, though careful making decision.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—This day favors bettering present occupational conditions rather than making drastic changes. Ask and grant favors, aid where you can. Cooperation favored.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—No room for alibis today! Appeals should help you to make fine headway now. Be sure you're alert and ready for bargains that can be yours. No procrastination, no worry!

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Hold emotions under sensible control, maintain a steady pace, be systematic and you can achieve a great deal now. Familiar matters as well as new ones fit undertakings on solid ground.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—This day may seem puzzling perhaps irritating, at first, but don't be fooled; there are good influences at work for all worthwhile interests and endeavors. Use your fine common sense.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—You may run into some annoying obstacles but you can overcome them and advance in whatever direction you choose. Avoid unnecessary anxiety and restlessness. Maintain an interested, ambitious tempo to achieve results.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Check carefully before making any important sudden change or decision. The day can be productive, fruitful but it will also take sound judgment, smart management and planning. You can gain.

You born today have great capability and the common sense needed to use it profitably. You are usually dependable, industrious, honorable kindly and usually talented; may have to curb a tendency to consider personal recognition and temporal things more important than spiritual values. You can be forceful for great good in this troubled world if you cultivate and use your God-given attributes and talents. Birthdate: Zebao Allen, noted American Revolutionary soldier.

Wellington on the Lake

THE NEW YEAR

We have bede good-bye to the year now past,
The dear, dead days that have been so fleeting.
Through sunshine and shadow they hurried fast
The wonder of dawn and dusk repeating;
There were days of sorrow and days of dream,
There were days of losing and days of gain,
But the golden dawn of a New Year's gleam
Gives us the chance of a fresh beginning.

The book of the old year is blotted o'er,
We gaze on its leaves with heartfelt sighing,
Sadly we turn from its page once more
And think of the days now before us lying;
The days of the New Year gleaming bright
Their lure of light and life are flinging,
Gladly we turn to the dawning light
And hail the chance of a fresh beginning.

Helen B. Anderson.

WELLINGTON — There is something appealing in the word "new", and the New Year does inspire courage. Few there are who do not look forward to something better in the future than in the past, as the beginning of the New Year. And this desire although quite often unfulfilled is really productive of some good—even the desire to do something better in life has its compensation. Perhaps we might all say with the poet:

"I wish that there were some wonderful place
Called the land of beginning again,
Where all our mistakes and all our heartaches,
And all our poor, selfish griefs,
Could be dropped like a shabby old coat at the door
And never put on again."

Mrs. Gladys Vandewater, Dunbarton, spent holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Vandewater.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Vandewater were their guests on Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Stevens, St. David's, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Tait and other Wellington friends during Christmas holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Andrews, Picton Heights, were New Year's guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. Luffman and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Glendon Sanders, Toronto, were New Year's guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pettengill and Mrs. Alice Good Murphy.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Carley, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Carley and Mr. George Ferguson were guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. Benham, Bloomfield, on New Year's.

Miss Mary L. Platt, Toronto, spent holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clare Platt.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Stevenson and family were New Year's guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stevenson, Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Kinnear and Gladys Anne, of Vineland, spent holidays in Belleville, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Kinnear and family. Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Morton, Wellington, joined them as guests on New Year's eve.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ford were dinner guests of Miss Mary Lumb and Gladys, New Year's evening. Mrs. Anderson and Miss M. Blakely were guests at the Lumb home Sunday evening.

The week of prayer is being observed this week, services being held every evening in the Sunday School room of the United Church. On Tuesday evening the prayer service conducted by Rev. A. Prather was followed by the meeting of the Evening Auxiliary.

Mr. and Mrs. George Benway, Doxsee's, Mrs. Geraldine Broad and Barrie, Wellington, and Mr. Bill Benway were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Root, Thursday evening and enjoyed a turkey supper.

Guests on New Year's day of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wright were Mr. and Mrs. David Jackson and Mr. and Mrs. Foster Jackson, West Lake; Mr. and Mrs. Alan Noble, East Lake, and Mrs. Alberta Smith, Wellington.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris are spending some days in Toronto, guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. Hubbs.

Miss Helen Foster and Miss Anne Dorland returned to Kingston to resume studies at Queen's after spending holidays in Wellington.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyce Wilbe, of Dundas, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Nash.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Scott were at home New Year's evening entertaining at a turkey supper Mr. and Mrs. Jack Root and Earl, Miss Minnie McIntyre and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Root, Oshawa.

W.A. MEETS

The December meeting of the W.A. of the United Church was held in the Sunday School room with the president, Mrs. D. Ayres in charge, and Rev. A. Poulter presiding over the election of officers. Mrs. Ida McFaul conducted a fine program with Mrs. M. Reed leading the devotional. Readings were given by Mrs. Poulter, Mrs. W. Tenkey and Mrs. Bishop. Vocal selections by Mrs. R. A. Thompson, Miss Carol Marland Beverley Ayres and Miss Alyea were enjoyed. Mrs. Mayhew played a Christmas piano solo. Refreshments were served. Mrs. Arnold Foster invited the W.A. to her home for the January meeting.

WINS RECOUNT

HARROW, Ont. (CP) — Waller Pook Thursday night was declared deputy reeve of Colchester South township, winning an official recount by two votes. WINTER DESCENDS ON EUROPE

These scenes from London, England, and Paris, France, confirm the news that winter has laid its icy hand on the continent. Homeless Parisians, top, make the best of a bad situation by huddling over one of the subway ventilation shafts through which warm air rushes. Church Becomes Rallying Point For Those Opposed to Peron

By ALFONSO MAURI

BUENOS AIRES (Reuters)—Never have so many Argentine Communists and Socialists paid less heed to Karl Marx's dictum that "religion is the opium of people" and gone to church as in recent weeks.

The reason is hardly a religious one.

With an open feud between the government and the Catholic church has become the rallying point of many who oppose the regime but who have hitherto had no common ground on which to fight President Juan Peron.

When some 80,000 persons gathered in Plaza de Mayo in December to celebrate the end of the Marian Year, anti - Peronistas, Communist students just out of prison, radical politicians and diehard Socialists mixed with the flock of churchgoers and waved white handkerchiefs at the dignitaries of the Roman Catholic Church, whom Peron had denounced.

Observers here could hardly believe their eyes. Eight years ago, the church championed Peronista causes in the elections which brought Peron to power and encouraged the religious education in the national schools. The opposition had stood for secular education.

STARTED WITH STUDENTS

What brought matters to a head in November was a seemingly unimportant situation. Some months ago, Peron decided that indoctrination for the new Argentine state must start in the schools. Through physical culture, he set out to gain the goodwill of the students.

The spearhead of his movement were the boys' and girls' branches of the Eva Peron Secondary School Students. He obtained for them sports fields, rest centers, camps and finally opened the grounds of his summer residence as headquarters of the girls' branch.

They found there speed boats, motorcycles, motorbikes, water sports amenities that their sporting hearts could desire. At the residence Peron produced ballet shows and theatrical performance and held balls. He established for the girls' living quarters which the children of millionaires elsewhere might envy.

But he permitted, and encouraged, girls and boys to meet freely with boys.

The Catholic leaders here, where traditions resemble those of Spain, this was nothing short of a return to paganism. To counteract Peron's influence among the young, they established the Union of Catholic Students. In Cordoba, stronghold of Catholicism, the inauguration of this organization far outshone the opening of the Union of Secondary School Students.

SORE SPOT

This was not the sole point of conflict. But it certainly was the most sore spot among them. In the past the Catholics had tried, and to a certain extent succeeded, in building up their own trade unions and organized reactions for workers, especially for women employees.

In Cordoba, the Catholics went so far as to establish the basis for a Christian Democratic party.

Nov. 10 marked a turning point for Catholics in Argentina. On that day, Peron held one of his regular meetings with the provincial governors who were asked to report on Catholic activities throughout the country.

The full report never has been published, but at the end of the meeting Peron summed up the situation in a speech which was recorded and subsequently broadcast. He referred to "Catholic infiltration" within the Peronista movement and the "people's organizations" and said: "We shall take steps to see that the authority of the state prevails and that the church to take measures to make offenders abide by the law of the church."

He gave a warning that unless Catholic groupings stick to their avowed aims, "they will be closed and charged with unlawful association." Peron named a number of parishes, including three bishops.

CHURCH FIGHTS BACK

To Peron's charges, the bishops responded with pastoral letter read in all churches. In a private letter to Peron, they asked him to provide evidence of his charges against them.

Two months after the battle started, it was clear that Peron had won the first round. But the Catholics said: "For the church two months are but two minutes."

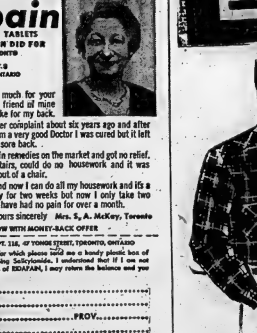
However, in those two minutes Peron had dangerous pass to leave troubling divorce, the police put some 15 priests in prison (although none for more than 30 days), inroads were made into religious education in schools, and processions and public meetings of a religious nature were banned.

Hanoi Slowly Modelling Self To Red Pattern

HANOI (AP) — This capital of North Viet Nam slowly is modeling itself on the Communist pattern after weeks of difficult adaptation.

Bulldozers, trucks and swarms of coolies are busy demolishing the former Square of the Governor-General in the centre of the city to build a "Red square."

The Communists have received long Russian-made grey cars—mostly "Zims." With the "Molotov"—the Russian - made trucks which the Vietminh used during the war—Hanoi again has traffic jams.



Everybody seemed eager to demonstrate a deep humility - to please the communist leaders who arrived Oct. 10. Most men put on khaki Chinese-like suits. They let their beards grow to look like Ho Chi Minh. Few that they are a bit more accustomed to the Communist regime, men and women again have donned their traditional costumes.

The native district of Hanoi is not much changed. It is always busy, with its dingy pall of smoke from only a small part of the citizenry can afford.

REACHES TARGET

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Hurricane Relief Fund Thursday announced that its $5,000,000 target has been reached. Purposes of the fund include such diverse activities as emergency relief, caring for dependents of persons lost in the floods of last October, and supplying household goods and clothing to flood victims. Aid is being given to small businesses, churches, hospitals and farms.

47 YONGE STREET, TORONTO, ONTARIO

DEAR SIRS:
I want to thank you so much for your Ridapain Tablets which a friend of mine recommended to me to take for my back.
I had a very severe liver complaint about six years ago and after two years of treatment from a very good Doctor I was cured but it left me with a very weak and sore back.
I have tried different pain remedies on the market and got no relief. I could hardly walk upstairs, could do no housework and it was painful to even try to get out of a chair.
Then I tried Ridapain and now I can do all my housework and it's a pleasure. I took six a day for two weeks but now I only take two before going to bed and I have had no pain for over a month.
Thanking you so much, Yours sincerely Mrs. S. A. McKay, Toronto

Hammarskjold And Chou Will 'Continue Contact'

Communique at Talks' End Does Not Mention Atom Bomb

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold and Premier Chou En-lai ended their Geneva conference today with an expressed hope "to continue contact." Their communique made no mention of the fate of the 11 U. S. airmen imprisoned in Red China.

We feel that these talks have been useful and we hope to be able to continue the contact established in these meetings," they said.

The UN secretary general had been assigned by the UN General Assembly to seek release of the fliers and other UN personnel held in China. He flew to Peiping and had talked an aggregate of 15½ hours with Chou, today's fourth and final meeting took up an hour and 15 minutes.

The joint communique—from the UN chief and the Chinese, Communist leader—was released simultaneously at UN headquarters here and in Peiping.

LEAVES TUESDAY

The communique was cabled to UN headquarters here by Per Lind, assistant to Hammarskjold's secretary general and one of his party of six in the Chinese capital.

Hammarskjold plans to leave Peiping Tuesday, presumably by Scandinavian Airlines System flight. From there he will fly to Tokyo sent on to San Francisco.

PROPAGANDA BLAST

TOKYO (AP) — Peiping radio heralded the last day of scheduled talks between United Nations secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold and Red China's Premier Chou En-lai with use of his bitterest blasts against the United States.

The propaganda broadcasts heard here appeared to bode little good for Hammarskjold's long journey to talk over the release of 11 American airmen captured during the Korean war and charged with spying by the Chinese Communists.

In one of its longest tirades, the radio accused the United States of abandoning attempts to solve world problems peacefully.

CANTON TENSE

Meanwhile a tense atmosphere in Canton in south China was reported by a Canadian newspaper man who returned to Hong Kong after a unsuccessful attempt to get passage to Peiping. He went to cover Hammarskjold's meeting with Chou. William Stevenson, correspondent for the Toronto Star who has made two recent trips to Red China, said he had not seen the same signs of tension in Canton as in Peiping visits.

Stevenson said Red troops were manning anti-aircraft guns around Canton, but otherwise "hatless" roamed the streets. It was further that Hammarskjold would be in Canton on Saturday, he reported.

"I feel people in Canton know a lot more than has been told them about the situation," Stevenson said. "One official made a remark about what would happen if the U.S. airmen were executed, leading me to believe that they must have had some information that Peiping has told them," he said.

Revive Winter Carnival

QUEBEC (CP) — The drum majorettes were wool stockings and the trumpet players' lips were blue to blow on-key notes, but few Quebecers complained.

Thousands of them turned out in below-freezing temperatures Sunday to throng the old walls and city streets as the Carnaval d'Hiver de Quebec (Quebec Winter Carnival) opened with a flourish after an absence of 25 years.

Cobalt Vigilantes Formed to Shoot If Flying Saucers Make Hostile Move

COBALT (CP)—The New Year has brought reports of flying saucers in this northern Ontario mining area.

Bright white discs were sighted Friday and Saturday by at least 10 persons. Others have banded together and are planning to take shots at the objects if they prove hostile. But so far they have been harmless.

A single saucer was observed Friday over Lake Temiskaming by John Hunt, president of the Cobalt Chamber of Commerce, Ray Johnson, mechanic at Agnonico Mines, and Al Jennings, a truck driver. They said it zipped about the sky making sweep two hours.

On the day after Christmas Mr. Hunt and Wilf St. Jean reported seeing a bright object over the same spot.

In North Cobalt Saturday bright object was sighted by a man who said: "It was difficult to look at."

CHRYSLER STRIKE VOTE POSTPONED FOR TIME BEING

Union Unwilling to Close 2 Plants at Same Time

WINDSOR (CP)—A strike vote at the Chrysler plant in Canada here has been postponed indefinitely because the auto workers' union is unwilling to close two major automotive plants at one time.

George Burt, Canadian director of the United Automobile Workers (UCWCL) asked a general membership meeting of the Chrysler workers' Sunday to postpone the scheduled strike vote until the deadlocked Ford of Canada strike is settled.

The 2,000 workers who attended the meeting held in a downtown theatre, voted overwhelmingly by show of hands to accept the postponement.

The sudden executive decision to call for the postponement caught the workers by surprise. They had been asked to agree by the executive to attend the meeting to give the negotiating team of the Chrysler unit of UAW's Local 195 be added power of being able to call a strike at any time.

WANT FORD ENDED

In asking for the delay, Mr. Burt, who returned to Canada from Detroit Thursday after a two months' illness, said the most important problem facing the UAW now was to settle successfully the 13-week-old Ford strike.

"The Ford strike will have to be won," he said. "You can help win it by giving support to keep up the pressure on Ford to settle, and by keeping your dues coming in to pay for the food and shelter for the strikers."

Charles Brooker, president of Local 195's Chrysler unit and chairman of the negotiating team told the workers they would lose nothing by postponing the strike vote.

CHANGE TACTICS

"We've been forced to change our tactics because it is not UAW strategy to take on two major companies in strikes at one time," he said. "When we called for the strike vote to be taken here, we believed the Ford dispute would be settled by this time."

He said the delay has not made any offer to the union yet in negotiations here, which began almost daily for two almost months, since a conciliation board report was issued in mid-October down. The report rejected most of the union's demands.

The 7,500 Chrysler workers now earn an average wage of $1.71 an hour. They are seeking a 15-cent hourly wage increase, eight paid holidays a year instead of seven, $4,000 life insurance, $35 a week disability payments, plus some contract revisions.

Priest's Bullet-Torn Body Found in Car Near Brandon

BRANDON, Man. (CP)—Three brush-cut youths today were charged jointly with the murder of a Roman Catholic priest whose bullet-pierced body was found Sunday in his automobile six miles northeast of Brandon.

They told police they had recently been discharged from the navy.

RCAMP here said they believed robbery was the motive for the slaying of Rev. Alfred Quirion, 46, of St. Edouard, Que., and formerly of Quebec.

Police said the youths had $90 on them which they believe was stolen from the priest, who left Winnipeg about 1 p.m. en route back to his small parish 100 miles northeast of Edmonton.

Names of the three, all believed from Montreal, were not released immediately. The charge was laid in Brandon police court today. Two are thought to be juveniles.

Father Quirion is believed to have picked up the trio hitch-hiking in Prairie, about 60 miles west of Winnipeg and 90 miles south of Brandon on the trans-Canada highway.

The three arrived in Brandon Sunday about 25 minutes after the shooting—they were given a lift by an unidentified motorist who saw them trying to push the car out of the ditch.

The slaying was discovered by a passing motorist who noticed the priest's car in the ditch. The front door had been opened and the father Quirion was lying on the floor by the driver's seat.

The trio was arrested by constable Frank Britton of the Brandon police force. He had been placed on duty at the CPR station after notice of the slaying had been received.

Police said a railway locker which they opened with a key being carried by one of the youths contained two revolvers, a pistol and two hunting knives.

One of the 22-calibre slugs recovered from the priest's body has been sent to the RCMP laboratory at Regina for ballistic test.

Father Quirion was returning to the little Alberta settlement after driven a group of seminarians to Winnipeg. He was scheduled to address them tonight.

Most Rev. Philippe Lucien, bishop of St. Paul diocese which includes St. Edouard, said Father Quirion was "probably the best priest in the diocese." He said he was loved by all."

He had been a "great deal of help" for immigrants, he had great plans for immigrants—finding them jobs and homes and helping them to establish themselves in the area.

He had been taking the five seminarians, who had been spending the Christmas holidays with their families, to the seminary in St. Paul, to Winnipeg "to save them the expense" of train travel.

Quebec Will Study Possible Use of Toll Highway System

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec government plans to set up a commission of experts to find if the toll system is feasible in the province. A bill is to be brought down in the legislature this week in order to appoint an expert body to report to the government on highway financing.

Some of the most modern highways in other parts of the world have been built by what are called state authorities or turnpikes, state corporations which float bonds to pay for the roads. These corporations derive their revenue from highway tolls.

In many instances the loans are backed by a state guarantee but in other cases larger issues have been sold without government endorsement.

Bonds are costly in a province this size. The provincial government, which maintains public roads of every sort except in the large cities, spent $75,680,174 on them during the 1953-54 fiscal year. Not quite half of that money went for maintenance and winter clearance. The rest was for new roads and improvement.

The province equals about 25 per cent of the entire provincial budget and is roughly equivalent to the money government pays for the provincial treasury in gasoline, licenses and other taxes in 1953-54 they paid $79,167,783. These figures do not include cost of bridges which are part of the highways system.

Observers believe that in investigating toll roads the government is showing reluctance to expand its highway system further and has decided that if any section of the province requires new highways it will have to be financed out of the pocket of automobile owners who use it, as in some heavily-travelled parts of the United States, visiting motorists would pay a good part of the bill.

Liberals Propose Amendments To Elections Act

OTTAWA (CP) — Two Liberal members of Parliament have proposed amendments to the Elections Act to extend the franchise in federal general elections.

Rev. Dan Mclvor (L — Fort William) wants to enable all qualified voters absent from home on election day to cast ballots in advance polls. James Brown (L — Brandon) would like the vote extended to all Indians on reservations.

They proposed the amendments to the Elections Act in resolutions which appeared on Saturday's Commons order paper.

At present, commercial travellers, transportation employees, fishermen, members of reserve forces in training and the RCMP have to vote in advance polls. These polls are open on the Thursday, Friday and Saturday preceding election day which by law must be held on a Monday.

Mr. McIvor said "all Canadians away from home on election day should have the right to cast their ballot." He also proposes that the three-day limit for the advance polls should be extended to a week or more.

All Indians living off reservations now are entitled to vote. The only exceptions on reservations who may vote are war veterans and their wives and those who pay income tax.

TRIPLETS IN BARNYARD

BALTIMORE (AP)—A member of the bovine "600" stunned the barnyard set at Edgehill Farms in nearby Glyndon Friday by giving birth to triplets. It only happens three times in every 10,000 beef cattle births. Farm owner Dan Culver said the mother was Happy Hills Queen Pat II, a registered five-year-old Aberdeen-Angus. The father was Bandolerian of Cold Saturday.

Start Pipeline Talks

WASHINGTON (CP)—Talks are scheduled to start here today between officials expected to lead to the construction of a natural gas pipeline through western Canada and Canada.

Union Gas Company of Canada Ltd., Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Company of the United States are asking the Federal Government to approve a contract whereby more U.S. gas will be brought into western Canada.

NAMED OBSERVER

BONN (AP)—Federal Press chief Felix von Eckardt has been nominated West German observer to the United Nations with rank of ambassador, informed sources said Friday night. West Germany is not a member of UN but maintains an observer, who has hitherto been a member of the German consulate-general's staff in New York.

COMMONS FACES HEAVY PROGRAM OF LEGISLATION

Many Private Bills Placed On Agenda

OTTAWA (CP) — The heaviest initial program of legislation in years is before the Commons.

The program, disclosed Saturday on the Commons order paper, includes 19 government bills and 36 private members' resolutions and there'll be more to come later.

Though not all these are ready for debate will come up immediately, the government is expected to disclose details today of two bills on the order paper aimed at strengthening authority over the use of rivers flowing across the international boundary.

A government spokesman said they are designed to make it clear the authority over export of water resources is a federal matter.

PENDING DEAL

He said they are being introduced in view of a pending deal between the British Columbia government and the Kaiser aluminum interests in the United States for development of power on Canadian side of the Columbia river.

The federal government believes B.C. should get more out of the transaction whereby Kaiser would build a dam to store water on B.C.'s Kootenay river and release it in low-flow periods to feed its downstream power system on the United States side.

Private members' resolutions cover a wide variety of subjects, but three members of different political parties have put similar ideas.

A study of human rights and freedoms has been proposed by CCF leader Coldwell, John Diefenbaker (Conservative) and Gilbert Pilon (Liberal-Outremont-St. Jean-Lapointe-Cecil (LTcrosio Spadina).

John Charlton (PC-Brant-Haldimand) wants steps taken to render non-poisonous the exhaust fumes of all gasoline and diesel vehicles, railway engines and stationary engines. He would like regulations in the health of the nation, he says.

Many of the private resolutions may not be debated. Only two days a week are given to their consideration and the government often cuts down this time to give priority to its own business.

Usually not more than half of all private-member resolutions are considered. The others die on the order paper when the session ends. Sometimes debate of such resolutions does not necessarily commit the government to act. They are an opportunity for members to express their views.

12 Rounded Up For Counterfeiting Of $20 Bills

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Interruption of a stage production in Hollywood of a film about a comedy "Charley's Aunt" climaxed the roundup by secret service agents of 12 persons charged with passing counterfeit $245,000 worth of $20 bills.

Agents descended on the Carousel Theatre Friday night, arrested the star and cast and carried off the prop cardboard backstage flooring during the performance to seize two bags of fake bills.

Earlier arrests in the three-state roundup were not announced until Saturday night after the theatre raid.

Guy H. Gabrielson, secret service agent in charge here, described the show-stopped raid during the performance of the play which Dick Powell starred last year.

The agents ripped up the floorboards and found the bags which Dick man said contained $9,000 in fake bills. Lewis was arrested during the performance. After the first act the show stopped. Another actor, John B. Rooke, also was arrested.

Six of the 12 persons, including an unidentified 17-year-old striptease dancer, were arrested in Los Angeles.

Spaman said all 12 persons arrested in the case have been charged with possessing and passing counterfeit $20 bills except Ernest Edmar Schmidt, a printer, who is charged with manufacturing counterfeit money.

FERRY BURNS, SINKS

OSAKA, Japan (AP)—An inland sea ferry, the 1,850-ton Nishiki Maru, burned and capsized at her pier Friday night. One crew member drowned and another was missing. No passengers were aboard.

Eisenhower Asks Congress For 15 PC Cut In Tariffs

Requests More Streamlining Of Customs Administration

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today asked Congress for power to make a "moderate, gradual and reciprocal" cut in tariffs by as much as 15 per cent.

In a special message, the president said in its own interest the United States requires a foreign economic program that will stimulate economic growth in the free world. He said:

(1) Our own self-interest requires such a program because (1) economic strength among our allies is necessary to our security, (2) economic growth in underdeveloped areas is necessary to lessen international instability growing out of the vulnerability of these areas to Communist penetration and subversion; and (3) an increasing volume of world production and trade will help assure our own economic growth and a high standard of living among our own people."

TARIFFS REQUEST

In the first of a series of special messages to the Democratic 84th Congress, the president specifically renewed the request he made to last year's Republican-led Congress, which refused, for a three-year extension of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act and for tariff-cutting power.

As other steps in the foreign economic field, Eisenhower also recommended:

Customs simplification. He asked th Congress act to further streamline customs administration and procedures.

Private investment abroad. He recommended a cut of 14 percentage points in the tax rate paid by corporations on income earned abroad, and asked Congress to defer the tax on income of foreign branches until the funds are removed from the country where earned.

Technical co-operation. He said this country should carry forward its technical assistance programs concerned with "know-how rather than large sums." Eisenhower asked favorable action on his request for technical aid funds in his budget message to be sent next week.

ENCOURAGES TRAVEL

International travel. To encourage travel abroad by Americans, an important source of dollars for foreign countries, Eisenhower asked Congress to increase the duty-free allowances for tourists from $500 to $1,000.

As to tariffs, the president declared flatly that "odd corners" are surably to the security and well-being of the United States and the rest of the free world" by giving him authority to:

Negotiate tariff reductions not exceeding five per cent annually for three years on articles now bearing rates which exceed 50 per cent down to that level and for three-year periods reduce by not more than one-half, in three years, the tariffs on articles which are now being imported or which now are being imported in substantial quantities.

The president asked this authority "subject to the escape clause and peril point clause provisions." Under these provisions, U. S. industries first appeal to the tariff cuts can seek an upward revision of the cuts.

There had been some proposals in Congress that Eisenhower propose amendment of the "peril point" clause.

Eisenhower did not mention amendment of the "Buy American" laws, which oblige foreign governments to bid considerably lower than American firms to get government contracts.

He called for congressional approval of U. S. membership in the

Britons in Natal Urge Canada Help Block Republic

DURBBAN, S.A. (Reuters)—The Natal branch of the United Party, fighting the possibility of a South African republic, has written to members of a British Commonwealth parliaments asking Canada to adopt a "non-committal" attitude to any such proposal at the forthcoming prime ministers' conference which opens in London Jan. 31, it was disclosed today.

The Natal branch sent the letters to Britain and Canada after British descent inhabiting the province of Natal who are opposed to the establishment of an Afrikaaner republic in South Africa." The Afrikaaners are descendants of the Dutch Boer settlers in South Africa.

The letters said "It is the considered intention of the present South African government to establish a republic outside the British Commonwealth."

Chinese Reds Stage Big Raid On Tachen Isles

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP) — At least 66 Communist planes launched the strategic Tachen islands today in the Reds' biggest air raid against Chinese Nationalist territory. The defence ministry said two of the Russian-built aircraft were shot down.

The ministry said more than 200 bombs were dropped by the raiders — 36 IL-11 fighter-bombers and 34 YUA light bombers escorted by four MIG swept-wing jet fighters. Most of the bombs fell into the sea, the ministry added.

In addition to two planes shot down, the ministry said two others were heavily damaged by anti-aircraft fire from the islands, 200 miles north of Formosa.

MANY CASUALTIES

The Reds sent more than 100 sorties, with the first attacks coming in four waves. The ministry said no mention of Nationalist fighter opposition.

Considerable number of civilian casualties was reported. The ministry made no mention of buildings destroyed.

The Communist planes evidently flew from bases at Shanghai, Hangchow and Ningpo.

Blessed Bread That Ends Poverty Is Distributed to 5,000 in Quebec

QUEBEC (CP) — Some 5,000 carried around as an act of piety. But they hurried home at their respective churches all filled with joy.

The ceremony takes place every year in the 277-year-old church on the feast of St. Genevieve, patron saint of Paris. Legend says St. Genevieve's intercession saved the people of France from starvation when the Franks under Clovis besieged the city. The religious ceremony commemorates the miracle. Parishioners bake the bread with flour, water and salt.

FRIENDER GOES HUNTING

LISBON (AP)—Don Juan, 27-year-old brother to the Spanish throne, left Friday night by plane for Kenya, East Africa, where he will take part in a big game hunt.

proposed $100,000,000 International Finance Corporation affiliated with the World Bank. This corporation would be set up to increase private investment in Latin-American and other less developed nations by making loans without government guarantee of repayment.

GRADUAL CHANGE

Eisenhower said the dismantling of trade barriers must be mutual and gradual.

Abrupt or sudden tariff reductions would not be to the interest of the United States and would not accomplish the goal we seek," he said.

In last year's message, today's new appeal was drafted substantially on the basis of recommendations made a year ago by the presidential committee on foreign trade headed by Clarence B. Randall, Chicago steel manufacturer.

CITY & DISTRICT NEWS

FIRE DEPARTMENT ANSWERS 3 ALARMS

Three alarms were answered by the city fire department over the week-end.

Saturday afternoon firemen were called to Station Street, where a truck had short-circuited. Damage was confined to the motor wires. Saturday night the reels were called to Wright Ave. where a motor on an oil furnace was giving trouble, and Sunday they were called to a West Moira Street address for an over-heated stove.

Parents to Meet Teaching Staff Of Collegiate

Belleville parents tonight will meet with the teaching staff of the collegiate to discuss progress of their children during the past term.

Meeting is an annual affair which follows drawing-up of report cards after the Christmas exams.

The collegiate staff will assemble in the auditorium where they will meet the parents. Parents and teachers then will adjourn to the classrooms, where they will hold consultations on an individual basis on the progress of the students.

Success of the meetings and ensuing discussions then depend on the co-operation of the parents in attending. A similar meeting was held recently at night in the Quinte Secondary School.

Both meetings commence at 8 p.m.

Can Crop Growers Meet First Of Kind in E. Ont.

An expense paid trip to 1955 Provincial Can Crop Convention at Hamilton is one of the more than two dozen prizes to be won by growers attending the Eastern Ontario Growers Can Crop Conference at Belleville January 13th.

The prizes, totalling nearly $900.00 in value have been donated by fertilizers, spray and machinery companies. The free trip to the 1955 Can Crop Growers' Convention in Hamilton is being offered by the Eastern Ontario County Can Crop Associations and the Ontario Vegetable Growers' Marketing Board who are joint sponsors of the one-day conference.

There is no registration or admission charge to the conference but for the convenience of those attending, two separate luncheons are being arranged for the large number of growers expected to attend. Holders of luncheon tickets will be eligible for the lucky draw prizes which will be drawn at the beginning of the afternoon session.

FIRST OF KIND

The conference, the first of its kind in Eastern Ontario, is being held at the Belleville Collegiate Institute Auditorium. The programme, getting away at 10 a.m., features a series of talks by leading authorities on pea, corn and tomato production, the three major canning crops grown in Eastern Ontario.

Leading off will be Professor C. B. Sayre, of Geneva, New York Experimental Station. Professor Sayre is recognized as one of this country's top experts in the field of pea production.

Also on the morning program will be L. Lyall, Provincial Horticulturist, Canada Department of Agriculture, who will give growers the latest news on developments in tomato variety research being carried on at Smithfield Horticulture sub-station near Brighton.

William Forbes, manager of Stokely-Van Camp's Whitby plant will round out the series with a talk on "What's New in Sweet Corn Production."

A five-man panel of experts will then take the stage to answer growers's questions on all phases of canning crop production from growing to marketing.

M. McIntyre Hood, managing editor of the Oshawa Times Gazette, recently returned from a trip to England, Holland, will open the afternoon session, speaking on his theme "Leaves From An Overseas Notebook."

Also speaking at the afternoon session will be Stewart Mortson, Ideless, secretary, Ontario Food Processors Association, Toronto, who will be speaking on "The Grower and the Industry."

Sam Johnson, Messenger For Bank of Commerce, Retires

A familiar face is missing in the financial and other highways and byways of city life.

It is that of Sam Johnson, a name synonymous with banking and military circles of the city for a long number of years.

Mr. Johnson, the messenger-in-charge, as he is more familiarly known, retired from the messenger service of the Canadian Bank of Commerce here on December 31. Sam had completed 34 years of service with the bank.

The "Sergeant Major" will be missed. Sam went through the daily routine of his bank duties with the same efficiency that he displayed on the military parade ground. He made and has many friends in many circles of life.

Sam saw the first light of day in Belfast, Northern Ireland. He came to Canada in 1910 and settled in Ottawa where he secured a position with the Grand Trunk Railway.

JOINED 38th BATTALION

The war clouds sounded and Sam joined the 38th Battalion, CEF, and saw four years' overseas service in Bermuda, England and France. He was wounded at the battle of Vimy Ridge.

During his sojourn in England, Sam married Hanna Bedford at Bedminster in Somerset County. He took his military discharge there but remained in England for a few years. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson have a daughter, Eleanor, who is associated with the Canadian Bank of Commerce head office in Toronto.

Sam eventually returned to Canada where he gained employment with the American Optical Company, later joining the staff of the Ontario Hydro Commission. Twenty-four years ago he became associated with the staff of the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

ALL SERGEANT MAJOR

Sam never forgot his military service overseas and after his return to Canada joined the Argyll Light Infantry as a company sergeant-major under Lieut.-Col. Eric Kemler, commanding officer of the regiment. He served with the unit for fourteen years, attaining the rank of regimental sergeant-major.

He again joined the active service colors when World War II started, and was posted on command to the military training centre of M.D. 3, Kingston, as instructor. He served at the Officers' Training Centre, Brockville, before his discharge and return to civilian life.

Following his discharge, Sam became associated with the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

During his service with the A.I.I., R.S.M. Johnson was awarded the Efficiency Medal, the Coronation Medal and the late Lieut.-Col. Bev. Gribble's.

One of Sam's most treasured memories is his trip to England in 1937 which he represented the unit at the coronation of the late King George and Queen Elizabeth.

Sam's military service to city and district covered a period of twenty years.

"I'm just another old soldier, not dying—just fading away," Sam smiled this morning.

Brilliant Organist Gives Recital At St. Paul's

MARMORA — A large congregation attended St. Paul's Anglican Church on Sunday evening for the service of Festal Evensong at which the guest organist was Frederick Geoghegan, choir staff organist with the Heintzman Company, of Toronto, and formerly organist and master of the choristers of All Souls' Church, Langham Place, London, W., as well as being the professional staff of the Royal Academy of Music, London, England.

At the close of the service the organist rendered in a well balanced organ recital in which the following organ solos were played by Mr. Geoghegan:

Group from the works of J. S. Bach: "Fugue in G Minor"; "Gavotte"; "Toccata in D Minor"; "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring"; two cuts of "What Child is This?" and "Ding-Dong Merrily on High."

Two numbers by Handel: "He Shall Feed His Flock" (from Messiah); Suite from the Water Music, including overture, air, Bourree Hornpipe.

Interspersed between the first group and the second was the rendition of Bert Cauper's anthem, "Saviour Again to Thy Dear Home We Raise" by St. Paul's choir, solo parts being taken by Mrs. L. R. Rundle, and Mrs. R. Frost.

Canon J. M. Brownlie officiated at Evensong and conducted the brilliant organist and his offerings.

Hearing on Three Fraud Charges To Be Opened

The preliminary hearing of James H. Dolan, 12 First street, local mining stock salesman charged with fraud in connection with the sale of mining shares was scheduled to get underway before Magistrate H. D. Ponton of Toronto at $1,000; with making false statements with intent to defraud and with publishing false statements with intent to defraud.

All three counts were listed on the same information although it was pointed out by Magistrate Wills that separate pleas would be necessary on each charge. The case first came before the court in September, 1954, but was laid over.

The Crown is charging that Mr. Dolan employed as a geologist to make a geological survey of the company's property at Normetal, Que., and said in a geological in mining shares instead of in cash.

Then, the Crown alleges, Mr. Dolan wrote letters to shareholders representing that a geologist had subscribed for the mining shares.

Special prosecutor for the case is Arthur G. Slein, Q.C., of Toronto, assisted by H. S. Bray also of Toronto. Appearing for Mr. Dolan is Robert A. Pringle, Q.C., of Belleville.

Police Constable Facing Charge

WINDSOR (CP)—A charge of careless driving has been laid by Ontario Provincial Police against a Windsor police constable who was involved in an accident earlier this week while chasing a speeding truck.

The charge was laid against Const. John Hughes, who was driving a police cruiser last Tuesday when he tried to overtake a speeding truck.

The police cruiser was in collision with another car at an east-end intersection. Witnesses said the police car went through a red light.

C of C Directors Of Neutral Mind On PO Location

Contrary to the inference, which may have been gathered as result of Saturday's story in the Ontario Intelligencer regarding the rumor of the possibility of a new post office being built in Belleville, directors of the local Chamber of Commerce have a neutral mind as to where its location should be.

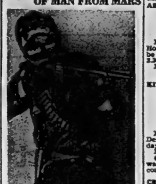
This was pointed out today by Secretary Manager Lloyd Henderson, who noted that the primary purpose of the telegram, forwarded to Prime Minister, Rt. Hon. R. H. Winters, was to confirm whether a new post office building was to be built in the city.

Directors of the Chamber have not expressed any official approval or disapproval of any suggested site for the new building," Mr. Kingdon noted.

Lou Diamond's
Life as Marine
To Be Televised

The life of Leland "Lou" Diamond, United States Marine, and brother of Herbert Diamond of Belleville, will be televised by the DuPont Company of New York and the first film, "Cavalcade of America" will be shown, featuring the part of the late Marine, will be shown over WFIL-TV, channel 10, tonight at 7.00 p.m.

They will talk about Lou Diamond, the Marine who refused to quit. Despite his age, his rheumatism and Corps regulations, the tough old Master Gunnery Sergeant led his men into combat at Guadalcanal. Later he searched the South Pacific to rejoin his outfit after he had been hospitalized. The film is a story of courage that always will inspire every man who is "Proud to Bear the Title of United States Marine."



The late Mr. Diamond was born in the United States and served 20 years and six months with the U.S. Marines. He was a frequent visitor to this city to visit with his brother and other relatives.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) —The stock market stepped ahead today with gains ranging to more than $2. Trading was the heaviest in two months.

The ticker tape lagged behind floor sales as much as seven minutes in morning trade with fast dealings in lower-priced mines, but the pace eased a little in the afternoon.

Trading up to 1 p. m. EST totalled 4,423,000 shares, heaviest since Nov. 4 when 4,718,000 were exchanged.

Papers, steels, foods, liquors, refining oils and manufacturers led industrial strength. Most gains were fractions but a dozen issues were ahead $1 or more at 1 p. m. including Algoma, Aluminium, Canadian Cancers, Canadian Celanese, Alcan, Dominion Stores, Ford A, General Dynamics, General Motors and Powell River.

Gridoil was ahead 60 cents in western oils and Canadian Williston, Central Leduc, Great Sweet Grass, Home Oil and Sapphire were strong. Teck-Hughes touched $4.60 in golds and Preston climbed 15 cents.

Active and strong among low-priced mines was Consolidated Denison touching $3.13.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP)—Trade on all classes and grades of slaughter cattle were very slow except for feel yearlings and bulls today at the Ontario stockyards.

Heavy offerings of steers and heifers met a very narrow demand with sales generally too few to establish a trend. Good steers were 50 cents to $1 lower but canners and cutters were steady.

Bulls were in broad demand while replacement cattle met a very narrow demand. Receipts: cattle 3,613 (including 725 western); calves 305; hogs 180; sheep and lambs 100; holdover 350 cattle.

Prices: Choice steers, all weights 21; good steers 19-20; medium 16-18; common 12-16; good heifers 17-18; medium 14-16; common 13-14; boner steers and heifers 8-12; choice fed yearlings at 23-25; good fed yearlings 22-23; medium 18-21; good cows generally 11; a few at 11.50; light heifer cows 10 13; canners and cutters down to 6; good beef bologna bulls 13-13.50; butcher bulls 14; common down to 10.

Replacement cattle: A few small lots of good stockers 17.50-18.50.

Calves were generally steady at 34-36; a few extreme tops at 37; mediums 16-23; commons 10-15.

Hog prices were unchanged.

Lambs were firm at 23 for good ewes and wethers; bucks were discounted $1 a hundredweight; medium lambs 18-22; commons 12-17; good shorn 8-10; heavies 5-7; commons 3-5.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged here today.

The egg market was barely steady with offerings in excess of a poor demand.

Quotations provided by the Dominion department of agriculture: Eggs, grade A in fibre cases: A large 34½; A medium 30½; A small 27; A pullet 25½. Wholesale to retail: A large 39½; A medium 35½; A small 30-32; B 34; C 30.

Butter solids: Out., first grade 61-61¼ (nominal).

Hamilton News Will Publish Afternoon Paper

HAMILTON (CP)—Andrew Peller, publisher of the morning Hamilton Daily News, announced Saturday he will also publish an afternoon newspaper starting Jan. 31.

Mr. Peller, president of Peller Publishing Ltd., said the new paper will be called the Evening Daily News. The city's other daily is the Hamilton Spectator, an evening paper.

The Hamilton Daily News was first published last Sept. 27 and replaced the thrice-weekly Hamilton News. Both newspapers will be published at the Daily News building on Jackson street east in downtown Hamilton.

Northern Electric Hockey League

The Barons qualified for the league finals over the week-end by handing the Hornets an 8-3 defeat, thus winning their semi-final series two games to none. The Indians and Flyers played to a 4-4 tie and will tangle again next week-end with the winners meeting the Barons for the championship.

Kirkconnell and Woodley paced the Barons attack with two goals and two assists each while Jones, Wetherall and MacDonald had a goal and assist apiece. Fiperal assisted on one goal. Philp and Lodge scored for the Hornets with Smith assisting on both goals and James helping on one.

The first game was won by Barrett with three goals and one assist while Wardaugh scored once and helped on another. Morin picked up two assists while Hurst set up one goal. Ed. Bevins netted a pair for the Indians with Wright and J. Bevins scoring one and one. Totten drew two assist.

The first game was very clean with only a penalty handed out but the Indian-Flyer fixture saw six penalties. Bevins and Hurst had majors for fighting with D. Semple getting a major and minors. Ivy, Wardaugh and B. Hurst received penalties.

JAPS NOT PLEASED

TOKYO (AP) — Two Japanese fishing organizations have asked the government for $5,700,000 in damages allegedly stemming from the United States H-bomb explosion March 1 at Bikini atoll. The Japan Bonito and Tuna Fishing Industry Assn. and the Fishermen's Union expressed dissatisfaction with the $2,000,000 settlement accepted by Japan from the United States last Tuesday.

AVM Larry Wray To Take Over New Command

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Air Vice-Marshal Lawrence (Larry) Wray sailed for Canada last week to take over the RCAF's air defence command at St. Hubert, Quebec. The 48-year-old officer sailed aboard the Queen Elizabeth with his wife, Audrey, formerly of Winnipeg, and their three children, Sherrill, 13; Daphne, 12, and Roberta, 8. AVM Wray, who joined the RCAF in 1930, has just completed a year's course at the Imperial Defence College in London. He was awarded the Order of the British Empire for outstanding service while a German prisoner during World War II.

It is expected he will arrive in New York today.

Air Vice-Marshal Wray is a son of Mr. Bob Wray, proprietor of Wray's Home Furnishers, of Belleville. He spent his early life in the city where he received his education and eventually went into the RCAF.

Driver Injured When Dump Truck Is Overturned

TRENTON, (Special.) —Keith Menzie, 27, 131 Leopold Street, Trenton, a truck driver with Van Dusen Construction Co., escaped injury this morning, when his dump truck overturned in an excavation at the Godin subdivision in the town's west end, south of No. 2 highway.

The truck turned completely over with its wheels in the air as it fell into an excavation for a house. Menzie crawled from the cab unhurt. The box on the truck was crushed. Gasoline spilled from the truck's tank but did not catch fire.

A crane working on the subdivision site tried unsuccessfully to raise the truck. A second crane was called for before it was uprighted.

All Airports In Costa Rica Under Guard

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (Reuters) All airports and strategic points in this tiny Central American republic were under heavy guard today in face of fears of invasion from across the Nicaraguan border.

The cabinet and general staff are in permanent session, and thousands of volunteer reservists have been mobilized to reinforce the 3,000 strong civil guard, recently re-armed with $200,000 worth of U. S. machine-guns, mortars and bazookas.

The Organization of American States meets in Washington today to debate Costa Rica's charges that about 600 "rebels," backed by Nicaragua's President Anastasio Somoza, are poised on the border to attack her.

Costa Rica charges that Somoza is deliberately trying to help the armed overthrow of the Costa Rican government, and that the plan is to land the rebels by air in remote parts of Costa Rica to make the invasion appear a local uprising.

The rebels are said to be mostly followers of former president Calderon Guardia, who went into exile in Nicaragua after Figueres defeated him in a revolution in 1948, augmented by international adventurers.

Mercy Mission Near Its End

WINNIPEG (CP) — A RCAF mercy mission to the Arctic to bring a sick Eskimo child to Winnipeg is expected to be completed sometime today.

The ski-equipped Dakota landed at Admiralty Inlet Saturday night and evacuated the child from Arctic bay, Baffin Island. The child was taken to Resolute bay and the party was scheduled to reach Churchill at 5 p.m. EST Sunday.

The child, ill with appendicitis, was to stay in the Churchill hospital overnight. The child will be operated on at the St. Boniface Hospital.

The plane, piloted by Sqdn. Ldr. W. H. Nichol of Toronto, officer commanding III Communications and Rescue Flight, Winnipeg, also carried another Eskimo girl back to her home at Arctic bay. Miss Ekilaluk had been receiving treatment at the Brandon sanitarium.

Ford and Union Said Working On Few New Ideas

TORONTO (CP)—A week of secret contract negotiations between Ford of Canada and the United Automobile Workers (CIO-CCL) has produced both optimistic and pessimistic reports on the chances of settling the long Ford strike.

The two sides met Sunday for less than five minutes before adjourning. Emil Mazey, international secretary-treasurer of the union, said the early recess would give company and the union time "to work on a few new ideas" running through them.

Negotiators will meet again today. The meetings have been arranged on a day-to-day basis with the next day's session being prepared as each day ends.

Negotiations were interrupted for an hour Saturday while company representatives withdrew from the bargaining room. Observers said this indicated a possible reappraisal of the company position or the consideration of a new proposal.

NOT OPTIMISTIC

However, at Windsor, John Edgeau UAW international vice-president was not quite so optimistic. He said: "The Ford dispute is no closer to settlement than it was a year ago, or on Oct. 10 when the strike began." Mr. Edgeau said talks have got "nowhere."

Seniority appears to be the immediate obstacle facing the two sides in the strike, now in its 92nd day. Mr. Edgeau said at Windsor: "We haven't even started to talk about economic demands yet, and we've been stuck on the question of seniority. Either the Ford company is going to give in, or we are."

The company has demanded a revised seniority plan on layoffs which the union has opposed.

Surface Journey Across Antarctic Being Planned

AUCKLAND (Reuters) — Plans for a joint British and New Zealand surface expedition across Antarctic are now before the chiefs of both countries, Sir Edmund Hillary or George Low, another member of the Everest expedition —may be on the Antarctica icecap this year or early next year, he said.

Dr. Fuils said the New Zealanders would lay bases for the British team, which would trek from one side of Antarctica to the other in motorized surface vehicles, and link up with the British New Zealand party possibly on the polar plateau.

Ontario's Prisons Fast Approaching Limits of Inmates

TORONTO (CP)—A warning that Ontario prisons are fast approaching their limit in handling the growing number of lawbreakers came from York county Sheriff Lorne Cumming and County Judge J. D. Conover Sunday night.

The warning was touched off by a near crisis at Toronto's Don jail over the weekend. The crisis was averted only by an emergency transfer of 54 prisoners to other institutions Saturday to make room for more than 100 weekend committals.

Sheriff Conover said provincial institutions already overcrowded could not handle extra overflows. Transfer of prisoners to county jails was satisfactory because extra guards were needed.

The fact that numbers are swelled on weekends by persons arrested for minor offences.

Suggests Resignation

TORONTO (CP)—Alderman Allan Grossman Sunday night suggested that Toronto Transit Commissioner Allan Lamport should resign to let metropolitan Toronto council pass judgment on the job he has been doing.

Mr. Grossman, whose ward includes Toronto island, was critical of Mr. Lamport's attitude toward island fares and residents.

The ferry service linking the island with the mainland were increased recently to 30 cents from 25 cents a person. Residents objected.

VETERAN WORKERS

LONDON (CP)—Eighteen men, who among them have a total of 1,000 years' service with the firm, will share a gift of $1,000 from a London paint factory. One of them, Albert Rivet, joined as a junior clerk 60 years ago, and now is a director.

Earl Spafford Arrested For Colborne Theft

HAMILTON (CP)—The Spaffords aren't over their troubles yet.

They returned from Quebec Saturday where they had spent the Christmas season in jail because they had no money. The head of the family then was arrested for breaking, entering and theft.

Earl Spafford, 44, was charged with breaking into the Colborne Public Utilities Building and stealing copper wire worth $35 while en route to New Brunswick. Colborne is 25 miles west of Belleville.

Sgt. Rodolphe Desprez of the Quebec Provincial Police drove the family's six 500 miles from Montmagny, Que., to their home in nearby Fruitland after the Spafford's car was wrecked in a crash at Montmagny, 40 miles east of Quebec.

Earl, his wife, Marge, 34, their three children, Joan, 11, Jim, 8, Harold, five months, and Earl's brother, George, 24, left Fruitland last December for Campbellton, N.B., where the men thought they could get jobs as lumberjacks. They never reached their destination.

First their money ran out and then their car broke down at Beaumont and Levis near Quebec City. Police and residents collected money and even furnished car parts to send them on.

CAR WRECKED

Then at Montmagny, their car was wrecked. They were all treated at hospital for minor injuries. After being released they were sheltered in county jail by the Quebec attorney-general's department while Ontario welfare services were contacted for arrangements to take them home. Baby Harold was kept at a nursery.

Spafford was taken to Colborne Sunday night where he will face the breaking, entering and theft charge.

The correct spelling of the family name is Spafford, not Stafford, as in earlier reports.

U. S. COAL FOR ITALY

ROME (AP)—The United States and Italy agreed Friday on a new trade pact which will send American coal to Italy in exchange for Italian-made goods. Amounts of coal and goods involved were not disclosed.

UNNECESSARY COMPETITION

The Canadian cheddar cheese industry, which voluntarily absorbed a $450,000 loss in November 1953 in order to better its marketing position, is now faced with the unnecessary competition of 3,250,000 pounds of New Zealand cheddar.

Canada's cheddar cheese industry, centred in Ontario and principally in eastern Ontario, has been faced with an extremely difficult marketing problem for the past five years. Restrictions imposed on the importation of Canadian cheddar by the British government which refused to allocate sterling for its purchase closed the cheddar industry's chief export market. Decreasing quotas for Canadian cheddar in the United States and increasing competition for the potential British market by European producers presented a bleak picture.

In November 1953 the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association had a chance to dispose of 1,000,000 pounds sterling worth of cheese in the British market if it would accept the Food Ministry's price. The chance to reduce stocks in Canada and the possibility of gaining a toehold in the cheese market in Britain if, and when, private companies were allowed to buy cheese again, prompted the Cheese Producers to accept the offer at a loss to themselves of $450,000.

In 1953 their decision was hailed as enlightened self interest in a long range plan for bettering the cheese industry as a whole.

Now dairy and cheese producers are thanked for their efforts by the importation of 2,250,000 pounds of New Zealand cheddar. A plan to provide New Zealand with dollars for the purchase of manufactured goods, is given as the reason for the government's decision to allow importation of this cheddar.

W. O. Coon, president of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association, in a statement on December 1st, 1954, there were 46,000,000 pounds of cheddar in storage in Canada, a million pounds more than at the same time in 1953.

The cheddar cheese industry of Canada has always accepted competition from specialized cheese from foreign countries. In view of the extremely severe restrictions that have been placed on producers in their efforts to sell their products abroad, and considering the effort and cost of their self-help program, the importation of New Zealand cheddar is an unnecessary and unwarranted hardship.

NEW COLOR PROBLEM

Life is continually getting more complicated.

This is a process we all deplore, when the complications are geared to our own personal concerns, but there are occasions when we all derive considerable enjoyment contemplating other people's complications.

There is even times when anticipation can be a bigger thrill than realization.

We fear, however, that full use will not be made of the opportunities presented in the latest linkerings. It is said that, by juggling his hormones, man may yet be able to change the color of his skin at will.

It is easy to recognize what devastating demonstrations it will be possible to stage against apartheid in South Africa and Jim Crow laws in the southern states.

We wonder, though, whether any pretty blonde will stamp her foot and turn as black as the ace of spades, to the acute embarrassment of her escort, if he flirts with a redhead? Will Junior, recognizing an opportunity as his mother entertains her new neighbors among the magnolias, bound out into the kitchen and demand two hunks of lemon pie to ward off a personal appearance as a pickaninny. Policemen, chasing a bank robber who started out as a redhead, might find themselves hunting a Chinaman in Chinatown, a sun-tanned bather along the lakeshore, a pink and white office worker and a pasty-faced habitue of the beer parlors, all without any change in the real identity of the culprit.

A blush could be hidden by even the most modest maiden, the coward would never blanch with fear, the choleric could disperse the flush of anger.

OTTAWA—RESTING PLACE FOR FOSSILS

The National Museum at Ottawa, apparently overstocked with dinosaur bones, has offered the University of Western Ontario a duck-billed dinosaur, 50 feet long and more than 100,000,000 years old from its surplus. The university, in some embarrassment, says it has no building to house the bones.

The Ottawa Journal, in commenting on the discovery of yet another dinosaur in Alberta says, "If people keep digging up dinosaur bones and shipping them to Ottawa this town will become as fabled as the African elephant graveyard—not the sort of reputation Ottawa wants."

The Journal's concern lest Ottawa become merely an anthropological boneyard is commendable. But many of the rest of us have the conviction that not all the fossils in the capital are dinosaur fragments.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

JANUARY 19th, 1935

Ex-Mayor James B. Walmsley is today celebrating the 51st anniversary of his birth and throughout the day he received congratulations and expressions of good wishes from many friends. The fact that it was his birthday did not keep him away from looking after his municipal business as usual at his office on Bridge Street East, and it was here that many friends found him to offer congratulations. Mr. Walmsley served as an alderman during the years 1921, 1922 and 1923 and the following year he was elected to a capable manner the office of mayor. He is a member of the Tabernacle Church and has been for many years active in the choir of the congregation, being secretary for a considerable time and at present is the assistant superintendent of the Sunday School, a post which he has held for many years. He is a member of The Belleville Lodge, No. 123, A.F. and A.M., and Belleville Lodge, No. 81, I.O.O.F., and Canton Belleville, No. 1.

Cliff Baragar, the newly-elected president of the Kiwanis Club, presided for the first time at the weekly luncheon meeting on Tuesday and he was greeted by a large attendance of the members. The speaker for the day was the Rev. W. J. Walker, the recently appointed minister at St. Andrew's Presbyterian church; his subject was "Conditions in Europe."

Mr. Clarence Clapp, of this city, has been appointed car license inspector for the department of Highways in the Ontario area.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Near five o'clock in the afternoon, I came in my car along a side-street that is the home of this city's main thoroughfares. It was packed stiff with home-going traffic.

I did not want to cross. All I wanted to do was get into the stream, and go the way it was going.

But with an insect-like determination, the drivers of all the cars kept right on the tails of the cars ahead. Because of a stop light up the street a way, the procession had to slow down and halt every two minutes. But did anyone slow down enough to allow me to edge out into the stream?

Behind me, two and then three, four and five cars joined my small contingent. They began tooting their horns at me, to get ahead and pull my way into the stream.

I edged ahead, half hurting. All the insects did was grip, with more malice, their position on the tails of the cars in front.

Then, after at least forty or sixty cars had passed, one at last paused, during one of the slow-downs, and the driver waved us in. Behind him a few cars tooted indignantly at this flouting of the law of the jungle or the nut hill.

My passenger, a schoolmaster, was delighted.

"He," said he, "should have a sign on his windshield, indicating that he is a business being, perhaps, all the motor leagues and AAA's and public relations bodies ought to organize a special society of courtesy, and give the members a large star or a red medal or a rose, maybe, to paste conspicuously on their windshields. We would be able to recognize them, and with a tout of our horn, and a wave of the hand, thank for the courtesy of crossing in front of them or being allowed to enter a traffic stream."

I bet such an association of courtesy would be a great success. It would allow of distinction between humanity and the beetles.

Peaceful Parade

(Charlottetown Guardian)

In County Tyrone what it was? The Ulster minister of home affairs says of a recent gathering: "After the disturbance was quelled the police collected 225 wooden clubs varying in length from one foot, eight inches, to three feet, three inches, and a dozen steel car springs, bars and bolts." Yet it is suggested that the procession was organized with peaceful intentions!

Letter to the Editor

Sand With Salt in It Needed on Sidewalks

Editor,
The Ontario Intelligencer:

Congratulations on your editorial "Slide, Grandma, Slide." I think it speaks for almost every adult in our slippery abode. I note that our public works department has had a great time on most of our side streets today (Friday), with one notable and successful spreader, but tell me, have they stopped manufacturing that white stuff, known as salt? The sand was a quarter of an inch deep on one of our main hills earlier this evening, yet cars were finding it impossible to negotiate any more than half the way up the grade. Last night (Friday) I noted this particular hill has finally had an application of something in the salt family — something it should have received a couple of days ago. Or was it one of the land owners bordering the hill, who, being ashamed of their small estate we enjoy, went downtown and bought a bag of salt and put it on the hill just to show his appreciation for living in the "Friendly City"?

Do you know, sir, how your paper's carrier boy skated on the sidewalk in front of my home last night? Let me tell you that your carrier boy skated on the sidewalk on his delivery route. I know this sounds fantastic, out of the box, but I am sure that our area have received one very light application of sand this year and I am sure that those quilties they call "sidewalk plowers" up here can't be blamed for it, as we all do, in pinching pennies, but I think it's got to the point in this area where the taxpayers and landowners have got to receive a little more for their tax dollars back in the form of service or one of these days there is going to be a lot of trouble out of this town.

We have a new council holding its first business meeting next week. I can really going to council meetings next year and being insulted on two or three occasions for my efforts. I'll let you tell you, Mr. Editor, if the public in this town was satisfied and was given a little more consideration I don't think you'd have to bring any more slides to the council chambers to accommodate the crowds.

I hope it would take a lot of money to sand and salt every sidewalk in town but I guess we'll mess my wife and me working 353 days of the year to pay our mortgage and taxes and I think the least we could get in return is for or five days a week of sand with salt in it on the sidewalk in front of our home.

"Sandy."

More Gallant In Canada

(The Prized Word)

A man in Denver, Colorado, has stated that he was driving his car with one arm about a female companion. That was not all. He also stated that was his wife and how much stiller could an automobile travel if he had to oppose that a man would drive a car with one arm about his own wife.

The judge said that the man had a good point and dismissed the case. Which took place in Canada, some years ago. The man in this case was fined $10 and costs, as they drove along. He pleaded guilty to driving-while-using circumstances. He said his wife and he were on their way home after a small celebration of their tenth wedding anniversary and that he was driving very slowly at the time.

The magistrate brooded a short while and then suspended sentence, commenting that he could not find it in his heart to punish them although "it may have been injudicious of the couple to celebrate or recapture the first fine careless rapture in the place and manner described.

Strength for the Day

WARMTH OF FELLOWSHIP

Several months ago we went to a football game and for fifteen minutes last night we stood around shivering in the stadium. We were quite sure that by the time the sun went down that we should be chilled. But we were not. The stadium filled up and we soon experienced a wonderful feeling of warmth. Hundreds of persons sitting about us radiated sufficient warmth from their bodies to make a real difference in the temperature.

The majesty of the ocean, the splendor of the sky, the imposing grandeur of mountains and such things do not make a world. The warmth and comfort of the people who live on the planet.

Some people have the idea that they can be happy without the company of others. They because they long to an exclusive little social set, and look with contempt upon the rest of the world. It may be that they burrow into business or into some profession and withdraw and let the world sweep by unnoticed. Hitch nuts and scholars especially like to withdraw themselves. Young people sometimes withdraw themselves this way because of shyness. They imagine the world is cold—which it is. But it is cold because they are sitting out in the stadium by themselves.

There is no remedies for mental depression is to get out with others. Feeling somewhat the warmth of their heartbeats and the

Give Antennas Eye Appeal

(Wall Street Journal)

If you're tired of living in a tangled forest of television antennas — or if you disapprove of what your antenna does to the lines of your house-learn to be dreamy rising from drawing boards.

An antenna, for instance, that will be nearly invisible — because it'll stretch along the lines of the house eaves. Or a highly visible one with a series of colored circles set to resemble the orbits of the stars or popular representations of the electrons in the atom.

More antennas may resemble the prow of a sleek cruiser or a bird cage, and still others might follow the lines of the chimney, looking like delicate decorative touches.

None of these fancy antennas are on the market yet, although three or four of them are planned for introduction during 1955.

This Butter Widely Spread

(Philadelphia Inquirer)

If you don't think 290 million pounds of butter is going to be a lot of territory, you've got a big surprise coming.

Uncle Sam, who bought 290 million pounds of butter trying to keep butter prices high, is now trying to unload. And thanks to the new program of Agriculture Secretary Benson, the government is now disposing of more butter than it is buying. Joju.

Trouble is, in getting rid of the butter abroad, Germany, as bad, the Government — which means the taxpayers—is in for a licking. Count on it. Count on it.

Consider: Some United States butter is being peddled at 23 cents a pound in Germany. Japan is using United States butter to make fishing bait. Pakistan is melting United States butter into oil to use for cooking, instead of buffalo fat.

Eighty-five million pounds are now being distributed through welfare agencies which will distribute it to Korea, Germany, Trieste, Jordan, Korea, Austria and other countries. Still more is being sold to the Army, American school children, welfare institutions and the unemployed. And 17,000 pounds, gift-wrapped in one-pound packages, is going to Germans at Christmas as "CARE" packages.

Result: Uncle Sam is expected to lose about half a billion dollars before he gets clear of the butter problem. That's about what it cost him to unload the famous potato-hoarding fiasco. So far, all his price-propping schemes have cost $3,500,000,000.

Dairy Farmers Advertise

(Boston Post)

The dairy farmers of northern New England — more than 19,000 of them — have begun a drive to spread healthy cheer by giving away around bleating like a lost heifer to the Federal Government to haul them out of a slough. They got a good hard cash — $170,000 in 1953 and $195,000 in 1954 — from Uncle Sap to spend next year to increase milk consumption in New England.

And their secrets seem to help in their campaign. How many glasses of milk do you and your family drink each day? Well, make it three. Or four. And you have "nutritional" problem licked, and have helped yourself to health.

Three glasses, we figure, is all you need, and an important segment of New England's economy will be restored.

Bear Disputes Hunter's View

(Brockville Recorder and Times)

A hunter in the Peterborough area prognosticates a short winter this year. He presents his case on a bear which came out of hibernation in this month of January. Instead of sneezing in the usual mouth of February. We submit this as another year's reason here may be faulty.

We have been reliably informed by bears themselves that they often come out of hibernation to feed on the branch of winter to seeing what hunters are doing. According to some of the more knowledgeable bears in our ken, maintenance the sight of a hunter out in January instead of February prognosticates a long winter. Who's right here?

Gets Training In Finance

(Fort William Times-Journal)

A girl of seven presented herself at the teller's cage and paming a dollar bill asked for change in nickels. She got the change in nickels to a table, counted them, brought them back to the teller and asked for dimes, instead of the nickels. The dimes she took to the table and counted them. Then she went back and asked for quarters in place of the dimes.

When the puzzled teller asked her what she was doing, she said: "Learning to take care of money." On the other hand, the cynic might suggest she was getting an early training in one trait of her sex—that of changing her mind.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

KEEP GOING

I came across an interesting article about a group of "ripe old doctors" who were interviewed as to the greatest factor in their happy old age. The youngest in the group was 83 and the oldest 102. Dr. Cummings of Fort Worth, Tex., age 96, had this to say: "Go when you feel like it, but keep going. When you feel like it, but keep going!" Dr. M. Warren Gates, Chicago, said just now -91, still practises after 65 years, and goes to his office every day. He has helped to smile the world by delivering around 1,200 babies.

All those physicians interviewed had about the same philosophy of life, which was to keep going, to keep looking forward, and being useful. One said: "Carry on, and you will live longer." That's about it. Keep on doing worthwhile things planning, and stop being ambitious to do good, in the words of the late Carrie Jacobs, we "begin to fall apart".

Long life is promised to those with "a slow heart that doesn't wear itself out." One doctor said: "All my friends have a heart that is doesn't run the motor fast." It's the pause, and not the use, that refreshes of our heart that is important.

EAGERLY AWAITING INTRODUCTION TO LIFE AT SEA

Seen boarding the HMCS Ontario at Esquimalt, B.C. cadets J. F. McCurdy, left, Montgomery, Ala.; T. Losey, Ottawa; D. G. Perrault, Montreal, and R. W. Rogers, Oxbow, Sask., appear happy about the prospects of visiting foreign places and their first introduction to life at sea. They shared same feeling as 75 other Venture naval cadets who were on board the training cruiser when she sailed from Esquimalt on a three-month cruise to Australia, New Zealand and the Hawaiian and Fiji Islands. Arranged solely for the purpose of training of naval cadets at sea, the cruise is the first to be carried out since HMCS Venture, officer training establishment, opened at Esquimalt, BC, last September. A similar number of cadets have remained behind at HMCS Centure to continue their studies and will board the Ontario for a training cruise subsequent to her return April 3, to Esquimalt.—Canadian Press Cadian.

McCarthy's Trip Has Postponed Probe of Peress

WASHINGTON (AP)—An unexpected trip by Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep, Wis.) has put off at least until Wednesday—and probably until Democrats take control of the sub - committee he has headed—any further investigation of Irving Peress' discharge from the army.

McCarthy had called a special meeting of the Senate investigations subcommittee for today, saying he would demand further testimony from army officials about who was responsible for the promotion to major and honorable discharge of Peress, a New York dentist he has called a fifth-amendment Communist.

But he left Washington Sunday night saying nothing about where or why he was going. He told an associate he would be back probably on Wednesday.

REPLACEMENT NEAR

Senate sources have indicated that new committee lists for the Democratic - controlled Congress probably will be complete by Tuesday or Wednesday. When that happens, and the Senate approves them, Senator John McClellan (Dem, Ark.) will take over McCarthy's position as sub-committee chairman.

McCarthy's announcement of the closed committee session came as a follow-up to the release of a new 10,000-word army report on its handling of Peress.

At his own request, Peress was honorably discharged last Feb. 2, in a letter to the army last Feb. 1 McCarthy had requested that court - martial proceedings be brought against him.

DECIDED EVIDENCE LACKING

The report released by the army Friday said the decision to let Peress receive his honorable discharge Feb. 2 was made by Lt.-Gen. Walter L. Wible and army counselor John G. Adams after they discussed McCarthy's letter.

The army said Wible and Adams decided there was no evidence "to support the inference contained in Sen. McCarthy's letter as to possible subversive activities by Peress at Camp Kilmer" and so no basis for reconsidering the case.

Jack Guest, Jr. To Be Honored By University

TORONTO (CP) — Jack Guest Jr., son of a Diamond Sculls winner and once a Sculls contender, will be honored Jan. 15 by the University of Pennsylvania.

The 22-year-old Toronto youth, considered Canada's best Olympic rowing prospect in 1952, will be one of four university seniors to receive student awards of merit during Founder's Day ceremonies.

Guest didn't make the Olympics. He was forced to retire from singles rowing in 1952 over a spinal condition. He came back in the fall of 1952 when he rowed on his class crew. Last year he stroked the Varsity crew. He will receive the award in recognition of his leadership in undergraduate activities at the university.

Appeal Board Denies Income Tax Deduction

OTTAWA (CP)—The income tax appeal board has denied as an income tax deduction $27,789 which an unidentified contracting firm said it spent in 1951 for renovation of a country home where government officials were entertained prior to negotiations about contracts.

In a judgment denying the company's appeal—heard in camera—and made public Saturday, board member W. S. Fisher commented: "I express no opinion as to why it should be necessary to entertain public officials in order to obtain contracts for work to be done for the benefit of public bodies, but apparently the appellant—and, no doubt its competitors—have found that such entertainment has been not only necessary but also beneficial from a business point of view."

The written judgment did not disclose the identity of the appealing company or its location. It said the appealing company controlled 95 per cent of the shares of a subsidiary company which was the actual operating company and entered into construction contracts almost exclusively with federal, provincial and municipal government bodies.

Mendes-France Switches From Milk to Wine

POSITANO, Italy (Reuters)—The residents of this resort town claimed Saturday night they have switched French Premier Pierre Mendes-France from milk to wine.

They excitedly pointed out that the premier had a big glass of the red Naples wine with his lunch Saturday. And Friday night he drank a glass of wine diluted with mineral water although wine drinkers mourned that this "hopelessly spoiled the taste."

Positano villagers reacted with annoyance, though, when it was faintly suggested that the real reason the premier sipped wine was that he found the local milk unpalatable.

Christ Church A.B.W.A. Elects 1955 Officers

The January meeting of the Afternoon Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary of Christ Church, took the form of a pot-luck luncheon at one o'clock Thursday, followed by a business session. There were some 30 members and friends who enjoyed a plentiful repast.

The guest speaker, the Rev. Keith Dandel, of Wilton, a Baptist church, was introduced by the president, Mrs. D. Stewart. Mr. Dandel thought perhaps it would be a good idea to tell the members something about the Baptist church, and its work, and proceeded to give an informative and interesting talk, edged with amusing incidents, of the history, and missionary work of his church.

Mrs. W. Kempston, on behalf of the members of the W.A., thanked Mr. Dandel for taking time from his own work to come and address this gathering.

After lunch, the members met to receive the annual reports from the various departments, followed by the election of officers for the following year. The rector, Archdeacon J. R. Creegan, congratulated the W.A. on their successful year, and thanked the members for their co-operation.

1955 OFFICERS

The following are the officers for the year 1955—hon. president, Mrs. J. B. Creegan; president, Mrs. R. H. Godden; vice-president, Mrs. H. Pitt; secretary, Mrs. J. Wilbert; treasurer, Mrs. W. Kempston; Extra-cent-a-day treasurer, Mrs. J. Chapman; Dorcas secretary, Miss Ayling; assistant Dorcas, Mrs. H. Wright; Living Message secretary, Mrs. C. Leggat; flower fund secretary, Mrs. C. A. L. Carter; refreshment convener, Mrs. D. A. Pierson; press secretary, Mrs. D. Stewart; representative to Vestry Council, Mrs. R. H. Godden.

Bridge St. W.M.S. Elects Officers

The regular meeting of Bridge Street United church W.M.S., on January 6th was in the form of a pot-luck luncheon. Mrs. Ryan welcomed the members and guests, quoting in her remarks, that in every week there should be two days without worry—yesterday and tomorrow.

The secretary, Mrs. Adsett, gave a sketch of the December meeting; other reports followed. A splendid report from the Mission Band was given by Mrs. Patterson.

In her annual report, Mrs. Adsett graphically presented the highlights of 1954.

A gratifying statement of amounts raised in the past year was read by the treasurer, Mrs. Countryman. Mrs. Adsett spoke on Christian Stewardship, voiced sincere gratitude to the executive and to all the 104 Auxiliary members, who assisted so ably.

Mrs. Farnsworth spoke on "Christian Citizenship" telling how it links up with the Programme of work. Mrs. Massey, Mrs. Meyers, Mrs. Fetterley, Mrs. Tice, Mrs. Dulmage and Mrs. Broad, spoke briefly on the work of their departments.

1955 OFFICERS

Mrs. W. H. Finkle read the slate of 1955 officers: past president, Mrs. C. L. Hyde; president, Mrs. E. S. Denyes; 1st vice-president, Mrs. F. C. Adsett; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Hudgins; 3rd vice-president, Mrs. Howie; recording secretary, Mrs. J. E. McArthur; treasurer, Mrs. Countryman; associated members' secretary, Mrs. A. Curry; supply secretary, Mrs. Myers; Missionary Monthly secretary, Mrs. Hurlbut; card secretary, Mrs. C. Massey; literature secretary, Mrs. Schryver; correspondence secretary, Mrs. R. Dulmage; Christian Stewardship secretary, Mrs. H. M. Ross; Christian Friendship secretary, Mrs. C. L. Hyde; Christian Citizenship secretary, Farnsworth; Mission Band supt., Mrs. R. M. Patterson; supt. G.C.I.T., Mrs. F. E. Burrows; nominating committee, Meadames Hyde, Fetterley and Richardson, Mrs. A. E. May; group leaders: Mrs. A. E. May, Mrs. C. G. Crook, Mrs. G. Anderson, Mrs. S. M. Gilmour, Mrs. W. H. Finkle, Miss M. Young, Mrs. T. Franklin, Mrs. W. Burnett, Mrs. H. Twiddy, Mrs. M. Hiles, Mrs. F. E. Houston, Mrs. W. A. Campbell, Mrs. C. W. Howie, Mrs. Tugnett, Mrs. H. A. Richardson, Mrs. C. B. Morgan.

Rev. R. M. Davis conducted the installation of officers.

On accepting her new role as president, Mrs. Denyes, thanked the members and said, "mum" is a slogan he "each one win one" and look forward to a year of achievement."

The pastor spoke on the work of the Kingdom. "We should be encouraged that we can have some small part in the work," he said.

Referring to such countries as India and Africa, he added, "much is being accomplished along educational, agricultural and other lines."

Speaking of the political situation in India, Rev. Davis referred to Dr. Masih saying, "No matter what happens now, nothing can uproot the Christian church in India. Even should Christian leaders have to come home, it would not seriously affect the Christian church, as roots have been set deep and spread firmly."

A pleasing note was added when Mrs. Hyde was called forward. Mrs. Howie tendered grateful appreciation for Mrs. Hyde's unalinted service and presented her with a leather bag, on behalf of Bridge Street auxiliary.

Exhibition Work Gets in Blood Says Miss Hall

REGINA (CP)—Amy E. Hall says fairs and exhibition work "gets in the blood."

Miss Hall has retired as treasurer of the Regina Exhibition Association after 40 years in the business. She says she enjoyed every year of it, particularly in meeting the many people with whom her work brought her in contact.

Born in Toronto, she has been a westerner for many years. After her family moved to Calgary, she was employed with the Calgary Exhibition and Stampede, and was secretary to the manager, the late E. L. Richardson, whose name was a byword in Canadian exhibition circles.

One of the highlights in her life in Calgary was arranging details for an outdoor concert when the British film star Gracie Fields made her first tour of Canada. She came to Regina in 1945.

HARD WORKER

Miss Hall is a small person but gives the impression of tremendous energy and determination. She says her work took most of her time and energy. She estimates the average exhibition worker "puts in 13 months in a year." Work is particularly strenuous during summer and winter fairs when three hours' sleep is standard.

Miss Hall found time to take part in other activities. She is a former president of the Calgary branch of the Business and Professional Women's Club and kept up her affiliation with the Regina branch. She is active in other Regina women's organizations.

Miss Hall says she feels certain it will be exciting to get used to leisure after a busy career. She intends to remain in Regina but will also do some travelling.

However, she intends to be on hand when the Regina jubilee exhibition rolls around next summer. "This year I'm really going to see the fair," she says.

Fashion Flashes

Just a look at current collections for early spring and resort wear shows the importance of the floral print. Belle of the shantung makes a pretty, long-torso cocktail dress with a large rose print in lingerie effect in apricot-pink shaded through to deeper pink.

There's a gleam these nights and it's due to so much satin in the form of dresses, theatre coats and pretty hats. Brocaded white satin makes a grand party frock, for north or south. It has a molded, unbelted middle above a V-neck top and the skirt is softly full. Bracelets of white fox encircle the short sleeves.

CENTRE - VICTORIA - REDNERSVILLE W.M.S.

CARRYING PLACE. — The January meeting of the Centre-Victoria - Rednersville W.M.S. convened at the home of Mrs. Winston Pulver, on Wednesday afternoon. In spite of icy roads there was a fine attendance. With the president, Mrs. T. F. Townsend in charge the meeting opened with singing of hymn 350, followed by Mrs. Leon Ward, a meditation by Mrs. Townsend and Mrs. Stafford brought the scripture and message of encouragement from the 91st Psalm. Scripture texts, the Rt. Rev. Quotations, moderator of the United Church.

Mrs. W. Pulver read the Scripture lesson from Acts dealing with different types of evangelism as practised in the early Christian Church, i.e., "Educational", "Personal", "Mass" and "Evangelism Through Preaching".

Thirteen members responded to the roll with Scripture texts.

There were five visitors present also.

A card of thanks for flowers received when in the hospital was read from Mrs. Don Spencer.

The February meeting was invited to the home of Mrs. Frank Townsend. The 1955 missionary for prayer is the Rev. Elizabeth W. Newell, B.A., B.D., serving at Mandieshwar, India.

Reports were given by the various secretaries.

The treasurer reported $254 having been forwarded to the branch which was in excess of the allocation. Much credit is due the junior missionary groups and their leaders who helped greatly in the finances.

Centre Missionary Band with leader, Mrs. C. Vanclief raised $50; Victoria Mission Band with leader, Miss Audra Brickman, raised $40; Rednersville Mission Band with leader, Mrs. Means, raised $20; Rednersville C.G.I.T., group, with leader, Irene Townsend, raised $10; Baby Band, raised $3.

A piano duet by Joan Townsend and Mrs. Leon Ward was greatly enjoyed.

The offering was received amounting to $5.40 with $1.11 for the Flower fund.

Eleven members paid dues among them two new members, Mrs. McLean and Mrs. Roy Wannamaker.

The Rev. T. F. Townsend led the 1955 executive in an impressive dedication service closing with the singing of the Hymn, "Breath on Me Breathe of God."

Hopes to Become Draftsman

CALGARY (CP)—Ann Morasch, 19, thinks women can probably do anything that men can do in carpentry. She hopes to become a draftsman after a two-year technical course here followed by three years' apprenticeship.

Ann wasn't fond of languages or mathematics at high school, but she liked to draw buildings and building plans. The blonde, blue-eyed girl last year entered the building construction and architectural drafting course at Calgary's Provincial Institute of Technology and Art.

Ron Smith, her instructor, wasn't surprised when she dropped a few bricks in class but she's learning. Her baggy white overalls hide a trim 106-pound figure.

The only girl in the class, Ann doesn't hang back when it comes to work. Along with the men students in the class, she has helped lay a cement floor, build scaffolding and painting a mezzanine floor.

She gets along with her brawny classmates, Ann would appear to be at a disadvantage in handling heavy material, but what she lacks in muscle she makes up in appeal. She always has willing helpers.

The study book chapter on "Missionary Monthly" report, the Main Business of the Church", was given by Mrs. M. Pulver.

Mr. Townsend closed the meeting.

The Day of Prayer, February 25, is to be observed in Rednersville United Church with Mrs. M. Davidson as guest speaker.

Mrs. W. Pulver and committee served refreshments and a social half hour was enjoyed.

BATSIDE W.M.S.

WHITE'S CHURCH. — Mrs. Lorne Hunt opened her home on Wednesday afternoon for the January meeting of the Bayside Woman's Missionary Society.

The president, Mrs. Frank Leach, presided. The Scripture The Acts 8:35-38; 16:25-33; 13:44 and 36-41 and 10:44-48 were read by Mrs. Ruth, Mrs. Jeffery, Mrs. Hunt and Mrs. Ross, showing "Educational Evangelism", "Personal Evangelism", "Evangelism with the singing and praying", and "Mass Evangelism." Prayers for missionaries, for the sick, for young people, and for the Dominion of Canada, were given by Mrs. Rush, Mrs. Jeffery, Mrs. Nicholson and Mrs. Young.

Mrs. C. Rush reported that she sent in her Christian Stewardship report of the money taken in by the W.M.S., Mission Bands and Baby Band.

Mrs. Floyd Dudley, secretary of Supply, who was unable to be present, sent a report of receipts and expenses. While gifts were sent to Ethelbert, Manitoba, and a parcel for Korea was shipped. Shipping charges were $10 and Mrs. Leach made a donation of $5 to cover part of this expense.

A vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Leach.

The treasurer, Mrs. Lorne Hunt reported 12 paid-up members and four life members.

Collections were $66.69 with expenses $14.09 including "World Day of Prayer" offering; study book, shipping charges and postage.

Mrs. Frank Leach, leader of Bayside Mission Band, reported $11.04 sent to Presbyterial and Mrs. Leonard Young, leader of Sunbeam Mission Band, reported $25.14 sent to Presbyterial. The new study book and "World Friends" were also ordered.

Mrs. W. A. Jeffery reported sending for "Missionary Monthly" magazine and also sending several magazines and a social time was enjoyed.

Mrs. C. Rush remembered Mrs. T. Irwin who is ill, with a card at Christmas. It was decided to send a get-well card to Mrs. R. Owens, who is a patient in Belleville General Hospital.

Mrs. Leach reported receiving a letter from Miss Elsie Hunt stationed at Ethelbert, Manitoba, thanking for the "White Gifts", including the green broadcloth quilt, which was donated by White's W.A.

It was moved that Mr. G. Sarles audit the W.M.S. treasurer's book.

Three members paid dues.

Mrs. Leach moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Hunt for opening her home. The hostess served refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HOW TO MAKE YOUR OWN DECISIONS

I often wonder why it is that, when it comes to making a decision which may change a person's life entirely, so many people want someone else to tell them how to decide.

Many are the letters arriving at my desk in which the writer, after describing some difficult problem which confronts him or her, concludes with the plea: "What shall I do? I will do whatever you tell me."

To let another person try to determine for you which of several possible alternatives is the one that is going to make you happy is very precarious business. You, and you alone, are the only one who can possibly know all the arguments for and against each of the alternatives and you are the only one, therefore, who can possibly tell what are the reasons for one course of action outweigh those for another, or vice versa.

All that any outsider can do in any one confronted by the necessity of making an important decision is to try and point out some of the alternatives and urge the person to look for them himself. For the inability to make a decision almost invariably grows out of a failure to line up the alternatives and examine each one carefully. Where this is not done, confusion always rises, and one becomes hopelessly bewildered.

So, the first question to ask yourself in trying to solve any problem is: What are my alternatives?

Write them down on paper, so that you can see them clearly. Once you have them definitely before you, it is far easier to make your mind which one of them is the best one to you.

This may all sound very theoretical, but actually it is a very practical and simple procedure.

Take for one example, the woman who is trying to make up her mind whether to leave a wandering husband or stay with him. Clearly, if she examines the situation, she will probably find that she has more alternatives to choose from than simply leaving or staying.

She might, for example, suggest a trial separation. She might go away on a long visit. She might stay where she is, and interest herself in more activities outside her home so that she would not dwell on her unhappiness so much. She might get a job and find a new interest there.

These are only a few general suggestions. In any specific situation, there might be still others that would occur to the

MAKE GREY HAIR A BEAUTY ASSET

Beautician's report that prematurely white hair is on the increase. This mad world and our delicious life may account for it. They observed it especially during the war years, considered it a result of anxiety and worry. Now they say that women are too active, too hurried, have practically no leisure, and few of them get enough exercise and outdoor life to keep them in normal health and good spirits.

They urge all women to have regard for the balanced diet, to avoid emotional disturbances and endeavor to have plenty of restful sleep.

Grey hair is a tragedy only if you think it is. If the complexion has retained its youthful coloring, the silver nimbus will form a becoming frame for the face.

It is a liability only when it is neglected or when the coiffure is carelessly arranged.

Some women accept the change from the pristine color to snowy whiteness with equanimity. Upon others it has a depressing effect.

It is silly to believe that, in the autumn of life, one must sit on the side lines. Let these women pause and think of the many white-haired women who are making good in the arts and industries. Most women executives who have attained prominence in business are well along in years.

The smart one attends to the matter of keeping in tip-top form and appearance. She pets and pampers those silvered strands to keep her regular-date with the permanent wave machine. She changes her hairdo according to the prevailing style. Most of all, she never lets a tiny whisp come out of place. No scrambled hairdo for her, thank you!

She is particular about the shampoo agent she uses, selecting one that is bland and easily rinsed away.

woman herself.

But the chief thing to remember is that alternatives do exist in every situation, which no problem, and that almost certainly there is one which offers the best hope for solving it than might at first appear. It may not, of course, be just exactly the solution you most want. You will have to make up your mind that you may have to accept a compromise. But if you make your own choice from among the alternatives before you, you are going to be far more satisfied in the end, than you ever would be if someone else handed you a decision ready-made, because you will have worked it out yourself.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

TO GIVE SERIES OF BUFFET SUPPERS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I were married a year ago, but we just recently been able to move into a new apartment we have rebuilt. We had thought of giving a house-warming around Christmas time, but then we decided to wait and give a series of Sunday evening buffet parties, to try in some measure to return the hospitality given to us before our wedding, and since. I've been planning what I believe is a very good menu, some specialties of mine; and we'd like to use the three matching, good-looking bridge tables that were one of our wedding presents. However, we'd like to have definite seating arrangements, although we've never seen this done. Would it be correct? If it is, would it be proper to use place cards on the bridge tables? And, if so, should I write the formal names, as at dinner parties, or first names?

Irene S.

All your plans for your buffet parties are excellent, entirely proper. Hostesses quite often choose this wise plan of assigning places at small tables at buffet parties, so that they may seat together people whom they think will be especially congenial, or whom they wish to have know one another better, or for any other reason that seems a good idea. Place cards, even for such informal occasions, are practical and convenient. But no formality about them at all. Write first names on them, nicknames if you wish.

BRIDE'S TABLE SEPARATE FROM PARENTS' TABLE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our daughter is to be married in early spring, and we are in the midst of making the plans. One question now before the house": whether to have a bride's table and a separate table as the parents' table, or to have these tables combined? The prospective bride and groom seem to prefer the separate-table plan. Which do you approve?

— Bride's Parents

In the majority of today's weddings the plan is to have a Bride's Table, at which are seated the bride and groom and their attendants; and then to have a separate table, the Parents' Table, at which are seated the bride's parents, the groom's parents, the clergyman and his wife, and perhaps a few particularly close friends of the families. And this would seem the best plan for your daughter's reception, since she and her groom-to-be prefer

Grist For The Mill Brought Home By Pete and Marianne

By Mary Moore

It is not just the parties that I attend or give that influences the contents of this column. Now Pete and Marianne, true to their mother's calling, bring home recipes for foods that they have eaten and which they think rates my perusal.

I suppose if I wished laundry for a living they'd be the type who brought home baskets full of dirty clothes and said "Hey Ma! here's more washin' for yuh!"

Pay no attention to that for I really appreciate their interest—and think you will too when you try Chicken Tetrazzini. Betty M. is a classmate of Marianne's and she had a dinner party for eight young people during Christmas week. Both Marianne and Pete said the Chicken Tetrazzini that she served was a dish Mum should hear about.

Furthermore, you will remember that I gave you a recipe last week for Shrimp Creole. The day after we had that, I prepared more of the shrimp, but this time batter-fried. After tasting them Pete's comment was "Ain't it too bad we don't have guests tonight to taste his wonderful food." At one meal or another that $2.79 worth of shrimp served sixteen people. That's 17 1-2 cents per serving in anybody's figuring and for such superior food—is very economical. I hope you clever hostesses with hordes of people to feed, latch on to this shrimp idea—that is if the frozen shrimp are available in your markets.

CHICKEN TETRAZZINI

(6 servings)

One chicken boiled with enough meat when cut to yield three generous cups well-packed, 1-2 package narrow noodles, 1-2 lb. sliced mushrooms sauted in 2 or 3 tablespoons butter. Salt—three tablespoons butter or chicken fat, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 cups chicken broth. Season with salt and pepper and monosodium glutamate (if available). Melt butter in flour, then stir in broth until thick. Remove from heat and add 1 cup cream. (If you have more chicken broth than 2 cups use it and add cream to make the 3 cups of fluid.) Using a greased baking dish put the chicken and mushrooms in it in alternate layers with the noodles which should be cooked in plenty

NOTES:

(1) If turkey is used broth is obtained from cooking giblets and neck in cold water with slice of onion. (2) Whole or shredded blanched almonds, 1-3 to 1 cup, may be added to the dish if you wish to extend it or make it richer in protein and flavor.

BATTER-FRIED SHRIMP

Call two or three unoccupied members of the family to the kitchen and tell them to peel and de-vein 12 par-boiled shrimps for each person to be served at dinner. Batter—1 cup sifted flour, 1 1-2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 egg, 1-2 cup milk, 1 1-2 teaspoons each Worcestershire sauce and melted shortening. Combine these ingredients and beat until smooth with beater. If you have time let stand 15 minutes. Do not be worried because this batter is very thick. Have ready deep hot fat at 380 deg. Fahr. Dip each shrimp in the batter, drain for a moment, then drop in hot fat. Turn with fork as soon as bottom is golden and do other side. They require about 2 or 3 1-2 minutes. Drain on unglazed paper in warming oven until all are fried. Serve at once. If desired pass this Sauce—1 cup chili sauce, 1-3 cup catsup, 1-2 cup prepared horseradish, 2 teaspoons Worcestershire Sauce. Cut this sauce in half if only four are to be served.

BEAUTY IN BLOUSES

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Blouses bloom on every store counter and it's hard for an ardent blouse "collector" not to garner just one more, however impressive her blouse wardrobe may be.

Mauve-pink wool jersey makes up into a nice after-dark number. It has a wide open V-neckline with a surplice line that drapes into the side seams.

Beige rayon satin appears in a blouse marked by an away-from-the-neck collar. Dropped shoulder seams, cuffed sleeves and pearly buttons complete the picture.

Seaway Valley Park Planning Will Be Started

TORONTO (CP)—A move to develop park planning in the St. Lawrence seaway development area will be made by the Ontario government immediately after this winter's session of the Legislature, officials said today.

Planning Minister Warrender said department experts will get to work on plans for a start next fall on a series of seaway parks.

Ontario so far has no plans for development of the seaway valley as a scenic tourist attraction. New York state's plans are well advanced.

JUST AS GOOD

A 30-mile long reserve will border the flood portion of the river on the United States side. From point of the U. S. scenic area will be Barnhart island. Landscaped highways will run on both sides.

Premier Frost said recently that park development on the Canadian side will be "just as great and just as beautiful."

Highways engineers are at work on designs for a new Ontario scenic highway to skirt the seaway

MARMORA

What's news at Inco?

One man can shovel 200 tons a day

The "slusher" shown here is a scraper powered by a 125-horsepower motor. With this machine one man can move 3 tons of ore along a passage and drop it down a chute with one "pass".

Such developments, involving the investment of millions of dollars, are a must at Inco because men with hand shovels just could not move 50,000 tons of ore each day.

Machines like the "slusher" are safe, efficient tools and are absolutely necessary to the profitable operation of great mines like Inco's.

St. John's United Church Choir Elects Officers

CAMPBELLFORD — Members of St. John's United Church choir, together with their wives and friends, met at the home of their director, Mr. George Nicholls, and Mrs. Nicholls, for their annual meeting and social evening on Wednesday.

The first part of the evening was spent in viewing motion pictures, music and games.

The meeting was presided over by president Walter Elliott. The secretary's report was given by Margaret Nelson. The general treasurer's report was given by George W. Leary, and revealed the choir had a most successful financial year. The social treasurer reported $10.38 on hand.

OFFICERS ELECTED

Rev. Dr. D. M. Smith presided over the election of officers which resulted as follows:

President, Henry Oliver; vice-president, Dick Konieg; secretary, Barbara Smith; general treasurer, George W. Leary; social treasurer, Mrs. Enid Oliver; flower convener, Patricia Trusscher; librarian, Margaret Nelson; social committee: convener, Anne Nicholls, Mrs. A. G. Walker, Mrs. A. K. Stinson and Earl Taft; gown committee, Mrs. Isabel Wallace, Mary Ellen Emmons; telephone committee, Peter Edwards, Don Ferguson, Joyce Rowe, Helen Archer and Carol MacArthur.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. George Nicholls, and her assistants.

Walter Elliott proposed a vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Nicholls for opening their home to the choir, which was heartily responded to by all present and the enjoyable evening was brought to a close.

The YMCA Strength Gaining contest announced three months ago, completed its first period last evening, and Joe Cox who has been training faithfully compiled the highest number of points.

The contest open to any gym club member who wants to gain in all round physical strength. A system has been set up to encourage trainees to strengthen all parts of the body. The strength gained is the most useful for any sport or work the trainee may enter in future. A fact becoming well known is that champions in every sport are training with weights during off season to give them more all round strength and the records show many gaining beyond their own expectations.

The Weight Lifting Club believes champions come from the boys who live well and waste no time on useless misleading entertainment. Joe Cox gives the impression of becoming a champion, which is a great honor because he can set an example for many more boys.

Joe is not alone in his endeavor, four other members of the club kept him going and deserve credit for their efforts. The closest of these is Ken Carr-Brain who has gained much in strength and twenty pounds of body weight. The latter feels he has conquered a lung condition which kept him three months in hospital early in 1954.

George Rudd was making gains fast when his work took him out of town. We dare say Joe would have been pushed further. Then we have Don Cherry and Bob Wesley, good lifters in their respective classes, only their gains were more gradual.

The men placed in the contest as follows; Joe Cox with a safe lead; Ken Carr-Braint, Don Cherry, George Rudd, Bob Wesley.

If Joe leads for another period he will be the winner of the six-month improvement trophy.

Lightening Task Ahead for Toronto's New Mayor

It could be that the mayor of Ottawa, Charlotte Whitton, is giving Toronto's new mayor, Nathan Phillips, a few words of advice, following his first session with and the inaugural meeting of the 1955 city council. Around the mayor's neck is his gold chain of office, given to the city in 1850 by a group of businesses that had been in Toronto for more than 100 years or more. In his inaugural address, Mr. Phillips, who has spent 28 of his 62 years as an alderman and 41 of them as a lawyer, backed early starts on a civic square and a civic auditorium; more funds in the budget for parks development and support and encouragement toward construction of a new convention hotel in the city. — Central Press Canadian.

Ladejinsky Ouster Condemned By White House

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House officials were pictured today as irked over Secretary of Agriculture Benson's handling of the Wolf Ladejinsky case but convinced the administration's security program is basically sound.

An official thoroughly familiar with what he called the "rescue mission" of President Eisenhower's aides in the case said Benson violated "a very definite rule" of procedure and thus precipitated "a very embarrassing situation."

This source, who asked not to be named, said presidential assistants are satisfied that the security program covering government employees is essentially a good one in need of no drastic overhauling.

The official said Benson "probably could have averted this whole controversy if he had conferred first with State Secretary Dulles" regarding Ladejinsky.

The White House rule was described as calling for the heads of government departments, such as Benson and Dulles, to confer when there are differences of opinion about whether a man is a security risk, as there were in Ladejinsky's case.

Between last month ousted Ladejinsky, Russian-born but a naturalized American, from his post as agricultural attache in Tokyo, on security and technical grounds.

The state department had given Ladejinsky security clearance before Congress transferred jurisdiction over such attaches from that department to the agriculture department.

The upshot of the controversy touched off by Benson's action was the hiring of Ladejinsky by the Foreign Operations Administration for a land reform job in Communist-threatened South Viet Nam. The FOA is reported to have acted on instructions from the White House in giving Ladejinsky the new assignment.

He got full security clearance from FOA after what an agency spokesman said was a full FBI investigation.

The Hour Every Motorist Owes to Himself!

The happy man you see in this picture is bringing himself up to date.

Cadillac has written a whole new chapter for the book defining motor car performance, and he's taking an hour to find out what it says.

And it says plenty—of very great importance.

First of all, it tells you what it's like to have command of a 250-horsepower engine that's as smooth as velvet, and so quick and eager that you have to educate your driving toe all over again.

It tells you what it's like to have virtually every unevenness in the highway completely eliminated before it is even noticeable to driver or passengers.

And it tells you what it's like to relax amidst upholstery fabrics and leathers that are found nowhere else, save in the 1955 Cadillac—not even in the finest clubs or hotels. Interior luxury is literally beyond description!

All this is to say, of course, that Cadillac has made another tremendous advance in design and engineering—so great, in fact, that only a drive and a personal inspection can let you realize its significance.

And, naturally, in addition to all that is new—there is yet greater emphasis on all the long-existing Cadillac virtues:

—the endurance that enables a Cadillac owner to keep his car just as long as he elects to do so . . . and with complete confidence in its dependability—the amazing economy of operation and upkeep which proves, once again, that in the long run quality and economy are synonymous—

—the great personal satisfaction that comes from owning a car which is recognized, wherever highways lead, as the Standard of the World.

We cordially invite you to come in—today—to see and drive this wonderful, wonderful car.

There are eight models—in four different series—including the sensational Eldorado.

There is one to please you—exactly. And we think you'll be surprised and delighted at how little it costs, in comparison with lesser cars.

We're waiting for you—now!

CLOSE RACE!

Those Cornwall Colts are slowly, but surely, developing into full-grown hockey Dobbins in this senior "B" province if their recent performances are an indication.

The rampaging Colts from Ray Miron's down-east ballwicks, have won eight of their last nine starts, their biggest achievement being the planting of their ice-shod hoofs, so to speak, on the derrieres of the deflating Kingston Goodyears.

It was a double-barrelled dose, it seems. Last Thursdays night they corralled the Goodies with a 8-4 lame and Saturday night they cantered into the Kingston Community Centre and bridged the Roddenville Rannies by a 7-5 score.

Which gives the Coltics a fairly safe, for the time being, three-point lead over the Casterton crew, which has been playing inter-spot piggy-back with the Mirenerrs for the past couple of weeks. The Cornwall crew now has 36 points, a three point lead over the Goodies and six in front of our side and the Whitby Wrens, who are locked in third place with 24 points. Incidentally, this is being written before the conclusion of Sunday's Whitby-Cornwall game, so by this time the Wrens may hold a two-point lead over the Memos or the Colts may have bolsted their lead to five over Kingston.

The Goodyears, meanwhile, have lost five of their last eight starts, and will be in no amiable frame of mind when they tangle with the Memos in Roddenville tonight. It is obvious that they had dropped but three games in eighteen outings, but since December 20 have failed to break even in eight.

They dropped games to Brockville and Clinton and the week-end pair to Cornwall. The Memos started them on the loss skein with a 4-3 setback on December 18.

The Memos, who returned to form with a vengeance against the Clinton Combines Friday night, will need all the speed and trickery they flashed against the American entry if they want to pull out with a win tonight.

The two squads have been "bitter sports rivals for years and tonight's jousting will probably be a typical Belleville-Kingston battle. The Goodies have had the victory sign on the Memos thus far this season, having copped three wins out of the four games played. The scores were 2-1, 5-2 and 5-3.

* * *

THEY DOOD IT!

They're very ambitious people up Ottawa way, it seems. The Ottawa Valley District Hockey League which floated the senior hockey the last two years, and operates only minor teams, is again endeavoring to get into the senior picture. The league is holding a meeting tonight to form a city senior league, the winner of which they hope to insert in the Allan Cup playdowns.

An Ottawa report says three city teams and a Hull, Quebec, entry will round out the league. The OVDL secretary says he has received entries from outside teams in the "Valley," but has turned them down since the loop will be strictly a "local affair."

Application for entry into the Allan Cup series will be made to the CAHA at its semi-annual meeting in Port Arthur, and OVDL secretary-registrar Cecil Duncan claims he has the support of George Dudley, CAHA secretary.

We don't think the Ottawa group will get very far with this move. The Ontario senior "A" group definitely won't welcome the idea of a last-minute X quality entry, while it is extremely doubtful if the west and the Maritimes will greet the suggestion with open arms.

The teams comprising the "new league" are the Cardinals, Royals, RCAF and Hull Volants.

While the "outside teams," which allegedly sought entry in the loop are not known to this department, we do know they are not Brockville Macedonas and the Carnwalls (Cornwall member clubs of the Eastern Ontario Senior "B" group. Managements of both clubs have informed us they want no part of the original Ottawa proposed set-up.

Both clubs told this corner, and have stated through their respective newspapers that the current senior "B" loop is the best they have played in, and have no intention of departing it.

* * *

THIS IS DIFFERENT!

Early morning dispatches threw another light on the senior "B" picture. The rampaging Whitby Wrens whipped Cornawall 8-4 Sunday afternoon, slopping the Colts winning string and increasing their own to five. The Wrens reached over our Memos to take charge of third place. In Clinton, Brockville defeated the Comets by a 4-1 score Sunday afternoon.

Big Seven

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Canadiens scorers tightened their stranglehold on the National Hockey League scoring race during the weekend.

Bernie Geoffrion, the pace-setter since early in the season, picked up two goals and two assists and pushed his points total to 49. His 21 goals also are tops in that department.

Jean Beliveau, his linemate, stayed close behind with 46 points on 23 goals and 23 assists. He is followed by Maurice Richard with 39 points on 21 goals and 18 assists.

REMEMBER WHEN

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rogers Hornsby, then one of the great hitters in baseball, was traded by New York Giants to Boston Braves 27 years ago today for catcher Frank Hogan and outfielder Jimmy Welch. Giant officials said the surprise move was "in the best interests of the club." Hornsby with Boston won the National League batting championship that season. He had won it six times previously with St. Louis.

Early Start Crams NY Gardens As Boom-Boom, Jean Score 4; Wings Take Two From Hawks

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

What a difference 1½ hours make to National Hockey League fans in New York.

For weeks they played away by the hundreds from Madison Square Garden while their Rangers scuffled in the worst slump of the 1954-55 season. A 6,000 or 7,000 crowd was considered good, particularly with the Blueshirts able to win only one game in their last 20 starts.

Somebody came up with the idea of starting New York home games at 7 p.m. instead of 8:30 p.m. The experiment started Sunday night and 13,697 customers sat in while Rangers were humiliated 7-1 by the league-leading Montreal Canadiens.

It was Rangers' second straight drubbing. They were lambasted 5-0 by the third-place Maple Leafs at Toronto Saturday night.

MUFFED CHANCES

The New York attendance was the largest of the Rangers' campaign. But it wasn't the most symathetic. The fans first booed and then stamped their feet and laughed as Rangers muffed chances around the nets, failing to get organized anywhere along the line.

In four other weekend games Canadiens and the fourth-place Boston Bruins battled to a 1-1 deadlock in Montreal while the second-place Detroit Red Wings edged the last-place Chicago Black Hawks 4-3 at Detroit Saturday. The Wings walloped Hawks 6-2 in St. Louis Sunday night as the Bruins and Leafs tied 1-1 in Boston.

Leafs, led by leftwinger Sid Smith's two goals, looked good against the inept Rangers Saturday and had little trouble holding to protect goaltender Harry Lumley's fifth shutout of the season.

FIFTH GOAL

Smith scored his 19th and 20th goals of the season, putting him in the 20-goal class again. He has been a 20-goal man the last six seasons. Goalie Nesterenko and Joe Klukay scored the other Toronto goals before a homebound fans.

Lumley turned aside 29 New York drives. Little Lorne Worsley in the New York nets made some spectacular saves in 25 appearances. Leaf shots.

Rangers couldn't do much against Canadiens, either. The Montrealers grabbed a 3-0 first-period lead before Rangers installed Dick Ma marker by Dean Prentice.

Jean Geoffrion, sensational 23-year-old rightwinger, and Jean Beliveau each scored twice as Canadiens blitzed Detroit, leading the league's individual scoring race, notched his 20th and 27th goals of the season. Beliveau now has 23 goals.

NOTCHED OTHERS

Dollard St. Laurent, Eddie Mazur and Jackie Leclair scored the other Montreal goals.

Beliveau was the only Montreal scorer in Saturday's Canadiens-Bruins engagement. He sent hard into a 1-0 lead at 9:38 to the delight of 14,274 fans. It didn't stand up. Leo Labine came back for the Bruins at 12:08 of the second to tie it up as he play with Real Chevrefils and Don McKenney.

Centre Rudy Migay gave the Leafs their 12th tie of the season when he whipped a shot past netminder John Henderson at 19:52 of the second period at Boston. Until then, Bruins were plodding along on a 1-0 lead supplied by McKenney at 6:27 of the first session.

Bill Dineen fired a rebound off the backboards past goalie Al Rollins Saturday to give Red Wings their 1-0 win over Chicago. It was Terry Sawchuk's seventh shutout of the season.

Earl Reibel scored three goals as the Detroiters ran wild against the Hawks Sunday night. The outburst ran his season's total to 12.

Johnny Wilson, Alex Delvecchio and Gordie Howe got single. Eddie Litzenberger and Larry Wilson scored for Hawks.

Rollins had a bot time in that game, too. He had to stop 40 Detroit shots, as compared to 30 saves by Sawchuk.

Hayman Denies Story of American Team

MONTREAL (CP) — Lew Hayman, who ended his association with Montreal Alouettes Dec. 22, said Sunday he is the unfortunate victim of one phase of a football season that refuses to hibernate.

A story out of Ottawa last Thursday, contributing to football's crazy post-season pattern, said there were reports that Hayman would bring an American pro club to Montreal.

"I know nothing about it and it is all news to me," said the former managing director of Alouettes Sunday. "I haven't the faintest idea how such a report originated. . . .

"I was associated with the Big Four for 20 years and I have no intention of doing anything that would be detrimental to it."

Etcheverry Case Rekindles Yank-Canuck Football Fight

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The wrestling case of Montreal Alouettes' Sam Etcheverry signing two football contracts for 1955 and attempts made to bring Canadian football leagues teams to lure American players into the fold have rekindled the old fight between Canadian and American football.

Threats of a player war, court actions or threats of court actions have kept football fans divided the year round since 1951 when Canadian clubs went on a big spending spree to the U.S. for high-priced talent.

And, in many cases, the talent has returned to the U.S. to play in the NFL. The latest is Abe Webster, also of Montreal, who jumped the Canadian club last week to sign with New York Giants. Webster, from Kearney, N.J., scored a record-equalling 14 touchdowns in the Big Four Union in 1954 and the Montreal management isn't too happy about his jump.

REAL PUZZLER

The Etcheverry case is a real puzzler, and it could lead to another court action. He signed with Chicago Cardinals of the NFL last week and also with the Als, and both teams are determined to get the keen-eyed quarterback.

Managing director Walter Wolfner of the Cardinals said at Miami Beach, Fla., Saturday that Etcheverry "signed a contract with us and we expect to have him under it back for the Cardinals this fall."

"It is a legal contract and we will defend it in court, if necessary."

Etcheverry said at Albuquerque, N.M., Saturday that he signed a contract with the Cardinals because that he would play for the Als this year. He said he "wants to play for the coach who gives him a chance."

—Peahead Walker of Alouettes.

WON'T SAY

Etcheverry, last year's most valuable player in the Big Four, was asked why he signed the two contracts. He answered only, "I'd rather not say."

He added:

"I'll play for Chicago only if ordered by the court. Otherwise I want to go to Montreal."

At Ottawa, an official of Ottawa Rough Riders and Sudbury Avalon Stone, Riders' best import last year, has been informed Chicago Bears and Chicago Cardinals have acquired NFL rights to his services.

The 24-year-old halfback, a two-way player, has not signed a contract with the NFL that he may deal with either club for a 1955 contract, the official said. Stone has been given till Feb. 4.

However, Stone was quoted as saying that he plans to remain with Ottawa where he now makes his home.

SHOULD GET TOGETHER

Two western Canada football officials commented on the latest developments, expressed the views that the NFL and Canadian leagues should get together.

"This thing is going to get into such a mess that they will have to come to some terms with the NFL," Don MacKenzie, president of the Calgary Calahan Lions, said at Vancouver.

Ken Montgomery, president of the Edmonton Eskimos, said that "as far as Edmonton is concerned we have been working for a year to bring the Canadian football clubs to some agreement on this question. With agreement in Canada, the NFL would be approached to get agreement that contracts on both sides of the border be honored. . . ."

The latest developments, however, may be small when Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four announce their imports for 1955. Argonauts, possibly the wealthiest in the country, has the money to sign the best in the NFL and already has made offers to top American stars.

Minor Hockey

The Black Hawks, Rangers and Maple Leafs were winners over the Red Wings, Canadiens and Bruins respectively in the Bantam games played at the Arena on Saturday morning.

Ivo Reggei paced the Hawks to a 4-3 victory, firing two goals, while the others went to Colligan and Sheppleton. Murphy had two assists while Ellis helped on one. Champaign with two goals and Gelsthorpe with one were the Wing marksmen, while Ethier assisted on one.

The Leafs took the Bruins by a 5-1 score with one line scoring all the goals. Bernie Boutilier pulled the trigger on three, while Hannaste MacDonald and Brennan each scored one. Thompson had an assist. Keller got the losers' goal with Moreau assisting.

The Rangers won their battle with the "Habs" by a 3-1 count. Don Deacon scored a pair of the winners' goals with B. Appleby adding the odd one and assists going to Stenebury and Cannon. Velcamp from Hull was the lone counter play for the Canadiens.

'Wes Beats Soup' In Annual Spiel

NORTH BAY (CP)—Wes McKnight's Toronto rink Saturday won the curling championship of the Ontario Sports Writers and Sports casters' Association.

McKnight, winning two of three games, had a one point margin over George Campbell's Oshawa four. A western Ontario rink skipped by Laurie Brain of Galt placed third.

Six rinks took part in the annual competition at which the association was entertained by the North Bay Nugget and radio station CFCH.

Ottawa Glebe Wins Hoop Title

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa's Glebe Collegiate defeated Cornwall Collegiate and Vocational Institute 58-37 Saturday night in the finals of the third annual Carleton College invitational basketball tournament.

John Kirkconnell paced the winners with 20 points, a performance high in the tournament's three-year history. Bob Harrison led Cornwall with 13.

Glebe entered the finals by edging Ottawa Lisgar 42-41 while Cornwall got there by defeating Sudbury high school, 77-75. Sonny Eldercroon scoring the winning points on a foul shot in the second overtime period. At one time, in the second quarter, Cornwall trailed Sudbury by 20 points.

Eight teams were entered in the two - day tournament which attracted 1,400 fans. Cornwall, Sudbury and Deep River were the only non-Ottawa teams.

Lowly Cataracts Whip Mercurys 5-2, Indians Hang 9-0 Collar On Bulldogs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It was a tough weekend for the losers in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League.

The allmurest margin of victory in the four games played was three goals. And that was probably one of the big upsets of the season.

The last-place Niagara Falls Cataracts, who defeated the second-place Owen Sound Mercurys 5-2 Friday, ran up a 5-1 first period lead over the top-flight Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen and went ahead to win 7-4.

Stratford Indians chalked up the biggest margin with a 9-0 victory over Windsor Bulldogs at Stratford Saturday. In the other Saturday game the Marcs beat Chatham Maroons 6-1 at Owen Sound. In the only Sunday game Sudbury Bulldogs defeated Dutchmen 7-2 at Windsor.

Ed Pista got two markers each for Cataracts and Jim Robertson, Bill Kodatsky, Fritz Fraser, Danny Nixon and Eric Unger scored one each.

Howie Lee, Jim Logan, Ted Schertzel and Bud Kemp counted the Dutchmen's goals.

The Marc's victory snapped a two-game losing streak. Bill Mosienko scored two goals to lead the Owen Sound attack. Ralph Hocking, Elmer Skov, Doug Gillespie and Jacky Taylor counted one each. Veterans Tom Bedlington made three assists, Fraser Boselio scored for Chatham goal.

The Indians scored three goals in each period for their victory. Billy Flick, George Aitken and Lou Bendo scored two goals each. Ron Ingram, Maurice Levesque and Mickey Roth added singles. The Bulldogs had all the best and pumped bonus three unanswered goals in the third period to clinch their win.

George Gee and Bobby Brown joined the Windsor attack with two goals each. Jack Armstrong, Chuck Hendrickson and Andy McCallum scored the others. Mike Delich and George Scholes were the Dutchmen's scorers.

Hornets Move Into Top Tie With Indians

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pittsburgh Hornets, who finished fourth last season, are in a first-place deadlock with Springfield Indians in the Eastern American Hockey League pennant race.

Pittsburgh moved into a tie Sunday night by defeating Providence Reds while Indians were idle. In the only other game, Buffalo continued its mastery over Cleveland by trouncing Barons 8-3.

Brian Cullen and Bob Hassard tallied two goals within 17 seconds in the second period to break a 2-2 deadlock and spark Hornets' victory.

Bisons, who have already defeated Cleveland twice tonight in Buffalo, were paced by Dick Gamble with a pair of goals.

Brockville Rink Wins Bonspiel

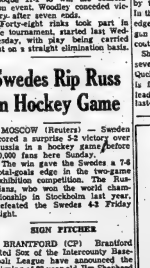
PRESCOTT, Ont. (CP)—A Brockville rink skipped by O. H. J. Bigelford won the first annual Prescott Saturday night.

Bigford beat another Brockville rink, skipped by J. G. N. Thomas, 10-6 to take the event.

B. W. Johnston of Smiths Falls defeated D. R. Cameron of Brockville 11-1 to win the consolation event. Woodley conceded victory after seven ends.

Forty-eight rinks took part in the tournament, started last Wednesday, with play being carried out on 8 straight elimination basis.

Swedes Rip Russ In Hockey Game



MOSCOW (Reuters) — Sweden scored a surprise 5-2 victory over Russia in a hockey game before 30,000 fans here Sunday.

The win gave the Swedes a 7-6 total-goals edge in the two-game exhibition competition. The Russians, who won the world championship in Stockholm last year, defeated the Swedes 4-3 Friday night.

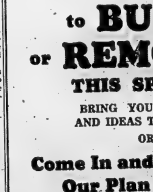
Willie Mays "Has Enough" Of Winter Ball

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP)—Willie Mays has had enough winter baseball and is quitting the Santurce club of the Puerto Rican League after next Sunday's doubleheader.

Mays said Sunday in a television interview that he is tired and has found out that a whole year of playing baseball is too much for him. He plans to return to the U.S. Jan. 18.

The New York Giants' star centerfielder goes into his final series leading the league in batting, .395; runs 59; triples, 6; tied for first in doubles, 15 and tied for second in homers with 11.



Shawinigan Leads Quebec League

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

If a vote is ever taken on the popularity of the Quebec Hockey League's new Sunday doubleheaders, the Quebec Aces are almost certain to cast their ballots against them.

The Aces tried ine new gimmick Sunday and ended up with a pair of losses. In the afternoon they bowed to the Royals in Montreal, 6-4 and at night they were defeated by the Canadiens in Valleyfield 4-3. In the only other game, Chicoutimi edged the league-leading Shawinigan Falls Cataracts 3-2 at Chicoutimi.

Shawinigan Falls still retains a seven-point hold on first place over Quebec and Montreal. Chicoutimi is fourth, 14 points ahead of leaders and two points ahead of last-place Valleyfield.

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Goalie Johnny Albani was the star as the Toronto Marlboros on Saturday when Marlboros defeated St. Catharines TeePees 3-1 at Toronto. Hans Eder of Austria, former Olympic champion, placed third with 183.7.

The 9-0 division championship was captured by Contah Erickson of Iron Mountain with 144 points. Herb Lederer of the Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Ski Club finished second with 135.7, edging clubmate Jars Hedlund.

Guelph Bilts Attendance Down

GUELPH (CP)—Norm McMillan, secretary-treasurer of Guelph Biltmores of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League, said Saturday night home town attendance was down 7,000 from last year.

He said Biltmores were averaging only 1,800 fans a game because the last they were in third place.

The increase in unemployment is partly responsible, he said.

"But they could help the game by taking high-sticking and boarding out of it," McMillan added.

American Wins Squash Crown

TORONTO(CP)—Diehl Mateer, Jr., 26-year-old Philadelphia amateur, won the third annual Toronto pro-amateur squash racquets tournament, defeating Aram Kahn of Montreal in the finals of the Badminton and Racquet Club Sunday. Scores were 11-15, 15-11, 15-13, 12-10, 15-10 in a thrilling windup to the two-day tournament.

The victory was a fine a test as anyone could ask of the young American player, holder of the U.S. open, amateur and Canadian amateur squash championships. In the semi-finals Mateer had beaten Azam's cousin, Rouhus Kahn, in a five-game match 15-4, 18-7, 5-15, 6-15, 15-12. For his part Azam got to the final by defeating Boston amateur Henri Salaun, 15-12, 15-18, 15-11, 15-11. Salaun won the championship last year.

It marked the second week-end in a row that Mateer had trounced over just such a field as he conquered in winning the pro-amateur. Last week in New York Mateer beat Azam in three straight games to win the U.S. open title.

American Wins Skiing Title

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) Roy Humeri of Iron Mountain, Mich., won the international ski jumping championship here Sunday, defeating Ontario champion Carl Martisch of North Bay.

Humeri collected 130.5 points to win the title; Martisch had 129.4. Hans Eder of Austria, former Olympic champion, placed third with 183.7.

The 9-0 division championship was captured by Contah Erickson of Iron Mountain with 144 points. Herb Lederer of the Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Ski Club finished second with 135.7, edging clubmate Jars Hedlund.

'Rocket' Presents Gift of $2,000 To Hospitals

MONTREAL (CP) — Maurice (Rocket) Richard was presented with a $2,000 cheque Monday night after the Canadiens' hockey club management in recognition of the 400th goal of his career, and the Edmonton Rocket promptly turned the money over to the St. Justine and Children's Memorial hospitals of Montreal.

The presentation was made before the third period of the Boston Bruins-Canadiens National Hockey League game.

In a brief speech of thanks in both French and English, Richard brought down the house when he said he has often said true to the NHL, but he was sure none of the money ever went to charity.

Then he announced his wish to help the hospitals.

MANY FINES

Only last Friday he had a $250 fine slapped on him by president Clarence Campbell of the NHL as the result of a blowup in a game at Toronto last month. In that game he had been playing, Richard has had to fork over about $2,500 in fines, including a $1,000 goal behavior bond.

Before making the presentation, managing director Frank Selke said that at the start of the season Richard had if he reached the 400th goal something would be done for him. The idea then was to give him $1,000. When the 400th goal came Dec. 18 in Chicago, said Selke, Senator Donald Gordon, president of the club, decided the amount should be $2,000.

The Rocket was also presented by a manufacturing company with a combination television-radio-phonograph set.

Brother, Sister Set World Marks

GUELPH, Ont. (CP) — Brother and sister each —set a worl record Saturday in winning the 25th annual men's and women's world barrel-jumping championship here.

Leo Labef of Lake Placid, N.Y., cleared 15 barrels for a distance of 28 feet 7 inches. His effort bettered the previous mark of 26 feet 9 inches for the same number of barrels set by Terry Brown of Detroit in 1952.

Labef's partner's division, Aldrina Lafel, also of Lake Placid, retained her championship and bettered her previous world record with a jump over 12 barrels for 18 feet 7 inches. Her previous mark, set last year, was 15 feet 4 inches over seven barrels.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Expert

Many bridge players in this world get into a bad contract with one opening bid or three or four. There is nothing wrong with it, but could not be cured in a hurry with a shot cure.

Promiscuous three bidders and four bidders are not necessarily stupid. They are so steeped in the unconfrollable urge that all the fundamental requirements are ignored if not forgotten.

An opening of three or four admits certain things and at the same time denies something. What is specifically denied in the hand that could have started with a sound opening one bid.

It admits having enough tricks for an opening one bid. In fact it promises more than the minimum tricks needed for a bid of one. What it denies is support in other cards and sure tricks for one.

Thus, if you go around throwing three bids and four bids at a partner, keep this in mind: It denies enough high cards or sure tricks or both that an opening one bid would have provided.

So, if your three bid or four bid lands in a weak spot, don't go blaming your partner for letting you drop there. Look first to see if you failed to open with one in favor of a three or four bid.

You have the south hand shown here:

♠ A K Q 8 5 2
♥ Q 9 5 2
♦ J 6 5

Do you have five tricks? Yes. Do you have four high cards? Yes. Do you have two sure tricks? Yes. Then you have all the true requirements for an opening bid of one spade.

Instead, suppose you open with three spades or four spades. It may land you in no more than game when your pair has a slam. Don't just sit there and throw daggers at your partner.

Apologize. Say you are sorry you opened with three or four when you had an honest one bid. Admit you were wrong or you will not only be unfair. You will display poor grammar.

Illness and Mishaps Cause TV Performers to Cancel Shows

By WAYNE OLIVER

NEW YORK (AP)—The tradition that the show must go on is taking a beating from television's occupational hazards.

Illnesses and mishaps have caused TV performers to cancel out shows or call in substitutes in recent weeks at a rate that would make the troupers shake their heads.

Milton Berle returns Tuesday night after having missed his show two weeks ago due to a virus.

Liberace is sidelined until February because of what his doctor calls mild hepatitis caused by overwork.

Howdy Doody's pal Bob Smith has been out four months with a heart condition but will return next week.

Martha Raye collapsed after her last show and then subbed for her at a scheduled personal appearance in Miami, but she hopes to do her next TV show on schedule.

Hoyt Jan Murray collapsed last month and had to miss his scheduled performance because of an ulcer. He returned to work with a full time participation on the show.

SKELTON KAYOED SELF

Red Skelton knocked himself out in rehearsal 45 minutes before show time several weeks ago and a sub had to take his place.

Red Buttons had to miss two of his fall programs because of a virus infection that sent him to the hospital. Gene Tierney had to cancel out as star on the opening of CBS' fall series of dramatic shows Sunday nights for the same cause.

Jerry Lewis suffered a jugular attack that forced him and Dean Martin to postpone their opening performance on Comedy Hour.

To go further back, there's Jackie Gleason, who was a little too realistic in one of his famous falls and broke his leg last year. He was out almost three months.

Tonight's color spectacular on NBC-TV, "Yellow Jack," suffered two casualties between casting and telecasting. First, Victor Jory, who was to play the role of Agramonte, had to drop out because of a heart ailment. Then late last week Reginald Denham, scheduled for the starring role as Maj. Walter Reed, had to cancel because of a throat affliction and was replaced by Lorne Greene of Toronto.

Whether it's because they're more fortunate or more durable, many oldtimers have escaped TV's mishaps and appeared regularly on schedule. They include Jack Benny, Jimmy Durante, George Burns and Gracie Allen and others of their era. An exception is Ed Sullivan Center who suffered a heart attack and has switched from live TV to film.

Sport in Brief

LITTLER WINS $5,000

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gene Littler of Palm Springs, Calif., won the $5,000 first prize of $52,500 Los Angeles open golf tournament Sunday with a final round 69 and a 72-hole score of 276.

The 1953 U.S. Amateur champion cut the tough field down to size in winning the $5,000 first prize. It was his first big win since triumph since he turned professional less than a year ago after whipping the pros in the San Diego Open.

Ted Kroll of Bethesda, Md., took second place money with a 70 for a final round 69—his third straight 69—for 278. Johnny Bulla of Pittsburgh, winner of the L. A. Open in 1941, finished third with a 72 and 279 for $2,100.

OFFER ARENA SALE

OTTAWA (CP)—The Ottawa Auditorium has been offered for sale to the city, it was reported Saturday. T. P. Gorman, who said last week he was considering offers to buy the hockey arena, said he made the offer in a letter to Mayor Whitton Friday. Until recently the Auditorium arena was home of Ottawa Senators who disbanded on withdrawing from the Quebec Hockey League last month. Its assessed value is $330,000.

CAHA Honors Hewitt Family

PORT ARTHUR (CP) — The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association at its semi-annual meeting here during the weekend approved the contribution of $500 to the Ontario Hockey Association fund to honor W. A. Hewitt, registrar-treasurer of the CAHA and secretary of the OHA for the last 20 years.

The motion passed by the meeting reads: "The CAHA will contribute $500 to the OHA fund to establish at the Toronto Sick Children' Hospital an endowment for a bed in the name of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Hewitt in recognition of Mr. Hewitt's service as treasurer of the OHA for the past 50 years."

PRIVATE HOMES

SUDBURY, England (CP)—Housing authorities in this Suffolk town decided against building apartment blocks. "Country dwellers want a piece of their own with a garden," they said.

Has "Firm Contract"

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Marilyn Monroe's studio said Saturday it has a "firm contract" for her exclusive services until Jan. 14, 1958 and "will use every legal means to see that she lives up to every provision."

Twentieth-Century Fox issued a statement in response to remarks by the blonde actress and her lawyer at a press conference in New York.

Marilyn said, "I want to help produce such as television and all kinds of things." Her lawyer, Frank Delaney, said he believes she is a free agent having no contract with 20th-Century Fox.

Socialist Welfare State Aim Of Indian Govt. Under Nehru

By PETER JACKSON

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—India has set her course definitely and finally toward a Socialist welfare state.

After a period during which it appeared that early Socialist aims were being sidetracked and disregarded in the developing industrial revolution, Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru's government now has placed before the country its program for India's development.

The target is: "A social order where justice and equality of opportunity shall be secured to all the people."

To this end the government intends to control and develop basic strategic industries and, in addition, regulate private enterprise in the national interest.

TWENTY YEARS OLD

Neither the ends nor the means are new. Nearly 20 years ago the Indian National Congress set up a national planning committee with Nehru as chairman to prepare for the day when India would be independent.

The recent restatement of economic policy was provoked by the privileged Congress party preparing the second five-year plan, and by Nehru's visit to Communist China which clearly always has fascinated him, and which now is itself engaged in a great industrial revolution.

Nehru is conscious of the challenge of China, which, although still behind India in industrial development, is mobilizing its people for economic development. He wants to demonstrate that democratic methods can carry through a revolution as well as, if not better than, totalitarian methods. At the same time he is impatient at the delays of democratic processes and is determined to reduce them to the minimum.

DORMANT SINCE 1948

When Nehru came to power, one of his first acts was to frame in 1948 an industrial policy resolution which embodied the first steps towards socialism. Since then it has lain dormant and virtually forgotten. Now it has been revived and presented as the plan the government intends to pursue.

The resolution gives the government a monopoly of arms and ammunition manufacture, production and control of atomic energy, and the ownership and management of rail transportation.

It reserves to the government the responsibility of establishing new undertakings in coal, iron and steel, aircraft manufacture, shipbuilding, manufacture of telephone, telegraph and wireless apparatus (except receivers), and mineral oils. Only if necessary would the government obtain the co-operation of private enterprise in these undertakings, and then only subject to government control and regulation.

Tempestuous Italian Star Sees Hollywood and Likes It

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)Anna Magnani had acted as tempestuously offstage as well as on during the filming here.

"I never listen to gossip," she said with a flick of the hand.

FRAINEN BRANDO

She had seen reports of flare-ups between her and director Danny Mann. She said that she had had excellent relations with the director and the producer, Hal Wallis. She also rhapsodized over her co-star, Burt Lancaster, who she said was a thorough and energetic actor. Her other passion is Marlon Brando.

"He is a very fine actor, this Brando," she said emphatically. "He is one of the best in the world. I loved him in 'Viva Zapata.' 'A Streetcar Named Desire' and 'The Men.' his first picture. I did not like him in 'Desiree.' I felt very sorry for him in such a picture."

Your Horoscope

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR TUESDAY, JANUARY 11, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Today is your chance to advance toward some of your goals. A responsive person or sunny temper, delving into new matters, music, art, science. Favorable for personal and courtship affairs.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Domestic and business activities have priority in many instances. The day may be too expansive for financial trys that border on speculation, socks other than those which are sound and reliable.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Be careful not to stray too far from the conservative; be discreet in the choice of the company you keep. Give your better half a break and don't go foolishly out on the limb.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer)—General indications are toward the brighter side, things that bring true happiness and contentment. Matters pertinent to home, family and loved ones take over the dominant spot.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—Take time to review before making innovations or departing from the routine. The day is pleasant if you are moving along a sound course and using your fine assets as you should.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Helpful influences and general improvement for ably directed endeavors; even better days at the sky unfolds. Be a doer on the logical side; take reasonable chances.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Some restrictions. Limit desires and stress over-all improvements. Self-restraint is an excellent character builder. Fine aspects for those who react sensibly in all matters.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Full, vigorous vibrations which should assist you toward new progress on the path that also leads to peace of mind, and delightful exploration — perhaps in a new field of knowledge.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Take an active part in worthwhile social and civic functions, aid charitable causes. Be mindful of correspondence, catching up with obligations to others. Forget yourself today.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—If you effectively combat purposeless activity, moodiness, and anything else contrary to common sense and good living you will move forward agreeably. Don't be a fretter.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Take things philosophically; in matters of business and your work, consider the future. Quiet achievement favored. Avoid devices, ideas.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—A day that offers some respite from nervous strain, excitement. Check your faults; increase ability, knowledge.

YOU BORN TODAY possess originality, ingenuousness, and are admirably persevering. But don't let the latter trait cause you to fall into cunning or stubborn tendencies. Education is important, no matter what age. Calm reasoning in essential matters can help control faults and direct others. Your splendid capability and talents rightly applied should carry you over obstacles to success in whatever field of endeavor you choose. Don't be overcautious or frugal; stay on the "happy-medium" side and you will triumph more quickly over life's trials. Birthdate: Alexander Hamilton, statesman, financier, Wm. James, psychologist and writer.

Little Benny's Note Book

Today in school Miss Kitty told us about first impressions being the worst things to judge people by, and how always ought to make allowances for other people because their education might of been neglected and they dont know any better, and different things, and tonight my cuzzin Artie came for dinner and stayed all night, and we were playing a game with my junior scrabble set on the living room floor while pop was reading the paper, and I made the word CO, and Artie quick pan 2 more letters on it, making it doop, and I said, Hay, what's doop? That's no word, I said.

Certainly it is, Artie said, and I said, Then what's it mean?

What, doop? Artie said, and I said, Yes, doop, and he said, it's a kind of a way of walking. When you doop you almost limp, but not quite, he said.

There's no such of a word and you just made it up and you know it, you darn cheater, I said, and pop said, Here there, is that any way to talk to a guest, even if he is your cousin?

Which just then I remembered about making allowances for people, and I said, Aw, okay, I'll make allowances for him. Maybe there is such a word, but if there is, it's in the munkey language and he's only partly human because he's still half monkey, so he dont know any better, I said.

That's very generous of you, pop said. And while we're on the subject, there's also such a word as floop, and you'll both floop off to bed if I hear any more bickering, he said.

Which he didn't.

THREE DIE

BRAMAN, Okla. (AP)—A crippled B-47 six-engine jet bomber barrel - rolled, crashed and exploded in a wheat field a mile east of here Thursday, killing all three crew members.

All Roads Open But Slippery After Snowfall

TORONTO (CP) — A 10-hour snowfall Sunday slowed traffic on streets and highways to a crawl.

Central Ontario received just under two inches of soggy snow that froze on the roads. Haliburton, the Muskoka district and eastern Ontario had three to four inches of snow.

The Ontario highways department reported all roads open but slippery.

Spanish Catholic Paper Assails Censorship

MADRID (AP)—A sharp attack on censorship in Spain was published Saturday by the weekly Ecclesia, organ of the Spanish Catholic Action.

Ecclesia, only uncensored publication in Spain, was commenting on a recent speech by Information Minister Gabriel Arias Salgado in which he defined the role of the press as being at the service of the state. Arias' speech was preliminary to presenting a new code regulating newspapers. The code has since been withdrawn and is being overhauled.

Ecclesia is at present directed by a council responsible to Enrique Cardinal Deniel, Primate of Spain and Archbishop of Toledo, since the dismissal of Father Jesus Iribarren several months ago for publishing an attack on censorship without his cardinal's approval.

Saturday, Ecclesia insisted the press had another role: Reflecting public opinion and bringing it to the attention of the government.

New Authority Sought

OTTAWA (CP)—Legislation has been proposed in Parliament to permit the reinstatement without loss of service of members of the armed forces who win appeals against court martial discharges.

The new authority is sought in a motion placed on the Commons order paper Saturday by Defence Minister Campney.

A defence department spokesman said a serviceman is discharged from the forces the same date his dismissal is ordered by a court martial. However, if he wins an appeal the time between the date of discharge and reinstatement does not count toward his service.

MADOC
Canadian Legion Installs Officers

MADOC—Madoc Legion held its January meeting in the Legion Hall on Tuesday evening with John Bristol, the president presiding.

After the business of the branch was transacted, Zone commander, Len Taylor, and his installing team, took charge with the following members being installed as officers for the year 1955: president, John Martin; 1st vice-president, Jack Kinnaid; 2nd vice-president, Rayburn McCoy; secretary, William Hawthorn; treasurer, Arnold Gasbel; sergeant-at-arms, Mel Bronson; executive committee, Pres. Nickle, James Sarzara, John Howard; Trustees, Michael Bradley, Newt Kincaid and John Bristol.

Following the installation, the Zone Com. Len Taylor, gave a talk on "Comradeship" and the real aims of the Legion, stressing the need of more interest in village and local affairs and the living-up to the great traditions of Canadian institutions.

The retiring president John Bristol, spoke on the progress made in the branch during the past year, giving much of the credit to the co-operation and team work of the branch and passed along good wishes to the new officers for a successful year in 1955.

Ontario Highway Accidents Claim Half Dozen Lives

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ontario highway accidents claimed lives of six of the nine persons killed in eastern Canada during the weekend.

A shooting and a suffocation accounted for two other deaths in Ontario. One violent death was reported in Quebec, a Canadian Press survey showed.

No fatalities were reported in the Maritimes or Newfoundland.

Two persons were killed in the Toronto area during the weekend to bring the city's fatality toll to seven so far this year.

HIT BY FREIGHT

Freda Davidson, 20, was killed when the car in which she was riding collided with a freight train at a level crossing.

Armando Stirpe, 63, was fatally injured when he stepped into the path of an oncoming car.

Mrs. Annie Tannahill, 57, of Toronto, was killed when a car driven by her son went out of control and turned over in a ditch near Burleigh Falls, 10 miles north of Peterborough.

Kezi Juravinski, 52, was fatally injured in Hamilton when his car went out of control and crashed through a guard rail fence.

Edward Deehan, 72-year-old farmer, was killed when his car was struck by a New York Central passenger train at a level crossing in Maidstone, near Windsor.

HIT B YBUS

At Renfrew, 59 miles west of Ottawa, Mrs. J. W. Scoble, about 65, died when a bus from which she had just alighted backed up and ran over her.

Lee Edward Louke, 12, was killed when a shotgun accidentally discharged in the hands of his eight-year-old brother at Simcoe, Ont., 25 miles south of Brantford.

At Victoria Harbor, Ont., 25 miles northwest of Orillia, the body of Arthur Bivanstle, 36, was found in his burned-out home. Police said he died of suffocation.

At St. Ubald, Que., 45 miles northwest of Quebec City, the body of Luc Delisle, 35, was found on a street after a drinking party. He had been beaten about the head. Police held a man as a material witness.

4,500 HUTS DESTROYED

MACAO (Reuters) — Fire destroyed 4,500 wooden huts, killed a Chinese woman and her two children and rendered more than 8,000 people homeless in northern Macao today. It was the worst fire in years in this tiny Portuguese colony.

ACCUSED OF THREATENING

CAIRO (Reuters)—An Egyptian laundry contractor is to face trial soon on charges of threatening to kill two members of the British embassy staff in Cairo unless his laundry contract with the British army in the canal zone was renewed. The prosecution office today named the accused as Mahmood Kadri Balnaouny.

Name Committee Chairmen At First Meeting

MADOC—The inaugural meeting of Madoc Village council was held in the council chambers on Monday night with Reeve Murray Smith and councillors Tom Burnside, Percy Derry, Dorian Stewart and Ken West present. The following committees, with first named as chairman, were appointed:

Streets, Stewart and Derry; sidewalks, West and Burnside; property, Burnside and West; relief, Reeve M. Smith; hydro, Reeve M. Smith; literary, Burnside; planning and development, Reeve and council as a whole; waterworks, Reeve and council as a whole; M.O.H., Dr. S. R. Beatty.

The council went into by-laws and the various village officials were appointed for 1955.

TEACHER HONORED

MADOC — After ten years successful teaching in Schd Section 16 of Rawdon townsh, Mrs. Carl Spry was honored friends and neighbors who gathered at her home on Wednesday evening.

She was complimented on her faithful duties, patience and interest in her pupils. Miss Marcella Bronson, a former pupil, read an address and Mrs. Spry was presented with a tri-light lamp and reading lamp combined.

Mrs. Spry has her friends for their thoughtfulness, recalling some experiences over the past decade.

Bountiful refreshments were served and a social evening of television and cards was enjoyed by all present.

Mrs. Spry has accepted a position as teacher of the junior room of Thomasburg school, and was wished every success and happiness in her new venture.

Older residents of Madoc and vicinity regret to learn of the passing of relatives of former Madocers. Mr. Hugh Barclay, of Driver, Sask., husband of the former Miss Jennie McMachan, of the Hart's neighborhood, and Mr. Ross Townsend, of Tavistock, Ontario, husband of Miss Jessie McKenzie, formerly of the O'Hara settlement, near Madoc.

False Teeth Need A Special Cleanser

Don't Brush Your Plates! Soak Them in Polident

As Dentists Suggest

Polident is the recommended way to clean dentures, banish Denture Breath. Just follow these easy rules.

1. Never use a brush on them! Your dental plates are much softer than natural teeth. Brushing wears down fitting ridges so they get loose.

2. Never use soap or toothpaste! They can leave film which collects bacteria and food particles, a major cause of offensive "Denture Breath".

3. Use a sanitizing cleanser made for false teeth only . . . Polident! Polident cleanser is recommended by more dentists than any other. No brushing, no handling of soggy plates. Polident gets where a brush can't reach.

Best of all, Polident always leaves false teeth odor free. Get the world's largest selling denture cleanser, Polident, at your drug counter.

Ottawa Anxiously Awaits U.S. Action To Reduce Tariffs

Washington Says Eisenhower Plan to Get Quick Approval

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade officials are looking to Washington anxiously, but with some hope, to see whether Ottawa will receive tariff barriers around Canada's biggest foreign market.

The anxiety stems from nearly five years of inaction since Prime Minister St. Laurent appealed to President Eisenhower to take a bold lead in freeing trade of curbs.

Hope rose Monday when Mr. Eisenhower appeared to Congress to solve his program to reduce American tariffs by as much as five per cent, simplify U.S. customs procedure and increase duty-free allowances for American tourists.

STILL STRONG

Hope was tempered somewhat by Washington reports that protectionist forces are still strong in Congress even though Democrats took control from the Republicans in last November's elections. However, experts here still feel that the Eisenhower proposals will receive a better reception from U.S. lawmakers than last year when a similar program bogged down.

Canadian officials said a 15-per-cent reduction in U.S. tariffs is good, but it is not enough to right direction.

Current negotiations at Geneva to strengthen the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade are close to failure mainly because of U.S. unwillingness to restrict the use she makes of import bars to farm products.

WILL REPORT

Three cabinet ministers—Trade Minister Howe, External Affairs Minister Pearson and Finance Minister Harris—flew to Washington last week to ask for a change of heart on the GATT talks. Mr. Howe said he hopes to report to the House soon on the Washington visit.

Canada would be first in line to benefit from lower U.S. tariffs. Trade across the border is greater than between any other two countries in the world.

In the first 10 months of last year, about $3,000,000,000 worth of $3,200,000,000 exports went to the United States. Canada's total imports of $3,400,000,000 in that period, the U.S. supplied $2,445,000,000.

Mendes-France Meets Scelba On Arms Pool

ROME (AP) — French Premier Mendes-France met with Italian Premier Mario Scelba today for talks over plans for strengthening French-Italian economic ties and to seek backing for his European arms pool.

The French leader observed his 48th birthday with a whirl of conferences here, climaxed by his talk with Scelba. Premier-France's secretary described the talks as "one of the most strictly private" in future.

At Italian informant said Scelba lacked Mendes-France for a "clarification" of the arms pool proposal which at present envisions away rearmament by West Germany.

"The arms plan appears to be supranational," the informant said. "However, Mendes-France is the same premier whose government saw the European Defense Community defeated because it was too supranational. We need to know whether the new French attitude as represented by this plan is in contrast to the former position or an evolution."

KILL WOLF AT LOBO

LOBO, Ont. (CP)—A 40-pound timber wolf believed to have preyed seen in Middlesex county for 12 years, was shot Saturday near this London district village. The animal was killed by Arthur Mclaughlan of north Komoka on the farm of F. C. Hartly.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Partly cloudy skies with light winds, a few snowflakes and near normal temperatures prevailed throughout the province Monday. Little change is expected in this picture today. A weak disturbance moving southeastward from the Prairies will affect scattered cloudiness followed by occasional light snow to most regions Wednesday.

NON-CONFIDENCE MOTIONS AGAINST GOVT. TABLED

Strong Fiscal Policy Lacking Say P.C's

OTTAWA (CP)—The Progressive Conservatives have blamed lack of a strong fiscal policy by the government for Canada's unemployment and other economic ills.

Hon. Earl Rowe, acting Opposition leader, said in the Commons Monday that seasonal factors are responsible for unemployment, which could reach 600,000 in two months.

"It is the illogical tariff and fiscal policies introduced by this government and the haphazard gunshot prescription applied by this government."

Prime Minister St. Laurent replied that the Conservatives are "preaching the same kind of high-tariff protectionism which would-stifle trade on which employment depends. He forecast unemployment would ease in a few months.

SPONSORSHIP PLANNING

CCF Leader Coldwell said economic planning is the answer and Social Credit Leader Low urged greater economic aid to backward countries. Low said it would help them from communism and possibly stimulate Canada's economy.

Liberal party leaders echoed these views as the Commons threaded its way through another two non-confidence motions against the government.

Earlier, Harry Byrd (Dem., Va.), who will head the Senate finance committee, said his group will hold hearings as soon as the House acts. He generally favored the recommendations, although he was not ready to endorse all details.

Vigorous opposition is assured from the three senior Republicans on the ways and means group—Representatives Taft (Ohio), Thomas Jenkins (Ohio) and Richard Simpson (Penn.)—and from Senator Eugene Millikin (Rep., Colo.), senior Republican member of the finance committee.

Some opponents said privately that they would be willing to give the fight much closer than is generally expected, but did not claim they could defeat the program.

WOULD GO FARTHER

Senator Spessard Stem Rayburn (Dem., Texas) said he would be willing to go even farther than the president asked and vote a permanent reciprocal trade law. And the House Republican leader, Joseph Martin of Massachusetts, was certain Congress would co-operate with the administration on the program.

Several Democrats said privately that if Congress approves the Eisenhower trade program—to be announced in detail today—they expect it will also authorize that on some issues the Democrats will take the credit rather than support than he could get from his own Republican party.

In this connection, they were referring to the fact that Republicans generally opposed the new action on Eisenhower's trade proposals last year and that he asked for and settled for a one-year extension of the law with no additional tariff-cutting authority.

Letters Burned

OAKVILLE (CP) — Post office officials said today that 50 specially-mailed letters were destroyed by fire Monday night when somebody started a lighted match or a cigaret through the night mail slot at the post office.

A man who saw the flames through the slot did not enter but mailed a letter brought firemen in time to prevent damage to the building and its contents.

Postal officials doubted the letters were destroyed by accident and were insured or registered. Police said the fire probably resulted from a childish prank.

U.S. Bridge Expert's Photo Memory Spots 'One in Million' Identical Hand

NEW YORK (AP)—The British-American world championship bridge team has halted temporarily Monday after an American player picked up his 75th hand and declared:

"Why, I've played this hand before. I can tell you what cards every man around the board holds."

Alvin Roth of Washington then recited from memory the game he had played on the 52th hand down to the last deuce in each player's hand at his table.

Roth established to amazed tournament officials that someone had forgotten to shuffle the cards in the intricate duplication system of the tournament.

Officials said this was impossible since different colored cards were used in the two rooms.

And the odds against such a coincidence were more than 1,000,000 to one, they figured.

UN Chief's Message to Chou Raises Hopes For 11 Airmen

HONG KONG (AP)—Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold of the United Nations, homeward bound from his mission to China, crossed the border from Red China into British Hong Kong at 8 p. m. tonight.

The UN chief remained silent on the results of his mission entrusted the release of 11 American airmen held by Red China as spies, and other UN personnel imprisoned by the Chinese.

Hammarskjold told 50 waiting reporters at Kowloon, Hong Kong's mainland station, that he would make no statement on his mission until he made his report to the General Assembly.

As the Hammarskjold party crossed into the British colony at the frontier station of Lowu, he sent a cable back to Chou saying:

"On leaving your country I wish to convey to you our warm appreciation of the hospitality given us. Your courtesies and hospitality and the unfailing assistance of everyone with whom we came in contact during my rendered this a most memorable experience for us both which we of us stand in gratitude."

Hammarskjold is scheduled to spend the night in Government House in Hong Kong before flying to New Delhi and thence to the United States.

Despite the lack of any mention of the airmen in the joint communique or in any previous Peiping announcement on the talks, diplomats at the UN and officials of several member countries found hopeful signs in Monday's brief report.

In their talks, Hammarskjold and Chou said they discussed "questions pertinent to the relaxation of world tension."

"We feel," they added, "that these talks have been useful and we are able to continue the contact established in these meetings."

There was no immediate comment from either the United States state department or the American delegation to the UN, but British officials in London and Hammarskjold and Chou apparently left the way open for further negotiations, and a deal resulting in release of the Americans might be possible.

Diplomats in London indicated that the fact that danger of the possibility that Chou may set too high a price for the release of the men.

Also a favorable attitude was taken by an Indian foreign ministry spokesman in New Delhi, who said the freeing of the U.S. airmen, downed during the Korean fighting, "appears to be only a question of time, "perhaps after some further clarification and talks."

STILL FASCIST, GRAZIANI DIES AT ROME CLINIC

Marshal 'Desert Lion' While Fighting Natives

ROME (AP)—Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, known as "Desert Lion" of the Second World War, died today at a Roman clinic where he was to have undergone an operation. He was 72 and an unrepentant Fascist who had been stripped of his many honors and lived in recent years in retirement.

Only a month ago, Graziani appeared to emerge as the active leader of the neo-fascist Italian Social party in a n.a.t. bid to win back the political rights of younger leaders crowded him out and in 1953 he was chosen "honorary president" of the minority faction.

Graziani after the First World War reconquered North Africa's Libyan tribesmen for Mussolini's empire and led Il Duce's forces in East Africa to victory in the Italian war against Ethiopia. In the Second World War trought him defeat, disgrace and finally a traitor's trial as a Nazi collaborator.

IN PRISON

Sentenced by Italian partisans in 1945, he spent the next five years in prison on a charge of treason. But a civilian court disqualified itself in 1949 after a turbulent trial and sentenced him to 19 years. He served two years before Italy surrendered he lived in retirement in a Rome villa, watching far from the battlefields the destruction of the empire he had helped to conquer.

After King Victor Emmanuel III was ousted in the 1946 referendum, Graziani accepted an appointment as war minister in the puppet Fascist republic established by Mussolini in northern Italy. It was the last office he brought about his trial for collaboration.

Legislation Will Not Cure Traffic Problem Says Allan

SUDBURY (CP) — Highways Minister Allan of Ontario says it will take more than legislation to cure the problem of mounting traffic accidents and deaths in the province.

Speaking at a civic dinner following a hearing of the select legislative committee on highway safety here Monday, Mr. Allan congratulated Sudbury on having no traffic fatalities in 1954.

"It is only when other communities follow your participation of well-organized committees in traffic safety programs that this province will be able to reduce the astounding death toll," he said.

It was the minister's first public appearance since he was named last week to succeed George Doucett as head of the highways department.

Sudbury was the last city which committee members were to visit and during the hearing they were presented with briefs from city police and safety groups.

Mr. Allan said the suggestions contained in the briefs were realistic and said some earlier presentations to the committee from other communities were disappointing.

"In some cases they appeared to be under the suggestion that we just change the laws. Pass new laws, they seem to think, and everything would be all right," he said. "That's nonsense, sir," he added.

"You can't force people to do things even in the interests of their own safety.

"You can lead, guide and inspire people, as they have done in Sudbury, but you can't push them."

Recommendations from the subcommittee bypass around Sudbury were read by Blair Keegan, continued 17 recommendations. Committee chairman M. Nickle, the Kingston Conservative member of the legislature for Kingston, described it as "very thorough."

Earlier, a city brief read by chief constable John D. Burger praised the Sudbury traffic bylaw it had done.

A brief presented by the Sudbury Insurance Agents' Association recommended stiffer penalties for drivers' licences. The brief, read by president Harold O'Neil said: "Experience has proved test for applicants' vision tests and a 14-block road test.

TORONTO (CP) — Increased traffic deaths and accidents will bring recommendations for sweeping changes to the Ontario Traffic Act, the Ontario traffic conference.

The meeting, attended by over 100 municipal traffic experts, may recommend to the provincial government that motorists should face a driving test every five years, at which pedestrians and vehicles should be given mechanical tests at regular intervals.

A merit system, similar to one in effect in British Columbia, is also under study. This would involve giving every motorist a number of points and deducting points for each offence. Each offence would mean points would be deducted. When points are forfeited, the motorist would lose his licence.

The recommendations before the conference were made by the Canadian Automobile Association and the federal public roads administration of the United States. They were approved by the National Conference of Highway Safety.

In the first nine months of 1954 there were 713 traffic deaths in Ontario. A total of 17,380 persons was injured in 44,961 traffic accidents.

Ten Electrical Companies On Trial For Combine

TORONTO (CP)—Ten Canadian electrical and wiring device manufacturers went on trial Monday on charges of operating a combine to fix prices.

Special prosecutor John D. Arnup said the alleged offences occurred between 50 and 99 per cent of Canadian wire and cable business and during a year they produced more than $100,000,000 worth of products.

Mr. Arnup said the firms had an agreement to fix prices and maintain prices that kept the British out of the Canadian market because of the Canadian market because of the British Commonwealth preference on goods.

Charged are Northern Electric Co. Ltd., Canada Wire and Cable Co. Ltd., Fiberglas Canada Ltd., Phillips Electrical Sales (Canada) Ltd., Canadian General Electric Co. Ltd., Dominion Electrohome Industries Ltd., Federal Wire and Cable Ltd., Triangle Conduit and Cable (Canada) Ltd., Industrial Wire and Cable Ltd. and Anaconda American Brass Ltd. and Cable Co.

The trial, before Chief Justice J. C. McRuer of the Ontario Supreme Court, is expected to last six weeks.

SEEKS IMMIGRANTS

LONDON (Reuters)—Sir Thomas White, Australia's high commissioner in London, Monday launched the largest drive for British immigrants to Australia since 1951, when more than 150,000 arrived there. White said more than 2,000 berths a month now are available for immigrants.

No Indication How Tide Runs In Ford Talks

TORONTO (CP)—Secret talks attempting to settle the Ford strike, now in its 33rd day, were to be resumed today between Ford mobile Workers (CIO-CCL) officials.

There was no indication which way the tide of negotiations would turn or signal agreement on points at issue.

Representatives of the two parties have spent more than 65 hours in the conference room since Dec. 27. Both have agreed to make no statement until a conclusion is reached.

As they assembled for Monday's session Emil Mazey, UAW-CIO international secretary-treasurer, said strikers on relief will receive only $5 weekly cash vouchers. These will be in addition to the food vouchers now being issued ranging from $5 to $24.40.

Union officials said about 4,500 workers will be eligible for the weekly vouchers, 2,400 of them at Windsor.

One union official estimated the strike has already cost the union about $1,000,000. The international union has contributed $600,000 and locals in Canada have made substantial grants.

Air-Borne Force Seizes Village In Costa Rica

Small Rebel Group Said "Presumably Nicaraguans"

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP)—President Jose Figueres of Costa Rica announced today a small rebel aerial force has taken Villa Quesada, a Costa Rican village 30 miles south of the Nicaraguan frontier.

The president said the group probably got there by hopping into pastures in light planes. Communication towers were reported cut with the village of 3,500. It is about 50 miles north of the Pan American Foreign Minister Mario Esquivel declared a "break in relations" with Nicaragua seems imminent.

Rodolfo Quiros, the Costa Rican chief of staff, said the invasion there had been a fight between volunteers at Villa Quesada and the rebel group — presumably Nicaraguans.

He said a detachment had been sent from San Jose to Villa Quesada to determine the situation in force.

Costa Rica complained last week to the Council of the Organization of American States in Washington that she is threatened by invasion from Nicaragua, her sister Central American republic. Monday Figueres declared that there had been any action on the complaint and asked both nations to "avoid needless aggravate" the difficulties between them.

At the council meeting the Nicaraguan ambassador to Washington, Guillermo Sevilla-Sacasa, charged there was wide discontent in Costa Rica with the actions of the government and Communist influence. Figueres charged Nicaragua with having a "secret" acquaintance with Communists and leftists" and termed him a "puppet of Maxism."

CHANGE SAID FALSE

The Costa Rican ambassador, Antonio Cacilo, called the Nicaraguan's statement "highly improper and unfounded" out of place, as it is not only false but out of order in a discussion of this nature."

Costa Rica had complained that Nicaragua, where Anastasio Somoza is president, was training "an army of adventurers recruited from all countries" for the purpose of invading the country.

Eskimo Women Reach Hospital

MONTREAL (CP) — Two settler Eskimo women arrived here today at the end of a merry flight from Great Whale River, Labrador and were taken to the federal immigration department's Indian hospital for treatment of yaws.

The women, identified as Laise, 21, and Martha, 40, do not speak English. A hospital spokesman said this impeded diagnoses. Natives of the women's illnesses had not immediately disclosed.

The women were brought here aboard an RCAF Dakota aircraft after a similar aircraft Friday made a harrowing flight in a blizzard to Pangnirtung, Baffin island, to pick up Markus Pingasmut, a native who suffers north of Goose Bay and just south of the Arctic Circle.

Newfoundland Wharfs Wrecked By Surging Seas

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Damage reports trickled into St. John's today following a storm that yesterday flattened sea was the worst of its kind in decades.

Public works officials had no clear estimate of damage immediately because of communication difficulties.

At times the surging waves sent water 200 feet in the air as it thundered against the steep cliffs of the Avalon peninsula harbor.

WHARVES AFLOAT

In nearby Conception and cove on the east end of the province, thousands of feet of timber were torn from their moorings and fell prey to the surging seas.

Fifty feet of about 12 wharfs were wrecked. Damage here was estimated at $12,000.

At Cartcoast in Conception bay, a 40-foot stretch of railway embankment was washed to sea.

On the highway circling Conception bay, motorists were held up as waves, carrying water four feet deep, swept across the road.

Many shipowners were in distress as a result of the storm. And no one was reported injured.

Parachutes For Easier Jumps Have Been Adopted For Army

OTTAWA (CP)—Hitting the silk is going to be more comfortable for the Canadian army's hardy parachutists.

The army announced today that it has adopted a new type of nylon parachute which almost completely eliminates the opening jerk and oscillation now experienced by paratroopers. Rate of descent also is slower and landings are gentler.

The new parachute is known as troop 10 parachute, personnel or "PT" parachute which will continue to be used to drop equipment.

"One of the great advantages of the new parachute is the feeling of confidence it inspires in the jumper," the army said. "No longer does the airborne soldier have to worry over that sickening opening jerk when his 'chute first catches and last as comforting is the prospect of an unusually easy landing."

The 1st Battalion, Royal 22nd Regiment, the famous Canadian Van Doos, 12 during jumps at Val-cartier, Que., and paratroopers of the 1st Battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment, near their home station at London, Ont., during the last week of January.

Paratroops in the United States and now manufactured in Canada, the new nylon parachute is 28 feet, canopy 35 feet in diameter compared with a diameter of 28 feet in the "PT" chute. Rate of packing results in the jumper being at the ground in 18 seconds instead of the 'chute opens.

Older - type parachutes opened with a jerk which still was falling free and brought about a violent swing as the canopy billowed.

The new 'chute reduces the rate of descent to 16 feet a second from 22. As a result Canadian paratroopers now will be able to jump from troop carriers travelling at about 130 miles an hour.

Jumps usually will be made from an altitude of 1,000 feet as previously. However, the new parachute can be used from 500-foot jumps.

FATALLY SHOT

Rev. Alfred Quirion, 44, of St. Edouard, Alta., was found shot to death in his car five miles east of Brandon. Police believe he was shot by a hitch-hiker. The pipe-bore bullet fatally pierced him as shot three times, once through the right side of the body and twice in the right arm. RCMP are holding three men in connection with the shooting. Britain Rejects Soviet Protest Over U.S. Force

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain today rejected as "quite unfounded" a Soviet allegation that former under Bldr.-Gen. D. C. Stevenson, commander of the United States 40th Air Division in Britain, are intended for atomic attack against Russia.

The rejection was contained in a note handed at the foreign office today by M. N. Belokhvostikov, Soviet counsellor at the embassy in London. The British note was in reply to a protest delivered at the foreign office by Belokhvostikov Dec 17 about certain remarks reported to have been made by Stevenson.

The Russians claimed Stevenson had declared that his F-84 Thunderjet fighter-bombers were "intended for the delivery of an atomic attack on the Soviet Union."

The foreign office declared that the Soviet note "misquoted and misrepresented" Stevenson's remarks.

Accounts of Stevenson's remarks appearing in the British press quoted him as saying his division was sent to Britain 2½ years ago for the purpose of using as atomic punch in support of North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces . . . for the prime purpose of being a deterrent to war."

Hearing on Three Fraud Counts Adjourned, 2 Witnesses Heard

A preliminary hearing on three charges of fraud in connection with the advertising and sale of mining stock by James E. Dolan, 12 First St., Belleville, was adjourned until January 18, in Magistrate Traill's court, Wills Monday afternoon, after two witnesses were heard.

Dolan, president of Piedmont Mines Ltd., is charged with defrauding Rev. William Howey, a retired United Church minister, formerly of Deseronto, and others now of Owen Sound of $1,000, with making false statements with intent to defraud, and with publishing false statements with intent to defraud.

Rev. Howey, and L. Ferris Kendall-Leicester, an engineer employed by Dolan in the summer of 1951 to survey Piedmont property near Normetal, Quebec, were the two witnesses heard Monday afternoon.

Special prosecutor Arthur O. Klein Q.C., of Toronto, charged that Dolan misrepresented a fraudulent action in which Kendall-Leicester accepted 5,000 shares in Piedmont Mines stock and that this misrepresentation induced Mr. Howey to purchase 10,000 shares of Piedmont at 10 cents a share in the fall of 1951.

The Ontario Securities Commission examined Dolan at hearings March 28th, 1953 and June 3rd, 1952. Delay in hearing the charges was attributed to the ill health early of Kendall-Leicester and requests by counsel for postponements.

Mr. Howey testified that he started buying stock in Belleville Explorations in 1948, that the stock was converted to Piedmont Mines Ltd. stock, and that he was induced to purchase Piedmont until January 1953.

PURCHASED IN 1951

He stated that in the fall of 1951 he purchased 10,000 shares of Piedmont stock at 10 cents a share following receipt of a letter from Mr. Dolan. Included with the letter was the copy of a purported request from Kendall-Leicester for the purchase of 5,000 shares of Piedmont stock at 45 cents a share.

In December of 1951 Mr. Howey purchased a additional 5,000 shares at 10 cents a share on receipt of a second letter from Dolan.

Early in 1952 Mr. Howey, needing money asked Dolan if he would wrote "five or six urgent letters" to Mr. Dolan asking him to buy back his 15,000 shares.

"I didn't hear b—word from him," said Mr. Howey. "And I thought he was a gentleman."

"I didn't [illegible] personally," said Mr. Howey who explained that all his dealing with Piedmont were by mail.

In cross-examination by defence counsel Gerald Fitzgerald, Q.C., Mr. Howey stated that he had been buying penny stocks for nearly 25 years. He admitted that "a good bit of literature on mining stocks is exaggerated" but said about Piedmont that his "impression was that the mine would be a big one."

"I had the idea that a lot of exploration had been done, and great ore bodies found," he said. He relied on Jim Dolan to cover the big profits. "I thought he was a gentleman."

Kendall-Leicester told the court he was connected with the Belleville Exploration Co. Ltd. and Piedmont Mines Ltd. in late July or early August, 1951, for the purpose of surveying Piedmont property near Normetal, Quebec.

ACCEPTS SHARES AS PAYMENT

About a week later he met Dolan for the first time. Between Sept. 21, 1951, at a meeting with Mr. Dolan in Kendall-Leicester's room in the Normetal Hotel, Mr. Kendall-Leicester presented a bill for $1,000 for services rendered and to be rendered until December of 1951. After some negotiation Kendall-Leicester said he agreed to accept 5,000 shares of Piedmont Mines Ltd. at 45 cents a share as payment of his bill.

Thursday morning, he was was dictated by Mr. Dolan according to Kendall-Leicester. The witness charged that the recipe was later used in promotional material which he said was false and left the impression that Kendall-Leicester, the company's geologist, had made a report about Piedmont possibilities that he had asked to have withdrawn. Her mailed the 45 cents a share.

Mr. Kendall-Leicester also stated that he was under the impression that Piedmont had limited Canadian resources and that he accepted the stock in lieu of cash.

Under cross-examination he said that had he been paid $2,250 in cash he was a free member of Marmora Free Methodist church and the Women's Missionary Society of that church.

Since coming to Marmora she has been highly regarded for her fine qualities.

The funeral took place on Monday afternoon, leaving the Wells' Funeral Home for St. Andrew's United church.

Interment was in Beaver Creek cemetery.

The Rev. P. O. Miller, pastor of Marmora Free Methodist church, was the officiating minister.

The pallbearers were Norville Martin, Norman Martin, Edwin Wise, Clive Chatterton, Wilbert Jones and Everett Derry.

Council, City Officials Guests Of Kinsmen Club

It was civic night at the fortnightly dinner meeting of the Kinsmen Club, Belleville evening when members of city council and the city officials were guests of the club members.

All members of council and other city officials speaking briefly introduced with the various committee chairmen outlining briefly in outlining what they hoped to accomplish during the year.

Mayor Ken Reid said he would "leave it up to council" to decide on the program to be carried out this year, while Alderman Gerald Hyde as chairman of the finance committee said he was ready to be kept as low as possible consistent with the required services.

Alderman Enos David as chairman of traffic outlined plans for the year. Nothing will do much to alleviate the city's mounting traffic problems, said Alderman Frank Grandaise, chairman of the fire committee, called for rigid enforcement of the city's fire by a means of eliminating all fire hazards.

The city's first women aldermen, Mrs. Anne Forrester and Mrs. Effie McCabe, were unable to attend the meeting, while Alderman Ernie Parrott, city fire chief, Alderman of public works, was also unable to be present.

President Don Thomas presided over the meeting. Ernie Coleman was in charge of entertainment with Jimmy Cerrail presiding at the pianos. Chas. Duncan handled the fine box.

Lengthy Reports Will Be Cut To Minimum

The annual meeting of the Y.M.C.A. will take a different aspect this year with the former lengthy reports to be cut to a minimum and in their place the work of each group associated with the Y.M.C.A. will be demonstrated by skits portraying their specific activities.

Mr. W. Lorne Bungall, president of the YMCA board of directors, will make announcement of the appointment of J. Bryson Leslie as the chairman of the annual meeting which is being held. Mr. Leslie has a strong committee working with him and everything is added to the annual meeting as being one of the outstanding banquets of the YMCA year.

The annual meeting and banquet will take place in the YMCA gym on Thursday evening, February 10th.

The presentation of skits and demonstrations on the work of each group associated with the "Y" will give members the opportunity of seeing their YMCA in action.

To round out the evening's program efforts are being made to bring an outstanding speaker with a message of interest to both the adults and the youthful guests. Confirmation of the speaker's acceptance is expected later in the week.

The meeting will be made to seat 200 at the banquet and due to limited facilities it is suggested that tickets be reserved early by calling the "Y".

Orphans Drop 7-1 Decision To Tamworth

Marmora Orphans, the local entry in the Hastings-Addington Hockey League received Tamworth as visitors on the Marmora Arena on Monday evening and lost a good game by the score of 7-1.

It was the second game for each team, Tamworth having already defeated Centreville-Combliss 12-6, while Marmora had been defeated by Madoc.

The game was a fast one, the play revealed that with more practice, the teams should get into better shape.

On the whole the visitors had the upper hand with most of the play in the first two periods being individualistic. Williams in the Marmora net had many shots to negotiate than Moffatt in Tamworth and gave a good display in the first two periods only letting in Fish on Ohlke's assist as the first period was ending.

In the second, Gerow star player for Tamworth tested him successfully in the first and the following minutes Fish, Moffatt on Ohlke's assist and later on assists from Gerow and Fish and third Brady, Ohlke, Macdonald and Gerow were successful in the Rev. R. Courtney scored for the Orphans on W. O'Neill's assist with a minute to play but the attendance was slightly over one hundred.

THE LINE-UP

Tamworth — Moffatt, Jones, Brady, Ohlke, Cox, Gerow, Boyce, Tomlinson, Fish, Macdonald, Kennedy, Macdonald Perry, Green.

Marmora—Williams, P. O'Neill, M. Walker, Deering, Shannon, Sexsmith, O'Neill, R. Drummond, Lynch, R. Courtney, E. Courtney, Phillips, R. Walker.

Referee, H. McFaul, Belleville; E. H. Alexander, Madoc.

Madoc Junior Farmers Elect Officers; Hear Travel Talk

Glenn Blackburn of Eldorado was named president of the Madoc Junior Farmers at the annual meeting held last week in the Madoc Orange Hall.

Other officers elected are Glenn Franks with directors Ted Burnside, Carl Reid, Cyril Shaw, Harold Harris and Arnold Empey.

Betty Ketcheson will head the girls' section with Patricia Moore as vice-president; Pauline McMurray, secretary, and Margaret Empey, Carolyn Reid and Ruth Robinson as directors. Roberta Sager is the reporter and junior convener.

The election of officers was presided over by J. Allen Francis, assistant agricultural representative, and Miss Ann Cooney, home economist.
